EELS' DYNAMIC DUO SETS UP DOMINANT WIN OVER RUDDERLESS SHARKS

RHYS SULLIVAN

The returns of Mitchell Moses and Clint Gutherson have inspired the Eels to a 34-22 win over the Sharks. The Eels hopes of a late season charge to the finals have gotten off to the best start possible with tonight's victory.

Cronulla picked up a penalty, a set restart and forced an error early before Sione Katoa opened the scoring. The Eels struck back quickly however when Will Penisini scored a spectacular solo try, and then quickly jumped out to a 12 point lead with a Maika Sivo double.

But as their momentum began to look irresistible, the Sharks resisted and Ronaldo Mulitalo took off on a kick return, breaking Mitchell Moses' ankles and selling Clint Gutherson some candy before linking up with Will Kennedy for the try. Moses missed a field goal right on half time, and the score remained 16-10 at the break.

The Sharks dominated the ball early in the second half but failed to score, and when Parra got a chance they took advantage when Junior Paulo carried five Sharks defenders across the line. Moses quickly followed up with a penalty goal, before setting up a brilliant short side raid to send Bailey Simonsson over and extend the lead to 28-10.

But the Sharks refused to die wondering, and picked up two tries in seven minutes through Daniel Atkinson and Katoa respectively. But just as momentum was building, a mistake by the Sharks put the Eels back on the front foot, and Dylan Brown stepped through the defences to ice the game and a crucial two points for the Blue and Golds.

This felt like a must win for the Eels, and getting a 4th win halfway through their season is the bare minimum they needed if they want to make the finals this season. It's going to be a long road, but the returns of Moses and Clint Gutherson go a long way towards that goal.

For the Sharks it's time to press the panic button. Back to back losses and conceding 106 points in just three weeks. This team is being exposed at a ridiculous rate and Craig Fitzgibbon needs to rectify it if the Sharks want to remain a premiership contender.

CANTERBURY GIVE NEWCASTLE A BRUTAL FOOTY FUNDAMENTALS LESSON

AJ LUCANTONIO

Despite missing Matt Burton, Stephen Crichton and Viliame Kikau, the Bulldogs have given the Knights a brutal rugby league lesson on their home turf to the tune of 32-2.

It was a frantic start with both sides tempted to play the game at a high intensity going from end to end. However, a penalty against the Dogs after 5 minutes gave the Knights an early chance. A trick shot for David Armstrong just misfired, but there was a clear reason why. Connor Tracey overran the play and played the man, forcing Armstrong off course and the bunker dispatched the Canterbury custodian to the sin-bin. Jackson Hastings added a penalty goal for a 2-0 lead early on.

Despite being a man down, the Dogs wanted to get adventurous, but the link up with Drew Hutchison and Bronson Xerri fell short and Dane Gagai sprinted away before being stopped 10 metres out. Fortunately, the Dogs scrambled well on the ensuing play when Greg Marzheew was playing hero ball and was taken in a brilliant try-saving tackle by Jacob Preston and the score remained 2-0.

Right as the bin period was over, the Bulldogs struck with force and speed. A shift down the left edge saw Josh Addo-Carr get some early ball on the last tackle. The Fox chipped over the top of the defence, left Armstrong looking like Bambi on ice-skates and collected the ball to score the opener. Toby Sexton converted for a 6-2 lead.

After forcing a mistake from the rookie fullback Armstrong, Canterbury showed their skills and crossed for number two after some silky link up on the left edge. Toby Sexton straightened the attack, found Drew Hutchison who did a bounce pass to find Addo-Carr who crossed in the corner for his second. Sexton's conversion hit the post and it was 10-2. Newcastle weren't without chances to end the half, Dylan Lucas was denied in a tenacious goal-line defensive effort by the Dogs as they were determined to leave the Knights stranded on 2 points at the break.

The second half began much the same as the first ended, with the Knights making some poor attacking choices and silly mistakes coming out of their own end. A brilliant short ball from Tracey earned the full-back redemption from his first-half sin-bin and Jacob Preston delivered, crashing over for a pretty easy try. Sexton for the second time tonight dinked the posts and it was 14-2.

Canterbury soon found themselves again down to 12 men. After conceding 3 six agains in 20 seconds, Sexton was guilty of a professional foul after making an offside tackle in a potential try-scoring situation and he was dispatched for 10. The Dogs capitalised on some horrific Newcastle attack while down to 12 men. Mahoney's clever grubber was ricochet off Brailey and was kicked forward by Josh Curran. The big forward won the race to the ball with a spectacular dive for the ball.

McDonald Jones Stadium, New Lambton / Awabakal

Off yet another Newcastle mistake seven minutes later. Canterbury went right this time, and Mahoney again put boot to ball. Preston was able to get through and beat two Newcastle players to ground the football for his second try of the contest. Sexton got the radar on and nailed the kick for a 22 point lead as the Knights fans headed for the exit. Bronson Xerri crashed over with just over 5 to go for the Dogs to hit 30 for the fourth occasion in 2024. The night ended on a sour note with Jacob Saifiti binned for the dumbest play of 2024 with a headbutt on the serial pest Mahoney. Sexton added two points on full-time for a massacre in Newcastle.

SECOND HALF SIZZLE SEES SAINTS PUT AWAY PANTHERS

TIM COSTELLO

A remarkable second half from the St George Illawarra Dragons at a wet Bluebet Stadium has seen them down reigning premiers Penrith 22-10 in front of over 12,000 fans.

After a gruelling opening quarter, Penrith troubled the scoreboard first in the 26th minute with Paul Alamoti getting over the line on the left edge.

While unconverted, the 4-0 lead wouldn't sit idle for too long, Jesse McLean capping off an impressive opening half to score out wide himself just before halftime. The hosts retained a 10-0 lead into the sheds.

Whatever Shane Flanagan said in the sheds must have worked though, because the second forty was all Dragons.

Just three minutes after play resumed, Toby Couchman took defenders across the line for the visitors' first and it ended up being a bit of a looming spectre of what was to come.

Just before the 50 minute mark five-eighth Jesse Marschke put a neat grubber through the line for fullback Tyrell Sloan to collect and in the blink of an eye the Dragons went from trailing 10-0 to leading 12-10.

The visitors clung to that two-point lead despite plenty of challenges until a try out wide for Mat Feagai secured a bigger buffer, and the result was ultimately sealed in rainy conditions with about six minutes left, second-rower Raymond Faitala-Mariner going all the way and then some to secure an important win to keep pace with the top eight contending sides.

The loss for Penrith means they won't finish the round on top, but they should have plenty of their State of Origin representatives back next weekend when they host Manly on Sunday afternoon, all of whom were sorely missed tonight. The Dragons will potentially welcome back halfback Ben Hunt from Origin duty next Friday when they host the Wests Tigers in Wollongong.

RAPANA HEROICS HELP RAIDERS DUNK DOLPHINS IN GOLDEN POINT EPIC

TIM COSTELLO / DAN NICHOLS

An 87th-minute field goal has seen Jordan Rapana guide the Canberra Raiders to a 26-25 away win over the Dolphins at Redcliffe tonight.

In a see-sawing contest that has seen early crowds of 'game of the year', it was the home side Dolphins who got on the board early, hooker Jeremy Marshall-King going over beside the posts. The 6-0 lead following Jamayne Isaako's conversion would be cancelled out by Xavier Savage flying over for the visitors' first try five minutes later.

The Raiders went from six down to six up in a short space of time with Ata Mariota strolling over before the 20-minute mark and suddenly found themselves 12-6 leaders.

The back-and-forth nature of the contest became apparent at the 25th minute with Jack Bostock hitting the tryscorer list off a Herbie Farnworth offload, Isaako again converting to level the action at 12-all inside half an hour.

The scoreboard would click over for a fifth time just six minutes from the break when Canberra back rower Elliott Whitehead broke two tackles and crashed over, and the Raiders went to the break off that converted try to lead 18-12.

Tries were a little more spaced out in the second forty, with Jake Averillo striking first for the Dolphins just three minutes after the resumption, but that deadlock remained until Kao Weekes went himself, skirting Isaiya Katoa to score out wide.

The 24-18 lead evaporated ten minutes later when Phins utility Kurt Donoghoe crossed in the corner for what would be the last try of the contest, Isaako's perfect goalkicking record ensuring a grandstand final ten minutes.

Field goals from Isaako and Jordan Rapana provided the platform to take an entertaining contest to extra time, with the scoreline finishing 25-all after regulation time.

Extra time was packed with controversy, with four field goal attempts (two each) and a penalty against the Dolphins for a blocker when it looked like Isaako had iced the game. The agonising seven minutes extra finally produce a golden point victor, with Rapana's one-pointer avoiding scrutiny from the officials despite home side players claiming obstruction, the field goal standing and Canberra taking a 26-25 win home.

Both sides will get a weekend extra to recover from that gruelling contest, with the Dolphins heading away to Cronulla the week after, and Canberra hosting the Cowboys the same weekend.

COWBOYS EDGE THE ROOSTERS WITH SECOND HALF COMEBACK

JOSH ROBERTSON

The North Queensland Cowboys have overturned a 10 point half time deficit to take an 18-16 win over the Sydney Roosters in front of 13,000 fans at Allianz Stadium.

The Roosters preparations were thrown a curveball early Sunday morning when James Tedesco was called back into the NSW origin squad as Roosters fans thought they could get through the Origin series having their custodian.

Normally fast starters, The Roosters had to wait until the 20th minute for their first points which came off the boot of Sam Walker with a penalty goal. The tricolours were able to then add their first try a few minutes later when off the back of a penalty Terrell May was able to crash over and twist his way to get the ball down.

The Cowboys hit the scoreboard just after the half hour mark when Dom Young was caught infield and stuck in defensive limbo as Braidon Burns was unmarked on the outside of him to score in the corner.

A piece of luck for the home side helped them to a second try as a pass that looked to be a long way forward was actually touched by the Cowboys who stopped and Dom Young was able to get upfield before slipping over. The quick play the ball caused issues for the North Queenslanders and Sam Walker's quick thinking to play left but go straight back to the unmarked Dom Young on the right to score easily. The conversion from out wide was successful and the Roosters lead 14-4 at the break.

An early penalty goal was added by Sam Walker to start the second half as the Roosters extended their lead to 12. The Cowboys then went up against it as Heilum Luki was given 10 minutes in the sin bin for a dangerous lifting tackle.

If the extra man was meant to be a hindrance for the Cowboys, it turned into a rocket that they needed as they were able to cross through Scott Drinkwater who had too much speed for the sliding Roosters defence and got across to score a converted try. An extra two points was added a few minutes later when the Cowboys wound down the sin bin time to close the gap to 16-12.

The Cowboys momentum continued as Kulikefu Finefeuiaki was able to cross with ten minutes to play with the Roosters losing the plot and struggling to control the ball. The missed conversion didn't hurt the visitors too much as they were able to hit the lead a few minutes later when Scott Drinkwater added a penalty goal after the Roosters were caught offside.

The Roosters tried everything in the dying minutes but couldn't crack the Cowboys line and fell to an 18-16 defeat.

Next week, the Roosters have the benefit of having the bye whilst the Cowboys get a boost by returning to Townsville for a clash with the Warriors.

MEN'S ORIGIN I WRAP

MAROONS COMFORTABLE WIN OVER BRAVE BLUES

ANDREW FERGUSON

Queensland have strolled to a 28 point victory in the first State of Origin game for 2024 against a New South Wales side that played for 72 minutes with just 12 men, after Joseph-Aukuso Suaalii was sent off for a high tackle on Reece Walsh.

Queensland struck first in just the sixth minute when Daly Cherry-Evans at dummy half shimmied left, ran right, found space behind the marker, drew two defenders and flung a good ball inside to Ben Hunt, who took it and dived between two defenders to score. Valentine Holmes converted.

In the eighth minute Joseph-Aukuso Suaalii was sent off for a high shot to the head of Reece Walsh. Valentine Holmes kicked a penalty goal while Walsh was ruled out for the match with a concussion.

In the 15th minute, the Blues got on the board when Luai out wide on the left, changes direction and then kicks through the line, where Tedesco cleans up the ball and dives over to score. Nicho Hynes converted the try.

Queensland took just 5 minutes to respond, using their extra man advantage. Jaydn Su'A with a great run and pass led to Murray Taulagi getting into space before he turned the ball inside to Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow, who strolled in to score. Holmes converted.

In the 25th minute the Maroons scored again. This time Selwyn Cobbo bumped out of the tackle of Zac Lomax, then shrugged out of the cover tackle by Hynes, turned the ball inside to Taulagi who drew the fullback before sending Tabuai-Fidow in for another try. Holmes converted again. Queensland up 20-6.

The Blues very nearly hit back with a try in the 27th minute when a Nicho Hynes inside ball to Spencer Leniu almost saw the latter barge over for a try, but he was brilliantly held up ingoal.

At halftime, the Blue had managed to stem the flow of points being scored by Queensland, the Maroons led 20-6.

The Blues came out of the sheds firing and in the 44th minute, Hynes put up a perfect kick to the right corner and Zac Lomax caught it cleanly and scored a great try. Hynes failed to convert from the sideline.

In the 58th minute, Jeremiah Nanai very nearly scored but he dropped the ball as Reece Robson effected a tackle on him.

Queensland were denied a try again just 5 minutes later when Xavier Coates leapt to field a bomb and he batted the ball infield to Holmes, but the ball went forward, denying Holmes a try.

Accor Stadium, Sydney Olympic Park / Wanngal

Queensland finally scored again in the 66th minute after an energetic set coming off their own line. On the third tackle of the set, Ben Hunt slipped out of a tackle and raced 35 metres to score. Holmes again converted.

Queensland crossed again just 3 minutes later after Isaah Yeo threw a pass which Daly Cherry-Evans intercepted and raced 55 metres before kicking infield for Xavier Coates, who grounded the ball before it went dead. Holmes converted.

The 78th minute saw Tom Dearden dummy, run, slip through a tackle and then passed inside to Tabuai-Fidow who strolled in to score his third try. Holmes converted and Queensland record a dominant 38-10 victory.

MATCH PREVIEW

Women's State of Origin heats up in sold-out Newcastle!

The stage is set for a monumental clash in Women's State of Origin history! After a thrilling opening game that saw the NSW Sky Blues upset the Queensland Maroons 22-12 in Brisbane, the series heads to Newcastle for a history-making sell-out at McDonald Jones Stadium.

This promises to be the biggest crowd ever witnessed for a Women's Origin match, surpassing the record-breaking 25,492 fans who packed Suncorp Stadium in Game 1.

The Sky Blues established control early in the first game, scoring two quick tries within the first 10 minutes. They continued to dominate possession and added two penalty goals to lead comfortably 16-0 at halftime.

Queensland finally broke through the Sky Blues' defence in the second half with a try from Tamika Upton. NSW responded with another four-pointer to seal the win. While the Maroons managed a late consolation try, it wasn't enough to overcome the early deficit.

NSW has the chance to clinch the Origin Shield with a victory in Newcastle. Coach Kylie Hilder has stuck with the winning formula, retaining the same 17 players who stunned the Maroons on their home turf.

The Sky Blues will be looking to ride the wave of momentum created by player of the match Yasmin Clydsdale's dominant performance in Game 1.

Queensland coach Tahnee Norris has responded to the Game 1 defeat with a key change in the spine. Captain Ali Briginshaw returns to the crucial halfback position from lock, with Zahara Temara dropping out of the 17. Sienna Lofipo shifts to lock as Emmanita Paki joins the bench.

The Maroons will also be missing the injured Emily Bass on the wing, with Evania Pelite stepping in as a replacement.

WHO TO WATCH: While the passionate Newcastle crowd will be firmly behind the Sky Blues, there will be a fascinating subplot with two returning players.

Tamika Upton, the Maroons fullback who has never lost a game at McDonald Jones Stadium with the Knights, will likely face a hostile reception despite playing on her home ground.

Conversely, Millie Elliott (nee Boyle) will be looking to lead the Sky Blues forward pack with a strong performance in front of her former home crowd. Both players will be crucial to their team's success.

FAVOURITES: The Sky Blues enter the contest as slight favourites after their impressive Game 1 victory. However, the Maroons are a fiercely competitive team and will be desperate to avoid going down 0-2 in the series. Expect a high-octane clash, with both teams leaving it all on the field.

While the Sky Blues have the upper hand, the Maroons won't go down without a fight. This promises to be a close encounter, but the home crowd advantage and momentum could propel NSW to victory.

TIP: Get ready for a night of history in the making! This State of Origin clash is not to be missed! NSW by 12.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andrew JACKSON

All eyes will be on the Dragons' Origin trio as Shane Flanagan's side look to build on a character-building comeback win over Penrith on Friday night.

The Dragons host a Wests Tigers side that is well-rested after the bye, although Benji Marshall's team would have been eager to get out on the field sooner given they are now on an eight-game losing skid.

It has been a rough past few months for the Tigers, who showed promising signs earlier in the season but have dropped off defensively, most recently going down 42-28 to North Queensland.

The Dragons, meanwhile, looked to be in trouble after falling behind 10-0 against Penrith at halftime last week before wresting back momentum with an inspired display up front to score 22 unanswered points.

The big question mark heading into this Friday's game is whether Origin stars Ben Hunt, Jaydn Su'A and Zac Lomax will back up, with all three listed among the reserves.

The Tigers, meanwhile, welcome Justin Olam back in a reshuffle that sees Charlie Staines named in the centres while Alex Lobb and Solomon Alaimalo line up on the wing.

Elsewhere, Alex Twal joins the starting side with David Klemmer suspended while Isaiah Papali'I is sidelined with an ankle injury, seeing Alex Seyfarth and Justin Matamua into the run-on team.

Brent Naden returns from suspension on the bench while versatile Cook Islands representative Reuben Porter, who is capable of playing both on the edge and middle, is named to make his NRL debut.

WHO TO WATCH: Luciano Leilua was granted a release from the Tigers in 2022 and has become a bit of a journeyman in recent years, eventually returning to the club who gave him his NRL debut after a short stint at North Queensland.

While Leilua's workrate and consistent application across the 80 minutes has at times come into question, there is little denying his game-breaking ability on the edge. Leilua had a few particularly nice runs against the Panthers last week and could pull apart the Tigers' inexperienced edges with his late offloads and evasive running style.

For the Tigers, this will be hooker Apisai Koroisau's first chance to make a statement since being left out of the NSW Blues side for Game 1. While Koroisau will always put club football first, there is no denying that he needs to be performing for the Tigers to even be in the position to be picked for the rest of the series. In other words, playing well in club land will only benefit Koroisau on both fronts.

The Dragons bullied the Panthers up front last week, although a craft hooker like Koroisau may thrive going up against such a big pack, especially as the game wears on. Look for Koroisau to duck and weave out of dummy-half, picking up extra metres while looking for the late pass or offload to open up space for his outside men.

FAVOURITE: The Dragons are well backed to get the job one at home.

MY TIP: The Tigers could be a sneaky chance of pulling off the upset if the Dragons' Origin trio don't back up, given there is always the risk they turn up flat after last week's big win. But back at home and up against a Tigers side that is still finding its way, we'll take the consistency of the Dragons here. Dragons by 8.

MATCH PREVIEW

Strugglers strive to make mid-season moves

A trio of matches across the state of Queensland awaits on Saturday with the Gold Coast Titans kicking off proceedings against the South Sydney Rabbitohs in a daytime contest between two sides striving to climb off the bottom of the premiership ladder.

Sitting four points adrift of the top eight following three wins and two byes at the midpoint of the season, the Gold Coast Titans will be hoping the momentum gained from their last performance paves the way for a stronger second half to the year.

Returning home with the aspiration of recording back-to-back wins for the first time in close to 12 months, coach Des Hasler has named Kieran Foran, Phillip Sami and Jojo Fifita to return from injury, while Jayden Campbell could be a late addition after being included on the extended bench.

Managing a paltry three wins leading into the representative season, the Titans will be hoping Hasler can have a similar effect to his first season as a coach; the Sea Eagles doubled their tally over the back half of the 2004 campaign, totalling nine wins, to pave the way for greater success in years to come.

The Titans hold a dismal record against the Rabbitohs with their last win in 2016 being followed by eight consecutive losses.

At the bottom of the ladder with two wins and two byes sits the South Sydney Rabbitohs – a side with a chance, albeit mathematical, of still featuring in September.

Coming into the round with renewed attacking confidence off the back of a win in their last appearance, interim coach Ben Hornby will welcome back Cody Walker at halfback, while Michael Chee Kam shifts to the forwards to accommodate Richie Kennar in the centres.

Boasting an imposing record of nine wins from ten appearances at CBUS Super Stadium against their weekend opponents, the Rabbitohs have enjoyed immense success opposing the Titans with 16 wins from 22 matches at all venues.

Former Gold Coast player Jai Arrow will celebrate a personal milestone for South Sydney on Saturday afternoon as he brings up his 150th appearance in first grade.

WHO TO WATCH: While the rugby league world focuses on the efforts of a Queensland-based forward representing New South Wales on Wednesday night, a 22-year-old sibling in similar circumstances has been quietly building a reputation of his own for the Titans. Developing into a solid contributor with close to 30 games to his name in the top grade, Klese Haas has stepped up when called upon to do a job as both an edge and middle forward. Out of contract at season's end, Haas can expect to generate plenty of interest on the open market if his current form is indicative of greater things to come.

The Rabbitohs have faced the Titans on the Gold Coast immediately following the opening Origin fixture in each of the past two seasons. In both of those games, Alex Johnston has crossed for a hat-trick. Enjoying modest returns to start 2024 with three tries in six games, the 29-year-old has shown glimpses of his ability with back-to-back four-pointers since returning from injury. Sitting on 190 career tries, one four-pointer on Saturday will see Johnston surpass Billy Slater to stand as the second greatest try-scorer in premiership history.

FAVOURITE: Having shown plenty of resilience to knock off last year's grand finalists in a point-scoring shootout a fortnight ago, the Titans are favoured to post their second win at home this season.

MY TIP: The Rabbitohs have averaged 33 points per game during their run of eight straight wins against the Titans. If neither side has the fortitude to stand up in defence (and that is a likely proposition given recent performances), the return of Cody Walker should ensure the visitors keep the points flowing at a rapid pace. Rabbitohs by 10.

MATCH PREVIEW

Beth NICHOLLS

Both teams set to get a plethora of big-name stars back, as they start to string together consecutive wins with the second half of the season now approaching.

The Cowboys snatched a late win against the Roosters last week, in the absolute round of upsets. Both sides were missing many key players due to Origin camp, but North QLD got the job done in the end, winning 18-16. This marks the Cowboys seventh overall win and their third in a row, after succumbing to five consecutive losses.

All six of North QLDs Origin reps (Val Holmes, Murray Taulagi, Tom Dearden, Reece Robson, Jeremiah Nanai and Reuben Cotter) have been named in the extended 24-man squad, with final decisions to be made post Origin match.

This leaves Jaxon Purdue, Braidon Burns, Jake Clifford, Sam McIntyre, Kulikefu Finefeuiaki and Thomas Mikaele in the starting side (respectively), similar to the side who played against the Roosters last match. Tom Chester also moves back to the bench after being sidelined with a hamstring injury.

After back-to-back close wins to both the Panthers and the Dolphins, the Warriors are now fresh off their first bye of the season, which was a much-needed reprieve for their extended casualty ward. With five wins, six losses and one draw, the Warriors need continue to get the tides changing if they wish to have any hope of making the eight this year.

Six Warriors return to the starting side including: Rocco Berry, Kurt Capewell and Tohu Harris who all suffered various injuries, Wayde Egan who was stood down due to HIA protocol, Charnze Nicoll-Klokstad who was unwell and Addin Fonua-Blake who was stood down. These returns cause Moala Graham-Taufa, Ed Kosi, Paul Roache, Jacob Laban, Bunty Afoa and Freddy Lussick to drop out of the squad. Shaun Johnson is unfortunately still on the sidelines with his pec injury, who is eyeing a Round 15 return at home against the Storm.

Since 1998 these two teams have faced off 43 times, and they have basically equal winning records with the Warriors winning 22 and the Cowboys winning 21. However, the Warriors have been the better team in recent times, winning both their clashes in 2023.

WHO TO WATCH: Battle of the fullbacks.

Leading the competition in linebreak assists with 15, 40/20s with three and 12 short dropouts, Scott Drinkwater is an important part of the Cowboys backline. Starring in all 13 games so far this season, he has also made 15 try assists and six of his own tries. Regardless of whether the Origin boys backup for North QLD, Drinkwater is likely to have a day out against the Warriors.

Starting opposite Drinkwater for the Warriors, Charnze Nicoll-Klokstad has starred in seven out twelve games this season (six as 5/8, one as fullback). Nicoll-Klokstad has scored two tries and assisted with three, whilst making 36 tackle breaks and five linebreaks.

FAVOURITE: The Cowboys are favoured to stay in the winning circle and get their fourth in a row.

MY TIP: North QLD are uncertain of whether their Origin boys will back up with the combination of the Warriors getting many key players in their squad, it feels like the obvious choice is that the Warriors will get the win, but I fear that won't be the case.

The Cowboys were able to get the job done last week, and even if they only get a few of their six representatives back they still have a strong side. I do think it will be a close game between the two, with back-and-forth scoring, with it only coming down to a few points. Cowboys by 2.

MATCH PREVIEW

Olivia T

Can the second placed Sharks bite back against the Broncos or will they go three losses in a row?

With the bye last week, Round 12 was the last time the Broncos played, an experience they probably want to forget as they went down 34-36 to an undermanned Titans' side at Suncorp Stadium. This week their stars are expected to back up after Origin, but this is subjected to change and may do more harm than good. In some more certain news, Ezra Mam will be playing his 50th NRL and Broncos game this weekend.

Last week Cronulla lost to 15th placed Parramatta 34-22, making it the previous ladder leaders 3rd loss of the season and 2nd in a row. The only change in their starting side from the team that won against the Roosters and lost against the Panthers was the omission of Hynes and McInnes, but this can't be the sole reason for Cronulla's two losses. Will we witness a shiver of Sharks or a few swimming alone?

This week for the Broncos, Payne Haas, Pat Carrigan, Reece Walsh and Selwyn Cobbo have all been named to play after Origin I, but have to be cleared before they play. With these four players in representative duties, Brisbane can have two extra men named in the reserves. These include the likes of Tristan Sailor (who is returning from injury), Fletcher Baker and Jaiyden Hunt if need be. Kotoni Staggs returns from a rib injury and is set to start, which moves Josiah Karapani to the reserves.

Meanwhile for the Sharks, Nicho Hynes will be rested this weekend, while other Origin representative Cameron McInnes has been named to back up, so Jack Williams goes to the bench. Teig Wilton is out of the starting side with a shoulder problem and is replaced by Siosifa Talakai. Braden Hamlin-Uele is out of the squad and his spot is taken by Tuku Hau Tapuha.

WHO TO WATCH: Having less than 20 games under his belt, Deine Mariner is slowly cementing his name as Brisbane's go-to-winger. In the game against the Titans' Deine scored a try and had seven runs for 134 metres. When given the ball from his halves, Mariner can be dangerous, especially in the corner. This week he will have to bring his A-game once again when facing Katoa and Mulitalo, keeping them away from the try line will be key to winning the battle on the edges.

Jock Madden is doing well to cover Reynolds in his absence. Having his own unique playing style, his kicking abilities are well known after his match winning field goal against Manly. Slowing down attack and thinking critically is also needed following a disorderly performance against the Titans. With a 95% tackle efficiency last match, his defence and kicks on last plays will be crucial on Saturday.

Ronaldo Mulitalo is someone you can always rely on to get the job done. Even when playing on the losing side, he had 232 run metres, the most from the Sharks. Coming away with one line break and one try assist, Mulitalo is a weapon so will want to continue this form to turn Atkinson and Trindall's plays into points.

Having the second most run metres was Will Kennedy, who had an interesting game on Saturday. It was rocks and diamonds, scoring a try but making two errors with some poor defence at times. He combined with Mulitalo for a long range play, making two tackle breaks, passing it on and then receiving it back to place it down for a four-pointer. Kennedy will need consistency this week if he wants to outshine Walsh in the fullback battle.

FAVOURITE: Brisbane are predicted to win this clash.

MY TIP: Broncos all the way, not just because I have another LeagueUnlimited writer's Broncos scarf, but because of the prowess instilled in their players. Brisbane by 16.

MATCH PREVIEW

Aidan EDGECOMB

"How did the Knights lose? The Panthers didn't have anyone!"

Ever since Melbourne Storm prop and then captain, Christian Welch uttered those fateful words, Newcastle have beaten them twice in two matches, it what is an embarrassing streak the Storm will be determined to break at home on Sunday.

Coming off the bye and a disappointing showing against Manly in Indigenous Round, Melbourne have Cronulla hot on their heels in the battle for top of the table. With the Sharks facing a daunting task of playing Brisbane away from home, without Nicho Hynes, this is a golden opportunity for the Storm to extend their lead at the front.

The clash will be particularly appealing for the hosts, given the Knights defied positive expectations to get thoroughly outclassed by the Bulldogs in a 32-2 walloping. Despite a somewhat positive start to the season, Newcastle sit in a lowly 11th and with a tough matchup against Penrith coming up, it's do or die if Adam O'Brien's men want to make a finals push. Interestingly, he's named the same 17 as last week, backing his players but no doubt wanting to see much more from them.

For the hosts, both Origin stars in Harry Grant have been named to back up, although this is, as always, subject to change. With Will Warbrick missing out from a groin injury, Grant Anderson comes from the bench to start, and Bronson Garlick takes his place on the interchange to provide utility cover.

Although Ryan Papenhuyzen seems to be recovering well from his ankle injury, Melbourne have taken the safe route, naming Sua Fa'alogo at fullback for another week.

WHO TO WATCH: After copping flack for his performance in recent weeks, Knights halfback, Jackson Hastings will be looking to show off his technical, not technological ability. As he shapes up for a game defining duel with his opposite number, Hastings will look to display his toughness in what shapes to be a gritty clash. Although Tyson Gamble is unlikely to return until round 22, asserting himself as Newcastle's dominant half will be critical for Jackson's job security.

Despite Melbourne having the stronger 17 on paper by quite a long way, the battle of the forward pack is far more intriguing. If Newcastle can dominate the middle, they may be in for a shot, and it starts up front with Adam Elliot. He's had an excellent season to date, showing off his strength and try scoring capability along the way. As passionate as anyone, Adam will be fired up and ready to go come Sunday.

Perhaps the solution to the strong starting pack of the Knights will come from Melbourne's interchange, where fan favourite Nelson Asofa-Solomona looms. Only playing 36 minutes in his last outing, a quiet performance against Manly where he ran for 76 meters, Nelson will be wanting to bounce back strongly. The Storm enforcer has done his best work off the bench this year, and we've rarely seen him have two bad games in a row. Be on the lookout for the big man on field, and perhaps on the charge sheet after the game...

With Will Warbrick's injury, next man up Grant Anderson has yet another shot on the wing to prove his talent. With no issues in attack, a dynamic running game is almost a given for Grant, but his defence can be a concern at times. Newcastle haven't attacked well as of late, but they've also shown ability to turn their game up a notch at unexpected times. Grant will almost certainly be put under the microscope, and how he handles it will be crucial.

FAVOURITE: The Melbourne Storm are clear favorites to break the Christian Welch curse and win at home.

MY TIP: I'm going to copy the line about having another League Unlimited writer's Storm scarf, and back Melbourne in what I expect to be quite an extensive victory. Storm by 28.

MATCH PREVIEW

Rhys SULLIVAN

The Panthers will look to show they are still a step above the rest of the NRL when they take on a Sea Eagles side that's been hot and cold to start 2024.

The 22-10 loss to St George Illawarra last week showed a side of Penrith we haven't seen in a while - a little bit of vulnerability when they're reduced to their depth stocks. As good as their forwards were, the loss of Dylan Edwards, Brian To'o, Jarome Luai and Isaah Yeo had a noticeable impact on their backline who were unable to have the impact typically seen.

The good news is they could all be back - Yeo, To'o, Luai and Liam Martin named in the starting 17 while Edwards is in the reserves as the team monitors his recovery from a quad injury. Curiously Jack Cole has retained his spot as Luai's halves partner despite the return of Brad Schneider, while Trent Toelau remains the preferred option at number 14. Additionally Luke Garner returns from a leg injury on the bench and prop Moses Leota has been named despite suffering a hamstring injury in Round 13.

Manly meanwhile are coming off the bye, still beaming after their 26-20 win over Melbourne in Round 12. Tommy Talau, Ben Trbojevic and Daly Cherry-Evans were the stars of the show, and the Sea Eagles faithful will be looking for an encore against another premiership contender.

Manly's three origin stars - Cherry-Evans, Jake Trbojevic and Haumole Olakau'atu - have all been named to back up. Lehi Hopoate has been retained at fullback after a stellar debut against the Storm despite the return of Tolutau Koula. New signing Jake Simpkin could make his club debut less than a week after joining from the Tigers, but for now he's been given a place on the extended bench.

Manly's win over Penrith in Round 5 was thought to have been a watershed moment in both clubs season, but it's been business as usual since that point - the Panthers have gone 5-2 since that game while Manly are a much more modest 3-3-1. Still, it was the Sea Eagles first win over the Panthers since 2018 and should serve as a catalyst as they search for another.

Penrith's defence will be the key in this one. As has been the case recently, they lead the league having conceded just 15 points per game. But Manly's attack certainly isn't anything to sneeze at, having scored 25 per game this season. If Penrith want to win, they will likely need to restrict the Sea Eagles to under 20.

WHO TO WATCH: Jarome Luai has been phenomenal at halfback for the Panthers so far, and the team will be hoping he has another great performance in this one. In his 9 games at five-eighth he had just one try and 3 try assists, but in just two games in the number 7 jersey he has 2 and 2. His kicking game against the Sharks was nothing short of perfect, and his ability to engage the line has continued to prove dynamic. He is in career best form at the moment, and if he can deliver another 10/10 performance against Manly it will go a long way to a win for Penrith.

Manly will be hoping Lehi Hopoate can have an encore performance of his magic debut against Melbourne. The 19 year old had 132 metres, 4 tackle breaks and a try assist as he helped the team to an unlikely victory. While Manly have bigger stars on the field than Hopoate, getting consistent performance from the fullback position is what they need to ensure they remain in the finals race.

FAVOURITE: Assuming everyone pulls up after Origin, Penrith are the favourites in this one.

MY TIP: Words Maybe it's what I saw last weekend. Maybe it's some anti-Panthers copium. Maybe I've gotten back on the Seibs Juice. But I smell an upset here. Manly by 4.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andy P

Eels find new spark for clash with rabid Bulldogs

The Kings Holiday Monday night game will see the Canterbury Bulldogs and Parramatta Eels clash, with both teams promising fans that their seasons are on track.

The Eels pulled off a great upset last round, ending their five-game losing streak to topple ladder leaders Cronulla 34-22. Meanwhile, a Bulldogs outfit minus its Origin stars stuck it to the Newcastle Knights with a 32-2 thumping at McDonald Jones Stadium.

Both these teams have had their problems this season, with Parramatta's poor form ending the tenure of long-time coach Brad Arthur. Canterbury have had some close losses but have managed to put together some impressive wins and have made their home ground a fortress, being the only team in the competition not to lose at home yet in season 2024.

The return of injured Eels' stars Mitch Moses and Clint Gutherson couldn't have come at a better time. Only winning one game since Moses was injured in round three, the underperforming Eels roster was in need of some electricity, and they found it last round with the mercurial half's return to the lineup. Arguably one of the best halfbacks in the league, Moses gives confidence to the Eels both on and off the field, making the blue and gold look like a completely different team. Maika Sivo didn't go missing. Regan Campbell-Gillard partnered with Junior Paulo for possibly their best performance this season, with Paulo earning himself a try. Dylan Brown was back to his running best, while Captain Clint Gutherson racked up 245 meters. Moses' performance must surely keep him in the conversation for Origin as that series progresses.

The Eels will be without gun centre Bailey Simonsson due to a torn ACL, which will see him hang his boots up for the season. Blaize Talagi will move into the centres.

While we are on the subject of Origin, the Doggies' spirit is growing despite having missed Crichton and Burton last week. Down to 12 men in their win over Newcastle twice, the Bulldogs showed maturity and resolve to put on a defensive masterclass. It was also their first away win for the year, which is a testament to the team and shows that they are growing towards something. The courageous win did come at the cost of Josh Addo-Carr pulling a hamstring, the winger felled after a great first-half performance which showed he is a leader at the club. The 'Foxy' is looking at a possible 8-10 weeks on the sideline. Blake Wilson will have the honours on the wing at this stage.

The Bulldogs will be welcoming back their Origin stars pending injuries from game one, with Stephen Crichton and Matt Burton being named in the team.

WHO TO WATCH: The hounds have shown they don't need other stars to get the wins, but when Crichton and Burton return from Origin, expect them to be bristling with energy that will flow onto the team. Jacob Kiraz has been in fine form, and the hard running outside back will no doubt be that guy in support, that guy running the ball hard, and that guy pulling off that tackle on the line. This time next year, Kiraz's name should be bandied around for Origin. Jacob Preston has come in hot since his jaw injury, the gun back-rower on the end of four tries in three games. He continues to be hungry for the ball, and his desperate tackle to stop Greg Marzhev from scoring in the opening 10 minutes last Friday epitomised the dogged attitude towards defence that coach Cameron Ciraldo is instilling in his team. The 'Dogs pack and bench rotations will relish the challenge that a gritty Parramatta forward line will have to offer; it will be solid in the middle.

Mitchell Moses will only be out to build on what he achieved last round: his kicking game, directing his capable pack and opening up opportunities for Gutherson and Brown. With the Eels needing to win nine of their remaining twelve games, look to Moses to be the spark to lead them there. 'Gutho' will lead from the back; his attitude and running will be inspiring, and he will be ever-present for a loose ball. The forwards combo of Campbell-Gillard and Paulo battered, crumbed and deep-fried the Sharks last week. Be it the Origins selection snub, the loss of a coach and the return of their little general, I feel they will be ready to back it up this game.

FAVOURITE: A rejuvenated Eels with solid hands on the helm seem to be the favourite at the moment. And given how just a couple of key players seemed to turn the team around, it's not a bad bet.

MY TIP: The Bulldogs have built a fortress at Accor this year, and this is a chance for them to get their first three wins in a row since 2019. They are going to be champing at the bit. When asked what was different in their game plan last year, coach Cameron Ciraldo said, "No change in the structure or system...The change has been around the culture. We've got good people here who want to work hard, and they love each other." The Kings Holiday match will be a crowing delight to end the round, and the Bulldogs will take the points by a try. Canterbury by 4.

SUPER LEAGUE ROUND 13 WRAP with ROB McHUGH

Huddersfield Giants 24 Hull FC 18

Round 13 in Super League got underway with two Friday night games, including a battle between two of the league's struggling sides. Hull FC succumbed to an eleventh consecutive defeat, going down 24-18 to a Huddersfield Giants side who are desperately clinging on to their slender play-off hopes.

Huddersfield coach, Ian Watson, came under severe criticism after last week's defeat against Leigh and was forced to defend his record with the Giants. However, this result and, more importantly, performance, will have done little to assuage the doubters. For Hull FC, it represents an improvement on the ritual humiliations they experienced earlier in the season, but it was another game where they only really started to play once their opponent had one eye on the post-match showers.

Huddersfield only needed 9 minutes to take a lead as Jake Bibby went over to open the scoring. A good pass from Adam Clune was tipped on by Kevin Naiqama and into the hands of Bibby. Bibby headed for the corner before stepping inside at the last moment to evade the covering defence to score. Ollly Russell was on target with the conversion as the Giants took a 6-0 lead. Hauling prop, Seb Ikahihifo, was the next to cross the line for the Giants as they stretched their lead. Tui Lolohea set off towards the posts 10 metres out, before passing on to Leroy Cudjoe, whose crash ball found Ikahihifo to go over from close range. Russell was again on target to stretch the Giants' lead by six points. However, the next score came for the Black and Whites, as Herman Ese'ese, fresh from being cleared of an allegation of verbal abuse, pegged the Giants back in the 34th minute.

Ese'ese received the ball under the sticks from Ben Reynolds and barged through three Huddersfield defenders to score. The extras were added by Reynolds, however, a penalty on the stroke of half-time from Russell meant the Giants went into the sheds with a 14-6 lead. The Giants again struck first in the second half, and it was again Bibby who scored a simple try in the corner, after good hands from Lolohea. Lolohea was again involved in the next try. This time, working the ball to Esan Marsters on the left side, who passed to Sam Halsall to score in the other corner. Russell missed both kicks, however, to give FC a glimmer of hope, with the scoreline at 22-6. Russell added another penalty after 70 minutes, to extend the Giants' lead, but then Hull found some fight. First, a brilliant offload from Ligi Sao found young full-back, Logan Moy, to score from close range. Then Cameron Scott broke away after Huddersfield failed to deal with a Ben Reynolds kick-through on halfway to give the Giants some late jitters. Reynolds kicked both conversions to reduce the deficit to just six points, however, as the final score came in the 78th minute, FC ran out of time to really worry the Giants. The win keeps Huddersfield in touch with the top six, four points behind Salford Red Devils with six wins from their opening 13. Hull FC will struggle to challenge Castleford, who are currently five points ahead in 10th place. FC face a huge task to avoid the wooden spoon.

St Helens 24 Catalans Dragons 12

Two of Super League's leading pack met at the Totally Wicked Stadium on Friday, hoping to strike a decisive blow in the race for the top spot. St Helens came out on top in a pulsating contest, which proved to be the archetypal game of two halves.

Catalans dominated the opening proceedings, but were unable to capitalise on their field position, leaving the door open for Saints to pinch the game.

After spending the first 10 minutes effectively camped in the Saints half, Catalans opened the scoring in the 11th minute, through Wakefield-bound, Tom Johnstone. Johnstone has not quite rediscovered his best form this season in a misfiring Catalans attack. However, he was on hand to finish a flowing move from right to left, gratefully collecting a Jordan Abdull kick-through to touch down in the left-hand corner. Mourgue kicked the extras, with both him and Percival converting every try, to give Les Dracs a 6-0 lead. However, powerhouse centre, Konrad Hurrell pegged them back on the half-hour mark, to bring Saints back to parity. After good hands from the Saints moved the ball from left to right, Walsby offloaded inches from the ground to Hurrell, who ran in unopposed to score. Franck Maria was sin-binned for a high shot in the 35th minute, however, neither side added to the score as they went in level at half-time.

But, with Maria still off the field, Saints took full advantage after the break, as Sione Mata'utia went over after two minutes in the second half. Dodd kicked to the corner and somehow managed to get to his own kick before Catalans full back, Cesar Rogue. Dodd batted the ball back to Mata'utia who scored an easy try. At this point, Saints had the bit between their teeth and it wasn't long before they had extended their lead further. Moses Mbye found the man of the match, Jack Welsby, who broke the Catalans' line. Faced with just Rogue, he passed the ball out to Tommy Makinson, who may well be a Catalans player next year, to score in the corner in the 48th minute. Saints effectively put the game to bed in the 65th minute thanks to a try from prop, Matty Lees. Daryl Clark played the ball two yards out, under the posts, and dabbled in goal. Lees was quickest to react and scored the Saints' fourth of the night, and his first of the season. Catalans' Julian Bousquet barged over in the 74th minute to cause some nerves for the Saints, however, it was too late for them to set up a grandstand finish. The win keeps Saints on top of the table on 20 points, with only points difference separating them from the Wigan Warriors. Back-to-back defeats mean Catalans drop four points behind Saints and Wigan, into fifth place on 16 points. They are now closer to seventh than the top.

Warrington Wolves 18 Wigan Warriors 19

The marquee fixture of the round, and a dry run of next weekend's Challenge Cup final, did not disappoint, as the two sides produced a thrilling encounter to whet the appetite for next weekend.

A much-changed Warrington squad, featuring nine changes from the previous weekend, and four debutants, nearly produced a huge shock against a relatively strong Wigan side. Wigan coach, Matt Peet, may live to regret not rotating his side, as Adam Keighran was sent off, meaning he now risks a ban for the final.

The young Warrington side raced into an early lead in the game. After Stefan Ratchford, one of the few experienced Warrington players on show, kicked an early penalty, debutant Arron Lindop went over for the game's opening try. Centre, Lindon, latched onto a clever kick from Josh Drinkwater to touch down near the left touchline. Ratchford missed the kick, which meant that Warrington led 6-0. They soon extended their lead, with Drinkwater turning from creator to scorer. Wigan will question their defence for the try, as Drinkwater's kicked through and hit the padding on the post. Nobody seemed to react to the bounce of the ball, and Drinkwater was able to jog through to score from his own kick. Ratchford made no mistake this time, as Warrington took an unexpected 12-0 lead. But Wigan soon roared back, and Drinkwater was involved again. This time, though, he was being brushed aside by Wigan's rising star, Junior Nsemba. Nsemba ran through Drinkwater like he wasn't there to get Wigan's first score. On current form, it won't be long before he is attracting the attention of the England selectors, and possibly suitors in the NRL. Nine minutes later, Wigan were level. Harry Smith sent a brilliant looping pass over the top of the Warrington defence into the arms of prolific winger, Liam Marshall. There is no stopping Marshall from that range, and he produced an acrobatic finish in the corner, which Keighran brilliantly converted from the touchline. Wigan were soon in the lead, thanks to the dynamic combination of Bevan French and Kruiise Leeming. Smith found French, who burst through a gap in the retreating Warrington line on halfway. French then passed back inside, unselfishly, with the full-back committed for Leeming to race over from 20 metres out after 34 minutes. Crucially, the scoring was not quite complete for the half, as Smith added a one-pointer on the stroke of half-time, which would prove to be the winning point.

The second half was a tense exchange, with neither side able to break through the other's defence. That is until Keighran received his red card in the 69th minute. Lindop took the ball into contact, and as he was being tackled by Nsemba, Keighran's shoulder made contact with his head. The referee deemed that there was insufficient mitigation, as Keighran had not attempted to wrap his arm and issued a straight red. Keighran now faces a nery wait to see whether the Match Review Panel issues him with a suspension which would rule him out of Wigan's date at Wembley. Stefan Ratchford's late try narrowed the scoreline to a one-point margin, however, Wigan were able to hold on for the narrowest of wins. Despite the defeat, Warrington have arguably drawn first blood in the psychological contest, with their young side pushing Wigan to the wire. Whatever happens, it sets the Challenge Cup final up beautifully.

LEEDS RHINOS 32 CASTLEFORD TIGERS 4

Leeds Rhinos got their season back on track with a comfortable win over Castleford Tigers. In truth, the 28-point margin of victory flattered the Tigers somewhat, with the Rhinos wasting a number of good opportunities to extend their lead further.

It only took Leeds 10 minutes to open the scoring, and they had already had a try disallowed before that. Ash Handley touched down in the left-hand corner, after a slick set play from the base of a scrum 10 metres out. Leeds' spine of Matt Frawley, Brodie Croft and Lachie Miller finally clicked, with all three playing a part in the move. Rhyse Martin, who was flawless with the boot-kicking five from five, added the extras.

Brodie Croft was next to score for the Rhinos, crossing the line after 23 minutes. Croft showed right, then stepped left, before throwing a dummy to score a brilliant solo try under the posts and put the Rhinos further ahead. Rhyse Martin added a penalty for Leeds before half time to give them a deserved 14-0 lead, that could have been bigger.

Frawley, who has received some criticism for his performances this season, crossed for the first Leeds try of the second half. Receiving the ball on the left-hand side, he dummied and powered over the line to score in the 42nd minute. Rhyse Martin then grabbed the first of his two tries, crashing onto a short ball from Frawley to score from close range. Elie El-Zakhem crossed for the Tigers to temporarily reduce the deficit and spoil Leeds' clean sheet, but there was never any sustained hope of a Castleford fightback.

Martin completed the scoring for Leeds, running a brilliant line to a pass from Croft, bursting through the Tigers' defence on halfway and scoring a fantastic try. Leeds now have a forgiving run of fixtures which can help them push back towards the top six, assuming they are able to take advantage. Castleford are stuck in no man's land, better than the bottom two, but way off the top six.

HULL KR 12 LEIGH LEOPARDS 0

Leigh Leopards were left ruing their own profligacy as they suffered a first defeat in five and a major setback in their attempt to claw their way back into the fight for the top six.

After a slow start, to the season, the Leopards were just beginning to build some momentum. However, defeat leaves them seven points off sixth place and with a mountain to climb in the second half of the season. Hull KR, on the other hand, continue their march up the Super League table. Their ninth win of the season moves them into third place, just two points off Wigan and Saints ahead of them. A tense encounter was settled by two tries from KR, with one in each half. However, the scoreline does not tell the full tale of the game. A combination of excellent KR defence and the Leopards wasting as many as six opportunities to score meant the Leopards were left wondering what might have been. Tom Opacic, fresh from the birth of his child, capped a memorable week by opening the scoring. Tyrone May found Mikey Lewis on the left hand side, who passed to Opacic close to the line. The Leigh defence appeared to have the situation under control, however, Opacic rolled his way through the attempted tackle and somehow managed to get the ball down. Lewis kicked the conversion to give KR a 6-0 lead at half-time.

Niall Evalds, arguably Super League's signing of the season, scored the game's second and final try in the 70th minute. With the Robins deep in Leigh territory, they produced three successive offloads in the tackle, with Evalds eventually going over to score. Lewis made no mistake with the conversion and Hull KR won a tense but entertaining contest.

SALFORD RED DEVILS 34 LONDON BRONCOS 4

Salford climbed back into the top six with a 34-4 win over the London Broncos, but the final score didn't reflect the true nature of London's battling performance, as they stuck with Salford for large parts of the game.

Salford thought they had their first try in the 15th minute when MacDonald caught a high kick and scored, but Oli Partington was offside. Just three minutes later, the Broncos were disappointed as Oli Leyland's kick found Lee Kershaw, but James Meadows was offside. Video referee James Vella had a busy day, checking another potential Broncos try in the 27th minute, but referee Liam Rush ruled it out due to a double movement. London made life difficult for Paul Rowley's team throughout the first half. The Broncos had two of three disallowed tries, with only Sam Stone's try separating the sides at halftime. Stone crashed onto a short ball from Sneyd to score from close range, with Sneyd adding the extras to give Salford a 6-0 lead.

Salford's second try came in the 49th minute when Marc Sneyd spotted Cross in space and picked him out with a precise kick for an easy score. The floodgates opened, and three minutes later Lafai burst through the middle and offloaded to MacDonald to finish the job. London had their chances but dropped the ball twice near the line. Instead, another Sneyd kick allowed Lafai to score, and Sneyd showed more quick thinking when he stumbled in front of goal but rolled over to offload to Wright for another try. With five minutes left, Sneyd and Lafai combined again for Salford's final try, but the Broncos had the last word as Miloudi scored at the end. London remain locked on with Hull FC on two points at the bottom of the table, although the Broncos' points difference is much worse than FC's. Salford return to the top six, after temporarily dropping out over the course of the weekend. They face a difficult trip to Warrington the week after the cup final, although that may be the perfect time to face Sam Burgess' men.

VALE ROB BURROW CBE

On Sunday, the Rugby League world was shocked by the news that Rob Burrow had passed away. This is but a small drop in a flood of tributes to a great player and an even better person.

It's hard to do Rob justice in a short few paragraphs. Thankfully his actions, both on and off the field, did that for him. Few sportspeople achieve perfection in the way Rob did with his try in the 2011 Grand Final, but he was a special talent.

As he broke through the Saints line, ducking and stepping like a wind-up toy, it summed up everything that was great about him. Brilliant vision, breakneck speed, perfect balance and poise, as well as a determination to use his lack of size as a strength.

He was the ace up the sleeve of one of the greatest sides the Super League has ever seen, and the way his former teammates and rivals rallied around him after his cruel diagnosis spoke volumes about Burrow as a person.

For fans of my age in the UK, he was part of the reason you fell in love with Rugby League. To see this man, towered over by those around him, defying the odds was an inspiration. To lose him is a bitter blow to Rugby League everywhere.

Thankfully, through the work of Burrow and his great comrade, Kevin Sinfield, there will be a legacy to the tragedy and a hope that others will not have to suffer in the same way Burrow did.
