NRL ROUND 23 WRAP

STORM FRONT MOVES THROUGH SOUTH SYDNEY

ANDYP

The Melbourne Storm find just enough in the tank to hold out against Souths 28-16 at Accor Stadium.

In a game that is sure not to have Melbourne coach Craig Bellamy singing high praises, the Storm looked flat. And all though they had their moments of Storm magic, it wasn't backed up with support in play, which left them looking ordinary in the run for the Minor Premiership and finals. The first half saw Souths make the most of an early error, with Tui Kamikamica fumbling the ball early in the attack. Melbourne seemed rusty, and Souths looked like they would make them pay.

But whether the players could feel their ears burning from the coaches' box or not, they showed great resolve to hold the line against the early trouble. With the first chance down the end of Souths field, they found a try early as they moved through the hand quickly down the right side, and Warbrick went over, and it was 6-0 in the 8th minute as Nick Meaney slotted it over the crossbar. But Melbourne kept inviting the Rabbitohs down their end of the field with easy errors, being inside the 10m and giving away set restarts.

Melbourne, to their credit, kept getting the ball down to Souths line, but in the 19th minute, a wayward pass by Ryan Papenhuyzen gave Fletcher Myers a 70m corridor to get his first NRL try up in front of the home crowd and the boy showed he had pace not letting Paps get close. Myers missed the conversion, and it was a two-point game. It was this try that seemed to switch the Storm up a gear, and they charged back down to the Souths quarter. The writing was on the wall as Grant Anderson went over with three Souths players on the left edge for no try. In the next set, Nelson Asofa-Solomona proved to irresistible to the try line and stormed over with Meaney's conversion, putting the game at 12-4 in the 24th minute. It was only minutes later when the Storm put on another attacking raid, but Souths were showing some frustration and fatigue with Murray catching Harry Grant high. Down in the Souths quarter again and, Jahrome Hughes caught the Souths backs lacking, putting a chip over to be snatched up by Will Warbrick for his second of the game. With Meaney missing the conversion, the Storm were up 16-4. That lead continued to grow as the fresh legs of Tyran Wishart scampered out of dummy half, eating up 25 meters to find Papenhuyzen in support for his first try of the night. The Meaney conversion put the game at 22-4 in the 35th minute, and it looked like an easy night for the Storm. It was a first half all for the Storm, with big names from Hughes, Munster, and Asofa-Solomona. While Souths were trying to find rhythm it was Murray and Koloamatangi who were doing the hard yards for the team.

The second half started as we expected, with Papenhuyzen returning an early end-of-set kick to run from his 30m with Grant Anderson in support to notch up the first points of the half, and it was 26-4 at the 44-minute mark.

From here, it seemed the Storm ran out of enthusiasm, and Souths got a whiff of it. An arm wrestle ensued for the next 10 minutes, with a smart kick by Jye Gray pinning the Storm on their line. A quick movement left for the Rabbits and a great though-the-legs pass by Taane Mile to Fletcher Myers gave the young winger his second try. And the game was at 26-10. Souths continued to apply pressure while the Storm went through the motions and lacked any intensity you would expect from a team on top of the ladder.

An error by Melbourne's Chris Lewis gave the Bunnies a scrum on the Storm 40m line; the next set of six and Souths were at the Storms line. The scrambling defence wasn't good enough, and Cameron Murray hit a ball from Cody Walker at speed to barge over. Myers' conversion made it a 10-point game, and Souths began to get belief. But fatigue was setting in for both sides, and belief couldn't keep the ball in Keaon Koloamatangi's hands. Harry Grant swooped up the fumble, and Melbourne started to try to build some momentum to hold onto the game.

With the Storm's attack in the last minutes on the Rabbits' line becoming too much, a late high shot on Munster by Murray gave the visitors a chance for easy points and a chance to eat up time on the clock. Meaney put penalty conversion over the black dot, and the siren rang for the Storm 28-16. Although some vintage performances from the Storm's best players, they all seemed to lack intensity in the middle of the second half. This is where Souths seemed to find their second wind, and if they had more polish, they may have pushed for extra time.

Even though the season is over for them, Souths showed some good fight to get back in the game, and they head to Campbelltown to take on Wests next round. The Storm will no doubt be asking what they must do to be battle-ready as they face off against a Penrith Panthers outfit that is hitting their straps. The Storm tonight looking as hot as they can, and will have to put in a good week ahead of their clash with the defending premiers next Thursday at Bluebet Stadium.

TOP EIGHT HOPEFULS TAUGHT CRUEL LESSON BY SNAPPY SHARKS SIDE

AIDAN EDGECOMB

A game pivotal for finals hopes that didn't go as expected.

The Gold Coast Titans were clear favourites as they hosted the Cronulla Sharks off the back of a convincing win against cross town rivals Brisbane Broncos only a week prior. The Sharks had a makeshift spine and were significantly down on troops, and few gave them much hope of finding a win.

Still, it was Blayke Brailey, named at halfback but playing as dummy half who helped the visitors break through the cracks in only the fifth minute, with a precise short ball to Royce Hunt who crashed over the line with ease. 6-0 down early, the Titans held strong and went set for set and looked to play an expansive brand of football. Ultimately, they took it a step too far with a Kieran Foran pass going to ground, with Sharks winger Sam Stonestreet scoping it up with glee and running 60m to score. 15 minutes in. 12-0 to Cronulla.

After that, a notable shift in attitudes was apparent, with Gold Coast dejected and Cronulla up and firing. The visitors scored three more tries in the space of 10 minutes, partially thanks to a pivotal sin binning of Titans forward Mo Fotuauika for a dangerous high tackle. It was Brailey and Nikora who dominated this phase of play, with crafty short passes and threatening runs which the 12-manned Titans had no answers for.

Finally, at 30-0 after conceding a point for every minute played thus far, the Titans found some attacking groove to close out their first half. Jayden Campbell and Keano Kini were nifty and tried all their flashy footwork to get past the Sharks defence. Gold Coast threw everything and the kitchen sink at Cronulla, but it still wasn't enough. They went into the break scoreless, heads down with nothing to show for a plethora of repeat sets.

Undoubtedly Des Hasler would have had words for his squad at half time, and admittedly Gold Coast did show some fighting spirit... for about 7 minutes. Dangerous centre, Kayal Iro made a break and put Stonestreet through in the corner to score his second for the night, and the scoresheet looked like getting even uglier.

The Titans kick defence let them down once again, and it feels like I'm just repeating myself because it was yet another try to the Sharks, this time to Briton Nikora after he set one up earlier in the night. At 40-0, the match was well and truly done but with a few lucky penalties, the Titans had some good possession and chances to put some points on the board.

They forced dropouts and were gifted set restarts right on the line, running plays and threading kicks through in the hope they'd amount to something. The attack wasn't bad persay, just uninspiring and Cronulla were on their A game - holding on with remarkable defensive grit.

Ultimately, the visitors scored once again before full time to make it 44-0 - the score at which the game ended. Jesse Ramien spent the last 10 minutes in the sin bin, but in an accurate representation of their night, the Titans couldn't convert.

NRL ROUND 23 WRAP

“NOT EVEN I KNOW HOW PENRITH ESCAPED THAT!” – HARRY HOUDINI

ANDREW FERGUSON

With 7 minutes remaining in the Panthers game against the Eels, Penrith trailed 34-20. Just 4 minutes later, they had a 2 point lead and went on to win the match.

Penrith and the Eels went tit-for-tat for much of the first half, but the Panthers were well below their best for the opening 20 minutes of the second half, before they seemingly decided to start playing elite footy to secure an unbelievable victory.

Parramatta forced a turn-over on the Panther's very first run with the ball and two plays later, they went left to Blaize Talagi who juggles a pass before scoring in the corner. Clint Gutherson converted and after 3 minutes, the Eels had a 6-0 lead.

Penrith hit back in the 6th minute with some crisp drawing and passing which creates an overlap leading to Brian To'o crossing in the right corner. Nathan Cleary landed the sideline conversion.

In the 10th minute, Parramatta went back to Panthers left edge, leading to Jake Tago scoring in the left corner. Gutherson's sideline conversion was again good.

Two minutes later, Cleary put in a deft grubber which bounced up perfectly for Izack Tago, who regathered and dived over to score a clever try. Cleary's sideline conversion levelled the scores again.

Cleary kicked a penalty goal in the 26th minute to give Penrith a 2 point lead. Then with 5 minutes remaining til halftime, the Eels created an overlap on the right side, allowing Sean Russell to slide over to score in the corner. Gutherson failed to convert and at halftime, Parramatta held a narrow 16-14 lead.

The Panthers opened the second half playing a combination of sloppy, panicked and ill-disciplined football. This allowed the Eels to pull away on the scoreboard. In the 47th minute, Jarome Luai fielded a kick in his own in-goal, got back into the field of play, grounding the ball in the field of play in a 2 man tackle, but the ball bounced out of his hand and rolled back into the Panthers in-goal where Viliami Penisini put his hand on the loose ball to score. Gutherson converted.

After a silly Panthers penalty just 4 minutes later, Parramatta crossed again when Russell was sent down the right short-side, but was met in a great tackle, however he got a brilliant ball back inside to Gutherson who simply caught it and then placed the ball down over the tryline that was just in front of him. He failed to convert his own try.

In the 60th minute, Liam Martin clipped the leg of Daejarn Asi after the Eels half had kicked the ball. Martin was sent to the sin bin for 10 minutes. Gutherson kicked a penalty goal. It seemed this was going to be the nail in the coffin for the Panthers, who were not only playing poorly, but were now down a man and 14 points behind on the scoreboard.

But this is a champion team.

4 minutes after Martin was binned, Cleary and Luai combined to create an overlap and Sunya Turuva slid over to score in the left corner. Cleary converted. Parramatta hit back 3 minutes later when Asi put Shaun Lane into space. He then drew Laurie before passing to Gutherson in support who raced away to score. He then converted his own try. Martin returned to the field with 9 minutes remaining and the Panthers trailing 34-20.

34 - 36

CommBank Stadium, Parramatta / Burramattagal

In the 73rd minute, Brian To'o shrugged off a weak tackle and then stepped through two even worse tackle efforts before running 10 metres to score a great solo try. Cleary converted.

90 seconds later, a Panthers attacking kick fell back into Penrith's hands just 10 metres from the Eels line. It was sent out to Cleary who fired a beautiful long ball to Turuva who dived low to score in the corner. Cleary failed to convert from the sideline.

From the restart, Penrith made it clear they were going to throw the ball around. On the second tackle and deep inside their own half, Laurie made a break then linked with Tago, who got tackled, but the defender fell off. Tago got back up and planted the ball down for a spectacular 70 metre try. Cleary converted from the sideline to give Penrith a 36-34 victory.

TURBO BRINGS UP 100 TO SEND THE SEA EAGLES SOARING

ROB CROSBY

A second half onslaught has seen the Manly Sea Eagles move a step closer to securing a place in the finals with a 46-24 win over the Canberra Raiders at GIO Stadium.

Posting six tries in a 20 minutes rampage either side of halftime, the Sea Eagles extended their record in Canberra to nine wins from their past 12 visits with an emphatic display which saw Tom Trbojevic score his 100th try in first grade.

The Raiders looked to strike inside the opening 90 second with Ethan Strange pouncing on a loose ball, only for the bunker to deny the recalled playmaker due to a knock on by Jordan Rapana in the lead up.

A run of penalties against the visitors eventually tolled with Josh Papalii (9th minute) marking his first home appearance since bringing up 300 games for the club with a barge-over effort underneath the black dot.

The Sea Eagles took advantage of Jamal Fogarty failing to find touch from a penalty with Luke Brooks combining with Karl Lawton to send Trbojevic (12th minute) over for a four-pointer.

Having been let go by the Sea Eagles at the end of last season, Kaeo Weekes (19th minute) produced an incisive run to put his new club back in front midway through the half.

Fogarty nailed the conversion - equalling Jarrod Croker's club record of 22 consecutive conversions - and had the chance to claim the record only to shank an attempted penalty goal.

An attacking bomb from Brooks was collected by Lehi Hopoate, who produced an inspired offload to send Tommy Talau (25th minute) over for an equalising score.

The tide began to turn against the Raiders with a mutual infringement denying Adam Cook a try and a moment of individual brilliance from Trbojevic allowing Ethan Bullemor (40th minute) to put the Sea Eagles in front for the first time as the halftime sire sounded.

Further tries to Daly Cherry-Evans (43rd minute) and Hopoate (49th minute) gave the visitors the ascendancy, while frustrations boiled over for the Raiders with Joseph Tapine sent to the sin bin for dissent.

Taking advantage of the one-man advantage, the Sea Eagles piled on three tries in five minutes to Taniela Paseka (57th minute), Trbojevic (59th minute) and Brooks (62nd minute) to blow the score out to 46-12.

A pair of tries to Sebastian Kris (70th minute) and Xavier Savage (73rd minute) late in the match acted a little consolation for the Raiders as the Sea Eagles ran out 46-24 winners.

Next week, the Raiders face the Cowboys in Townsville on Saturday evening, while the Sea Eagles host the Warriors on Friday night.

NRL ROUND 23 WRAP

STAGGS NIGHT - BRONCOS TAKE CARL WEBB CUP WITH COMEBACK WIN

JOSH ROBERTSON

The Brisbane Broncos have overturned a 12-point deficit to take an important 42-18 win over the North Queensland Cowboys to take the Carl Webb Cup.

The Broncos wanted to start fast and that's what they did when Corey Jensen scored his first try in over 2,600 days to open the scoring for the visitors after an ill-disciplined start from the Cowboys.

The lead only lasted five minutes for Brisbane as Tom Dearden got his way close to the line and in the eyes of Ashley Klein the ball got to the line despite replays not being totally conclusive as to where the ball got to. The conversion from Val Holmes levelled things at 6-6.

North Queensland were denied a four pointer by the bunker when Jeremiah Nanai knocked on after Reece Walsh spilt a bomb. It didn't matter for the Cowboys as Kyle Fedt scored in the corner just a matter of plays later.

The Cowboys showed luck was on their side as even the mishaps in the contest fell their way as Nanai missed his catch of the attacking kick with it sailing over the catchers from both sides and sat up perfectly for Viliami Vailea who scored. Val Holmes converted to give the hosts an 18-6 lead.

Nothing was going right for the Broncos but they did manage to strike the scoreboard inside the final few minutes of the first half when Deine Mariner scored under the posts. The conversion was good and the Broncos were somehow only trailing by six points.

The second half started with the Cowboys dominating territory and crossed the line twice but both times saw NO TRY go up on the big screen with the first being an effort that was initially ruled as no try for a knock-on against Griffin Neame in the air. Not long after, the Cowboys were awarded a Scott Drinkwater try but had it overturned by Matt Noyen in the bunker after replays showed the ball came free of the Cowboys fullback's grip.

Still not at their very best, the Broncos had their attacking raid right on the Cowboys line after they threw a forward pass from the scrum to turn possession back over.

Though it wasn't all doom and gloom for the Broncos, as Josh Rogers got his first NRL try when Reece Walsh tapped back a kick and Brendan Piakura kept the ball alive for Rogers to score. Reynolds converted to level the scores.

It was then the Broncos who went on a burst as they looked a lot like the danger team people expected as Kotoni Staggs scored the first of his two tries not long before Jordan

Riki scored one of his own chasing a Reece Walsh kick.

The final five minutes, saw the Broncos ice the cake with Kotoni Staggs scoring his second after a play before Reece Walsh swooped on a loose ball before next play Staggs got over. Then inside the final few minutes Xavier Willison scored. Adam Reynolds kept his perfect kicking record going for the night and the Broncos sealed a 42-18 win.

SEXTON STARS AS DOGS SOLIDIFY FINALS PLACE

AJ LUCANTONIO

Canterbury have celebrated Viliame Kikau's 150th game in style with a 28-10 victory over the Dragons before a sold out Netstrata Jubilee Stadium to solidify their finals chances.

The Dragons had all of the early running but an early attack was brought unstuck. A Ben Hunt pass was intercepted by Matt Burton who ran the best part of 90 metres to score. Burton converted his own try for a 6-0 advantage.

That intercept swung momentum as Christian Tuipulotu put down a Toby Sexton bomb. That was quickly compounded with a penalty as Burton added a gift two points to extend the margin to eight. St George Illawarra did well to respond to this and got the margin back to two points after a great tactical kick from Ben Hunt. Hunt threaded the needle for a kick line-break and Zac Lomax has enough pace to beat Addo-Carr to get the bounce and get the Dragons on the board. It wasn't all flying the Saints way with Hame Sele coming off after suffering an irregular heartbeat.

A quick fire double to Bronson Xerri inside the final 15 minutes of the first half seemed to give the Dogs ascendancy. The first came after 25 minutes after a well timed grubber from Toby Sexton. Four minutes later, the half and centre combination struck again after a brilliant pass sent Xerri flying to make it 20-6. However, the Dragons had the final say as Kyle Flanagan and Luciano Leilua combined with Tyrell Sloan for the old outside/inside play to send the fullback flying down the left to reduce the gap to eight at the break.

The second stanza was a dour affair as both sides jostled for ascendancy. Canterbury capitalised on some sustained field position down the attacking end of the field and crossed with just over twenty to play. Kurt Mann bumps off some really poor defensive efforts there for the Dragons and the little lock forward barged over to score. Burton's conversion made it a 16 point game.

The Dragons had limited second half possession but when they did, they did very little with the football and the Dogs were able to hold them scoreless in the second stanza. Jacob Kiraz looked certain to score with 13 and a half to go, but a courageous tackle by Moses Suli and the Lebanese winger was denied to the boos of the Canterbury faithful. Burton added a gift two points with just over 5 to play after Hunt was pinned for offside.

Canterbury were great and gritty putting together a great 80 minute performance against a team fighting to make the finals. For the Dragons, they just didn't execute in the big moments, that's where they lost the match tonight. The night ended on one sour note, a post match complaint from Crichton that he was bitten by Kyle Flanagan on the nose. Crichton had a bloody nose from the incident and video replays don't favour Flanagan's case. The matter will no doubt be referred to the Judiciary for a hearing mid-week.

NRL ROUND 23 WRAP

O'SULLIVAN DELIVERS SOS AS DOLPHINS SKATE PAST DETERMINED WARRIORS

AJ LUCANTONIO

In what will go down as 2024's craziest NRL match, the Dolphins have won a golden point thriller over Warriors in a classic game of football at Suncorp Stadium.

As the forward battle was starting to wane, due in large part to the stagnant Warriors goal-line attack. The Dolphins capitalised on field position and scored the first try. It took a beautiful grubber kick from Kodi Nikorima to leave Charnze Nicoll-Klokstad on ice-skates, and it was Felise Kaufusi grounded the ball first. Jamayne Isaako continued his streak of 23 straight conversions for a 6-0 lead inside the opening 10.

With their finals hopes on life support, the Warriors were trying every trick possible, and they were frustrating the Dolphins until it came unstuck after 17 minutes. A cross-field kick from Chanel Harris-Tavita was batted back by Nicoll-Klokstad, unfortunately, it was scooped up by Max Plath who offloaded to Herbie Farnworth and raced the best part of 85 metres to score the Dolphins second. The visitors were rewarded for their relentless attacking kicks just minutes later, it was a good high bomb from Te Maire Martin and Edward Kosi flies high over Isaako to take the football. Kosi still had work to do and runs over the top of Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow to get the Warriors back in it.

The game developed into a stale-mate until some contentious decisions gave the Dolphins momentum. A over the shoulders tackle by Roger Tuivasa-Sheck was judged to be high, replays showed zero high contact from RTS. Isaako knocked over a penalty goal to extend the margin to two scores. From the next set, Jake Averillo put on a move and got his way through some pedestrian defence breaking away over half-way. He found Nikorima in support for a vital try to make it 20-6. Mark Nicholls left the game in awful discomfort late in the half, but the bunker found shoulder contact to the head by Dylan Walker and dispatched him to the sin-bin to leave the Wahs down to 12. The score remained 20-6 at the change of ends.

New Zealand started the second half well with sustained field position. Three minutes after the break, a brilliant kick from Martin was well chased by Kurt Capewell and he has grounded the ball inside the field of play. Harris-Tavita converted to make it an 8 point game. The Phins thought they established their HT lead back but it was denied after TPJ stopped in the defensive line.

A Mitch Barnett error gave the Dolphins much needed field position. The home side capitalised in the resulting set as Nikorima delivered a magical pass for Farnworth's second try of the contest. Isaako's conversion attempt made it 27 straight for the winger and the gap was back to a comfortable 14 points. It was soon the Warriors turn to capitalise on an opposition error after Plath couldn't handle the hospital pass from Averillo. On the attack, the Warriors passed it out the back which caused all sorts of defensive chaos for Nikorima and the right edge of the Dolphins, fortunately for the visitors, Ali Leiataua was on the spot to pick the ball up and score.

The Dolphins second half demons continued to appear. This time, an Isaiya Katoa kick sailed over the touchline on the full, giving the Warriors plenty of attacking chances. A clever Martin kick failed to be recovered by Oryn Keeley in the contest with CNK, Te Maire Martin was there to scoop it and it is back to a one possession game.

Leiataua broke through into space and was brought down 10 away from the Warriors line, Nicoll-Klokstad went down the short-side and got it back to the young centre and he lost control with the line wide-open. Fortunately, the Phins were off-side. From the tap kick, Harris-Tavita caused chaos, stepping past several defenders. He got a miracle offload to Wayde Egan who found Sifakula to cross.

Both sides had great difficulty completing a set in the last ten minutes. However, with five to go the Warriors went for glory. A clever grubber saw Mitch Barnett chase the ball, he just missed grounding the ball. However, the bunker and Wyatt Raymond correctly ruled a penalty try after Nikorima jagged back the front-rower. It was 32-32 at full-time.

Golden point continued the tradition of hitup set into field goal. Both sides had shots, but it was Sean O'Sullivan who delivered the SOS off the bench to nail it from beyond the 40m line to secure victory for the Dolphins in a classic game of football.

KNIGHTS LOOK SHARPE AS TIGERS TUMBLE AGAIN

KELLY HOLLIS

The Newcastle Knights kept their finals hopes alive with a 34-18 victory over the Wests Tigers in the final match of Round 23 at McDonald Jones Stadium.

In front of a home crowd of 22,138, the Knights secured an important win, moving them just two points outside the top eight, while the Tigers' struggles continued.

The match was highlighted by an exceptional performance from winger Fletcher Sharpe, who scored four tries, including a hat-trick in the first half. The opening exchanges saw both teams trading blows, with the Tigers responding to an early try from Tyson Frizell through Adam Doueihi. The back-and-forth battle left the Knights leading 22-12 at halftime, thanks to Sharpe's heroics.

Krystian Mapapalangi, who was called into the starting lineup due to Dylan Lucas's injury, extended the Knights' lead early in the second half with his first NRL try. The Tigers fought back with a try from Jahream Bula, narrowing the gap to 28-18, but Sharpe's fourth try, set up by a brilliant break from Dane Gagai, put the game out of reach. Kalyn Ponga's fifth successful conversion sealed the win for Newcastle.

Phoenix Crossland, playing at halfback for just the second time this season, was instrumental in the Knights' success, contributing to the attack and racking up 110 running metres. The Knights' forward pack also dominated, with four players surpassing 100 running metres, providing the platform for their backline to capitalise.

The Wests Tigers, despite showing glimpses of their potential, were unable to maintain the intensity needed to challenge the Knights in the second half. Their cause was further hampered by the loss of halfback Aidan Sezer to a knee injury midway through the game, which stifled their attacking options.

Next week, the Knights will look to continue their push for a finals spot when they travel to PointsBet Stadium to face the Sharks. Meanwhile, the Tigers will host the Rabbitohs at Campbelltown Sports Stadium, seeking to restore some pride in what has been a challenging season.

ROOSTERS SHOW CLASS IN OUTMUSCLING GRITTY TIGERS AJ LUCANTONIO

An unanswered 20 point second half from the Sydney Roosters was enough to guide the Tri-Colours to back to back wins over a brave and determined Wests Tigers side.

In a match that will be remembered for its defence. Both sides had a lot of chances to score the opening try. Every chance the Roosters had seemed to be answered thanks to some brilliant scramble defence from the Tigers. Wests were rewarded with their defence by crossing for the first try. A disastrous short drop-out after waves of Tigers possession saw Leianne Turuva pick up the loose ball and find Tess Staines who raced away to score. The Tigers luck did desert them however losing three players through injury, the most notable being Kezzie Apps but they still led 4-0 at the break.

The Tigers continued their scramble in defence denying the Roosters at will. A brilliant bit of hot potato footy got the Roosters level, Jasmine Strange scrambled on a loose pass to put Jayme Fressard away down the left sideline to level the scores. Fatigue began to set in as the Tigers were low on troops, but despite this they kept turning up for each-other. The Roosters dominated second half field position but at every opportunity, the Tigers held them. Eventually, the pressure took its toll with 10 to play. Some great enterprising footy down the left saw Keeley Davis brought down 10 out from the line. Off the ensuing play, Olivia Kernick charged across to put the Roosters in front. Jocelyn Kellagher added the extras to make it a converted try lead. The Roosters were concerned with potential knee injury to Jess Sergis after being taken awkwardly in a Sarah Togatuki tackle with 5 and a half to go. However, she put that aside to break away down the left touch line to put the game out of reach. A late Fressard try put the exclamation mark on what was a gritty Roosters win. The score-line didn't reflect what was a brave Tigers effort as they were low on troops for most of the second half.

NRLW ROUND 2 WRAP

RAIDERS FADE AS SHARKS GO ON SECOND-HALF FRENZY ANDY P

The Canberra Raiders gave up an 8-0 half-time lead at GIO Stadium, folding to an unrelenting Cronulla Sharks second-half comeback.

An arm wrestle was developing in the opening quarter of the game, but the deadlock was finally broken when Madison Bartlett went over in the 14th minute. Shakiah Tungai slotted the side-line conversion, and it was 6-0 for the home side. The Sharks were doing themselves no favours as they gave back-to-back penalties as play resumed. The Raiders took advantage of a penalty close to the goal, and Tungai slotted her second conversion of the day to stretch the lead. It looked like the Raiders' day, when they were showing great resolve on the line and in play to stem the flow of the Sharks' pressure.

The second half opened the best way it could for the Raiders as a line break by Mackenzie Wiki laid the way for a movement left at the Sharks line, with Madison Bartlett nabbing her second try. With the conversion missed it was looking like the Raiders were in the flow at 12-0. It took some inspiring work from the Sharks captain, Tiana Penitani, to spark a Sharks revival. The Sharks pounced on back-to-back Raiders errors and stormed up their left edge with Penitani dragging three Raiders over to open up the scoring for the Sharks in the 45th minute. It was another error five minutes later that the Sharks used to set up a play down their right side. Annessa Biddle finished off the move by going over to put the game at 12-8 at minute 52. It may have been fatigue that was unhinging the Raiders, but they kept giving up territory for undisciplined play. After three penalties in a row, the Sharks were on too much of a roll and prop Holli Wheeler barged over to tie the game up. After Tayla Preston got the conversion, the Sharks finally hit the lead in the 56th minute, 14-12. From here, it was a feeding frenzy, as Nakia Davis-Welsh went over a minute later and then Ellie Johnston in the 62nd minute to put the score at 24-12 after Preston converted. The game wrapped up, and Raiders coach Darrin Borthwick conceded the lost the battle in the ruck in the middle third. He had been happy with the first-half effort but wasn't sure why the team lost focus in the second. Sharks coach Tony Herman was full of praise for his team, and a second-half comeback like that showed great resolve in the team's ranks, setting them up as contenders this year.

DRAGONS ON THE BOARD AFTER GRITTY AWAY WIN TIM COSTELLO

St George Illawarra have upset Newcastle in a dramatic Sunday night contest away from home at McDonald Jones Stadium.

A healthy 9,479 fans stuck around post-NRL men's to catch some 'dub' action and they were treated to an entertaining and close-fought contest, with a pair of tries to each team in the first half meaning the scores were deadlocked at 10-all heading into the break.

Tamika Upton was first on the board, crossing for the Knights to get the home side off to the ideal start, Sheridan Gallagher extending the advantage for 10-0. Teagan Berry and Keele Browne were ready and able to respond with a try each to reel the deficit in.

After the break, the Dragons locked down in defence and it was the brilliance of outside back Kimberley Hunt who crossed for a double, that got the Red V home.

Speaking of home, St George Illawarra will host long-time rivals the Roosters at WIN Stadium next Sunday, while Newcastle will visit Pointsbet Stadium where both their mens and womens teams are away to Cronulla on the same afternoon.

EELS GRAB SECOND WIN OVER COWBOYS JOSH ROBERTSON

The Parramatta Eels took their second win of the NRLW season following a 20-6 win over the Cowboys in Brisbane on Sunday.

Things started well for the visitors who opened the scoring through Rosie Kelly as the Eels looked to shift right and Kelly split two defenders before keeping herself up to slam the ball down. Rachael Pearson converted from near touch to give Parra a 6-0 lead. The Cowboys struck back not long after when Emma Manzelmann straightened the attack and put China Polata through to score.

A quickfire double to Rosemary Beckett on either side of half time put the Eels clear by 10 points with the first coming when the Eels dummy half elected to run the ball down the short side on last tackle and with the defence standing off ran through and got the ball down. The second was again a dummy half dart from Beckett who threw a dummy but then went through a yawning gap. The Cowboys had an effort to Fran Goldthorp denied when the officials correctly ruled a pass from Kirra Dibb to her winger to be forward which was one of the only real chances for North Queensland in the second half. Just shy of the hour mark, a sharp change of direction saw Abbi Church beat the Cowboys defence and get over. Despite the conversion miss, the Eels lead 20-6 which they held onto until full time.

BRONCOS BOUNCE BACK TO BEAT "LITTLE SISTER" BETH NICHOLLS

The Titans had won their first two games of the season, whilst the Broncos were still searching for their first win, and they finally found it.

There were superstars across the field for the Broncos, with centre Mele Hufanga scoring four tries, equalling her total 2023 season tally, Gayle Broughton making her long-awaited return in the halves, and new signing Stacey Waaka making her Broncos debut after winning the gold medal with the NZ rugby sevens just weeks ago. The first half was all the Broncos show, completing 17 of 18 sets and scoring four tries. This started with speedy Julia Robinson scoring her third try in three games this season, then Destiny Brill getting her first try of the season. Hufanga then finally got her first for the season after previous tries being ruled out due to forward passes and obstruction, before she then went over for her second just 5 minutes later. Going into the halftime break, Brisbane was dominating with a score line of 22-0, and the Titans were just struggling to get anything going.

A combination try between the Bronco veteran Ali Briggingshaw and fullback Hayley Maddick started off the scoring in the second half just three minutes in. After forty minutes of play it finally looked like the Titans got their first points on the board through winger Georgia Grey, but the try was overruled by the Bunker due to a knock-on. The Broncos onslaught then didn't stop, with Romy Teitzel getting her first try of the season after a linebreak from golden girl Waaka, which was then followed by a long distance try by Hufanga. The Gold Coast side then finally get their first (and only) points of the match in the 50th minute, through a kick and try to halfback, Lauren Brown. Hufanga then crosses over for a fourth time to give the Broncos a 40-point lead over "lil sis", which sees her equal the NRLW and club record for tries scored in one match, for the second time in her career. This game broke records for both sides, with it being Brisbane's biggest win margin, with their previous record being 34 points, whilst it was the Titan's biggest loss, with their prior heaviest defeat being only 26 points. The Titans now look to next week where they play their other QLD rivals, the Cowboys, who have only won one game so far this season. For the winner, the Broncos prepare themselves to take on the Raiders who sit just below them on the ladder, with only points differential currently separating them.

Date: Sun, 11th August. Kickoff: 1:45 PM. Halftime: Brisbane 22-0. Penalties: 5-all.
Referee: Nick Pelgrave. Crowd: 1,788 at Totally Workwear Stadium.

NRLW PREVIEWS: ROUND 4

BRONCOS v RAIDERS: Beth NICHOLLS

The Broncos are looking to start a 2024 winning streak, whilst the Raiders have now gone back-to-back in losses and are hoping to get back into the winning circle.

After starting the season on a low, losing to the Eels and Roosters, the Broncos finally found their groove and ignited their season last week, beating their "little sister" 44-4. The game saw NRLW records broken, with Mele Hufanga scoring four tries in one match for the second time in her career, which equals the NRLW and Broncos record for tries scored in one match, and the Brisbane side also breaking their record for biggest win margin.

Shenae Giesiolka moves back into starting centre, returning to the squad through the bench last week after recovering from a fracture. Lavinia Gould moves onto the bench, with Jada Ferguson playing as starting hooker. Lauren Dam returns to the squad after missing the Titans clash, and Skylla Adams is 18th player.

The Raiders started their season on a high note, beating the Tigers 32-12 on away turf. They then descended into a slump, losing to the Knights and Sharks at home in Round 2 and 3 respectively.

Darrin Borthwick has named the same starting 17 that were defeated by the Sharks to take on the Brisbane side this weekend.

These two sides met once last year in the Raider's inaugural season in 2023, where the Broncos came out on top, piling points on and winning 40-8.

WHO TO WATCH: After missing the back end of last season and the opening match of this season, Gayle Broughton returned for the Broncos at five-eighth. The former rugby-sevens and Parramatta Eels player has played 16 NRLW matches and scored five tries, and in her 2023 season with Brisbane she made four try assists, along with scoring four of her five tries. Broughton brings experience to the squad and is an important half pairing alongside halfback and captain, Ali Briginshaw.

Having joined the Raiders last season after being with the Roosters since the start of the NRLW in 2018, Zahara Temera is an important player in the Canberra side. The halfback and co-captain has already scored two tries in the three games so far this year, having only scored three previously in her career. Temera is an experienced, representative player who brings leadership and class to the side.

MY TIP: Brisbane have started the ride up the ladder, whilst Canberra have started the descent down the ladder, and they both want to be in the winning circle. After the performance of the Broncos last week, I just can't look past them as they look to continue to dominate and get themselves back into the top of the ladder. Broncos by 16.

TIGERS v EELS: Luke JOBSON

The final game of round four in the NRLW sees a desperate Wests Tigers looking to snap their losing streak at home against the seasons most improved by far in the Parramatta Eels.

It hasn't been a pretty start to the season for the Tigers, with three losses of 16+ in the first three rounds of the season. While there is no denying that the Tigers have been competitive despite the scorelines of their first three games, they have not been able to put a full 70 minute performance together. Last week was no different, holding the Roosters scoreless in the first half before conceding 20 in the second half to go down 20-4. That loss was compounded by the injury to co-captain Kezie Apps, who will miss the rest of the season with a PCL injury. It hasn't been all bad news for the Tigers, with Tess Staines giving defensive lines plenty of issues this year and

The most improved team of 2024 by a country mile, the Parramatta Eels have vaulted themselves into a finals position for the first time since their grand final run in 2022. A 20-6 win against a dangerous North Queensland Cowboys firmly announced the Eels intentions of being major players in this year's NRLW Premiership. The combination that is the Parramatta spine has gelled into something that hasn't been seen since Parramatta

COWBOYS v TITANS: Beth NICHOLLS

After a strong start to the season the Titans look to overcome the horrific loss to the Broncos last weekend, whilst the Cowboys are also looking to get themselves back on the right track.

The home side have had a mixed start to the season, with an opening loss where they were kept scoreless by the Sharks, followed by a high-scoring narrow win to the Dragons in Round 2, before losing to the Eels last weekend. Winning only two games in their inaugural 2023 season, North QLD will be looking to continue this season on a higher note. Harata Butler returns for her second game in Cowboys colours after missing Round 2, and Jetaya Faifua plays her first game of the season, both of which will be joining the squad on the bench in place of Alisha Foord and Lillian Yarrow.

Gold Coast will be looking to face this QLD Derby head on after losing to their "big sister", the Broncos, last weekend in the biggest ever points margin in their history. This loss sees the Titans drop to fifth after winning Round 1 and 2 and sitting in first after the last match of Round 2. Karyn Murphy has named two rookies to make their NRLW debuts this weekend: Lalani Montgomery at centre and Matekino Gray on the bench. Montgomery is replacing Niall Williams-Guthrie who has injured her hamstring, and Gray joins the bench with Hailee-Jay Ormond-Maunsell and Ngatokotoru Arakua being dropped to the reserves.

These two sides met once in the Cowboys inaugural 2023 season which saw the Titans come out on top, 16-6.

WHO TO WATCH: Moving to the Cowboys after playing at the Tigers in 2023 and the Knights in 2022, Jakiya Whitfeld has made her mark on the North QLD side. Whitfeld scored a double against the Dragons in Round 2, and has made 13 tackle breaks and one line break so far this season.

Currently leading the Dally M leaderboard on twelve points, Lauren Brown has been massive for the Titans so far this year, which comes off the back of an incredible State of Origin series for QLD. In the three games so far this year Brown has scored one try, whilst making two try assists and four line break assists.

MY TIP: The Titans will be ready to bounce back after last week's loss, especially given how well their season started. On the other hand, the Cowboys have let too many points through across all three games and have only really succeeded in attack in 1/3 matches. I think it will be a close one, but the Titans will come up on top in the end. Titans by 12.

came into the competition. Rachael Pearson has been fantastic alongside Cassey Tohi-Hiku, while Abbi Church has worked her way into 2024 with a lightning performance last week. The duel-weapon at dummy half with Taneka Todhunter and Rosemarie Beckett just caps off what is Parramatta's biggest weapon this year; their versatility to hit you from anywhere on the field. If the Tigers want to record their first win of this season, they need to play like how they did in the first half of last week for the full 70 minutes. This is a Parramatta team who have demonstrated that they will hit you from short range with grubbers, sweeping plays or from deep in their own half. Should the Tigers be able to stop the run early, get some early points and have Parramatta playing catch up, the Tigers could very well walk away with an upset.

A couple of forced changes for the Tigers and coach Brett Kimmorley, with captain Kezie Apps and Harmony Crichton injured in last week's loss to the Roosters. Rebecca Pollard takes Crichton's spot on the wing, while Brooke Talataina moves into the starting line up and Jessica Kennedy gets promoted from the reserves to the bench. Parramatta have named the same 17 for the third game in a row - something unheard of with the Eels for the last couple of seasons. New signee Breanna Eales will start off her Eels career in the reserves, having signed her contract last week.

DRAGONS v ROOSTERS: Josh ROBERTSON

Sunday afternoon action heads down to the Gong where the St George Illawarra Dragons will look to pull off two big upsets in consecutive weeks when they look to beat the Sydney Roosters at WIN Stadium.

The slow start to the season for the Dragons was eclipsed last week as they were able to overturn a 10-0 deficit against the two-time defending premiers the Newcastle Knights to take an 18-10 victory in Newcastle. The Red 'V' started slowly as the Knights were able to score twice within the opening twenty minutes until the tide shifted with the introduction of Kiwi 7s gold medalist Tyla King coming on and changing the game. A ten-minute burst prior to half time saw the Dragons score three tries although one try was subsequently disallowed before scoring two tries in the second half to set up the win. Despite back-to-back defeats, the Dragons didn't play awfully across their first two games having lost by eight points in Round 1 to the Titans before breaking an NRLW record when they scored 34 points against the Cowboys becoming the first side to lose a match scoring 30 or more points. Team wise, Tyla King comes back into the halves after starting from the bench last week which sees Zali Hopkins dropping back to the bench whilst Ella Koster comes onto the bench for her first game of the season replacing Jamilee Bright who suffered a head knock last week and had to be stretched off.

A slow start wasn't the trouble that it could have been for the Sydney Roosters as they scored a 20-4 win over the Wests Tigers last week in Gosford. Whilst the scoreboard may look dominant for the Roosters, it was far from it as they had to score all their points in the second half after the Tigers lead 4-0 at the break. The performance from the Roosters wasn't their prime Rugby League that we have come to expect but again were able to do enough to win consecutive games. The Roosters haven't been at their clinical best in three games with two wins and a narrow loss to the Knights which didn't really show their dominance but they sit in second spot as one of four teams with 2 wins behind the undefeated Sharks. Roosters coach John Strange has shuffled his team around with Mya Hill-Moana named to start at prop with Otesa Pule in the second row. Amber Hall and Pani Hopoate are dropped back to the bench.

WHO TO WATCH: It's not hard to say that a Gold Medalist from just two weeks ago is the player to watch but Tyla King's impact last week was huge when she came onto the field. It gave the Red 'V' an extra boost in attack and her partnership with Raecene McGregor was vital to the Dragons beating the Knights and will be vital to beating the Roosters.

Roosters half Tarryn Aiken was a star for Queensland during the Origin series and has been good to start the NRLW season but with a Roosters side not really hitting top gear, they need Aiken to step up and deliver for the tricolours. The impact of King for the Dragons will be their big boost and the Roosters need to have Aiken step up in partnership with Isabelle Kelly in the halves.

MY TIP: I'm going to go the Dragons in this one, they have looked good in parts this season and they are only going to be boosted in confidence by the win over the nights. It might not be the easiest of games again but back in Wollongong they should get a boost. Dragons by 8.

WHO TO WATCH: Tess Staines will be eyeing up the right edge of the Parramatta Eels this week, coming off a game where she scored her first try for the Tigers. The Eels right edge is where they concede the majority of their points, and the former Eel will have a solid understanding on where to hit Parramatta where it hurts. It could be further motivation for Staines, who is currently 0-12 in her win/loss career - as she looks to win for the first time against her old club.

Abbi Church arguably had her breakout game of 2024 last week, scoring a try as well as two linebreaks and 190 running metres. Church, who is tied currently as the most capped Eel with 20 (Kennedy Cherrington), has started to turn a corner after a pretty lackluster 2023. Averaging more metres per game this season than in her career so far, she will try to use her change of pace at the line to bust through some tired Tigers defenders late in the first half.

MY TIP: Do not get me wrong, there is nothing to say that the Tigers won't cause a serious upset this weekend - but something has to change. Parramatta on paper, and in the form line are the superior side this weekend. Watch the Eels attack down the Tigers left edge early to get Rory Owen an early crack at the line, with my gut saying that Owen scores and the Eels run away with a strong victory in Tigerland on Sunday. Eels by 16.

SHARKS v KNIGHTS: Adam HUXTABLE

Sharks look to continue undefeated season against vulnerable Knights outfit

The Knights have been the dominant team of the NRLW over the last two years and entered this campaign as reigning back-to-back premiers. On the surface, their start to 2024 appeared to be more of the same, winning their first two games to make it 11 in a row without a loss extending back to 2023. Despite still coming out on top on the scoreboard however, it wasn't the same sort of clinical performances that's seen them cruise through the regular season in the past, barely surviving a late scare against the Roosters and rallying for a comeback win against the Raiders that included a penalty try in the last two minutes. The Knights finally paid the price for playing with their food in round 3, going down 18-10 against a Dragons side they were expected to get past with ease in a game that was more one-sided than the scoreboard suggests, with the Red V dominating possession, particularly in the second half.

It doesn't get any easier this week against a Sharks team that has shown glimpses of premiership potential in their three games. They cruised past the Cowboys at home in Round 1, but it's their two matches since then that give reason to believe they can be there at the pointy end of the season. They won a see-sawing affair two weeks ago against a much-improved Eels side, while last week against Canberra they found themselves down 12-0 early in the second half before putting five unanswered tries on the Raiders to end up 24-12 winners.

The NRLW feels as open as it's ever been this year in terms of the number of teams who feel they have a realistic chance at winning the premiership, and the fact that the Sharks have already shown they can maintain their intensity for a full 70 minutes over multiple games is as good a reason for optimism as any. The number of questions set to be answered by this matchup gives it game of the round potential in my opinion. If the Sharks continue rolling after two hard fought road trips and beat what has been the best team in the comp over the last two years, whatever doubt there is about their legitimacy will be gone. For the Knights, last week was a wakeup call that needs to be answered; they have yet to put together a complete performance and the Sharks will have no trouble making them pay for any lapses in concentration.

WHO TO WATCH: Sharks prop Ellie Johnston has been as close as you can to the full package for a forward as you can get so far this season, excelling in every aspect of the game an elite middle should and then some. While she doesn't make as many raw running metres as some other players, her approach is very much "quality over quantity", averaging 4 tackle breaks per game while also recording a line break in each of the last two weeks. She is also a genuine try scoring threat, scoring six last year which was good for the most on the Sharks roster, forwards and backs, and that form has carried over with a try apiece in her last two games. Her defence has also been borderline unbelievable, recording a tackle efficiency of 98.3% (!!) last season. That number has dropped to 95.5 this year, despite Johnston making a mammoth 37 tackles last week without a single miss. It's too much of an ask for the Knights to fully shut down Johnston, so the degree to which they're able to limit her impact will go a long way to winning the game.

Despite Newcastle's struggles so far this year, superstar fullback Tamika Upton has still provided a steady source of individual brilliance that can be relied upon. Against the Raiders a couple of weeks ago, her chase of a last-minute grubber resulted in the penalty try that won the Knights the game, while last week, despite the loss, early doors it looked like the Knights were in for a dominant win as she dummed and accelerated her way through a gap in the defensive line for an early try. A lot of the Knights troubles in that game stemmed from their inability to hold the ball, finishing with just 21/33 sets completed for a 63% completion rate. It resulted in their stars, of which Upton is the most prominent, being starved of attacking opportunity. You'd expect a team like Newcastle to bounce back, and when they do, it will be interesting to see how involved Upton is able to make herself.

MY TIP: While it's always dangerous to write off a champion team, I just haven't seen enough from the Knights this season to suggest they'll be able to hang with Cronulla for the full 70 minutes, a task made even harder by the fact they'll be on the road. Sharks by 8.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andy P

We could be having a preview of the 2024 NRL Premiership Grand as Round 24's Thursday night special sees top-of-the-ladder heavyweights Penrith Panthers host the Melbourne Storm at BlueBet Stadium.

The season's pointy end has seen the Panthers hit scintillating form, on a five-game win streak, and Nathan Cleary firing on all cylinders. In their last outing, the Panthers managed to beat the Eels 36-34 at Commbank Stadium, something the Panthers had not been able to achieve at that venue since 2019.

It was an across-the-board show from the mountain men, with Brian To'o, Izack Tago and Sunia Turuva all scoring doubles. Nathan Cleary was again a standout, while Isaah Yeo led from the front.

But the game was not without incident and a headache for coach Ivan Cleary, as Panthers and Origin wrecking ball Liam Martin copped ten minutes in the bin for a dangerous tackle, resulting in a one-game suspension for this round. Scott Sorensen will also miss the game with a hamstring injury. The next men up to replace them will be Liam Henry and Mavrik Geyer. Panthers fans will be hoping the naming of Dylan Edwards and James Fisher-Harris in the reserves could be a late change closer to game day.

The Storm came off a somewhat shakey win against South Sydney in the last round, 28-16. Melbourne had been leading 22-4 at halftime but seemed to go to sleep and look for shortcuts, allowing Souths to test their resolve. Coach Craig Bellamy felt it was a lost opportunity to put their foot down against the opposition. Much like the Panthers last round, it was an across-the-board effort from the ladder leaders. Ryan Papenhuyzen, Jahrome Hughes and Harry Grant were all firing; even big Nelson Asofa-Solomona scored a try. But as Bellamy reiterated after the game, as a team, they went to sleep and made it hard for themselves, something that won't be as easy to get out of against the Penrith outfit.

The Storm forward pack will be boosted by Eli Katoa's return from a knee injury.

WHO TO WATCH: Of course, Captain Nathan Cleary will be out for a game on his home turf, with the minor premiership at stake and the only team standing in their way to play. The Penrith backline is settling in well around Cleary since his return, with Daine Laurie proving his worth while Edwards has been out - and the deputising fullback has an appetite for return metres. Tago and To'o were asked questions last week and were happy to answer them with high-performance rugby league.

With Martin out, Lindsay Smith gets a chance to flex his set of skills in the front row. Smith has shown agility for a big mobile forward and has been handy with the ball to boot as well. Yeo is destined to put a big performance in, as well as Moses Leota, who will lead the charge against an intimidating Storm forward pack.

And it's Nelson Asofa-Solomona who will put his hand up to get the attention of the Panthers pack. Being backed up by Grant, Katoa, Josh King, and Loiero means the middle will be a busy place for each team to assert dominance.

Before going to sleep, the Storms' supreme halves combination of Cameron Munster and Jahrome Hughes showed us why they are at the top of the ladder last round. Jack Howarth and Grant Anderson have been playing their part in the team's efforts of late and are not in a hurry to relinquish their promotions to the run-on side easily. The speedy Papenhuyzen and the athletic Will Warbrick wrap up a backline with a lot to tackle and some hard targets in the Panthers' backline to mark.

FAVOURITE: The consistency of the Panthers puts them at good odds to take the game this Thursday night. The Storm have been good, but Bellamy is keen to see the team go for the full 80 minutes.

MY TIP: The last match in Round 1 was trench warfare, and the Storm took it out 8-0. With almost a full season under their belts, these teams have shown they are the cream of the crop. Both have 'X' factors, and both have been able to put on multiple tries with only moments remaining. It will be a battle across the board easily and likely a close game based around defence. The Storm will edge ahead from a big forward pack, the visitors by 2 to add fire to the finals season around the corner. Melbourne by 2.

MATCH PREVIEW

Luke JOBSON

It is a do-or-die clash for completely differing reasons as the Manly Sea Eagles take on the New Zealand Warriors to kick off Friday night football.

With every team inside the top six now having had their three byes, Manly are on the outside looking in - a top four finish and second bite of the cherry the reward that the Sea Eagles are chasing. The Warriors are all but dead in the water after last weeks' heartbreaking loss to the Dolphins in extra time, with goal kicking once again the deciding factor.

Manly ran roughshod over the Canberra Raiders last week to not only leapfrog the Cowboys into 6th position, but crucially get a win away from the 8th placed Dolphins as a wall of teams chase after the last spot in the finals. Seven different players managed to get over the white line, with five tries between the 40th and 60th minute secured a much needed win for the Sea Eagles.

Tom Trbojevic has been fantastic after returning from injury nearly a month ago, while Luke Brooks has arguably had his best ever season as the deputy to chief commanding officer, Daly Cherry-Evans. A win here puts increasing pressure on Sydney, Cronulla and Canterbury to win outright to finish the season - moreso for the final two teams there as both have to play Manly in the last two rounds of the season.

The Warriors are all but dead and buried in 2024, with last weeks' painful loss to the Dolphins crushing the hopes and dreams of Wah nation. It was nearly a comeback for the ages as the Warriors, who ended up getting sunk by a Sean O'Sullivan field goal in the first period of golden point.

Te Maire Martin nearly dragged the Warriors home by himself, but it wasn't to be. The Warriors are still alive mathematically in the race for the finals, but they need a lot to go their way alongside winning out. There's also been questions raised about whether the Warriors are better with or without Shaun Johnson - something that will be put to the test on Friday in front of a sold out Brookevale Oval.

Last time these two teams met, it was a 22-22 draw at Mt Smart Stadium, with neither team able to land a winning shot in extra time.

Manly have made one change to the team that downed the Raiders last week, as Josh Aloiai returns from a knee injury. Enforcer Nathan Brown moves to the bench as Toafofoa Siplely gets relegated to the reserves.

The Warriors welcome back Shaun Johnson from injury, who starts his retirement tour at Brookvale Oval on Friday. Adam Pompey and Marcelo Montoya return after injury lay-offs, replacing Ali Leiatava (concussion) and Te Maire Martin (neck).

WHO TO WATCH: It should come as no surprise here that Daly Cherry-Evans will be the main man that the Warriors have to shut down on Friday. While Tom Trbojevic is a crucial cog in the Manly attack, it is the Queensland halfback that continues to keep Manly firmly on his shoulders. 7 tries and eleven try assists don't stand out as amazing stats, but the kicking game of Cherry-Evans will continue to put the Warriors on the back foot. Cherry-Evans also scored a double last time these teams played in round 6, for those who may dabble this weekend.

Shaun Johnson will need to pull out some old SJ7 magic if he wants to get the Warriors across the line and keep any chance of finals football alive. The running game of Johnson will need to be in full force, targeting the likes of Ben Trbojevic and Tommy Talau, giving space in the middle for Mitch Barnett and Addin Fonua-Blake to put some tired Manly defenders through more work than normal.

FAVOURITE: Manly are favoured to strengthen their finals spot.

MY TIP: Top 4 spot on the line for one side, finals football on the line for the other. Manly, in front of a sold out crowd at Brookevale Oval, will get the chocolates here. There's too many questions around the Warriors attack, or commitment to the team in the case of a few players. Add in a combination of Trbojevic, Brooks and Cherry-Evans who are finding their groove at the right time? Wahs nation can book their holidays in September. Sea Eagles by 12.

MATCH PREVIEW

Lachlan McINTYRE

Roosters in top four fight as Parramatta loom as a dangerous hurdle

The prime time slot on Friday night will see the Sydney Roosters host the Parramatta Eels at Moore Park in what the home fans will be hoping to be a one-sided affair. With the Roosters up and about in 4th, a good run of form heading into the finals is exactly what they need to push the likes of Melbourne and Penrith all the way. Parramatta's season is long gone, and they'll be feeling especially heartbroken coming off their narrow loss to the Panthers last week.

The Roosters will head into this one well-rested, having the weekend off and two points added to their total with their third and final bye of the season last week. Having won six of their past seven matches, the atmosphere in and around Roosters camp would be very positive, something that should lift their confidence heading into round 24. New recruit Mark Nawaqanitawase joined the Roosters squad in the past few days following his Olympic campaign, with the aim to get the 7s convert ready for top grade footy in 2025.

The week off was also handy in that it gave a few stars a chance to recover from their bumps and bruises attained against The Dolphins two weeks ago. Lindsay Collins, Dom Young, and Nat Butcher were all sitting under injury clouds, however as it stands they have all been named to take the field this Friday night. Trent Robinson has in fact named the exact same 17 as round 22.

The Eels will be shattered after blowing a massive chance for an upset against their western Sydney rivals and NRL's reigning premiers Penrith Panthers last week. Leading from the get-go through a Talagi try, the game see-sawed its way to half-time. A 62nd minute sin bin for Penrith's Liam Martin saw Parramatta go out to a 14 point lead - the same points gap they held when Martin returned with less than 10 minutes remaining in the game. But three quick tries from Panthers' outside backs stole the game at the death, adding to Parramatta's woeful season. The Eels loss also kills any sort of momentum generated by the team's win against the NZ Warriors the week prior.

Winger Maika Sivo has been on the sidelines since round 17 nursing a hamstring injury, but he has been named on the reserves and could be a potential late inclusion for the Eels this week. Only one change has been made to the 17 from last week, with the return of Kelma Tuilagi from a thumb injury pushing Matt Doorey back to the reserves.

Kelma Tuilagi was binned in only the third minute the last time these two sides met, just nine rounds ago. The Roosters came out on top so the Eels will be keen to get them back.

WHO TO WATCH: Widely regarded as one of the best backs in the game, Joey Manu will line up in the centres this Friday for the Roosters for one of the final times. A one club man to this point, the New Zealand international has been with the Roosters since his debut in 2016. But Manu's time not only at the club, but in the NRL altogether, is nearly up, with the 28 year old inking a one year deal with Japanese Rugby club Toyota Verblitz. It remains to be seen whether Manu may return to the NRL in the future, but it's nevertheless exciting to see Rugby League talent receive opportunities at a larger scale. He will be sure to leave everything on the pitch for the Roosters for the rest of the season.

Blaize Talagi will line up for Parramatta in the centres this weekend, but it will also be one of his last times. The 19 year old has recently finalised a deal to join Western Sydney rivals the Penrith Panthers on a three year deal starting from the 2025 season. With the Eels set to miss finals footy, the number of times he has left to pull on the jersey of the club he debuted for earlier in the year is limited. He will definitely be playing like a weight has been taken off his shoulders now that his future has been finalised, and hopefully he can enjoy his last few matches for Parra.

FAVOURITE: Roosters are strong favourites to get the job done at home.

MY TIP: Despite the Eels coming ever so close last week, the Roosters should be able to get the job done. Roosters by 14.

MATCH PREVIEW

Beth NICHOLLS

Having won five of their past six matches the Bulldogs are aiming to slot into the top four, whilst the Dolphins are fighting to keep their finals chances alive.

The Bulldogs have won their past three matches in a row and have only lost one game, against the Cowboys, since Round 17. They are comfortably sitting inside the top eight but are fighting for a top four position, where they sit in fifth on 30 points and the Sharks and Roosters sit above them both of 30 points each. It's been a long time since the Bulldogs have played finals footy, but this year is a special one and something is quite definitely cooking for the Belmore club.

On the other side of the field, the Dolphins are fighting to make history, looking to make their first NRL finals appearance this year after joining the competition last year. Sean O'Sullivan's golden boot kicking a two-point field goal in golden points against the Warriors gave the Dolphins a top eight finish at the end of Round 23. The Dolphins have a slightly uphill battle to end the season, playing the Bulldogs, Storm, Broncos, and Knights.

Both sides only make minimal forced changes due to injuries and recovery. For the home side, Jaeman Salmon returns after suffering a jaw injury in Round 18, he joins the bench, which forces Lipoi Hopoi to become 18th man. With Mark Nicholls out due to a head knock, the Dolphins recall Lachlan Hubner to the bench for just his second NRL game, after debuting in Round 6 against the Broncos.

These two sides met once in the Dolphins inaugural season last year (also at Salter Oval in Bundaberg) and it was a close one, with the Bulldogs winning 23-22, with the extra point coming from a 39th minute Matt Burton field goal.

WHO TO WATCH: Becoming the Bulldogs permanent fullback in Round 7 this year against the Knights, Connor Tracey has scored five tries (including a hat trick against Brisbane), along with making ten try assists and nine-line break assists, which sees him second in total try assists for the Bulldogs and third in line break assists.

Opposite Tracey is Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow, who has played twelve matches for the Dolphins this year, scoring twelve tries and making three try assists, 59 tackle breaks and eight line breaks.

Both fullbacks will be ready to fire on the weekend, with Tracey's consistency and effort rewarding him with the starting FB position, and Tabuai-Fidow always ready to go for the Dolphins.

FAVOURITE: The Bulldogs are favoured to get the win and add another two points to their tally.

MY TIP: Right now the Bulldogs are on a winning roll and are red hot favourites, but I don't want to totally count the Dolphins out. If the Dolphins can put up a fight for the entire 80 minutes, it could be a close game in the end. (Maybe the writer is projecting, but then again the Phins winning ruins the Broncos minimal mathematical chance of making finals SO...)

Anyways, Dolphins by 6.

MATCH PREVIEW

AJ LUCANTONIO

Cows search for redemption as Raiders search for finals

The finals race is one that continues to heat up as the North Queensland Cowboys play host to the Canberra Raiders as part of Super Saturday.

North Queensland will be looking to bounce back after a disappointing second half collapse against the Broncos. After leading 18-12, the Cowboys proceeded to concede five second half tries as they let a golden opportunity to put pressure on the top four slip. Cowboys coach Todd Payten described the capitulation bluntly. "But across the group we had too many guys miss their assignment and some guys missed it on multiple occasions. So that's the disappointing part" Payten said.

To beat the Raiders, they need to go back to basics, dominate the middle and let the stars do the talking out-wide. Far too often this season, the Cowboys have let their opposition walk over them, especially at home as they have only won 50% of matches at QCB Stadium. The hosts had a commanding victory in Canberra back in June, so expect the Raiders to be after revenge. But, if the Cowboys come to play, it'll be a big statement the Cowboys needed going into September. Future Rooster Chad Townsend has been dropped, Jake Clifford takes his place. Jeremiah Nanai will miss the game after suffering a head knock against the Broncos so Kulikefu Finefeuiaki will start the game and Thomas Mikaele joins the bench.

Canberra on the other hand, started so well last weekend going set for set with one of the game's more exciting attacking units. However, a controversial knock-on ruling which could've led to a try if it was allowed to play on blunted Canberra's run. The second half was yet another horrific capitulation as they trailed by as much as 34 points midway through the second half. Coach Ricky Stuart took aim at the decisions post game but acknowledged his team needed to find a way to overcome the decisions.

To beat the Cowboys, they need to utilise their speed. Stuart himself has stated that it's one of the fastest sides he has been involved in. So, expect the Raiders to take a peak from the Broncos playbook, especially following the second half rampage they put on the Cowboys. The Raiders will also need to win the battle up-front, if Tapine and Papali'i dominate the middle and give the halves the platform to play on, the outside chance Canberra have to play finals footy is still in touch. Jordan Rapana is OUT, Seb Kris goes to wing, Ethan Strange to centre and Adam Cook coming in at five-eighth. Danny Levi and Emre Guler have been added to the bench. Trey Mooney drops to the reserves. Albert Hopoate is 18th man.

WHO TO WATCH: Given the outside noise about his contract status, it's about time Val Holmes puts himself in the shop window for other clubs. In what has been a difficult season for the former New York Jet, Holmes has been found out repeatedly in defence which has led to several tries being conceded down his edge. His work with the football hasn't been questioned, but the defensive concerns have continued to linger in Townsville.

Since his return from a bicep injury, Jamal Fogarty has continued to be the steady influence the Raiders lacked. Fogarty's kicking game has been one of the best in the NRL with a powering boot forcing outside backs to work it out of their corners. Fogarty is averaging 551 kick metres a game and has forced 9 drop-outs, watch for Fogarty to deliver this weekend.

FAVOURITE: Cowboys go into this one as favourites, they have also won their past five encounters against the Raiders. At QCB Stadium, the Raiders have only one once which also coincided with their last win against the Cowboys in 2020.

MY TIP: I have this game as too close to call, but in the meaning of helping everyone get a tip right this weekend. I slightly favour the Cowboys at home, Payten will have his troops riled up for this one, they rarely have two bad games at home on the trot. Canberra will be competitive but it will be well fought contest. Cowboys by 1.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andrew JACKSON

With both the Tigers and Rabbitohs now out of the running for finals contention, there will be little more than pride to play for when these two teams meet on Saturday night.

Although, in the case of the Tigers, a Penrith comeback win last week keeps Parramatta squarely in their sights as they look to lift themselves off the bottom of the ladder.

If the Tigers are any hope of making a late season surge, however, they will need to improve their defence, having conceded over 40 points in five of their last seven games.

One of those losses came to the Rabbitohs, who finished strong to overpower the Tigers 42-28.

South Sydney's slim finals hopes are all but gone after a string of recent defeats, with the latest coming at the hands of a Storm side that barely had to get out of second gear last Thursday.

The Tigers, meanwhile, have shown some signs in their three most recent defeats but ill-discipline and poor defensive lapses have made it hard for them to genuinely compete for the 80 minutes.

In team news, Luke Laulilii returns from the concussion protocols on the wing with Solomon Alaimalo dropping out while Alex Seyfarth starts for Reuben Porter.

He is in the extended squad, with Sione Fainu joining the bench.

Elsewhere, Aidan Sezer looks alright to go despite failing to finish Sunday's game against the Knights with a knee issue.

As for South Sydney, there is just one change with Tallis Duncan replacing Michael Chee Kam (calf) in the back row.

In terms of the key numbers to know, the Tigers have a very poor record against the Rabbitohs, winning just one of their past nine while they haven't fared any better at Campbellton Sports Stadium in general – losing 10 of their last 11 games at the venue.

WHO TO WATCH: Going back to the Tigers' last win in a thriller against the Raiders, any time they are a chance of causing an upset it starts with the work of Apisai Koroisau at dummy-half. For a team that is still raw and trying to find its way in first grade, Koroisau is an experienced option in the spine who makes the right plays while also offering game-breaking upside. If South Sydney is not switched on from the start, which may be the case given there is little to play for, Koroisau could get to work early scheming out of dummy-half and getting the Tigers on the front foot.

In a similar sense, this is the kind of game where Cody Walker could really pile on the try assists. The Tigers have been picked apart for the majority of the season and a ball-playing halfback like Walker, who is also capable of running or kicking the ball too, will have their defence in two minds all night. South Sydney may also benefit from having both Walker and Jack Wighton combining on the same side of the field at times. Just imagine Wighton on the inside as a running threat with Jye Gray wrapping around the outside with his speed – they could really rack up a score.

FAVOURITE: The Rabbitohs are favoured to win this one.

MY TIP: Logic says the Rabbitohs are the pick here given they have at least shown some semblance of consistent effort in defence recently. But the Tigers seemingly have more to play for, both when it comes to avoiding the wooden spoon and also giving their fans a reason to be optimistic for 2025. This may end up being completely wrong but I'm taking the Tigers to snap a seven-game losing skid purely on the basis they are overdue one of those games they seem to pull out every now and then. Tigers by 10.

MATCH PREVIEW

Rob CROSBY

Dragons host Titans as Foran brings up 300

The St George Illawarra Dragons and Gold Coast Titans will be looking to secure two vital premiership points in a do-or-die contest pitting two teams clinging to hope of football beyond the regular season.

Falling outside the top eight following a controversy-laden performance last Saturday, the St George Illawarra Dragons will be hoping their inconsistent form rebounds with a win despite a number of key players being sidelined.

Going down 28-10 to the Bulldogs in a highly anticipated showdown at Kogarah last week, coach Shane Flanagan will be without Moses Suli (knee) and Hame Sele (chest pains) for the remainder of the regular season, while Kyle Flanagan will miss the next four matches after being found guilty of dangerous contact at the judiciary.

Mathew Feagai, Toby Couchman and Jack Bird have been recalled to the side with Bird or uncapped teenager Lyhkan King-Togia the most likely candidates to come into the halves; Jady'n Su'A will make his 50th appearance for the club in the second-row.

The Dragons have won three of their four matches in Wollongong this season, however their most recent appearance at the venue three weeks ago resulted in a humbling defeat at the hands of Penrith.

Needing to win all their remaining games and have other results fall favourably to qualify for the finals, the Gold Coast Titans will be determined to atone for last week's deplorable showing at home.

Suffering a 44-0 defeat at the hands of the Sharks last Friday to sit four points adrift of the top eight, coach Des Hasler has named Brian Kelly and Keenan Palasia to return with AJ Brimson reverting to the bench and Moeaki Fotu'auka out through suspension.

Sunday afternoon will serve as milestone match for captain Kieran Foran who will become the 53rd player in premiership history to appear in 300 first grade matches.

The Titans have never won at WIN Stadium from five previous attempts, while the two sides have recorded four wins apiece from eight meetings at all venues throughout the 2020s.

WHO TO WATCH: As the Dragons strive to break back into finals football for the first time in six years, Zac Lomax will have his sights set on making that dream a reality as his time with the club draws to a close. Enjoying a career best campaign with 12 tries, an Origin debut and a renewed reputation as one of the hardest working outside backs in the league, the 24-year-old has been in tremendous touch ever since shifting to the wing. Running for over 170 metres on average each week and possessing the ability to nail a long-range field goal, Lomax has the potential to be the difference between winning and losing for the Dragons.

Having reached the heights of premiership success and victories on the international stage, Sunday afternoon will serve as arguably the greatest achievement of Kieran Foran's storied career. Bringing up 300 games in first grade 15 years on from his debut, the 34-year-old has demonstrated remarkable resilience to hit the triple century after a demoralising run of injuries and doubts over his durability. Providing tremendous leadership to the Titans over the past two seasons to earn a contract extension for a further 12 months, Foran stands in rarified company as one of the toughest competitors of the NRL era.

FAVOURITE: Despite the fallout of last week's loss and forced change in the halves, the Dragons are expected to get the job done on Sunday afternoon.

MY TIP: The Dragons will need to be wary of the attacking threat posed by the Titans, but should have too much to play for to let this one slip. Dragons by 6.

MATCH PREVIEW

Andy P

PointsBet Stadium will bring the curtains down on Round 24 this Sunday as the Cronulla Sharks get ready to circle the Newcastle Knights.

The last round was a crime scene at Cbus Super Stadium; the Sharks went on a feeding frenzy, leaving the Gold Coast Titans in shreds with a 44-0 demolition.

Cronulla coach Craig Fitzgibbon felt they were hanging in on most games previously, but on that night, it all came together for them. It may not have been the most attractive footy, but the simple gameplan, championed by Jack Williams, who troubled the defence with his 23 hit-ups and numerous tackle busts. Daniel Atkinson steadied the ship while Jesse Ramien and Kayal Iro terrorised the Titans lines.

Fitzgibbon seemed to play down the team's effort, saying there was still room to improve. And he'll give the same 17 men that chance, as the same side from the last round goes unchanged into the Sunday clash.

The Knights season looked to take a turn last round, even if they were playing the bottom-ranked Wests Tigers; their 34-18 win at McDonald Jones Stadium displayed a Knights outfit keen for finals. Ponga was on from the start of the game and kept the intensity and control up for the 80 minutes. Fletcher Sharpe had a four-try haul, with his third try in the 39th minute is in the running for the try of the year. He volleyed a kick off his boot from the Tigers 20 meters only to place it perfectly for him to scramble to it and get the points. The Knights forwards answered the call to arms as Tyson Frizell led the charge.

Newcastle coach Adam O'Brien was pleased the team set their intentions early. O'Brien is banking on the same team to set the early pace, as only one change is logged. Dylan Lucas returns to the centres from a hamstring injury, pushing out Krystian Mapapalangi.

WHO TO WATCH: The Sharks have their own fresh-faced and lethal outside back in Samuel Stonestreet. The winger finished off two tries in the last round but has four tries from his three appearances. Daniel Atkinson shows a cool head as he stirs the ship for the Sharks. Doing the little things right, Atkinson has proved he is a sniper with the boot, which could be the difference in winning a game from what we have seen in the last few rounds of close tussles. Jack Williams was a stand-out of the pack last week, but players like Cameron McInnes and an in-form Briton Nikora were right there with him. With Thomas Hazelton and Royce Hunt to come off the bench, I'm leaning on the Sharks pack to have more bite on the night. Watch for Jesse Ramien's bullish runs to expose holes in defence.

Can Fletcher Sharpe bring the sword down again this Sunday? Kaylan Ponga says Sharpe is all about footy; the team is excited with his energy, and if Ponga can get into his rhythm early, it will be him and Sharpe who will trouble the Sharks out wide and from the sky. Tyson Frizell is in a mood, scoring three tries in the last four games. He is the barometer for the forward pack, and the team will rally off his efforts. The Phoenix Crossland/ Tyson Gamble experiment seems to be working for O'Brien at the moment, and he sees no need for it to change. Hopefully, Dane Gagai can bring some more of that charm he had last round, drawing in players to expose room for his charging wingers.

FAVOURITE: The Sharks are looking good for this one. They had a dominating performance last round, winning three of their last games against the Knights and having lost to the Knights at Shark Park since 2014, which points towards the shark flags being raised.

MY TIP: This doesn't look like it will be an easy fight for the Knights, and the Sharks will be keen to back up their win last week to stay in the top four. Fitzgibbons looked quietly confident his team was tightening up at the right time for the business end of the season. The Knights played well but will be coming up against a different monster, and the Sharks attacks will greatly test their defensive armour. Newcastle to put up a fight, but Sharks by 8.

SUPER LEAGUE ROUND 21 WRAP with JUSTIN DAVIES

MBYE THE SAVIOUR AS SAINTS EDGE DEVILS AT TOTALLY WICKED STADIUM

St Helens won 17-16 against Salford Red Devils in a wild game at Totally Wicked Stadium on Thursday night.

It was a wild game which saw four sin bins as the hosts consolidated their spot in the Super League top four. The Saints marched to the first four-pointer of the contest. It was swung to Tommy Makinson who strolled over. Salford were the first side to earn the ire of the official. Joe Shorrocks was binned after a professional foul to prevent a score. The Devils absorbed the pressure and Marc Sneyd kicked a pair of penalty goals to make it 4-4 going into half-time. The hosts surged from the start of the second half again. It was a passage of passes which saw Waqa Blake go over. Salford struck back from the boot. Sneyd punched a kick through which Chris Hankinson got fingertips on to put down. St Helens nudged ahead 16-10 from another close range try. It was a slick pass for Joe Batchelor who sliced through. The game quickly exploded into action. Morgan Knowles was binned for a high shot for Saints then both Batchelor and Salford's Oliver Partington were given marching orders. Salford made use of their advantage to level the game. Nene Macdonald stepped past a defender and swerved to the line for 16-all. The two sides couldn't find a winner in regular time so this clash went into Golden Point to open Round 21. Moses Mbye was the hero for St Helens in Golden Point. The Saints surged downfield which set the former NRL star to pilot over the field goal.

DRAGONS INCH PAST GIANTS IN THRILLER AT JOHN SMITH'S STADIUM

Catalans Dragons won 23-22 against a dogged Huddersfield Giants side at John Smith's Stadium on Friday night.

The Dragons extinguish their shock loss from last week and keep themselves in the Super League peloton. They got off to a hot start with a score in the opening five minutes. The ball was sent down the wing before Bailey Sironen strolled over. Next, the visitors swung it left to double their delight. Veteran Sam Tomkins sliced through and made it 10-0. The Dragons added their third in the rollicking start. It was kicked twice in the build up and ended with Fouad Yaha diving over. Huddersfield got on the board in the first half. It was a slick backline move and was finished with Jake Bibby touching down. The visitors were reduced to twelve after Julian Bousquet was binned for a high tackle on a Giants attacker. Huddersfield used their advantage well to bring it back to 14-10 before half-time. Tui Lolohea kicked through and Kevin Naiqama planted it down. Catalans had another quick start to the half. It was spread wide again and Arthur Romano got the four-pointer. Matt Ikaualu used his strength to make it 22-10. The former Rooster kept the legs pumping and got the ball down after video referee confirmation. The Giants refused to back down and a pair of tries from Sam Hewitt and Lolohea brought them back level. It was the Dragons who took the spoils late in the piece. Arthur Mourgue drilled the field goal to make it 23-22 for the visitors.

ROBINS SOAR PAST TIGERS AT SEWELL GROUP CRAVEN PARK

Hull KR beat Castleford Tigers 36-6 in their game down at Sewell Group Craven Park on Friday night.

The Robins move back into first on the Super League after their comfortable win against the Tigers. It was the Tigers who pounced early in the game. Swift passing saw Alex Mellor charge over after needing confirmation from the video referee. Hull KR struck back quickly through Peta Hiku. Niall Evalds flicked the ball to the powerhouse back and he slammed it down. Next, it was a simple backline move to extend Hull KR's lead. Joe Burgess had the simple finish from the move. Mikey Lewis continued to be the energizer bunny of the Robins. He started and finished a move which made it 14-6. The Robins were in full flow after their slow start. Quick hands again allowed Ryan Hall to push off a defender to score. Things went from bad to worse for the Tigers after Nixon Putt was binned for a dangerous tackle early in the second half. Another high tackle, this time from Joe Westerman gave Lewis a gift two points to extend the lead to 20-6. Sauaso Sue also went to the bin for dissent but the Robins saw out his time without conceding any points. Hull KR piled on the points late with Burgess getting a second alongside scores from Evalds and Tyrone May for a 36-6 final score.

RHINOS FINALS HOPES ALIVE AFTER DOWNING WIGAN AT AMT HEADINGLEY STADIUM

Leeds Rhinos were 30-4 winners against Wigan Warriors in their game at AMT Headingley Stadium.

The Rhinos have given their top six hosts a boost but remain four points off sixth place Salford Red Devils. The hosts opened the scoring from their own half. Lachlan Miller started the move then fired the final pass for Harry Newman to go over. Leeds added penalty goals either side of half-time which stretched their lead out to 10-0 against the champions.

It was Miller time again for the Rhinos. He sliced through the Warriors defence and slammed it down in the left corner. Adam Keighran was binned for the Warriors and they butchered a chance on the edge as it was just one of those days. The Rhinos were at their counter attacking best with a long-range surge ended with James McDonnell charging over. Wigan found a late consolation score on the left edge. Liam Marshall with an acrobatic effort to go over for 24-4. Leeds added some final icing to the cake with another four-pointer. Miller lept high and batted it back for Rhyse Martin to score.

LEOPARDS PUNISH HULL FC AT LEIGH SPORTS VILLAGE STADIUM

Leigh Leopards won 42-12 against lowly Hull FC down at Leigh Sports Village on Sunday afternoon.

The Leopards bounced back from their last defeat to get back in the winner's circle with a commanding win. It was a tense opening quarter of the game before Will Gardiner was binned for Hull FC for persistent fouling. Leigh took their advantage with Kai O'Donnell opening the scoring then Frankie Halton sliced through for 12-0. Hull FC pulled one back before half-time. They struck from their own end and it ended with Logan Moy diving over. Next, Leigh's Darnell McIntosh was binned for a dangerous tackle and Hull FC used the advantage to make it 12-all at the break through Harvey Barron.

The Leopards piled on 30 points in the second half. It started with Lachlan Lam kicking through for O'Donnell to plant down for his brace. He turned provider for the next score. O'Donnell provided the final pass for Zak Hardaker to go over to make it 22-12. Lam provided another superb try assist for Leigh. He floated the pass to McIntosh who walked in for the four-pointer. The Lam and O'Donnell combination struck again as the Leopards were in full flow as the forward got his hat-trick. O'Donnell crossed for the fourth time alongside a second four-pointer for Hardaker rounded off the win.

WOLVES PREVAIL IN POINTS FEST AGAINST BRONCOS AT CHERRY RED RECORDS

Warrington Wolves won 36-22 against London Broncos down at Cherry Red Records Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

The Wolves keep their title challenge alive with a big win against the relegation threatened Broncos. The visitors were the first to hit the scoreboard. Matt Dufty provided a succulent pass for Rodrick Tai to crash over. Matty Ashton pounced on an errant pass and ran the intercept the length to touch down for the Wolves. London did find the stripe through Josh Rourke. He sliced through on the left to make it 10-4 in the first half.

Paul Vaughan crashed over from close range for the Wolves then Toby King finished off a pass from Ashton to score. The Broncos weren't going away and Lewis Bienek was able to find himself across the line to get the hosts into double digits. Warrington howled from the opening to the second half with Adam Holroyd going over from close range. London kept pushing and Sam Davis picked up the scraps to get over then Ugo Tison strided away to make it 28-22. Josh Drinkwater kicked a penalty goal after a strip to push the lead to eight then Ashton collected a second four-pointer to round it off.
