2023 RULE INTERPRETATION AMENDMENTS

Grounding the Ball

Tries will now be awarded if the ball rotates from the hand to the wrist or forearm provided there is no obvious separation between the ball and the hand or arm. The new interpretation will allow further clarity for officials when adjudicating grounding.

Operation of the 18th player rule

The number of failed head injury assessments will be reduced from three (3) to two (2) to trigger the activation of the 18th player. This will allow greater flexibility for Clubs which lose multiple players to head injuries in a match.

Intervention of Bunker in Foul Play

The Bunker may only intervene for acts of foul play which it deems to be reportable. The change will ensure fewer needless stoppages while also confirming a firmer process around foul play intervention.

Captain's Challenge

A challenge may be initiated after the referee blows his whistle to stop play, rather than only after a decision resulting in a structured restart. Decisions which cannot be challenged will continue to include forward passes, roll balls and discretionary penalties including 10m offside, ruck infringements relating to play-the-ball speed, tackled into touch after held call and dissent.

A Challenge can be made following the final play in each half provided the referee has not already called half or full-time. The changes will add further clarity for fans, broadcasters, Clubs and players around when a Captain's Challenge can and cannot be initiated.

Off-side infringements at scrums

A full penalty will be awarded (rather than a set restart), for off-side scrum infringements by the defensive team anywhere on the field. The non-infringing team will retain the option of repacking the scrum or taking the awarded penalty. Any team which deliberately locks the ball in the scrum to trap defenders in an off-side position will also be penalised.

10m compliance in general play

Active defenders must have both feet in line or behind the referee when setting the 10-metre defensive line. Referees will have the option of awarding a full penalty for multiple 10m breaches without requiring the mandatory use of the sin bin. Referees can still use the sin bin if they consider breaches to be deliberate or cynical. The changes will give further clarity to officials and teams around what constitutes a breach of the rules.

Adjudication of completed tackles

Referees will issue a single call of "held/release" when a tackle is complete, rather than the separate calls of "held" and "release". The change will address unnecessary slowing of the play-the-ball and improve game continuity.

THE PREVIEW

with Adam Huxtable

Heavyweights from past years set to open season 2023 with a bang

There's no denying that the Eels and the Storm have been to of the more dominant teams in the NRL in recent years (try decades for the Storm), so what better way to get the 2023 NRL season underway than getting them to square off at CommBank Stadium in a rematch of last year's final round encounter for a spot in the top 4?

Last year for the Eels was their equal best in terms of success since 2009, yet still ended in heartbreak, as their fans have become so accustomed to. Many have been quick to write off the Blue and Gold as having no chance of even making it back to the Grand Final, let alone winning it, with some pundits even tipping they'll fail to make the finals altogether due to the turnover in personnel experienced over the off season.

In my opinion, much of this has been overblown. Parramatta's backline from last year's finals run remains completely intact, while key spine members Gutherson, Brown and Moses are all back and will be richer for the big game experience. Papali'i and Mahoney are two big losses no doubt, but if the Eels can get 70-80% of their production out of replacements Hopgood and Hodgson respectively, this is still a team that is capable of making deep finals run.

Between injuries in the backline and the departure of veterans in the forwards, the spine of the Melbourne Storm is the only position group that remains unchanged from the side that was bounced from the finals in week 1 last season. As has been the case almost every pre-season since Bellamy took over as coach, there have been detractors who question the ability of the Storm to remain among the competition's elite.

While writing off the Storm always comes at a risk, it is hard to make a case for them being able to make any noise in the finals this season. Papenhuyzen will once again be out for a good chunk of the year and their backline simply lacks the experience and class necessary to compete with the top sides, while their back row and bench stocks are, on paper, the worst they've been in years.

The Storm still have at least a top 3 spine in the NRL, and for that reason they will more often than not take care of the poorer sides and make the top 8, but ultimately, I believe their ceiling is to bow out in week 1 or 2 of the finals again.

For this game, the 17 named from both sides is relatively evenly matched across the park. Both the Eels and the Storm have 3 great spine players and two great starting front rowers, while both back rows and locks drop off in quality due to injury and suspension. The interchange benches of the two sides also offer little impact and will likely have the primary function of giving the starters a rest rather than providing an X-factor. The Eels probably have an edge in the backline, however their defence in that area has been suspect over the years, and the Storm have the spine to take advantage should the opportunity arise.

WHO TO WATCH: One of the biggest question marks hanging over the Eels in 2023 is their ability to replace star hooker Reed Mahoney, who while still providing great performances on occasion, undoubtedly regressed in 2022. Josh Hodgson is the man chosen to fill the void, and staying healthy will be half the battle for the former Raider, who has suffered two ACL tears in the last 5 years. People are quick to discount him due to his age and injury history, however Hodgson's play style isn't one that requires a heap of mobility; a lot of his value comes from being able to beat opposition defences through quick analysis of the in-game situation, be it spotting an overlap and switching the direction of the play or identifying a fullback out of position close to the line and putting a grubber in. Hodgson won't feature on many highlight reels in 2023, but he can still be a good addition to the Eels.

For the Storm, it's another veteran coming off an ACL injury in prop forward Christian Welch. It was clear how much the Storm missed Welch's leadership and impact last year, and with other experienced big men such as the Bromwich brothers, Felise Kaufusi and Brandon Smith all having departed in the off season, Welch's job becomes that much more important, especially considering this will be his first full season as captain. As earlier mentioned, both teams have great starting props, and winning the battle up front will be pivotal for both teams in giving their halves as much of a platform as possible to work their magic. It will be interesting to see how many minutes Welch plays; in 2021 he averaged 49 per game but played for 61 in his lone 2022 appearance. He is coming off a major injury so Bellamy may well want to limit how much of a workload he takes on, but the Storm can ill afford to spend extended time without a leader in the forward pack.

FAVOURITE: The Storm are two-point favourites over the Eels in this one.

MY TIP: The Eels have owned the Storm as of late, winning their last four matches against the men in purple, and they were underdogs in every single one of them. I'm tipping their backline advantage will play a part in the trend continuing. Eels by 8.

THE PREVIEW

with Josh Robertson

The stadium affectionately known as the Cake Tin, will see two sides starting to put the ingredients together as the New Zealand Warriors take on the Newcastle Knights in Wellington.

A permanent return to Aotearoa is going to be a big boost for the Warriors in 2023 after much was expected of them once they got back to Auckland and New Zealand on the whole. However, the turmoil of the season and a number of tough contests meant that the Warriors couldn't dominate back at home in 2022.

Going through the pre-season challenge with a win and a loss, the Warriors will have some confidence with a big win over the Tigers in Round 1 where they looked very crisp even though their opponents were very poor. The second trial match for the Warriors though wasn't as good with a defeat against the Storm although it was a tight contest where neither side were very good for the most part before Melbourne ran away with the contest.

New coach Andrew Webster has filled his Warriors side with a number of big name recruits include the likes of Marata Niukore, Dylan Walker, Charnze Nicoll-Klokstad and Te-Maire Martin all making their debuts for the club as the Warriors look to start a new era.

The Newcastle Knights finished 2022 down in 14th position and with pessimism high already from their fans the Rugby League public, the Knights are going to need a big start to the season not only to get the monkey off their backs, but also to relieve the pressure on coach Adam O'Brien who is not a fan favourite.

The pre-season challenge was less than ideal for the Knights who fell to two comfortable defeats against the Sharks and the Eels. The opening match against the Sharks saw plenty of errors and only two late tries making the score respectable for the Knights. Meanwhile, against the Eels the Novocastrians were completely outplayed and a decision to only play Kalyn Ponga in his new five-eighth role for just 40 minutes raised plenty of eyebrows.

WHO TO WATCH: The key is going to be in the halves for both sides but for the Warriors it's down to an old face where their season's fortunes lie. A ripped Shaun Johnson has impressed in the off-season with his physique but at 32 years old, the Kiwi international is at the back end of his career and arguably has failed to deliver for quite a while. The Warriors are going to need Johnson firing if they are to win and have a big season.

Kalyn Ponga is one of the most hyped up players in the game but personally he isn't a top 20 player in the game for me, it might be harsh words but the QLD representative has delivered almost zilch to the Knights when putting it up against the hype. A move to 6 is supposed to be the big key for Newcastle but with almost no experience in the halves and only 40 minutes pre-season, he is going to need to step up in attack. Defensively Ponga is going to find himself in the front line and he's already proven to be a liability there at times.

FAVOURITE: The Warriors are strong favourites for the contest in New Zealand with a strong line-up and playing back at home.

MY TIP: The Warriors should be a much stronger side in this one, the Knights have a couple of good players but the connection and boost that the Warriors have especially back at home should see them get a much needed first round win. Warriors by 12

with Lachy MacCorquodale

It's an exciting time for Rugby League fans with the first round of the 2023 Premiership just around the corner. We're all more than excited to watch the return of competitive footy this weekend and for the lucky Penrith fans, they'll get to celebrate their 2022 Premiership as they watch the Panthers begin their quest for three consecutive premierships.

It won't be the same 17 that came home with the trophy last season as the defending premiers waved goodbye to the likes of Api Koroisau and Viliame Kikau during the off-season. However, the Panthers still look incredibly imposing led by Australian halfback and arguably the best player in the game, Nathan Cleary. Cleary and coach Ivan Cleary will be looking to get their season underway with a win for the fourth year running and what better place to do it than in front of their home fans at BlueBet Stadium.

The home side is still expected to field 14 of the 17 that appeared in last year's Grand Final, with Sunia Turuva and Soni Luke promoted from within the squad and Luke Garner arriving from the Wests Tigers to round out the 17. Despite the loss of Kikau and Koroisau, the Panthers still feature a team that is expected to go deep this season and that journey starts this Friday night as they host the Brisbane Broncos.

Soni Luke and Mitch Kenny will share the dummy-half role this season and that will be where the question marks lie for this club in 2023. The two hookers won't be able to replicate what Koroisau has brought to the Panthers over the past few seasons, so it'll be interesting to see what they bring to the side on Friday night. Quick service to Nathan Cleary will be key for both Luke and Kenny as they aim to give the number seven the time and space to work his magic against Brisbane's defence. His halves partner Jarome Luai has lost his left edge weapon in Kikau and this could leave the door open for Luai to explore the Broncos' defence line himself or to use his outside weapons in Luke Garner and Izack Tago in a less predictable way compared to having Kikau line up outside him.

The aforementioned Turuva claims the vacant spot on the wing, created by a season ending injury to Taylan May, giving the young Fijian a great opportunity to lock down a spot in this side and gain some first-grade experience before Stephen Crichton departs at the end of the season.

The Panthers are going to be a difficult matchup for the Broncos who come into the season looking to go one better than their ninth placed finish last year. They'll be without star signing Reece Walsh this weekend, who is out with a fractured eye socket but fortunately for the Broncos, they've got a young star in Selwyn Cobbo who will wear the number one this Friday night.

Led by captain Adam Reynolds, the Broncos will be looking to bring the game to the Panthers and show the back-to-back premiers that one, going for that third straight title won't be an easy task and two, the Broncos are here to compete for the top eight. Whether or not the latter will come true, is hard to say at this stage, but a win against the Panthers would give this side the confidence to play great footy for the duration of the season.

The majority of their side returns from the 2022 season which will be beneficial for their combinations, in particular, the combination between Reynolds and Ezra Mam in the halves. They showed glimpses last year of linking together well but with another pre-season under their belt, they should have an improved understanding of each other's games which can only help the Broncos for 2023.

It'll be interesting to see how they compete with the Panthers considering they haven't beat Penrith since 2019. However, the Broncos still have some very good players at their disposal and the younger members of the squad should hypothetically have improved. The addition of Martin Taupau to the bench should add some experience to this young forward pack, although it's worth watching how he performs after turning 33 in February.

A member of the Samoan World Cup side, the 33-year-old Taupau will make his debut for the Broncos with Jesse Arthars returning to the side after spending his 2022 season on loan at the Warriors.

WHO TO WATCH: World Cup winner and Premiership winner Nathan Cleary will be looking to add to his list of honours in 2023 as he hopes to guide his Panthers' to a third successive premiership. At just only 25-years of age, Cleary has almost accomplished everything the game has to offer and that 2023 Dally M Medal would look very nice amongst the rest of his team and individual accolades. The halfback had another excellent season in 2022. Cleary assisted 18 tries in his 17 appearances, helping his side win 15 of those 17 outings. Astonishingly, Cleary has only lost five NRL matches in the past three seasons, whilst winning an incredible 53. Arguably the best player in the competition and I'm sure he'll look to make this case again this Friday.

His opposite number in Adam Reynolds had a fine first season with the Broncos as he helped get the side from Red Hill back towards the top eight. They won half of the 20 games he appeared in and assisted 19 tries and scored six to go with it. He is one of the best kickers in the game and will look to kick to the corners as the Broncos try and start their defensive sets strongly. He's got weapons to utilise in the backline, most notably, Origin representatives in Selwyn Cobbo and Kotoni Staggs. His ability to get them involved in the game will go a long way to determining whether the Broncos can get past that strong Panthers defence.

FAVOURITE: Penrith are the favourites entering this clash on Friday night and it's no surprise that they are. They've beaten the Broncos in their past four outings and haven't lost to their opponents for Friday at BlueBet Stadium since 2009.

MY TIP: I can't go past the Panthers for this Friday. After their loss to St. Helens in the World Club Challenge, they'll be looking to show everyone that they're still one of the dominant teams in the competition. The Broncos will be no pushover, but the Panthers are expecting to kick-off their quest for that third successive title with a win on Friday night. Panthers by 12.

THE PREVIEW

with AJ Lucantonio

New eras get underway

It's a battle of the new at 4 Pines Park on Saturday as the Manly Warringah Sea Eagles go head to head with the Canterbury Bulldogs.

Fresh off winning the inaugural Pre Season Challenge. Manly are hoping that they will be able to shake the Pride Jersey debacle away under the guidance of new coach Anthony Seibold. Seibold's appointment was met with scepticism by opposition fans and critics across social media, however from the outside looking in, it looks as if Seibold's time away from the game has done him some good.

He has corrected his previous mistakes, embraced the old boys of the club and brought them into talk with the current crop. More importantly, there's a distinctive change in the way Manly looked in the trials with a devastating display of attacking football in the first half against the Roosters in their second trial. While their recruitment and lack of depth has been looked at as a potential weakness, Manly will be a team that competes for every minute, bringing pride back to the Manly jumper that was distinctively missing in Des Hasler's final days.

Manly's opening 2023 line-up sees the return of Tom Trbojevic. Turbo brings a distinctive flare to the Eagles attack and the game is always better when he is on the field producing his scintillating best, let's hope for Manly fans that Turbo plays the maximum number of games he can. It isn't all good news with backrower turned 5/8 Josh Schuster succumbing to a calf injury sustained against the Roosters. Preseason standout Cooper Johns has earned a start at 5/8. New recruit Kelma Tuliagi wins the vacant backrow spot left by Schuster's move to 5/8. Jake Trbojevic will make the move to prop, with Sean Keppie starting at lock. Kaeo Weekes wins the empty utility spot while Ben Trbojevic, Ethan Bullemor and Josh Aloiai win bench positions.

It seems to be Groundhog Day at Belmore. Yet another new era begins with Cameron Ciraldo taking charge of the Bulldogs for the first time. This rebuild seems different to the ones undertaken by Dean Pay and Trent Barrett before him. There is sizable talent brought to the club with Viliame Kikau and Reed Mahoney arriving over Summer. Whilst a lot has been said about the talent arriving at Belmore this year, these signings will make a sizable impact to a roster that was showing signs of improvement under Mick Potter last season.

Canterbury's line-up from last season has undergone a major surgical change. New buy Hayze Perham takes over the vacant fullback spot with Jake Averillo joining debutant Paul Alamoti in the centres. Alamoti has starred in junior level and his debut has been one that NRL fans have been keen to see. Raymond Faitala-Mariner will start on the edge with Kikau. Nu Brown is the surprise inclusion at lock following Luke Thompson's training breakdown on Tuesday. Jayden Tanner is a shock winner of the 14 jumper while pre-season standouts Franklin Pele and Jacob Preston make their club debut while for the latter it'll be his first grade debut.

WHO TO WATCH: Well, he's back again folks. After another injury interrupted season, Tom Trbojevic is set to be freed from his hamstring problems. Under an intensive off-season workout from renowned trainer Bill Knowles. Manly fans and rugby league fans in general will be hopeful we see him return to his 2021 form which saw him become the best in the game. His game won't change drastically under Anthony Seibold, so expect a fast start from the man they call Turbo to get Manly off to a perfect start in 2023.

With the sudden rise of Jeremy Marshall-King in 2022, Bulldogs fans were concerned that their sizable investment in Reed Mahoney would be an overspend. However, the Bulldogs need not panic. Mahoney has been a breath of fresh air in the Bulldogs which will allow Kikau and Thompson to go to another level in 2023. With a favourable matchup against a Manly side that was slow around the rucks last season, this could be a statement game for Mahoney to show how he'll be effective and dangerous in 2023.

FAVOURITE: Canterbury are the favourites to start 2023 with a victory. Canterbury won the most recent clash between these sides which in fact was the final round of 2022 to the tune of 21-20.

MY TIP: With both clashes being decided by a solitary point last season, I expect this match to be very close as both sides try to find their rhythm in season 2023. It'll be a match where the class and experience of the new signings will show their class especially Mahoney in and around the ruck. With that in mind, my prediction has the Bulldogs starting the Cameron Ciraldo era in style. Bulldogs by 6.

THE PREVIEW

with Andrew Jackson

Cowboys look for early statement after breakout 2022 season

The Canberra Raiders were one of the league's biggest disappointments during the trial period but luckily for Ricky Stuart, they were just that - trials.

But even still, the way the Raiders fell apart in defence without firing much of a shot against the Tigers would have been a cause for concern, regardless of whether competition points were on the line.

Unfortunately for Canberra, it gets one of the tougher tasks in the competition to kick off its 2023 season as a trip to North Queensland awaits.

The Cowboys were solid in the pre-season challenge, going down 20-18 to the Broncos in their most recent hit-out.

For Todd Payten, signs of rust in attack on Saturday night will not be much of a concern. What would be worrying though would be a lack of intensity in defence.

North Queensland built so much of its success last season off pure hard work defending its line and a lot of that goes back to attitude. Payten instilled the right attitude in the playing group last year.

For the Cowboys to build on their breakout 2022 season, they will need to pick up where they left off and make an early statement without the ball in hand.

North Queensland will be near full-strength for Saturday's game, although Heilum Luki (torn ACL) and Luciano Leilua (stood down) are both sidelined in a hit to its backrow stocks.

As for Canberra, all eyes will be on Sebastian Kris as he fills in at fullback for the injured Xavier Savage.

Savage picked up a jaw injury in the Raiders' first game of the pre-season challenge and initially Stuart experimented with Kris at fullback in his place.

The experiment failed miserably, although it was just a trial game and the team as a whole left a lot to be desired, but still Kris failed to offer any real spark in attack or ball-playing option out the back.

Pasami Saulo also makes his club debut in place of Josh Papalii, who is sidelined with a minor calf strain, while Danny Levi has been given the first shot at Canberra's starting hooker role.

Tom Starling will offer spark from the bench.

WHO TO WATCH: Canberra was torn to shreds through the middle by the Tigers in last week's trial, so look for North Queensland hooker Reece Robson to thrive. Robson emerged as a genuine bolter for State of Origin honours last year, only held back by New South Wales' superior depth in the position. But there was little doubting Robson was central to so much of North Queensland's success last year. He simplified the game plan when it was needed, taking advantage of quick play-the-balls and using his speed to catch the defence flatfooted. When it was on, he was also happy to spread the ball early and get it quickly to halves Tom Dearden and Chad Townsend. Even if that connection is clunky on Saturday, Robson should have plenty of success just going right through Canberra's middle defence.

As for the Raiders, if they are to cause an upset on Saturday it will come from gaining the advantage up front. Canberra has a forward pack stacked with representative talent, including a genuine game-breaker in Joseph Tapine. The Kiwi international, who re-signed with the Raiders last year until the end of 2027, won the club's Mal Meninga Medal for best player of the season and was also named in the Dally M Team of the Year. Tapine averaged career-high numbers in run metres (165) and tackle busts (3.1) and is still in the prime of his career at 28 years old. With Tapine leading the way, Canberra will continue to keep games close even if the key playmakers battle early season rust.

FAVOURITE: The Cowboys are expected to kick off their 2023 campaign with a win.

MY TIP: There are just far too many question marks over the Raiders' spine to tip them here. Provided the Cowboys' defence stands tall, they should have the clear advantage, particularly at home. North Queensland by 18.

THE PREVIEW

with Tim Costello

Semi Final vengeance looms for injury-hit Sharks.

Leave no doubt that Cronulla's capitulation to a powerful South Sydney side in the second week of last year's finals series will still be burning in the belly of many of the players - and fans - in the Shire.

And in news that no Sharks fan will enjoy hearing, they'll have to do it without Dally M medallist and LeagueUnlimited.com's 2022 Player of the Year Nicho Hynes. A calf injury keeps the #7 out of this contest, with fringe half Braydon Trindall once again deputising.

There hasn't been a whole lot of roster movement at Pointsbet Stadium - 16 of the 17 in Saturday night's lineup were at the club in 2022, with former Eels bench forward Oregon Kaufusi the sole new face in the black-white-and-blue.

Their opposition on Saturday are similar calm in terms of gains and losses - all 17 players named for the Rabbitohs this week are 2022 returnees.

Historically, this is set to be a tricky proposition for Cronulla, who - despite their success in the last decade - have only won once in the opening round since 2014.

Souths are looking at history of a different kind this season themselves, with prolific winger Alex Johnston just 15 tries away from jumping up to third place on the all-time try scorers list in NRL/NSWRL/ARL/SL history since 1908.

In further team news, the Sharks will also be missing prop Royce Hunt (elbow), so Braden Hamlin-Uele starts up front in his absence. South Sydney are missing both Taane Milne (suspension) and Hame Sele (calf). Taaffe and Shaq Mitchell are named on the bench.

WHO TO WATCH: Until the Hynes injury was confirmed, he would've taken this slot as the Sharks' player to watch. Attention will now turn to Braydon Trindall at halfback. Trindall made 15 appearances last season, 11 of those from the bench. In the four matches where he started in the halves (deputising for either Hynes or five-eighth Matt Moylan), the Sharks were winners on three of four occasions, losing only to Canberra in Round 10. In addition to his halves work, Trindall is also likely to assume goalkicking duties in Hynes' absence as well.

Latrell Mitchell player the majority of available games for the Roosters in his four seasons at that club from 2016 til 2019 - but in the three seasons since he has yet to play more than three-quarters of any year at South Sydney. His 2020 season cut short by a hamstring injury, a mix of injury and suspension saw him miss a big chunk of the 2021 season, then a knee injury took out a large part of the start of his 2022 campaign. Ready and raring to go at the start and on the back of some solid trial form, expect 'Trell to make a statement early in 2023 - starting with Saturday night against Cronulla.

FAVOURITE: The Hynes injury sees Souths with strong backing from the bookmakers.

MY TIP: The loss of Hynes is immense for Cronulla, make no mistake. On the basis of that and the relative strength the Bunnies' roster holds, I have to back South Sydney here. Rabbitohs by 10.

THE PREVIEW

with Lachlan McIntyre

New boys Dolphins face tough challenge in Roosters in their inaugural game

Suncorp Stadium will be the backdrop for one of the most historical games in NRL history when The Dolphins host the Sydney Roosters in their respective season openers. It will be the penultimate game of Round 1, with the Sunday afternoon fixture playing homage to the late Arthur Beetson, whose dream of an NRL Dolphins side will finally come true.

All eyes will be on whether Wayne Bennett's Dolphins team can live up to the occasion. They've had a little over a year to scramble together an NRL set-up, so they're still very much an unknown quantity. With many stars turning down offers from the Redcliffe-based club throughout 2022, there are plenty of doubters that believe The Dolphins are set to crash and burn in 2023.

One thing is for sure - the 17 players that take to the field will be out to prove those people wrong. Will they come out swinging, or get rolled by a strong Roosters outfit?

Finishing the NRL's Pre-Season Challenge in 14th, The Dolphins' first ever NRL trial period delivered mixed results. Starting with a bang against the Capras in their first outing in an NRL jersey, The Dolphins will look to continue strengthening ties with Central Queensland throughout 2023 through their partnership with the Capras. A hard-fought 22-all draw against the Cowboys in Cairns showed that their young players have plenty of promise, but a worrying performance against the Gold Coast just a week later shows just how hard 2023 may be for The Dolphins.

In big team news for The Dolphins, Anthony Milford has been overlooked for a spot in the 17. Katoa is poised to make his NRL debut alongside former Panther O'Sullivan in the halves. Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow has won the fullback jersey for now.

The Sydney Roosters enter 2023 with their eyes on the prize. The major signing of Brandon Smith combined with a star-studded backline and a Sam Walker who is rapidly learning and improving his game leaves plenty for Easts fans to be excited about. A 6th place finish in 2022 wasn't good enough, but it was injuries who were their biggest opponent last season. So with a near-full strength squad ready to take on The Dolphins in Round 1, the Roosters will be confident of starting their campaign with a win.

The Roosters split their two pre-season hit-outs, coming out victorious against Melbourne in Geelong, and then falling to Manly in Gosford. A tenth-place finish in the NRL's Pre-Season Challenge will be all but irrelevant to Trent Robinson, with the trials certainly achieving his goal of testing combinations and thrusting some young up-and-comers into the spotlight.

With Joey Manu out through a facial injury, Corey Allan will slot into the centres in his first outing for the Roosters. Angus Crichton and Jared Waerea-Hargreaves are missing from the Sydney forward pack, so the pairing of Egan and Nat Butcher in the back-row will be holding a lot of responsibility.

The Sydney Roosters have won three of the past four games they've played at Suncorp Stadium, and Roosters fans expect to record another victory at the ground this Sunday.

WHO TO WATCH: After five seasons for Canterbury-Bankstown, Jeremy Marshall-King heads to Redcliffe looking for a new beginning. At 27 years old, Marshall-King played an important role in New Zealand's World Cup campaign last year. As quite possibly the only tried and tested hooker at an NRL level in the Dolphins side, a lot of weight is on his shoulders heading into the club's debut season. Expect him to play 80 minutes this Sunday.

In 2021, Sam Walker enjoyed his breakout season, with injuries at the Sydney Roosters allowing him to show the competition what he could do. But it's now 2023, and as the club's consistent starting halfback, nothing but excellence will be accepted. Lining up alongside three-time premiers winner and former Kangaroo Luke Keary, the halves combination at the Roosters creates plenty of cause for excitement. At just 20 years of age, can Walker deal with the pressure and perform like we know he can?

FAVOURITE: The Sydney Roosters are the strong favourite to start their season on a high - they're expected to trounce an inexperienced Dolphins side.

MY TIP: The Dolphins will be primed to come out swinging, and I think they have a good shot of catching Sydney off guard in the opening round. Dolphins by 2.

THE PREVIEW

with Rob Crosby

Sheens years for a time before the Titans

The opening round of the 2023 NRL season concludes with two of last season's biggest underperformers, the Wests Tigers and Gold Coast Titans, facing off in a Sunday evening contest at Leichhardt Oval.

Coming off a calamitous season yielding a paltry four wins and a wooden spoon finish, the Wests Tigers have responded with a move reeking of desperation to recapture former glory by appointing Tim Sheens as coach.

Producing inconclusive trial form off the back of a dismal performance with a second-string line-up against the Warriors (12-48), the joint venture demonstrated attacking flair with a stronger side in their final pre-season hit-out against the Raiders (36-4).

Naming four new signings - Charlie Staines, Apisai Koroisau, David Klemmer and Isaiah Papalii - young guns Tommy Talau and Shawn Blore will return after missing the entirety of 2022 through injury.

The Tigers hold an above average record in opening round fixtures with 14 wins and a draw from 23 previous campaigns, along with a perfect record in Round 1 matches at Leichhardt Oval after previously prevailing over the Sharks (2012) and Sea Eagles (2019).

Aiming to bounce back after managing six wins and a mediocre 13th placed finish in 2022, the Gold Coast Titans will be looking to continue a strong record at Leichhardt Oval following three wins from four prior visits.

Showing promising signs during the pre-season after rallying from a halftime deficit to walk away with a draw against the Broncos (24-24) and demolishing the Dolphins (40-16) in an attacking blitz, the Titans have never lost against the Tigers during Justin Holbrook's coaching tenure.

Handing Kieran Foran, Sam Verrills, Aaron Schoupp and Joe Stimson club debuts, young winger Alofiana Khan-Pereira will make his first appearance in the NRL after demanding selection off the strength of his performances during the trials.

Struggling historically with seven wins from 16 Round 1 fixtures - the most recent of which came in 2018 - the Titans have only won away from home in the opening round twice in history (2012, 2014).

The two sides have met once before in an opening round encounter back in 2015 when a last-gasp drop goal from Pat Richards gave the Tigers a 19-18 win on the Gold Coast.

WHO TO WATCH: Ranking among the biggest transfers in the player market over the off-season, newly appointed captain Apisai Koroisau will be determined to make an impression in his club debut. Joining a club that has qualified for the finals only three times in history, the three-time premiership winning hooker will bring a wealth of experience and professionalism to the joint venture following a hugely successful stint at the Panthers over the past three seasons. Coming into the new year without featuring in either of the side's trial matches, the 30-year-old Fijian and New South Wales representative will be hoping to buck a trend having lost in his debut matches with South Sydney, Penrith and Manly previously.

Securing a first grade debut following an eye-catching haul of four tries in the side's final trial win, little-known winger Alofiana Khan-Pereira will be out to make a big name for himself. Touted as an emerging talent after crossing for 25 tries in 19 matches with Burleigh last season, the 21-year-old winger demanded inclusion in the NRL side with six tries in two appearances during the pre-season, including a hat-trick in the space of 11 minutes against the Dolphins. Currently able to negotiate with rival clubs for next season, Khan-Pereira will be out to hold his place on the left wing with more experienced outside backs Brian Kelly and Patrick Herbert set to return imminently.

FAVOURITE: Installed as favourites off the strength of an impressive attacking display during their final trial performance, the Tigers are expected to claim their first opening round victory since 2020.

MY TIP: Having strengthened their roster and performed admirably during the pre-season, the Gold Coast Titans will fancy their chances of an upset and recording a Round 1 victory away from home for only the third time in history. Titans by 10.

Int: Donaldson, O'Connor, Sangaré, Smith.

The Warrington Wolves have gotten their 2023 campaign off to a perfect start, thrashing the Leeds Rhinos by 42-10 in the opening match of the season. The Wolves were keen to show that last year was just one off year, while the Rhinos were looking to avoid second year syndrome under coach Rohan Smith.

The first half was played at a frantic pace and it was outspoken fullback Matt Dufty who crossed for the first try inside the first five minutes showing brilliant support play. Off the ensuing set, Leeds were ill disciplined which allowed Ratchford to shoot for goal and give Wolves an 8-0 cushion. Eight minutes later, hooker Daryl Clark fooled the defence with a dummy and strolled over the line and Leeds were in big trouble. It was getting worse for Rohan Smith's men conceding three tries in the 17 minutes before half-time. Clark turned provider in the 23rd minute, tossing a long pass out to the right which allowed Josh Thewlis to leap acrobatically over in the corner. It was all too easy for the hosts as Danny Walker stretched the lead to 24 points by winning the race to his own grubber kick to touch down after opposite fullback Richie Myler slipped as he tried to gather. Sam Kasiano made an instant impression from the bench for his new side crossing after collecting a kick from half George Williams and it was 30-0 at the half.

The second half was a scrappy affair to start with, but four tries in the final twenty minutes brought the crowd back into the contest. Leeds avoided a shutout when new buy Derrell Olpherts touched down, but it would prove to be consolation. James Harrison and Greg Minikin crossed each within five minutes of each other and it was becoming an opening night horror show for Leeds. French international Justin Sangare crossed inside the last ten minutes to make the score a bit respectable at 42-10.

The Catalans Dragons have fought off a determined Wakefield side to get their Super League campaign off to a flying start with a 38-24 victory.

It was the home side that crossed early when Max Jowitt crossed inside the first ten minutes to give the Wildcats a 6-0 lead. Catalans responded twelve minutes later when a clever grubber kick landed in the breadbasket of Matthieu Laguerre to reduce the gap to two points. Tom Johnstone crossed for the first of his three tries against his former side five minutes later. Wakefield stayed in the contest and were rewarded when Corey Hall crossed 12 minutes out from the break to keep the Wildcats back in front.

The lead was short lived when Johnstone crossed for his second six minutes out from half-time off a clever cross-field kick. This allowed the Dragons to have a 16-12 lead at the break. After the resumption, Tom Johnstone continued his homecoming party crossing for his hat-trick five minutes into the second stanza. Wakefield weren't going out quietly and crossed seven minutes later when Matty Ashurst barged over from close range to reduce the gap to two. However, their efforts were in vain, two quick tries to Tom Davies blew the match out of Wakefield's grasp. Despite a consolation try to Lee Gaskell, the Dragons ran away and sealed their first road win of the season with a try to Cesar Rouge on the full-time siren for a determined 14 point victory.

It was the return of the newly rebranded Leigh Leopards to the top flight of English Rugby League. However, their first up match for season 2023 wasn't to be with the home side going down 20-10 to the Salford Red Devils.

After a titanic struggle to open proceedings. The Leopards crossed for first points when former Wigan flyer Josh Charnley was on the end of a cut-out pass from Lachie Lam to stroll across for the first try and a handy 4-0 lead. Six minutes out from the break, Kallum Watkins converted a short range effort, charging over the top of a handful of defenders after a lovely pass from the newly re-signed Man of Steel Brodie Croft. Salford went bang bang with Andy Ackers crossing just before the half-time buzzer to give the Red Devils a 12-4 half-time advantage.

Salford extended their margin after the break when Scottish international fullback Ryan Brierley was on the end of another bust from Brodie Croft to give the Red-Devils an 18-4 advantage. Leigh would get a sniff closer to this one after being awarded a contentious penalty try by video referee Liam Moore after Jack Hughes was impeded getting to the football. This got Leigh to within 8 points, but a late penalty goal on full-time was enough to keep Leigh away and secure an away victory to open 2023.

Hull Kingston Rovers have delivered the first shock of the season defeating the much fancied Wigan Warriors 27-18 at home.

The home side got off to the perfect start when Ryan Hall crossed in the fourth minute of play after a clever kick was batted back by Shaun Kenny-Dowall. Five minutes later, the Warriors hit back when Liam Marshall hauled in a Harry Smith chip and we were set for quite the contest this afternoon. However, the Warriors would continue their scoring spree in the fifteenth minute of play when last year's most dynamic player Jai Field scored off a mid-field bomb that couldn't be handled by Rovers. This gave Wigan an 8-6 lead, they weren't finished there though with future NRL star Kai Pearce-Paul crossing seven minutes later to give the Wigan side a 6 point lead with Smith struggling with the boot.

Rovers hit back when SKD crossed 11 minutes before the break using his strength to get past three defenders and we were locked at 12-12. Jamie Abdull wasn't satisfied and knocked over a field goal to give Hull KR a 13-12 half-time lead.

Rovers continued their scoring spree when Scottish international Kane Linnett crossed seven minutes after the resumption from point blank range to extend their margin to five points, the missed conversion was cancelled out by a penalty goal which gave Hull KR a 19-12 lead. After a fifteen minute arm-wrestle, SKD crossed for his second try to give the Rovers a two possession lead. Not to be outdone, Wigan hit back with new recruit Jake Wardle and with Smith's first conversion of the day, the margin was back to within a converted try. However, the Rovers were going to be victorious in their first round match. Victory was sealed five minutes from time with SKD securing his hat-trick and the two competition points with a deserved 27-18 victory.

Int: Lawler, Griffin, Broadbent, Matagi.

Hull FC have held off a fast finishing Castleford Tigers side to escape with a 32-30 verdict at the MKM Stadium to begin the Tony Smith era in style.

It was an electric first forty minutes for the black and whites racing in five first half-tries in a devastating display of attacking football. The fun began in the eighth minute of play when Darnell McIntosh crossed after a lovely cut-out pass from new recruit Tex Hoy. The hosts doubled their score on the next set when Liam Sutcliffe raced in for a debut try on the back of a break from Brad Dwyer. McIntosh grabbed his second in the fifteenth minute controlling the ball with his feet, staying in play and getting the ball down first and Hull had a convincing early lead of 16-0. The Tigers needed to respond and, on the back of a penalty, new buy Gareth Widdop creating space for former Hull winger Bureta Faraimo to score in the corner and give Castleford life down two possessions. Winger Adam Swift crossed for two tries in the space of five minutes. The first came in the twenty-eighth minute after Jake Clifford created the extra man to allow Swift to score in the corner. In the thirty-third minute, Swift completed his double after a lovely pass from Hoy off a well worked scrum play, this gave Hull FC a 26-6 half-time lead.

The hosts continued their rampage after the break. Danny Houghton barged over after Ben McNamara jumped on a wayward kick to put Hull in complete control. With a seemingly comfortable margin, Hull decided to go asleep. Unfortunately, the Tigers had other ideas when Kenny Edwards crossed on the hour mark to give the visitors some life in this contest. Minutes later, new half Jacob Miller strolled over to reduce the gap to three scores. If that wasn't scary enough Faraimo crossed for his second try with just over ten to play and the score was 32-24. The Tigers left their run too late, despite a late Jake Mamo try with five minutes to play. Castleford were unable to get the final blow to get a miraculous come from behind victory, this left Hull FC with the opening victory of the 2023 season.

Hull KR continued their strong start to the new season with a 24-10 win over Salford Red Devils on Thursday night at Salford Stadium.

The hosts were the first to strike with last year's Man of Steel Brodie Croft laid on the first pass for former NRL man Ken Sio to score in the corner. In a tense first half, chances were few and far between. Hull KR thought they had leveled just before the break before it was judged to be a knock on from a high kick.

Hull KR went back to the aerial route just after the break when the crossfield kick was grounded by Ethan Ryan and converted by Will Dagger to make it 6-4. They went to the boot again to make it 12-4 when Jordan Abdull grubbered through for Frankie Halton to dive over from close range.

The right side of the Red Devils attack roared to life again when Deon Cross stepped his way to the try line to bring it back to 12-10. The visitors had a double to Sam Wood which secured the two points and made it two from two to start the season. Both were provided by Shaun Kenny-Dowall and gave us a 24-10 final score.

Warrington Wolves stay at the top of the Super League ladder after their 26-16 win over Huddersfield Giants on Friday night at John Smith's Stadium.

It was the visitors with the first points in the contest. A grubber through was swooped on by Peter Mata'utia to make it 6-0. The only other points in the first half came from the boot of Stefan Ratchford. He piloted home a penalty goal to extend the Wolves lead to eight. Wolves were off the mark again quickly in the second half through James Harrison. He latched onto an offload from Sam Kasiano to push the lead out to 14-0.

Huddersfield Giants gave their fans some hope when Joe Greenwood crossed the stripe. The Giants ran the ball on last tackle and the forward slammed the ball down. Their comeback was extinguished quickly by Matty Ashton. The winger finished off a long range break that bamboozled the defense then snatched an intercept to make it 26-6. The Giants scored a pair of consolation tries to get back within ten points. Kevin Naiqama and Will Pryce finished off moves to give the home fans some cheer.

Hull FC kept their unbeaten start to the season going with a 22-18 success over Leeds Rhinos on Friday night at Headingley Stadium.

The visitors were first to strike in the contest through Cameron Scott. It was a well timed pass from new recruit Jake Clifford to make it 4-0. Leeds hit back through their own Cameron, this time of the Smith variety. He spied some space behind the Hull FC defence and charged through to touch down for 6-4.

Next, former Rhino Liam Sutcliffe put the visitors back ahead. Chris Satae started the move which ended with the centre scoring from close range. Hull FC had a four-pointer chalked off to Kane Evans before a long range break ended with Adam Swift scoring after half-time to make it 16-4.

The Rhinos struck back with a pair of tries to retake the lead. Kruse Leeming raced away from a Justin Sangare offload then David Fusitu'a dived over in the corner for an 18-16 lead. It was Hull FC that took the chocolates in this enthralling encounter. Chris Taylor spun over from close range and Clifford converted for a 22-18 win for the visitors.

Grand Finalists Wigan Warriors got off the mark for 2023 in a 60-0 thrashing of Wakefield Trinity on Friday night at DW Stadium.

The Warriors bounced back from their defeat to Hull KR with an 11-try rout led by four tries from winger Liam Marshall. Bevan French picked up where he left off last season with a weaving run for 6-0 before his opposite winger Marshall strode onto a kick to double the advantage.

It was déjà vu again with both French and Marshall finding the stripe again to put the Warriors in a commanding position early in the contest. Jai Field and Liam Farrell pushed through some feeble Wakefield Trinity defence which helped the Warriors to a 34-0 lead at half-time.

Marshall added another two tries to open up the second half as Wigan continued to pile on the misery on the visitors in a one-sided performance. Sam Powell, Cade Cust and Harry Smith rounded out the dominant performance from the Warriors with four-pointers to make it a 60-0 score line.

Catalans Dragons won back-to-back games with a 14-6 win over the Leigh Leopards at Stade Gilbert Brutus on Saturday night.

Leigh were the first side to test the defense. Winger Josh Charnley had two attempts to touch down in the corner but was denied by the Dragons resistance. Neither defense were budging in a tight tussle in the only Saturday night fixture this weekend. The first points came from the boot of Catalans Arthur Mourgue for 2-0. The Dragons breached the Leopards defense late in the first half. It was a wonderful putdown from Tom Johnstone which made it 8-0 at the break.

Coming out of the break, Leigh felt just fine. Joe Wardle pounced on an error from a low kick and touched down to bring the visitors back to 8-6. Catalans restored their eight point advantage through Mickael Goudemand. The forward charged through the Leopards line and made it 14-6. The hosts were able to hold that advantage for the final quarter of the game and banked another two points to remain unbeaten for the season.

In front of a bumper crowd, Castleford Tigers had the first two chances of the contest through Niall Evalds twice but was repelled by the Saints defence. The Saints had their own close call through Tee Ritson. The young winger flew high into the right corner but hit the sideline before he touched down. The visitors weren't to be denied for long. Jack Welsby found himself infield and finished off a slick Saints move for a 6-0 lead. While Ritson wasn't able to get on the scoreboard in the first half, he made quick amends in the second half. He trailed a break made by Jonny Lomax to get his first Super League score.

Tigers finally broke through the Saints defense through Jack Broadbent. The back looked destined to score before a high tackle from Welsby felled him. The referee judged it a penalty try and the Tigers were within six. Lomax and Ritson almost combined again with a kick but it was fumbled. Welsby found the Saints third from the boot which saw Alex Warnsley touch down.

The big forward made it a double late in the contest. It was a rampaging effort from Warnsley who brushed aside the Tigers to make it 24-6. It was an afternoon of close shaves for the Tigers. Jordan Turner fumbled an effort on the left side before Bureta Faraimo was judged to have hit the sideline to deny him a four-pointer.
