STORM HOLD OFF FAST FINISHING DOLPHINS TO MAINTAIN THEIR LEAD AT THE SUMMIT

SAM BOURKE

Melbourne Storm has just done enough to get past the Dolphins by 30-24 in a high-octane match at Suncorp Stadium tonight.

Storm halfback Jahrome Hughes was the difference for the visitors, scoring a try and having a hand in two more to give his side the edge in a superb performance from the Kiwi number 7. Melbourne trailed and fought back in a see-sawing first half but Hughes' two try assists early in the second half put his side in front for the first time and from there gave them the ascendancy over a determined Dolphins.

Redcliffe certainly will be disappointed with the narrow loss but had their chances. The Dolphins suffered a tough hand at the commencement of the game with winger Jack Bostock coming from the field with a Category 1 concussion, leaving the four forward bench in a difficult position for the rest of the match.

The lead up to the game was billed as the battle of the supercoaches with Craig Bellamy having a dominant 30-10 record against his former mentor Wayne Bennett. However, it was the home side that looked to set the record straight when Kenny Bromwich hit a hole close to the line to score the first try of the night.

Melbourne hit back almost immediately, when makeshift centre Jack Howarth made a break down the left-hand touchline. Howarth then found Ryan Papenhuyzen in support and the champion fullback scored a try upon his return from a long injury lay off to even it up at 6 all.

Redcliffe continued to take their chances and had success when off a bomb on the last tackle, the ball was collected by Herbie Farnworth. The Dolphins forwards then provided support to put the ball through the hands to Euan Aitken who dived over in the corner to regain the lead for the home side.

The razzle dazzle rugby league continued with Storm winger Will Warbrick making a break down the right-hand side. The former All Blacks Sevens star then found Tyran Wishart in support to score under the posts and scores were again level.

Redcliffe then regained the lead with a set play off a scrum and the Storm defence were guilty of giving livewire fullback Trai Fuller too much room and he sliced through to score.

With halftime in sight Jahrome Hughes kicked for Will Warbrick who then raced down the touchline to find Hughes back in support and the halfback then stepped past three Dolphins cover defenders to score and even the scoreline to 18 all at the break.

Following halftime, Melbourne hit the lead for the first time in the match through Will Warbrick, who flew high over Herbie Farnworth to score and give the visitors the lead by 22-18.

Back-to-back penalties then cost the Dolphins, the first from a ferocious shot from Tevita Pangai in which he was inside the ten metres and then another for a late shot from Kenny Bromwich and Nick Meaney took the points on offer to extend the lead back to six points.

Melbourne then took the biggest lead in the match when prop Josh King crashed over to score and all of the sudden the Dolphins were down by 30-18.

Jamayne Isaako then put the Dolphins back in the match when he latched onto a cross-field kick on his own try line. Last season's top tryscorer then raced 95 metres to outpace a fast finishing Papenhuyzen in cover to score and narrow the Storm's lead to eight points.

Redcliffe needed to narrow the gap and they were given a chance late when they were awarded a penalty in front with minutes remaining. Isaako landed the penalty to set up a grandstand finish.

The Dolphins came home with a wet sail as Trai Fuller sliced through and delivered a superb pass for Isaako who was brought down by the desperate Storm cover defence to allow them to leave Suncorp Stadium with what could prove a crucial win at the end of the regular season.

TITANS WIPEOUT WOEFUL WARRIORS

JUSTIN DAVIES

Gold Coast Titans thumped New Zealand Warriors 66-6 at Robina Stadium on Saturday afternoon.

It was a game where the die was cast early but the Titans ran rampant with wonderful performances from Kieran Foran, Jayden Campbell and Keano Kini in the spine while Alofiana Khan-Pereira starred with four tries against a woeful Warriors outfit.

The Titans struck first in the sun on the coast. It was a wonderful cut-out pass which found Alofiana Khan-Pereira right on the chest and strolled over to make it 6-0.

The hosts continued to surge forward and look for points. Another well timed pass, this time from Kieran Foran, found a rampaging Beau Fermor who went over untouched.

It was all one-way traffic in the first half. Issac Liu rumbled downfield to set up the Titans then hooker Chad Randall shook off a feeble tackle attempt to get the four-pointer.

Gold Coast had no mercy in this dojo on a warm afternoon where there was a sold out crowd. Jayden Campbell stepped past a few defenders then offloaded for Keenan Palasia to plunge over.

Sam Verrills put the icing on a dominant first half from the titans late on. Keano Kini sliced through again and positioned the utility to stroll away and make it 30-0 at the break.

The Warriors started the second half with a flurry of possession but one loose pass from Shaun Johnson saw Khan-Pereira take the intercept and just jog the distance to get his second.

Things went from bad to worse for the Warriors when Roger Tuivasa-Sheck was binned for a dangerous tackle then Titans fullback Kini just sliced through to put the hosts past 40.

Foran was turning back the clock in this game. He produced a gorgeous kick which had a room service bounce for Campbell who picked up a four-pointer himself in the rout.

Warriors finally got on the board on the hour mark of the game. Shaun Johnson combined with Tohu Harris who offloaded for Te Maire Martin who scored then Adam Pompey converted for 48-6.

That was only a quick respite for the woeful Warriors. Campbell turned provider this time, he punched a kick low and Khan-Pereira who picked up his first hat-trick in the NRL.

Titans who have been on the other end of these thrashings often, were ruthless in attack. Foran with an superb inside ball sent Kini away and the fullback for his second four-pointer.

Khan-Pereira made it a four-try haul to finish off an afternoon the Titans fans won't forget at home. Quick hands put Brian Kelly away then he finds the speedster who finishes it off.

ROOSTERS INTO THE FOUR AFTER DOWNING DRENCHED 'DOGS

DAN NICHOLS & TIM COSTELLO

The Sydney Roosters claimed fourth place with a comfortable 26-8 win over Canterbury in front of nearly 17,000 fans at a soaked Industree Group Stadium in Gosford tonight.

In a match where the rain barely relented all night, continuing the coastal NSW rain event that feels like it's gone all season, the Roosters went ahead early courtesy of a Sam Walker penalty goal.

Down 2-0, Canterbury withstood a weight of possession and field position against them in the first 20 minutes to somehow score the first try of the contest through Jaeman Salmon. The long-range effort wasn't converted by Matt Burton, and when the Tricolours hit back after 22 minutes through winger Dom Young, the converted effort from Sam Walker meant the nominal home side held an 8-4 lead.

Things got a bit quirky around ten minutes from the halftime siren when a pitch invader made himself known, and while play continued after the intruder was ushered off-field, play did need to stop a few minutes later when it was confirmed he'd lost his phone during his adventure - the lost iPhone stopping play once more.

The Roosters weren't phased and Nat Butcher pounced on a Walker kick for the Roosters' second try of the match, and converted that had the hosts ten points clear, and they took that 14-4 lead to the sheds.

After an error-prone and ill-disciplined first half the Bulldogs would've been looking to start well in the second - but it wasn't to be. Jeral Skelton spilled in on the second tackle after the resumption of play and the Roosters were in just a short time later with Terrell May pouncing on another expertly-placed Walker kick.

Down 20-4, the 'Dogs needed a response and it came in the form of a Skelton long-range effort, the winger running 90 metres off a Sexton offload.

Canterbury kept themselves competitive for another 15 minutes but eventually the dam wall broke, and through it came both more rain and Tricolours rookie Blake Steep to score his maiden top-grade four-pointer. At 26-8 down the Bulldogs were well beaten, and couldn't pierce the Roosters solid defence, even when Junior Pauga was marched for a high-shot on Connor Tracey after 73 minutes, and again later when Walker was binned for repeated infringements in the dying minutes.

Sydney held on for a 26-8 win catapulting them into the top four - they head back to Allianz to host the Tigers next round, while Canterbury will aim to keep themselves in the top eight next Friday when they host Cronulla at Accor Stadium.

RABBITOHS GO FOUR STRAIGHT IN DIRE CONDITONS

JOSH ROBERTSON

In what could be the worst match of the season, the South Sydney Rabbitohs have beaten an awful Manly-Warringah Sea Eagles 14-0 in wet conditions at Stadium Australia.

Manly's fortunes for the night were made clear pretty early when they lost their captains challenge within two minutes after unsuccessfully challenging a handover call from Referee Chris Butler.

The Rabbitohs were able to open the scoring within ten minutes after Damien Cook drew in the defence and sent Richie Kennar over. The conversion from the casual kicker Cody Walker was waved away.

Souths added a second try through Jye Gray when he sliced through the defence way too easily after Cody Walker put him through with a beautiful ball. Cody Walker again couldn't convert from wide out though his attempt was a lot closer than his first.

The remainder of the first half seemed to be referee watch as injury suspicions fell over Chris Butler but he was able to finish the half and ultimately the game overcoming whatever niggle was treated early on.

It's hard to say that any action happened in the second half because it just felt like both teams were going through their set of six then putting up a defensive bomb or when they did spread the ball it was either put down or an attacker ended up in touch. The Sea Eagles did have one effort knocked back by the bunker when Tommy Talau got his way to the line but an obstruction from Ben Condon ruined things.

Souths sealed the win inside the final two minutes when Damien Cook put a grubber through the middle of the open defensive line and Keaton Koloamatangi got to the line to score and seal the win. Cody Walker converted from in front to seal the 14-0 win.

Though it wasn't the last chance Manly had to rub salt into their own wounds as they managed to kick the ball out on the full from the kick-off.

TIGERS TURN ENTERTAINERS TO TROUNCE RAIDERS

ANDREW JACKSON

The Wests Tigers have overcome a massive scare to put away the Canberra Raiders 48-24 in a seesawing affair at Campbelltown Sports Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

The Tigers looked to be cruising to one of their most comfortable and impressive wins in recent memory, leading the Raiders 42-8, before a sin bin flipped the game on its head as Canberra scored three tries in six minutes. But Adam Doueihi, playing his first game in the NRL in 441 days, iced the win with an intercept try in the 73rd minute to snuff out Canberra's comeback and celebrate his return in style.

Sunday's game opened in bizarre fashion as the Raiders were gifted the first try-scoring opportunity off a Jahream Bula error, quickly finding an overlap on the left edge only for Brent Naden to intercept an Ethan Strange pass and turn defence into attack. The Tigers then did what the Raiders couldn't and converted the field position into points, doing so almost immediately as Apisai Koroisau quickly went left to Lachlan Galvin, who beat a few defenders on the way to the line. A lazy error from Sebastian Kris a few minutes later then had the Tigers suddenly on the attack once more and they almost made it two quick tries, only for Jahream Bula to bounce the ball over the line. It didn't take long for the home side to extend its lead though and once again it was off the back of a Raiders error, with Jordan Rapana spilling a Galvin bomb as Luke Laulilii barged over on the next tackle in his NRL debut. It was 12-0 at that point with the Tigers challenging the clock and Benji Marshall's side almost pushed it out to 18 as Rapana coughed up another kick, with Samuela Fainu on the spot to pick up the scraps and flick it to Koroisau in support. But replays later showed Aidan Sezer making contact with the ball as he contested the kick, seeing the try overturned as the Raiders hung on - just.

The same was true in the 20th minute as Doueihi looked to have scored in his first game back from injury after brilliant lead-up work from Galvin and Fainu, only to be held up after a sensational one-on-one tackle from Rapana. The close calls kept coming as a Hudson Young toed the ball dead to deny Galvin a try in the 23rd minute before the hand of Zac Woolford stopped Sione Fainu from charging over soon after. Fainu couldn't be denied in the 35th minute though as he reached out to extend the Tigers' lead out to 18-0, although even that was after another missed opportunity for the home side in the 30th minute. In other words, as much as the scoreboard reflected the Tigers' dominance, it didn't tell the full story as Canberra could have easily been trailing 30-0 at that point. But the Raiders couldn't find the final pass on two occasions to end the half as they failed to convert on two potential try-scoring opportunities. A try definitely went begging in the 39th minute as a surging run from Nick Cotric was backed up by a similarly powerful Hudson Young charge had the Raiders second rower closing in on the try line. But instead of trying to get there himself Young attempted to link up with his support on the outside, only for Bula to get his hands to the ball to save what would have otherwise been a try. Still, the Tigers regathered the ball in an offside position which saw Canberra get on the board with a penalty goal to close out the half. If anything, the shaky finish to the first half was a good thing for the Tigers because it served as a wake-up call of sorts, proving they couldn't come out into the second complacent and simply expecting to go on with the job.

They certainly didn't do that, scoring two tries in the space of five minutes to open the second half and blow away the Raiders. First, a confident shift inside their own half ended with Galvin scoring his second before another Rapana error saw Koroisau put Bula over under the posts as the Tigers went up 30-2. Danny Levi was able to burrow over for a cheap try soon after but had no hope when a clever Koroisau shaped to go left before sending it right to Stefano Utoikamanu, isolating the Raiders hooker in the defensive line as the Tigers quickly re-established their ascendancy in the 53rd minute.

Galvin then showed maturity beyond his years on a chaotic last-tackle play as he took his time to put in a perfectly-placed kick that ended sitting up for Koroisau to put the Tigers ahead 42-8. The home side faced some adversity late in the piece as Alex Seyfarth was sent to the sin bin in the 62nd minute for interfering with a Levi quick tap and the Raiders quickly capitalised on the one-man overlap as Cotric scored. Even still, Canberra needed a miracle at that point, trailing by 30 points with only 16 minutes left. The Raiders quickly made it two tries in just as many minutes as Kaeo Weekes sold Doueihi on a dummy and then outpaced Bula to score, reducing the deficit to 24 with 14 on the clock. Suddenly, the Tigers were in freefall as Strange went over and Rapana once again added the extras, leaving the Raiders needing three converted tries in 11 minutes. The Raiders pulled the Tigers apart on the right edge once more on their next set but a desperate tackle from Fainu saved the day, although an error immediately after put the home side under pressure once again. But some more committed defence saw the Tigers hold firm before Doueihi pounced on a Rapana pass to race away for the intercept try that sealed the win for Marshall's team.

THINGS TO KNOW

- NSW will debut 2 players in this match (players number #319 and #320) Queensland have used just 243 players in Origin to date.
- This match will fall 50 days short of commemorating 110 years of representative Rugby League played at the MCG, with the first game being played on Aug 15, 1914 when Great Britain played the last match of their second tour to the Southern Hemisphere against NSW. The tourists won 21-15 in front of 13,000 fans.
- NSW has won 4 of the 5 Origin games played at the MCG, winning in 1994, 1997, 2015 and 2018, with Paul Vautin's Miracle Maroons winning the 1995 contest.

MATCH PREVIEW

AJ LUCANTONIO

Blues return to nomadic hunting ground to keep series alive

The NSW Blues return to their happy hunting ground of the MCG in a bid to keep the 2024 State of Origin series alive against the QLD Maroons.

NSW had a nightmare of an Origin opener. Joseph Suaalii's unfortunate but correct sending off saw NSW having to play 72 minutes a man short. Despite a brave effort including getting the match back to within two converted tries, the Maroons simply ran the NSW tank to empty and they would lose the game 34-10.

Michael Maguire has overhauled his side significantly for a tilt at reclaiming the series for the first time in three years. Dylan Edwards has successfully overcome an injury scare to reclaim his fullback jersey, Edwards has the ability to break the game open with one charge through the middle, with all respect to James Tedesco, Edwards ability to scheme around the ruck was sorely missed in Sydney. Latrell Mitchell gets a recall replacing Suaalii, Mitch Moses replaces Nicho Hynes, Cam Murray replaces Cam McInnes at lock while Connor Watson debuts replacing Hudson Young. Maguire will need an improved performance from his forward pack with Payne Haas and Jake Trbojevic significantly limited in Sydney while Murray and Watson will deliver much needed leg speed around the ruck. Mitchell's impact on the edge will be breathtaking to watch and will be a significant point of difference for the Blues.

For QLD, Billy Slater's decision to select Selwyn Cobbo on the bench was an absolute masterstroke with Reece Walsh's brutal KO seeing Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow moving to the back and excelling, while Cobbo wreaked havoc on the new look right edge of the Blues. They will be without Cobbo this time as he is injured along with debutant J'maine Hopgood replaced by veterans Kurt Capewell and Felise Kaufusi respectively.

To win in Melbourne, you have a feeling that the pack will need to dominate early and maintain the rage. One area where QLD did fall short was matching the impact brought by Spencer Leniu off the bench for the Blues, they really fell down a peck or two when he came into the match. So expect Kaufusi to provide some starch in the middle with some monster shots to try and wrestle momentum away from the Blues. QLD have only one once at the MCG and that was against the odds in 1995. Out wide, they have the advantage with Walsh causing havoc out wide, and Tabuai-Fidow back at centre going up against Stephen Crichton will be entertainment plus.

WHO TO WATCH: After controversially missing selection in Game 1. All eyes are on Latrell Mitchell. Since his return from suspension, Mitchell has been in great form for a revived South Sydney outfit. He has been on the ball and creative for the Rabbits and that quality was missing in NSW's attack in Game 1. When given a chance, Trell can be the best left centre in the competition so expect him to try and claim that mantle once more at the place he made his Origin debut, six years ago.

For QLD, the focus is going on Reece Walsh. Walsh was arguably one of the best players of last year's series and is definitely one of the more polarising players in the competition. Walsh has the creativity that some spine players dream of, but will again be targeted by the NSW side (as he should be, as one of QLD's most dangerous players). If Walsh can stay on the field and create panic amongst the Blues defence once more, then the series is as good as won for the Maroons.

FAVOURITES: QLD are favourites for Origin 2. Fun fact, QLD are undefeated at Marvel Stadium, Docklands. But, as already mentioned the Maroons have struggled at the confines of the MCG.

TIP: Well, I feel the Blues can't have played any worse than they did in Game 1. A new look spine and kicking game gives the Blues an advantage, so I expect field position to be closer. The ruck speed QLD can limit will be important, because if the middle of NSW get the ascendancy, with their bench and impact that was so good in Sydney, it might be a long night, plus the ever increasing threat of Edwards and Mitchell in the attacking third. NSW by 6.

MATCH PREVIEW

Kelly HOLLIS

Decider in Townsville: Sky Blues and Maroons Set for Historic Women's Origin Showdown!

The 2024 Harvey Norman Women's State of Origin series has delivered unforgettable moments, setting the stage for a thrilling decider in the first-ever Game III in Women's Origin history. The New South Wales Sky Blues and the Queensland Maroons are poised to battle it out at QCBS Townsville on Thursday, 27 June, with the series tied 1-1 after two gripping encounters.

New South Wales struck first, securing a commanding 22-12 victory at Suncorp Stadium in the opening match. However, the Maroons mounted a stunning comeback in the second game, overcoming the Sky Blues in a nail-biting finish to level the series.

Despite adverse weather conditions, Game II set a new Women's Origin attendance record, with 25,782 fans witnessing the drama unfold. NSW dominated the first half, amassing 853 metres to Queensland's 612 and leading by six points at halftime. However, seven handling errors kept Queensland in the contest.

In the 55th minute, Maroons half Ali Brigginsshaw found centre Shanae Cieiolka for a crucial try. NSW extended their lead to 10-4 with Tiana Penitani's corner try. Yet, Queensland's resilience shone through. Tarryn Aiken's brilliant individual try, coupled with Lauren Brown's clutch conversion and a decisive field goal in the final 90 seconds, sealed a dramatic win for the Maroons.

New South Wales Sky Blues Coach Kylie Hilder is confident in her squad, fielding the same 17 players from the first two games. Olivia Kernick will don the No.13 jersey, while Keeley Davis moves to the bench as No.15. Jakiya Whitfeld and Kirra Dibb remain on reserve.

Queensland Maroons Coach Tahnee Norris continues with the dependable halves pairing of Tarryn Aiken and Ali Brigginsshaw. However, the Maroons face challenges with Destiny Brill sidelined due to a calf injury, replaced by Lily Peacock. Keilee Joseph steps into the starting lineup, with Emily Bass and Chelsea Lenarduzzi added to the extended bench following Sienna Lofipo's PCL injury.

WHO TO WATCH: Sky Blues centre Jess Sergis is set to be a key player, determined to overcome the setbacks of Game II. Sergis endured a high tackle, a corked leg, and cramping yet displayed remarkable resilience. She stayed down in pain after her clash with Keilee Joseph, which saw her sent for an unnecessary head injury assessment, and despite further collisions, she remained undeterred. Sergis's powerful play is crucial for NSW's success, and she's expected to deliver a standout performance.

Lauren Brown is the Maroons' match-winner to watch. Her calmness under pressure was evident when she slotted a field goal in torrential rain with less than 90 seconds remaining in Game II. Brown's ability to execute under duress makes her an invaluable asset for Queensland in this decider.

FAVOURITES: The Sky Blues are slight favourites to take out Game III and, therefore, the 2024 Harvey Norman Women's State of Origin series.

TIP: The series has been fiercely competitive, and Game III promises to be no different. With the momentum from their remarkable comeback, Queensland's home advantage, and the composure shown by key players like Lauren Brown, the Maroons are slight favourites. However, the Sky Blues, driven by the formidable Jess Sergis and a cohesive unit, will undoubtedly challenge every inch.

Expect a closely fought battle, but I tip the Sky Blues to edge out the Maroons and clinch the series in a thrilling finish. NSW by 4.

THINGS TO KNOW

- Sharks have won just 10 of their last 32 games after a break of 14+ days (not including Round 1 games) (since 2002)
- Sharks have won 12 of their last 14 games against the Bulldogs (since 2015)
- The Bulldogs have not conceded 30+ points in any of their last 14 matches, their longest such run since the 21 game streak from Rnd 15, 2013 til Rd 10, 2014.
- Siosifa Talakai has played 99 NRL games
- Jesse Ramien has scored 48 tries for Cronulla
- Jacob Kiraz has played 49 club games for Canterbury

MATCH PREVIEW

Rhys SULLIVAN

The Bulldogs will look to bounce back from a convincing loss to Sydney when they take on a Sharks side desperate to regain any semblance of momentum.

The Dogs have won five straight matches at Accor Stadium, the site of this Round 17 showdown. They head into this game having won 3 of their last 4 and firming as a side that will likely play finals football in 2024.

Blake Taaffe has been named at fullback after Connor Tracey entered concussion protocols having received a sickening high shot last week. Bronson Xerri has been named to return from a hamstring injury and replaces Drew Hutchison. Skipper Stephen Crichton is among the reserves and could back up following Origin Two while Jacob Preston could return from a foot injury after being named 18th man.

For the Sharks they've lost 3 of their last 4 as their early minor premiership hopes came crashing down. Celebrating Siosifa Talakai's 100th NRL match, the team will be looking for a rousing performance to get back on track.

Tuku Hau Tapuha has replaced Braden Hamlin-Uele on the interchange in the only named change for Cronulla. Teig Wilton has been named among the reserves and is a chance to make his return from a shoulder injury.

Despite the Dogs being unbeaten at home on the road, the Sharks have one massive advantage in this match - time of day. They're 7 of 11 in matches played at night this season, while the Bulldogs are just 3 from 9. Another interesting point is the Dogs average winning margin this season is 19 points, much in line with the Sharks average losing margin at 21 points.

WHO TO WATCH: Matt Burton has been in career best form across this Bulldogs run of form, and he will need that to continue in this one. He's scored 8 tries from his past 10 games (the most he's scored in a single season since leaving Penrith). Crucially though that's come at the expense of try assists, as he's down to just four 4 his first 13 matches. Obviously the Dogs are a stronger team when he runs the ball, but I'm sure there are some members around the club who'd like to see him open up his playmaking some more when they're close to the line.

As usual for Cronulla their be-all and end-all will be Nicho Hynes. He's been criticised throughout their start to the season but he has been relatively strong, albeit plagued by injury. Before that calf injury against Penrith, he'd picked up 10 try contributions in 6 games, and then added another try assist in their loss to the Dolphins. Now with a week off to nurse the niggles all over his body, expect Hynes to come out firing.

FAVOURITE: Cronulla are the favourites in this one

MY TIP: If Stephen Crichton backs up it might be different, but as it stands I have the Sharks by 10.

MATCH PREVIEW

Beth NICHOLLS

The Warriors will be looking to bounce back at home, after being thumped by the Titans last week with a 66-6 score line, whilst the Broncos are fresh off a bye and looking to turn their season around after losing three consecutive games.

Coming into the 2024 season as premiership contenders, the Warriors started their season off on the wrong foot, losing six of their first ten matches, before turning it around to win three in a row. Last week was nothing short of a disaster, with the Titans easily being able to pile on the points, with the New Zealand side also finding no way to break the Gold Coast defence. This leaves the Warriors in 13th position, desperately trying to inch themselves into the top eight before it's too late.

Shaun Johnson has suffered an achilles injury, which sees him at least seeing four weeks on the sideline, so we see Te Maire Martin shift back to halfback and Chanel Harris-Tavita coming in as five-eighth. Dallin Watene-Zelezniak returns from suspension, whilst Mitch Barnett and Kurt Capewell return after missing last week's clash due to Origin camp.

Brisbane are on a terrible roll, losing their last three games, which brings their total to an even seven wins and seven losses. If the Broncos wish to have any chance in making finals, they desperately need to turn their season around, and get back in the winning circle.

Jesse Arthurs makes his return to the wing after injuring his jaw in Round 9, which sees Corey Oates pushed to the extended squad. Jack Gosiewski is starting in the second row with Jordan Riki suspended, with Tristan Sailor, Xavier Willison and Kobe Hetherington all named in the starting side for Reece Walsh, Payne Haas and Pat Carrigan respectively, pending post Origin game decisions. Josiah Karapani joins the bench, whilst Fletcher Baker and Martin Taupau get recalled.

The history and stats books are on the side of the Broncos, with the Warriors only winning two of six games at Go Media Stadium this season, and the Brisbane side winning three of their past four match ups against the Warriors. Though, history books don't tell it all and the Broncos will have to fight for a win with the Warriors out for vengeance.

WHO TO WATCH: Filling in for halfback when Shaun Johnson was previously injured, Te Maire Martin is showing his worth this year. This season Martin has scored three tries, whilst making nine try assists and ten line break assists. The Warriors have won all three games where Martin has played at halfback.

Playing in nine of the Broncos fourteen matches this year, Reece Walsh is an important and electric component of the sides' spine. Barring any injury during Game II Origin, having him back up for the game Saturday will bring back some fire that the Brisbane side have been missing. During the nine matches he has played, Walsh has scored nine tries whilst making four try assists, 36 tackle breaks and eight line breaks. Out of the seven games the Broncos have won, Walsh has appeared in five of them.

FAVOURITE: Somehow, the Broncos are favoured to win (which has been the case recently too...)

MY TIP: In my (slight) delusional state, I am backing the Broncos to get the job done, although this heavily hinges on our Origin boys backing up. If they wish to turn to season around, now is the time, and if not, well... Brisbane by 8.

MATCH PREVIEW

Rob CROSBY

Two teams fighting to stay in touch

As the season draws towards the end of the middle third, the Newcastle Knights and Parramatta Eels will be striving to stay in touch with a pack of teams vying to play finals football when they face off in Newcastle on Saturday evening.

Sitting two points outside the top eight following their second bye prior to Origin II, the Newcastle Knights will be looking to replicate their late season surge from twelve months ago by improving upon gallant losses in recent weeks.

Challenging the likes of Melbourne and Penrith without getting the job done on the scoreboard, coach Adam O'Brien has responded by debuting English playmaker Will Pryce in the halves and recalling fellow countryman Kai Pearce-Paul to bench.

Holding a dismal record against the Eels with six consecutive losses dating back to the end of the last decade, only Daniel Saifiti and Kalyn Ponga remain from the last side to triumph over the blue and golds in 2019.

Despite winning three of their seven matches in Newcastle so far in 2024, the Knights have enjoyed tremendous home support with five crowds topping well over 20,000 and strong turnouts for the other matches played in rain-affected conditions.

Languishing at the bottom of the ladder with four paltry wins in the season to date, the Parramatta Eels will be treating Saturday evening as a must-win encounter if they have any hope of featuring beyond the home-and-away rounds.

Paying the price for the worst for-and-against record in the league by dropping to 17th on the ladder – despite getting two points for the bye last week – interim coach Trent Barrett has named Maika Sivo in the backline, back-rower Matt Doorey on the bench for the first time this season and handed Matthew Arthur – son of former head coach Brad Arthur – his NRL debut.

The Eels have enjoyed good fortune in Newcastle with five wins from their past seven visits, including outscoring the Knights by a combined total of 89-10 in their past three appearances at McDonald Jones Stadium.

WHO TO WATCH: Emerging as the most consistent performer for the Knights in 2024, centre-turned-second-rower Dylan Lucas has thrived on either side of the field this season. Averaging well over 100 running metres and 30 tackles each week, the 23-year-old has bagged five tries in 13 matches, including three in his past two outings. Contracted to the club until the end of next season, look for Lucas to attract plenty of interest come 1 November if the Knights don't act to lock him up earlier.

If the Eels hope to extend their record over the Knights to seven straight wins, Dylan Brown will need to play with the 'run-first' instincts that have served him well throughout his career. Setting up ten tries and recapturing his running game after a modest start to the season, the 24-year-old playmaker has been emblematic of the Eels' decline since reaching the grand final two years ago. Holding an unbeaten record against the Knights throughout his career, Brown will need to aim up if the Eels hope to get off the bottom of the premiership ladder.

FAVOURITE: The benefit of playing in front of another crowd in excess of 20,000 will see the Knights start the match as marginal favourites

MY TIP: X If the Knights can play with the attacking spark that has threatened premiership contenders over recent weeks, they should prove too strong for the side with the worst defensive record in the league. Knights by 12.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andy P

The Canberra Raiders look set for more rough seas ahead as they travel to Melbourne to take on a Storm team with wind in their sails.

The last game of Saturday will be a test for the Raiders, a team that is leaking points and lacking cohesion and is facing a home team that hasn't tasted defeat at AAMI Park this year.

With 82 points put against them in the last two rounds, Coach Ricky Stuart will be looking for his team to toughen up and at least be competitive.

Last round saw the Green Machine cop a shellacking from the Wests Tigers 48-24. The Raiders only had any effect in the game when the Tigers were reduced to 12 men for 10 minutes. Some spirited performances from Joseph Tapine, Jordan Rapana and Nick Cotric were not enough, and the error count took the life out of what, on paper, is actually a tough team.

The Storm may have got out of gaol-free last week against the Dolphins, but Coach Craig Bellamy will ensure they take more control in the upcoming round. Their 30-24 victory at Suncorp was Ryan Papenhuyzen's first game since round 9, and he reminded us of what we had missed. Jahrome Hughes flexed as one of the best halves in the game, and Will Warbrick showed his gratitude returning from injury in hot form.

WHO TO WATCH: Jahrome Hughes will be looking to dominate in kicking and setting up his gifted players to demoralise the Raiders. Hughes loves to attack the line, and it may be where he is most dangerous with his speed opening up holes in lazy defensive lines. And if the Raiders come to the game napping like the last two rounds, Hughes will give Ricky Stuart nightmares.

We all love to see Paps in full flight, and he clearly has his confidence back. Showing no rust, the gun fullback came out firing, and it was his confidence and work effort in a game that lifted all the players around him on the field. It is without a doubt that he will impact this game after his inspiring performance last round, with at least two tries next to his name surely!

Will Warbrick and Xavier Coates lurking on the wings will be a headache for the Raiders, as they will be hitting the ball back with speed from every kick and are known for their athleticism when going up for the high balls.

If Api Koroisau was a headache for the Raiders in the middle of the field last week then the prospect of Harry Grant should get them anxious. Considering that Grant will come out of the Origin fit, he will lay a platform for his forward to dominate.

It's hard to pinpoint players in the forward pack for the Storm, but Josh King and Eliesa Katoa have been causing trouble in the middle and on the edges. Bellamy has been surgical on getting the most out of these two, and they will be ready for a Raiders pack trying to regain their identity.

The Raiders' ranks have been thin for players to stand up and deliver for the last few rounds. Joesph Tapine tried his guts out last round, as he pretty much has all year. The Kiwi prop continues to lead from the front, and Raiders fans can only hope his spirited play will rub off on players like Hudson Young and Morgan Smithies, who need to get on board with the pack to own the middle. These two players can do it, and with a third straight loss on the cards, Ricky is likely to have put a firecracker under them; watch for them to answer the call.

Jordan Rapana pulled off some great plays in attack and defence in the last round. Much like Tapine, he inspires from his efforts, and his plays have the potential to turn the team around. He would like to get more meters to help his team and will be looking to do so this round if Tapine and Josh Papalii can get them on the front foot in the middle.

The young guns of Kao Weekes and Ethan Strange have lost some venom in their attack and defence since getting the call up to first grade. With two average rounds behind them, they should be savouring a chance to prove they are ready to stay in the top squad. They are fast, strong, and can open up to play when given a chance.

FAVOURITE: Melbourne have been strong at home all year and is close to having a full-strength team if Origin permits. The Storm are easy favs to outclass a Raiders side lacking confidence.

MY TIP: The Storm may have had a close one last round, but I expect their stars and team as a whole to pick up the pace and give a convincing show against Canberra. The Raiders continued their trend of blowout losses last round, and it's unlikely they will find the much-needed toughness on the road down to Melbourne. The Storm will bring the rain. Melbourne by 18.

MATCH PREVIEW

Josh ROBERTSON

The first of Sunday's triple treat of NRL heads to Kogarah for a clash between the St George Illawarra Dragons and the Dolphins with one side looking to bounce back from a loss before the bye and one looking to secure their position close to the NRL's top 4.

Sitting on the edge of the top 8, the St George Illawarra Dragons know that a win could push them back into the top 8. A much needed bye would have been the reset that the Saints needed after their poor performance in their 30-14 loss to an injury depleted Manly side.

The Saints have had a topsy-turvy season this year with impressive wins including ones of the Panthers and a big win over the Wests Tigers mixed in with some pretty average performances such as their big loss against the Dolphins in Round 2, the Anzac Day thrashing at the hands of the Roosters and their loss against Manly which have meant their for and against is substantially worse than teams also around the top 8.

The only change to the Dragons side from the loss against Manly is that Moses Suli returns to the side after he was ruled out during the warm-up after suffering a hamstring injury. The return of Suli to the centres sees Christian Tuipulotu back to the reserves. The Dragons may be further boosted with Jack Bird named in the reserves as he looks to return from a knee injury.

Just a few weeks ago the top spot was nearly within reach of the Dolphins but a slide in form has seen them fall down the ladder to sit fifth and without picking up positive result this week could see them slide towards the bottom of the top 8.

Despite winning just one of their past four games, the Dolphins haven't been out of any of their contests over recent weeks with their smallest losing margin being just the six points which came in their 30-24 loss to the Storm last week. The Dolphins have been well and truly in their contests and show they can match it with the top 4 especially with their 2-point win over the Sharks a fortnight ago.

The Dolphins are expecting the return of their Origin players with Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow named at fullback and Felise Kaufusi named on the bench following Origin 2. A heavy concussion suffered in last week's loss sees Jack Bostock miss the match through the 11-day stand-down procedures with Tesi Niu coming into the side.

WHO TO WATCH: A lot of the success for the Dragons this season has depended on the performance of fullback Tyrell Sloan and again this is the game where the Red 'V' will need him to stand up. The performances where the Saints have picked up important wins have seen Sloan star but he can go missing in the losses for the Dragons which will be a concern.

Isaiya Katoa had big wraps on him during his junior time at Penrith and very quickly he has established himself as one of the most impressive players in the NRL. The Dolphins youngster has a game management sense that only a few could wish for and will be important against one of the NRL's smartest players in Ben Hunt.

FAVOURITE: Despite being away from home, the Phins are expected to win this contest.

MY TIP: The speed of the Dolphins feels like it's too much for the Dragons though back at Kogarah you never know what they are going to dish up. The visitors feel like they have too much X-Factor over the Dragons so I think they will get the win in a game that could be either tight or very one-sided. Dolphins by 6.

Panthers and Cowboys Battle for Crucial Points at BlueBet Stadium

The Penrith Panthers and North Queensland Cowboys are set to clash this Sunday at 4 pm at BlueBet Stadium. Both teams are coming off a bye, with the Cowboys experiencing their first break of the season after waiting 16 rounds. The Panthers, currently in second place with a 10-4 record, look to maintain their strong form, while the Cowboys, clinging to eighth with an 8-7 record, aim to solidify their position in the top eight.

Before their bye, the Panthers demonstrated their resilience when they travelled to Newcastle to face the Knights, securing a 26-18 victory. Jarome Luai shone as the chief playmaker, contributing a try and setting up two others. Despite conceding the first try, Penrith responded quickly, with Scott Sorensen and Brian To'o crossing the line within five minutes of each other. The first half ended in an arm wrestle, but Luai's individual brilliance gave the Panthers a 14-6 lead at the break. Though Newcastle mounted a comeback with two quick tries in the second half, Penrith's unwavering resilience saw them hold on. With several key players named for the State of Origin, the Panthers' 'next man up' mentality will be crucial, ensuring they are well-prepared regardless of Origin absentees.

The Cowboys, on the other hand, showcased their dominance in their Round 15 match against the Canberra Raiders, leading 24-0 at halftime thanks to tries from Reuben Cotter, Griffin Neame, Tom Dearden, and Chad Townsend. Their goal-line defence was formidable, preventing the Raiders from scoring on three occasions. Although Canberra staged a second-half fightback, the Cowboys added two more tries through Valentine Holmes and Reece Robson to seal the win. With six players named in the Queensland State of Origin squad, the Cowboys might face challenges, but the team is hopeful, especially with experienced players like Scott Drinkwater, who had an outstanding game against the Raiders, in their ranks.

WHO TO WATCH: The last time these two sides met, Panthers winger Brian To'o was sensational in his 100th game, where he scored a try, recorded a massive 17 tackle busts and ran for almost 200 running metres. Expect him to get over the line at least once, as To'o has scored 23 tries in his past 17 games at BlueBet Stadium, even if he will be off the back of an Origin appearance for NSW on Wednesday night.

With several key players potentially missing from this game, the Cowboys will look to their experienced players to lead the way. In particular, winger Kyle Feldt will be looking to reach 10 tries for the ninth straight season. The 32-year-old put on an aerial try-scoring masterclass against the Raiders in the side's Round 15 win.

FAVOURITE: Despite having a number of key players backing up after Origin commitments, the Panthers are clear favourites, especially at home, where they've won 14 of their last 16 games.

MY TIP: Their depth and home advantage should see them through in what promises to be a competitive match. Penrith by 10.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andrew FERGUSON

Can the Tigers break another hoodoo?

After Benji's babes racked up back-to-back wins in Rounds 3 and 4 against the much more highly fancied Sharks and Eels, things were looking up in Tigers Town, but then they lost 9 straight games, falling to the bottom of the table once again, the last 2 losses saw their newly determined defence fall apart as they lost 42-28 v the Cowboys and then 56-14 to the Dragons after the bye.

But they bounced back brilliantly, beating the Titans 18-10, a team who the Tigers had beaten just twice in their last 12 encounters. Then last week the Tigers came against an even bigger hoodoo opponent, Canberra. The Raiders had won 14 of the last 16 games, racking up big scores on a regular basis (Canberra had scored 523 points in those 16 games, an average of 32.7 points per game). The Tigers though were clinical in defence in the first half, while showing plenty of composure, capitalising on the Raiders errors. The Tigers extended their lead even further at the start of the second half, before Alex Seyfarth was sent to the sin bin, whereby Canberra finally started to get back into the contest somewhat. The Raiders scored 4 tries in the final 20 minutes, but it was too little too late as the Tigers ran away 48-24 victors. This week they come up against their biggest hoodoo side of all, the Sydney Roosters. The Roosters have racked up 21 wins in their last 23 games against the Tigers, and scoring an average of 33 points per game in the process. The Tigers 2 wins in that run were in Round 1, 2018 and Round 20, 2011.

The Roosters have won 6 of their last 8 games after a very inconsistent start to the season which saw them win 3 of their opening 7 games. These last 8 games though has seen their attack improve out of sight, scoring 282 points at an average of 35.25 points per game, while remarkable, 6 of their last 9 opponents finished the game having scored 18 points (while 1 other scored 16). Last week the Roosters came up the new and improved Bulldogs, who are playing with a greatly improved defensive grit, yet the mighty Tricolours attack still scored 26 points to record an 18 point victory, even with 2 players marched in the 72nd and 78th minutes, they still didn't concede a try.

They are in red hot form in attack while their defence is solid enough to keep opposition sides honest. And for this match they will be bolstered by the returns of Angus Crichton (Second Row), Connor Watson (Lock), Spencer Leniu (bench) and Lindsay Collins (bench). The Tigers will have David Klemmer returning via the bench while Justin Olam is on the extended bench, but behind the recently returned Adam Doueichi, who last week made a brilliant return from a years absence due to injury.

WHO TO WATCH: Adam Doueichi formed a very potent attacking combination with Api Korisau and Lachlan Galvin last week which will likely develop even further over the year. Connor Watson will be high on confidence after his Origin call up while Angus Crichton, Spencer Leniu and Lindsay Collins all played strongly in the first Origin and are expected to do the same again in origin 2 and still back up for this match.

FAVOURITE: Both sides are playing some very open and entertaining football at present, and while the lowly Tigers will be regarded as no chance, anyone can tell you that a young team high on confidence can achieve some amazing results, while at the same time, be erratic in form. The Roosters are a star-studded outfit also in strong form, but they are also seasoned professionals. They will be the clear favourites to win here.

MY TIP: If the Roosters rest a few of their Origin stars then the Tigers may be able to stay in this game. Roosters should still win but a confident Tigers side might keep it competitive. Roosters by 12.

His Royal Highness,
the Duke Doueichi of Campbelltown.

SUPER LEAGUE ROUND 15 WRAP with ROB McHUGH

CASTLEFORD TIGERS 12 HULL KR 13 AT THE JUNGLE, CASTLEFORD

The round opened up on Thursday night, as strugglers Castleford Tigers took on Hull KR. However, the logic of the league table was nearly turned on its head, as the Tigers pushed KR close, before succumbing to a late defeat, thanks to a Jez Litten Drop Goal.

It was the Tigers who opened the scoring in the 13th minute, as Sam Wood scored the first try of the night. Rowan Milnes has been instrumental in Castleford's upturn in performance recently, and his dinked kick allowed Wood to outjump the KR defence and score in the left-centre channel. Milnes scored the conversion to give Castleford an early 6-0 lead. The Robins were soon level though, as Tom Opacic touched down less than five minutes later. Though Opacic scored the try, it was created by another brilliant piece of play by Mikey Lewis, who jinked his way through the Tigers' defence before passing inside for Opacic to score. Lewis was on target with the conversion to level the scores. Rovers were soon ahead, as influential loose forward, Elliot Minchella, touched down for their second try in quick succession. Litten broke through a broken Castleford defensive line on halfway from dummy half and took the ball deep into Castleford territory. He passed the ball to Minchella, who then weaved inside and outside of the covering defence, tying them in knots and scoring from 15 metres out. Lewis was on target again as KR took a 12-6 before halftime.

The score remained at 12-6 until midway through the second half, until the Tigers dragged themselves back into the contest. However, they should have been level before the 59th minute, as Sylvester Namu dropped the ball when trying to ground it with the line begging. Milnes eventually restored parity, dummied his way through Robins' defensive line from close range, before kicking a simple conversion. With the scores level, both sides went in search of the game's decisive score, however, it would be KR who found it via a drop goal from Litten with four and a half minutes to play. The win keeps KR in third place in the Super League table, and very much in contention for the top two. Defeat does little to change Castleford's position, they remain in 10th place, as the bottom four in Super League all lost over the weekend.

WIGAN WARRIORS 36 LONDON BRONCOS 0 AT THE BRICK COMMUNITY STADIUM

It feels strange to ask the question, when is a 36-0 defeat not a bad result? But we may have found the answer at the DW Stadium on Friday night, as the Wigan Warriors beat the London Broncos without ever getting out of second gear. With the bookies setting the handicap mark at around +43 for London before the game, avoiding a cricket score seems to be a victory in itself.

Wigan youngster, Jack Farrimond, was the star of the show, as he grabbed two tries and kicked all six goals, in a memorable appearance for the talented young player. Farrimond helped himself to the first two tries of the game, with his first coming in the third minute. The first was a piece of brilliance as he stepped inside the onrushing Lee Kershaw, before ghosting between two London defenders to go over from around 30 metres out. The second showed his smarts as a support player, as he kept pace with Junior Nsemba as he powered through the London line, before passing inside to Farrimond to run in unopposed, as two of Wigan's brightest talents combined in the 13th minute. Wigan soon extended their lead, this time through Super League's leading try scorer, Liam Marshall. Although Marshall touched the ball down, the try was created by a wonderful, bullet pass from Bevan French, which

LEEDS RHINOS 18 LEIGH LEOPARDS 10 AT AMT HEADINGLEY STADIUM

In the week they parted company with head coach, Rohan Smith, the Leeds Rhinos produced their best performance in months to see off playoff hopefuls, Leigh Leopards, and keep their own hopes of making the top six alive. However, in truth, it feels almost secondary to the moving and emotional tributes to Rob Burrow which took centre stage on the night.

A full house, including 80 of Burrow's former teammates made the trip to Headingley to observe a wonderful celebration of Burrow's life. It was a true mark of the man that so many people wanted to share in the moment and it must be a great comfort to his family that he gave so many people so much joy. The Rhinos players were clearly fired up by the occasion and their half-backs scored all three tries on the night in a fitting tribute to Burrow. Brodie Croft, who was visibly emotional in both his celebrations and his post-match interview, did his best impression of Burrow to open the scoring for Leeds. Receiving the ball 15 metres out, Croft stepped, dummied and then burst his way to the line, just touching the ball down on the whitewash at full stretch. He then let out a visceral roar of celebration before making a number seven gesture at the camera in honour of Burrow. Rhyse Martin kicked the conversion to give Leeds a 6-0 lead. Croft then produced another spectacular effort to extend Leeds' lead. This time he received a short pass from Lachie Miller inside his own 20-metre line, before turning on the afterburners and running almost the full length of the pitch to score. No Leigh defenders could get near him for past as he scored his, and Leeds' second of the night.

Martin missed the conversion, however, he was on target with a subsequent penalty to give Leeds a 12-0 lead at half-time. Leeds then extended their lead in the 49th minute, fittingly through the man wearing number seven, Matt Frawley. Frawley has come in for some criticism in recent weeks, however, he produced one of his best performances in a Leeds shirt on Friday. A half break by Miller allowed him to pass the ball to young winger, Alfie Edgell, who ran a smart inside line to cut through the defence. He passed inside to Frawley for a simple touchdown. Martin's goal gave Leeds an 18-0 lead. However, Leeds were fielding a weakened side, thanks to six absences due to the symptoms of concussions, and they began to tire as Leigh grew into the game late on. Matt Moylan gave the Leopards in the 57th minute as he touched down to reduce the deficit. The try came from a scrum 10 metres out, under the Leeds posts. When the ball came out of the scrum, Lachlan Lam found Matt Moylan who stepped through the line to score. However, he missed the conversion, reducing the deficit to 14 points. When Ipape broke through the Leeds line from close range it appeared that Leigh may have a route back in the game, but Leeds' defence held firm. The Rhinos clung on for an 18-10 win, in a game which was a perfect tribute to Burrow. Burrow's wife, Lindsay and two of their children were applauded off the field, through a guard of honour made by both sides, at the end of the game and there was not a dry eye left in the house.

must have travelled 20 metres through the air as it cut out four London defenders, to find Marshall on the wing. Marshall had the simple job of jogging in from 20 metres and touching the ball down.

London appeared to have scored a try of their own after 66 minutes, however, French hooker, Ugo Tison dropped the ball under little pressure to deny him a score. And Wigan immediately made them pay, as Abbas Miski scored in the next few minutes. French was again the creator, this time sending one of his trademark passes out to the other wing for Miski to collect and score. The pass may have been less spectacular this time, but the outcome was the same, as Wigan led 24-0 at half-time. London restricted Wigan to 12 points in the second half, with Wigan scoring two tries through centre, Jake Wardle. Farrimond played a big part in the first, again breaking through the London defence with a brilliant pass on halfway before passing inside to Wardle in support, who scored under the posts. Wigan's final try came in the 55th minute, as they caught London cold from the base of the scrum. London, inexplicably, chose to make a substitution with Wigan packing down for the scrum under the posts, 10 metres out. As the substitute tried desperately to get back into the defensive line on the far side, Wigan worked the ball to Wardle, who scored a simple try. The win means Wigan open up a two-point lead at the top of the table. With a game in hand, they are ominously placed to lift more silverware this year. (scoresheet on next page)

HULL FC 18 WARRINGTON WOLVES 24 AT MKM STADIUM

Hull FC came into their game against defeated Challenge Cup finalists, Warrington Wolves, full of confidence, following their second win of the season in the previous round. However, they fell just short of securing another Super League scalp, as Sam Burgess' Warrington side nicked the win in the last minute to break FC's hearts. The win breaks a three-game losing run for the Wolves and steadies a ship which seemed to be entering choppy waters.

Warrington took the lead after six minutes, through centre, Toby King. After Paul Vaughan was stopped near the Hull line, Warrington worked the ball to their left wing, where full-back, Matt Dufty, juggled and then offloaded to King who touched down to score. Josh Thewlis kicked the first of four successful conversions to give Warrington a 6-0 lead. Despite being behind, Hull were largely the better side in the next phase of the game, in part thanks to a yellow card to Adam Holroyd on the half-hour mark. However, after wasting several good positions, found themselves 12-0 down before half-time. With Warrington attacking down the Hull right, Dufty threw a one-two with half-back, George Williams, before stepping his way past several Hull defenders to score a brilliant solo try. Thewlis added the conversion and FC were 12-0 down at half-time.

CATALANS DRAGONS 22 HUDDERSFIELD GIANTS 18 AT STADE GILBERT BRUTUS

The Catalans Dragons finally registered another win in what was a textbook game of two halves. Defeat leaves Huddersfield Giants with just one win in eight games in all competitions, and heads coach, Ian Watson, facing major questions over his future.

After 25 minutes, it appeared that the Dragons were cruising to victory, with four tries on the board and a healthy 22-0 lead. However, whatever Watson said at half-time nearly pulled off the shock comeback of the weekend, before the Giants fell agonisingly short. Catalans opened the scoring through departing winger, Tom Davies. Theo Fages' kick across the field was taken acrobatically by Matt Ikuvalu, who then offloaded to Romain Navarrete. Navarrete passed to Davies on the right wing, who dived into the corner to score a well-worked try. Arthur Mourgue missed the kick from the touchline, as the Catalans took an early lead in the second minute. They only needed five minutes to extend their lead, with Fages turning from creator to scorer. Jordan Abdull's kick-through bounced off the padding on the goalpost into the grateful arms of Fages, who had reacted fastest to the deflection. Fages touched down for a simple try and Mourgue kicked the conversion to give Les Dracs a 10-point lead. A fast start threatened to become a rout in the 14th minute when Arthur Romano touched down for their third try in quick succession. A quick play the ball close to the line allowed Abdull to find Romano, who stepped in from his left foot to send the defence the wrong way to score. Abdull was beginning to pull the strings from half-back, as Catalans scored their final points of the night. Abdull's chip to the wing was collected by Tom Johnstone, who touched down in the corner. Mourgue converted all three of these quickfire tries to give the Dragons a 22-0 lead.

Watson was reported to have called the first half a total mess and torn into his players at half-time. Whatever he said appeared to have an immediate impact as the Giants went about building their way back into the game. They got their rewards in the 55th minute as Harry Rushton, who was their standout player on the night, brushed off some weak Catalans defence to score from close range. Oly Russell scored his first of three goals from three attempts to reduce the deficit to 16 points. When Ashton Golding scored the Giants' next try four minutes later; a seemingly hopeless situation had turned into a fightback. A brilliant move saw Golding collect a chip over the top of the Catalans defence with their full-back out of position. Golding touched down and Russell added the extras to bring the Giants back within 10. Huddersfield's next try was a remarkable one, which may have brought a tear to the eye of Warrington-bound try scorer, Luke Yates. Adam Milner broke through a gap and passed back inside to Yates. The ball then hit Yates square in the face before bouncing through a gap in the defence. Yates somehow kept his composure, collected the ball and touched down for a remarkable try, which was confirmed with the help of the video referee. However, the Giants were unable to complete a most remarkable of comebacks and, with every side ahead of them, apart from St Helens, winning on the weekend, this result may end their playoff hopes. For the Dragons, the win consolidates their place in the top six after a poor run of form. They are two points ahead of Leeds in seventh.

However, an interception try from young hooker, Denive Balmforth gave them hope. Balmforth read the play perfectly to intercept on halfway. He then broke towards the line with an open field in front of him. By the end, he looked like he was running pulling a cart to the try line, however, he had just enough legs to make it to the line. Ben Reynolds kicked his first of three successful conversions to cut the deficit back to 6 points. When Danny Walker burrowed over from close range for Warrington to restore a 12-point lead, it appeared that Warrington had finally established a decisive lead. However, this is a different FC side from the one which fell to so many humiliating defeats in the early part of the season. Liam Sutcliffe handed them a lifeline after 61 minutes, which sparked FC into life. Sutcliffe picked up a neat grubber kick from Balmforth to touchdown. Then, FC's Tom Briscoe brought them level with just 10 minutes to play. Hull worked the ball from left to right from the base of a scrum under the posts and quick hands from full-back, Logan Moy, put Briscoe in to score in the corner. With the scores level, the stage was set for a grandstand finish, and it was Warrington who emerged with the points, although in controversial circumstances. With Hull in FC possession near the Warrington line, a Warrington hand appeared to touch the ball, before it landed in the FC attacker's hands, before the last tackle was completed. The touch was missed by the officials, meaning a turnover was given, rather than a repeat set, and a potential FC shot for a drop goal. Instead, Warrington took the ball up to the other end of the field and set up their own drop goal attempt, through George Williams. The field goal attempt was charged down, but the ball landed with Dufty, who stepped his way through the broken defensive line to score the decisive try late on and break FC's hearts.

SUPER LEAGUE ROUND 15 WRAP with ROB McHUGH

SALFORD RED DEVILS 20 ST HELENS 18 AT SALFORD STADIUM

Salford Red Devils produced the shock result of the round, in the only game of the weekend where the lower-placed side won the game. Man of Steel contender, Marc Sneyd, was once again Salford's inspiration, as they completed a league double over St Helens for the first time in 60 years, tightening their grip on a play-off spot in the process.

Salford coach, Paul Rowley, has been heavily linked with a move to Leeds in recent days, however, his side showed no signs of the speculation getting to them in another brilliant display. It was St Helens who took the lead in the game in the sixth minute, through James Bell. Bell was the first person to get on the end of a neat kick-through from Jack Welsby to open the scoring, with Percival adding the extras to give the Saints a six-point lead. However, Salford were soon back in the game, thanks to a Deon Cross try in the 17th minute. A high shot by Konrad Hurrell gave Salford a good field position and they did not waste the opportunity. A quick tap penalty from Joe Mellor got the Red Devils on the front foot before Mellor exchanged a quick one-two of passes with Shane Wright before putting Cross in to score in the corner. The excellent Sneyd kicked the goal to level the scores. Sneyd was instrumental in Salford's second try, this time with the boot. Cross got on the end of Sneyd's pinpoint kick, which was perfectly weighted, to score Salford's second of the game, with Sneyd off target this time. Cross then tackled Jon Bennison into touch to save a near-certain try and keep the score at 10-6 to Salford at half-time.

But the Saints would come fighting back after half-time, scoring the first points of the half after 53 minutes. Curtis Sironen was the scorer, getting on the end of a Lewis Dodd pass to burst through the line and score, with Percival again on target. But Salford soon took the lead again in a topsy turvy encounter, this time through the evergreen Kallum Watkins, after Sneyd's towering kick had caused chaos in the Saints' defence. Sneyd missed the target once more, meaning Salford led by just two points. A Percival penalty levelled the scores before the Saints thought they might have won the game. This time Percival scored the try, running onto a Sironen offload at pace to put Saints in front. However, he missed the crucial conversion which left the door ajar for Salford to nick the points. And they did not need a second invitation, thanks to a piece of magic from Ethan Ryan. Ryan burst down the right wing with just minutes left to play and passed to Chris Hankinson, who fought his way over the line to score. Sneyd kicked the conversion and sparked jubilant scenes amongst the Salford players and fans. The victory was a well-deserved win for one of Super League's perennial over-achievers and a perfect end to a brilliant weekend of Super League action.
