Congratulations Penrith!

What a thriller of a decider to close out the 2021 NRL season! Brisbane turned on a pearler of a Sunday to bid farewell to the year, and the Panthers and Rabbitohs provided an incredible, competitive match for us to enjoy after all the drama, intrigue and controversy of a huge year.

For us at The Front Row, that means we've reached our last edition. In these pages you'll find tributes to outgoing stars Benji Marshall and the Morris twins, as well as a brief review of last Sunday's decider. We have program pages for the two biggest games this weekend - the Intrust Super Cup Grand Final in Queensland, and the Super League decider in Manchester.

It's been a fantastic year for us, producing this match-day companion magazine for rugby league fans and media. We're glad you keep reading and appreciating the work our team put in every week. We'll see you in 2022!

Happy reading!

TWO OF THE GREATEST FAREWELL TO THE MORRIS TWINS

here was always a sense that this year would be the end for Brett and Josh Morris in the NRL.

Having been mainstays of first grade for the best part of 15 seasons, the twins approached 2021 with hopes of realising a shared dream: winning a premiership, together.

Sadly, some dreams don't come to eventuate.

Few moments have been as heartbreaking in rugby league as the end to Brett Morris' career.

Having started the year in form reminiscent of his representative best, the champion outside back was afforded the honour of captaining the Roosters for the first time during the side's Round 8 trek to Newcastle.

At the time we weren't to know the devastation that lay ahead.

With the result beyond doubt and only minutes left in the match, screams of anguish were followed by Brett's downcast figure, resigned to the realisation of a career-ending injury, refusing a medicab and determined to walk from the field for the final time.

What should have been a joyous moment in the sheds for the Tricolours more closely resembled a funeral.

As Brett embraced his twin brother, Josh, before sitting alongside his teammates in silence, three-time premiership winning coach Trent Robinson prepared for the greatest challenge of his career.

Losing Jake Friend, Boyd Cordner and Morris to mid-year retirements, along with season-ending injuries to Luke Keary and Lindsay Collins, the Roosters had every opportunity to surrender in the face of adversity.

Rather than look for a reason as to why they couldn't win, James Tedesco led a new breed of Rooster to finish the regular season in fifth position.

Holding on for a one-point victory over the Titans in the first week of the finals, the extent of the side's injury toll proved too great to overcome a week later against the Sea Eagles.

The loss was an unfortunate way to end a year that affirmed the traits that made the Roosters a powerhouse.

Rival supporters routinely disparage the foundation club with sombrero barbs, but you would be hard pressed to find a club with the resilience to stand firm quite like the Roosters of 2021.

In the aftermath of their season ending more than 1,700 kilometres away from home, it would have been easy for the Roosters to wallow in disappointment.

Instead, a guard of honour was proudly formed in recognition of Josh Morris' contribution to the game of rugby league.

It wasn't the end he had hoped for alongside his brother, lifting the Provan-Summons trophy on Grand Final day, yet it was an end unlikely to be looked back on in anger. It's hard to imagine a season without the Morris twins.

Like the animated tones of Ray Warren's commentary, they have seemingly always been there.

As fans we have to be grateful for all they have given at club, state and international levels.

Rugby league is the greatest game of all.

Players like Brett and Josh Morris are the reason rugby league is great.

DON'T WRITE ME OFF TIME TO SAY GOODBYE TO BENJI MARSHALL

WORDS: ROBERT CROSBY ILLUSTRATION: THE BIGGEST TIGER

here are so many ways to look back on the career of Benji Marshall.

From prodigious schoolboy, rugby league superstar, experienced playmaker to veteran utility, there was one trait that defined the boy from Whakatane through it all.

Resilience.

For as captivating as he was side-stepping opponents, throwing audacious flick passes and nailing long-range field goals on a whim, his ability to weather the hits that came on and off the field made Benji beloved by all.

Marshall came into the game at a time when toughness was measured in big hits and a HIA was merely a random assortment of letters.

Toughness, for a man who suffered five shoulder reconstructions by the time he was 23, was about finding the will to get up when outside noise sought to keep him down.

It has been said, that in a perfect world, Benji would have played his entire career with the Tigers and never gone a year without adorning the black and white of New Zealand.

People often view perfection and brilliance as one in the same.

Perfection is refined to the extent that all blemishes have been removed.

Brilliance, in its willingness to dare beyond what is thought to be possible, can leave people with a feeling that stays with them forever.

Every kid who ever dared to flick pass or sidestep did so because Benji proved it was possible.

When he returned to rugby league in 2014, following an ill-fated stint in the 15-man code, he had to change into the type of player he had left gasping for air as a younger man.

Whereas the brashness of youth made him see every moment as an opportunity to score, in time, he learnt that a kick for touch could be equally effective as a try stemming from inside his own half.

Not content to be written off on anyone else's terms, a lifeline from Wayne Bennett on the eve of the 2021 season culminated in a grand final appearance.

He didn't get to lift the premiership trophy in his final game. No lap of honour. No flick passes. Instead, it was an ending he chose, rather than had forced upon him. Benji Marshall leaves behind an extraordinary legacy as one of the ten most-capped players in the history of the game.

He was a gateway into rugby league; a player who made the public care about the entertainment of the sport more than anyone else throughout the NRL era.

It didn't matter if you were a die-hard supporter or a casual viewer, Benji was the biggest ticket in town.

Whether he is recognised as an Immortal of the game is a matter for history to perfect.

The brilliance of Benji lives forever in the hearts of supporters who were fortunate enough to see the mercurial five-eighth grace a rugby league field.

OUR REPORT with JUSTIN DAVIES Clear(y) Eyes, Full Hearts delivers Panthers third Premiership

Penrith Panthers secure their third NRL Premiership in a grinding 14-12 success against South Sydney Rabbitohs tonight in front of 39,223 fans at Suncorp Stadium.

The Panthers fell one game short last year, tonight they made amends in a brutal contest in what has been one of the most trying seasons in the NRL. Nathan Cleary kicked his side to victory alongside tries from Matt Burton and Stephen Crichton to deliver the Premiership.

It was a grinding and tough affair between two quality defensive sides. Penrith pinned the Rabbitohs deep in their end all through the first half through Cleary's kicking game and the halfback built the pressure with half a dozen forced dropouts in the contest.

Points were at a premium but when it was required Penrith went to their trusted left edge. A swift movement out the back saw Jarome Luai double-pump the pass and put centre Matt Burton over untouched then Cleary added a further two from the boot to make it 8-6 before the break.

The Rabbitohs have had to dig deep all year through adversity and threw a punch back at the Panthers side. Mercurial five-eighth stepped up and swung at the rock solid Panthers defensive line, stepped past several defenders and made it 6-6 on the half hour mark.

In a game where points were at a pemium, the game was made of moments. The big moment came again from Cody Walker but was a negative one. He tried to engineer an attack down the Rabbitohs left side before his spiral pass was snaffled by Stephen Crichton who travelled the distance to make it 14-8 Panthers.

Once again, the Rabbitohs threw one final punch to get themselves back in the game. Time was winding down in the 74th minute, the Rabbitohs surged down their famed left-side attack with the usual result - Alex Johnston scored in the corner - it left it down to Adam Reynolds from the tee to level things up at 14-all.

Playing his final game in the famed cardinal and myrtle, looking to get his side their 22nd Premiership. The dependable boot stepped up but faded his conversion just wide of the right hand post and saw the game end in heartbreak instead of heroics for a halfback who has bled for the Rabbitohs.

Instead the Panthers achieved the destiny which was denied in 2020. Premiers and close to the best side all season, finally got the silverware they were looking for. Ivan and Nathan Cleary join an exclusive list of father and son duos to win a Premiership. Also it is a Premiership built in Sydney's west.

When they were calling out the junior clubs for the victorious players, a majority were in the western suburbs and they did it for the area tonight and of course, did it for every one of the Panthers fans who lived through last season's disappointment.

For the Rabbitohs, it might be the last chance for them with some of their key figures in Wayne Bennett and Adam Reynolds moving on. It was a fantastic September for the famous club and they delivered plenty of memories but tonight's bitterness will fuel them through to 2022.

RS 2021 PREMIERS PENRITH PANTHERS 2021 PREMIERS 2021 PREMIERS PENRITH PANTHERS 2021 PREMIERS A TITLE WITCH MEANING REFLECTIONS ON PENRITH'S PREMIERSHIP WIN

hat do a bike shop, pizza shop, a glass repairer, smash repairs and mechanic - amongst other things - have in common?

They are all long-time businesses in and around Penrith that start with the word 'Panther' - just one quirk that shows the significance of the Panthers in our area. The Panthers are just Penrith, nearly everybody that lives in Penrith can tell you where the Leagues club is, and that the stadium sits just across Mulgoa Road. Panthers hold a huge significance in the life of everybody who lives in Penrith's, and whether you're a fan of the team or not, everybody in Penrith has connection with the Panthers at some point in their life.

2021 has been a particularly tough year for the people of Penrith - COVID hitting everyone hard and with so many people out of work in the area, the Panthers have been a highlight. The premiership isn't just the culmination of one- or two-years efforts, it's the efforts of 18 years since the last Panthers title in 2003. There was a major sense of disappointment through the fact that fans couldn't go to games for the second half of the season - especially given that so many of us have had to sit through so many years of mediocrity and false dawns.

But that all changed on Sunday night when the Panthers finally clinched their third premiership, and the whole of the city seemingly erupted in celebrations that spread to Mulgoa Road and the Leagues Club car park, as well as around Mount Druitt - despite the fact that COVID restrictions were still in place - because the sense of joy and excitement could never be contained.

In a strange way, the lockdown and COVID was probably a good thing for Penrith on Sunday night, because the celebrations would almost certainly have been wilder - the absolute sense of relief that years of hard work has paid off - even though those in Penrith could not be there to see it at the time.

Once the team return home, there is very little doubt that Penrith will go wild yet again. If the two previous premierships to go by, celebrations are going to continue for 12 months - and once COVID lockdowns are over, it will surely be party time.

Taking a more personal look at the premiership for me, it's the culmination of not just the 28 years of my life so far, it takes in the history of my family and their connection to both Penrith and the Panthers since the club was born in 1967. My entire family have been Panthers supporters since day one, attending games right through from '67 to today and it has spanned generations of fans - and even converts - along the way. Back in the 60's and 70's, family members would use the football as the main excuse for visiting relatives heading to other parts in Sydney - where my uncle and grandad would go to the football, and the rest of the family would visit.

For my Dad's side of the family, the connection is super strong as well and it means a lot this premiership win because coming from Tasmania, Rugby League isn't a strong sport down there. My Nan in particular took a very strong liking to the Panthers and they meant so much to her, so much so that she refused to go to Hospital on the night of the 2020 Grand Final when she had a collapsed lung amongst other health issues because she needed to watch the Grand Final.

Football bonded both sides of my family together and played a massive part in my families life connecting everyone. Dad would always take me to Panthers games starting at the end of 2002 and then with me becoming a member for 2003 when we won the Premiership. He was the most parochial Panthers fan that I had ever met and it was his life to know everything that happened, almost the minute before it happened. He would take me to the Junior Reps games, and to NSW Cup games at Windsor and St Marys when they weren't playing at Penrith because he enjoyed Rugby League but more so wanted to know who the next generation coming through were going to be - and always would talk about the kids coming through because he always took a great interest.

WORDS: JOSH ROBERTSON ILLUSTRATION: THE BIGGEST TIGER

During 2019, my Dad lost a sudden battle with cancer and passed away, this meant that for him he wasn't able to see the success of the team that he loved so much make two Grand Finals, going on to win this year's title. I have no doubt it would have been one of his proudest moments because he watched many of these young players coming through the grades and always told everybody to watch them.

That is why - for me - the past two years have been such an emotional rollercoaster. It has been more than just a game, but a way of keeping the connection to my Dad and my Nan (who passed away earlier this year). I have felt the whole range of unbridled joy to the disappointment that they couldn't be there and overall a sense of relief for finally bringing in the ever promised premiership.

But for the country town that became a city, the Panthers have been an institution in everybody's life in around Penrith and indeed Western Sydney. This title is the highlight of a very dark and eventful year, also bringing a sense of relief because for so long the Panthers have been a laughing stock - but now we're the ones laughing... and celebrating. Viva la France!

If you hail from south of the Channel, then you've got plenty to be excited about in rugby league this weekend.

Championship side Toulouse Olympique are 80 minutes away from Super League promotion when they face perennial bridesmaids Featherstone in Sunday's "Million Pound Game", and in this here Super League Grand Final - Catalans could become the first side outside the UK to claim the game's elite crown.

Les Dragons have enjoyed a wealth of support in their home city of Perpignan in 2021, and it has followed that their on-field performances have been excellent. So intense was the atmosphere after last week's semi Final win over Hull KR at Stade Gilbert Brutus, coach Steve McNamara described it "an inferno" and "absolute chaos".

But the task gets a little more tricky now - they won't have home ground advantage and will likely be the minority in terms of fan numbers when they arrive at Manchester on Saturday to battle St Helens for the 2021 Super League title. Here's hoping all 1,000-odd French fans trying to get to Manchester have a smooth trip and arrive safe and well.

And yep - there are two teams in this one. St Helens are always there - appearing 12 times on the game's premier stage across 25 deciders to date. They can join Leeds on 8 titles if they win this one, and they'll strongly rate their chances.

The Saints are a star-studded side and have a wealth of experience across the lineup - eight of the 21-man squad are aged 30 or over.

Across three meetings in 2021, the Dragons hold a 2-1 advantage, including a golden-point victory on Magic Weekend in Newcastle.

Who to watch: Newly crowned Man of Steel Sam Tomkins will be the lynchpin for the Catalans side - if he takes the field.

Tomkins hasn't taken to the field since the Dragons downed Wigan in the final round after sustaining a knee injury. He's not expected to train all week but says he will take the field. If he does - and remains fit he'll have a big say in the result.

Since shifting from the NRL several years ago, Lachlan Coote has been an electric presence in the Saints lineup. The seasoned fullback, now in his 30's, has racked up 212 points this year in another impressive haul, and is no doubt going to feature heavily again in this decider. A proven match-winner.

Favourite: Among Australian bookmakers, the Saints have the backing of the punters.

My tip: For the first time in the Super League era, we'll have a premiers name engraved on the trophy that doesn't say St Helens, Leeds, Wigan or Bradford. Welcome to the elite club, Catalans.
