Sharks erase first-half nightmares to cement top eight spot

AJ Lucantonio

Despite trailing 18-6 at half-time, the Cronulla Sharks have come from behind to defeat the St George Illawarra Dragons by 30-18 at Sharks Stadium tonight.

After being denied mere moments before, Blayke Brailey continued his strong start to the game when he schemed out of dummy half. The back-to-back Monty Porter Medallist burst through the markers before finding Braydon Trindall to score the first try of the contest after nine minutes.

Five minutes later, some nice second phase play from Damien Cook saw Emre Guler attract several defenders. A late offload saw Cook into space and some nifty-stepping from the beach sprinter had way too much pace for the poor Sharks defence to get the visitors back on level terms.

After some inconsistency in the opposition 20 with some poor attacking options from both sides. The visitors stunned the loyal crowd at Sharks Stadium when young half Lyhkan King-Togia took matters into his own hands with a great solo effort to give the visitors the lead.

Some more poor attacking footy from the Sharks led to a complete change in momentum. A Nicho Hynes error gave Clint Gutherson a clean break down field before Jesse Ramien hung on for too long and was sin-binned. St George immediately capitalised on the extra-man advantage and went down the right edge. It was some nice deception from Kyle Flanagan, which fooled the defence and Jack de Belin crashed across to make it 18-6 at the break.

The Sharks looked to open the scoring to start the second half when Sione Katoa claimed a try. But there was terrific scramble from the Dragons to deny the try. Cronulla eventually cracked the Dragons line when they made the visitors pay for a high tackle penalty. Braydon Trindall went deep into the line to find Briton Nikora who crashes over several defenders to score for the hosts in his 150th game eight minutes after the resumption.

The Dragons hit the self-destruct the button with 25 to play as Trindall's bomb wasn't defused by Gutherson and Sloan. The race for the ball saw the five-eighth get their first to get a double. From the next set, a bomb was spilled by Nathan Lawson and the Sharks immediately went on the attack and had them shot to bits. Sione Katoa got on the outside of Moses Suli to slam it down, giving the Sharks the lead. Hynes added a penalty goal to give the Sharks a 6-point lead.

The Dragons tried a trick play at the end of the game with King-Togia chipping over the top, he tried to toe it forward but Katoa was on the spot to scoop it up. The visitors then over pursued the chase and the winger raced away for his second try and seal the derby win.

Titans turn in a team effort without Tino

Rob Crosby

28 – 8

The Gold Coast Titans flexed their attacking muscles in the first half before backing their defence in the second to record a 28-8 upset victory over the Manly Sea Eagles.

Coming into the game on the bottom of the ladder and without both of their starting front-rowers - Tino Fa'asuamaleaui and Moeaki Fotuaika - the Titans showed tremendous resolve to post their fourth win of the season in front of 13,708 supporters at home.

Stand-in captain Kieran Foran was a standout for the victors, setting up his side's first try and complementing the attacking instincts of his younger spine members, while Daly Cherry-Evans failed to ignite the Sea Eagles in his first performance since being dropped from the Queensland team for State of Origin II.

A poor start from the home side allowed the Sea Eagles to capitalise on back-to-back errors with Reuben Garrick (4th minute) burrowing over from close range for a try in his 150th appearance for the club.

The Titans returned serve with three tries in the span of ten minutes as wingers Allan Fitzgibbon (11th minute) and Alofian Khan-Pereira (15th and 19th minutes) used their speed to turn a 0-4 deficit into a 16-4 advantage; Khan-Pereira's first try saw the speedster equal the record held by Semi Radradra in scoring 50 tries in the fewest number of first grade appearances (52).

Garrick (26th minute) managed to keep the visitors in the contest midway through the opening half, only for AJ Brimson to find Jayden Campbell (31st minute) backing up in support to take a 22-8 lead to the break.

The Sea Eagles were dealt a double dose of disappointment on the hour mark with Haumole Olakau'atu losing the ball over the try line and dislocating his shoulder in the process.

After close to 40 minutes without a try from either side, the scoring drought came to an end through Chris Randall (69th minute), who spun his way over the line, despite the best efforts of Ben Trbojevic, to score his first try of the season.

Next week, the Titans will face the Eels on Sunday evening at Commbank Stadium, while the Sea Eagles will have their second bye of the season.

Roosters come from behind to down Newcastle

Josh Robertson

8 – 12

The Sydney Roosters have managed to pull a victory out of nowhere as they came from 8-0 down to take a 12-8 win over the Newcastle Knights in a very lacklustre affair.

It's hard to say much about the first half with any positivity outside of the first five minutes when the Knights were able to score through Kyle McCarthy when a play after a burst through the middle from Dylan Lucas. The hosts were able to have the numbers and then some could work from Jack Cogger ensured the numbers were there and McCarthy scored. The conversion was good from Dane Gagai and the Novocastrians lead 6-0.

The rest of the half was a dour affair with neither side exactly setting the game alight as the Knights attack pestered the Roosters line but failed to make any indent and the Roosters kicking game back the other way was the same.

The start to the second half didn't exactly light a spark in the game either though the Knights extended their lead out to 8-0 just shy of the hour mark when Dane Gagai added a penalty goal.

The Knights were then denied by the bunker when James Schiller who got up saying he hadn't but despite admitting he hadn't scored, it was given on field by referee Gerard Sutton but quickly over turned.

Just moments later, the Roosters finally found some spark and it was off a James Tedesco pass that sent Salesi Foketi into space and some magic work with the feet saw Foketi beat the Knights defence and despite a desperate attempt from Fletcher Hunt, the Roosters rookie got his maiden NRL try.

Plenty of controversy surrounded the Roosters match-winner when a James Tedesco grubber was kicked through and Siua Wong got there and despite it looking like he got his fingers to the ball and then grounding it with his wrist, the bunker confirmed the live decision of try. The conversion gave the Roosters a 12-8 lead.

The Knights had more chances but their attack was rudderless and couldn't make a dent into the Roosters who just held on to the 12-8 win.

Roosters will lose both Egan Butcher and Victor Radley ahead of their clash next week against the Tigers with the pair failing their HIA's whilst the Knights have to work on their attack as they look forward to a clash in Perth against the Dolphins.

Dolphins lap the Cowboys

Andrew Ferguson

The Dolphins have run up a cricket score against a miserable Cowboys outfit, with Jack Bostock scoring 4 tries, while the Dolphins halves tore the Cowboys to shreds all game.

The Dolphins opened the scoring after just 5 minutes when Kodi Nikorima sent a lovely ball to Jack Bostock on the wing, who had no space, pirouetted out of the tackle and planted the ball down in the corner for a good try. Jamayne Isaako failed to convert from the sideline.

Jeremy Marshall-King very nearly dived over for a try four minutes later. Then Felise Kaufusi was sent to the bin for a sloppy tackle attempt.

Despite being down a man, the Dolphins lifted another gear and in the 16th minute Nikorima threw a dummy, then sent a great pass as he hits the line that puts Herbie Farnworth into space. He then drew the final defender before passing to Bostock in the clear and the winger scored again. Isaako converted.

Four minutes later Isaiya Katoa threw a dummy before breaking through the Cowboys line, then sent a cracking ball inside to Oryn Keeley in support, who strolled in to score. Isaako added the extras.

The Cowboys finally got on the board in the 27th minute when they decided to go down the very short side to Murray Taulagi who had zero room to move. He took one step, leapt and got the ball down in the corner despite the defences best effort to put him into touch. Scott Drinkwater failed to convert from the sideline.

A scrappy final ten minutes very nearly saw the half out, but Kurt Donoghoe, after a scrappy past five minutes himself, barged over from dummy half to score as the siren sounded. Isaako converted and at halftime the Dolphins were up 22-4.

The Dolphins were first to score after the break when Bostock scored his third try in the corner. Isaako converted from the sideline.

In the 52nd minute Jeremy Marshall-King ran from dummy half up to the line, chipped over the top and Jake Averillo takes it cleanly before falling over the line for a clever try. Isaako added the conversion.

With 15 minutes remaining, the Dolphins spread the ball left from a scrum on halfway. Connelly Lemuelu received the ball, took on the line and then got an offload away to Nikorima in support, who raced 50 metres into the Cowboys in-goal and then gives the ball to Herbie Farnworth to score. Isaako converted.

With ten minutes remaining, and with the Cowboys on the attack, they spread the ball right and attempted an over-the-top cut-out pass, but Bostock gets a hand to it, claims the intercept and raced 90 metres to score under the posts. Isaako converted.

Two minutes later, the Dolphins were in again when Ray Stone picked up a ball that had been offloaded by Bostock, then he dived forced his way over for a try. Isaako added another goal.

With less than 3 minutes remaining, the Dolphins crossed again when Francis Molo popped up a sublime offload near the Cowboys line for Kodi Nikorima, who crossed for a try. Isaako converted to give the Dolphins an emphatic 58-4 victory.

Dogs survive late scare to down fast charging Souths

Rhys Sullivan

A first half blitz by the Bulldogs has been enough to hold off a late blitz by South Sydney to take a 24-18 victory.

The Bulldogs started off incredibly strong, being ahead of the clock after 16 minutes thanks to converted tries to Toby Sexton, Marcelo Montoya and Connor Tracey.

But as the rain started falling, their points paradoxically dried up, and a lightning delay brought any momentum they had to a grinding halt.

After an elongated delay, South Sydney struck shortly before halftime thanks to a mishandled kick ending in the hands of Alex Johnston, who went over for the 202nd try of his career, only 10 away from Ken Irvine. Jamie Humphreys missed the conversion, and the Dogs led 18-4 at the break.

The second half started with both sides struggling to find momentum, and it was the Bunnies that found a way through first when a left side shift ended in the hands of Tallis Duncan to bring the lead to 18-10.

But Canterbury hit straight back through Marcelo Montoya to push the lead back to 12. But then a few minutes later Jake Turpin was sent to the sin bin for a high tackle, and it seemed to be game on once more.

The Dogs held firm for most of the sin bin period, but conceded a try for Jack Wighton mere seconds from Turpin's return to cut the lead tighter to 22-14. The Dogs seemed to put in the dagger however when Tracey crossed minutes later, but the try was wiped off the board due to Sexton being offside.

A string of errors and penalties gave the Dogs a penalty goal to push the lead to 10. Souths scored immediately afterwards through Tyrone Munro however to cut it to a 24-18 lead, but the Dogs forced an error on the final set to secure a gritty victory.

Turpin may have a case to answer at the judiciary, as will Josh Curran who was placed on report for a high tackle of his own, while Souths star Keaon Koloamatangi failed to finish the game as he required a head injury assessment.

Off to a Decider as NSW nearly make history after QLD's first half rampage

AJ Lucantonio

The NSW Blues came within a whisker of the greatest comeback in Origin history, but fell short after a horror first half full of ill-discipline and poor handling to be beaten 26-24 by Queensland in Perth tonight.

Following a rough start to the game which saw both sides struggle to come to terms with the slippery conditions. NSW capitalised off a great play from the returning Jarome Luai. An early kick in the count saw the QLD edge drag in, Angus Crichton then toed it ahead and Brian To'o got the ball down to score for the Blues.

Off the back of some poor discipline, the NSW side quickly were on the back foot and the Maroons capitalised at lightning speed. A nice shift to the right edge saw Robert Toia draw in the defence after getting on the outside of Latrell Mitchell and find Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow to cross for the QLD side for an even score after 12 minutes.

Just before the 20 minute mark, more cheap yardage errors kept opening the door for the Maroons and it was a clever cross-field kick from Tom Dearden that allowed Tabuai-Fidow to fly over the top of To'o to score his second try. Luai went on report for an alleged eye gouge and the Blues were clearly rattled.

Up against an early 4-0 penalty count, the Blues struggled for possession and continued to hurt themselves throughout the latter stages of the first half. Lomax joined Luai on-report after an elbow to the head of Trent Loiero and Holmes made no mistake. The discipline got worse and NSW imploded. Harry Grant decided to scheme around the rucks and it was Cam Munster that got himself between Angus Crichton and Luai to score the Maroons third of the first half.

Despite not being in tune, the Blues weren't going to be down for long. Nathan Cleary took the ball to the line, busted off a defender and seemed to bust through to score. But, the replays showed it was way too easy after Stefano Utoikamanu came back through into the path of Patrick Carrigan who denied the bench forward a chance to defend. The ultimate insult for the Blues was that it was the ill-fated 12-point turnaround in the shadows of half-time. A great short ball from Dearden to debutant Kurt Mann put him into space and he found Kurt Capewell to score and the Maroons were well on top.

QLD started lethargic in the second half and the Blues made the Maroons pay. Following their first penalty of the game, a nice decoy play caught Tom Dearden in field and the rest of the QLD right edge jammed in and it was some nice hands from Luai and Mitchell to send To'o over for his second.

NSW were starting to get the acendency and the Maroons were up against it. NSW got it back to within two converted tries through there impact man Stephen Crichton, who got on the outside of Valentine Holmes to get the Blues back into it.

The Maroons committed the cardinal sin. They were defending their lead, a critical mistake from Tabuai-Fidow gave the Blues possession and it was the NSW lethal left edge that caught the QLD side wanting. Quick hands from Mitchell to To'o and the winger powered over the top of Toia to score.

QLD were waiting for the Blues to score with a plethora of errors in their own end. A major play by Mitchell (a one-on-one strip) gave the NSW side a chance. An early grubber from Luai sat up perfectly for Angus Crichton and the Blues set up a grandstand finish! But, the ball never crossed the line again despite numerous sets on their line and the Maroons hung on to force the decider in Sydney.

Match preview

Andrew Ferguson

In years not too far gone by, the Tigers fans and, many would argue, players and club officials, wet themselves at the prospect of facing the Raiders.

Since Round 25 of 2014, these two sides have met 18 times with the Tigers being winners just 4 times, while the Raiders have racked up 551 points – 30.6 points per game.

The Tigers did win the last outing though, 48-24 in Round 16 last year. The last time the Tigers won back-to-back games against the Raiders was 2014 – when current new five-eighth Heath Mason was 9 years old.

The Tigers are on a 4 game losing run right now, but it's not quite a slump, as the last 2 losses have been by just 4 points against the Cowboys and Panthers. Not the sort of form you want to take into a match against a hoodoo side.

And speaking of that hoodoo side, Canberra are second the ladder and have won their last 4 games and 9 of their last 10 matches. Their attack looks unstoppable. Their defence is largely reliable but has shown to have a few vulnerabilities, although recent form tends to suggest that they're improving in this area.

A win for the Tigers puts them on the cusp of the top 9, while a win for the Raiders will see them stay within 2 points of the competition leading Bulldogs, who have a bye this week.

A loss for the Tigers could sink them to the bottom 3 of the ladder, a place they are very keen to steer clear of. A Raiders loss could see them get overtaken by the Warriors and Melbourne. Both sides will be hungry for a win here.

Who to watch: Both sides are going to be pushing hard through the middle using speed and strength from their respective rakes.

Api Koroisau is fast and strong and on the bench is the zippy and creative Tallyn Da Silva, while the Raiders have the nippy guile of Tom Starling and the reliably sharp service of Owen Pattie on the bench.

Terrell May has been an absolute beast for the Tigers this year, but he'll have an almighty challenge here, up against powerhouse props Josh Papalii and Joseph Tapine.

There's plenty of creativity and speed in the halves and backs and both sides have the potential to put on quite a show, but this match will be set up by the big blokes in the middle.

Favourite: Canberra are clear favourites here and rightfully so. The Tigers will be trying to break them up with a lot of second phase play, which can prove to be high risk.

If the Raiders are patient and strong in defence, which they've shown they can be more often than not in recent weeks, they could put on another pile of points against the Tigers.

My tip: The Tigers are a different beast to past seasons. They will remain competitive here but Canberra should be able to claim the honours here. Raiders by 8.

Match preview

Rob Crosby

Cleary's past and present converges in Auckland

The New Zealand Warriors will face the Penrith Panthers at Go Media Stadium on Saturday afternoon in the first meeting between the two sides across the Tasman in six years.

Sitting in third position following their best win-loss record at the midpoint of the season in more than two decades, New Zealand Warriors will be striving to move one step closer to confirming a place in the finals.

Enjoying back-to-back wins on the road prior to their second bye of the season last week, coach Andrew Webster will welcome back hooker Wayde Egan for the side's homecoming while Moala Graham-Taufa comes in at centre with Kurt Capewell rested following State of Origin II.

Chasing back-to-back wins against the Panthers for the first time since 2012, interchange playmaker Te Maire Martin will celebrate his 100th appearance in first grade, while second-rower Marata Niukore will play his 50th game for the club.

Climbing up the ladder into ninth position after three wins and a draw from their past five matches, the Penrith Panthers will face a fierce test with their five New South Wales representatives all rested.

Dylan Edwards, Brian To'o, Nathan Cleary, Liam Martin and Isaah Yeo will all miss the match with Daine Laurie, Paul Alamoti, Brad Schneider, Liam Henry and Matthew Eisenhuth taking their places; Trent Toelau has been named in a utility role on the bench.

Holding an emphatic record against the Warriors with 18 wins from 24 meetings in the years since Ivan Cleary left New Zealand, the Panthers boast a 50 per cent success rate from 20 previous visits to Auckland.

Saturday afternoon will be the first time Penrith have travelled to New Zealand since Cleary began his second stint at the club in 2019; the Panthers prevailed 19-18 in golden point on that occasion with a team featuring Isaah Yeo at centre and Brian To'o, Mitch Kenny and Liam Martin all boasting fewer than ten games of first grade experience.

Who to watch: Facing off against his former teammates for the first time in Warriors' colours, James Fisher-Harris will have additional motivation to make his presence felt on Saturday afternoon. Playing a vital role in the Panthers' success over the past decade progressing through the ranks to become one of only ten men to appear in 200 first grade games for the club, the 29-year-old has had an immediate impact returning to New Zealand with 100 running metres and 35 tackles on average each week. Instilling the players around him with an aura of success and self-belief, look for Fisher-Harris to leave nothing in reserve as the Warriors look to consolidate a place in the top four.

With the side's Origin contingent rested from backing up Auckland 72 hours after playing in Perth, the Panthers will need Blaize Talagi to stand up in the absence of more established stars. Showing glimpses of superstar potential in recent weeks, including four try-assists and a four-pointer of his own in Townsville, the 20-year-old Samoan international has responded after beginning his time at the club in reserve grade. Signed to the club as a long-term prospect, the Panthers will be hoping for a short-term win from Talagi on Saturday afternoon.

Favourite: Riding high with seven wins from their past eight matches, the Warriors are expected to have the measure of the four-time premiers.

My tip: While the Panthers have made a calculated decision to back their depth in a bid to pull off an upset, the stability of playing at home with an in-form side should see the Warriors come away with two premiership points. Warriors by 10.

Staying west as Dolphins look to continue ruthless form

As the NRL prepares to welcome the Perth Bears in 2027, the game continues to grow in Western Australia as the Dolphins take on the Newcastle Knights from HBF Park.

The Dolphins have been the success story of the season so far. After an 0-4 start, many were questioning the succession plan and mentions of the so-called 'Bennett curse' continued to linger around the club. However, that has been turned on it's head with an incredible display of attacking footy over the past three weeks. In their last 202 minutes of football, the Dolphins have scored 152 points and conceded just TEN!

There's not really much they have to improve upon, but Newcastle are going to look to shift the ball early and isolate their small halves. The Knights have been doing that of late with Kai Pearce-Paul on the smaller halves with moderate success. Their attack has been ruthless with Isaiya Katoa quickly emerging as one of the game's most talented young halves while Herbie Farnworth is on a try-scoring run of eight consecutive games. Despite their attacking woes, the Knights' defence has been hard to break down so the Dolphins will need to be on from the outset.

Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow will back up from Origin at fullback. Jake Averillo goes to the centres while Max Feagai is shifted to the reserves. Felise Kaufusi is suspended which brings Mark Nicholls into the run-on team while Harrison Graham is on the bench.

For the Knights, after signs of renewal against Manly, they came down with a thud against the Roosters last time out. That can be excused because when you put Kalyn Ponga and Fletcher Sharpe back into this team, the Novocastrians are an easy 10-12 points better off. It wasn't without a lack of trying with several attacking shapes catching the Roosters out, but their on-goal attack was a touch disappointing.

To beat the Dolphins they will need to execute at every opportunity. If they aren't fluid with the ball then it is going to be a long night full of defending and with the attacking weapons at the disposal of their opponents, it has the potential to be a disaster. They need to mark up early and install fear into the likes of Katoa, Kodi Nikorima and Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow as well as keep the ever reliable Farnworth at bay.

Onto team news, Kalyn Ponga backs up from Origin shifting Fletcher Sharpe to five-eighth and punting Jackson Hastings to NSW Cup. Dominic Young gets the call up on his return to the Knights replacing James Schiller, while Bradman Best returns at centre (hamstring) in place of Fletcher Hunt. Tyson Frizell returns from concussion protocols up front so Brodie Jones goes to the bench.

Who to watch: The focus is squarely on Kodi Nikorima. Arriving at the Dolphins, it appeared that his career was cross-roads after failed stints in New Zealand and South Sydney. Since his signing in 2023, the New Zealand international has starred this season having 12 try-assists in 13 games and four forced dropouts. The 5/8 has been the perfect foil for Katoa as he nurtures into the NRL and will need to continue at his best for the Phins' to keep their finals chances alive.

For the Knights, he's back! Dominic Young returns to the Knights after one and a half mixed seasons at the Roosters. This season has exposed some of the deficiencies in Young's game with his sideways running from yardage and questionable defensive decisions causing the Roosters to act. However, in his last game for the Roosters, there were signs he was on the improve with direct running and some solid defensive decisions. If this form keeps up, the Knights will be laughing their way to the bank.

Favourite: After their attacking rampage over the past three weeks, the Dolphins are clear favourites but they are yet to win in WA across their first two seasons in the competition.

My tip: The Dolphins are too strong at the moment and should win handily with the crafty nature of Katoa and Nikorima doing enough to get them over the line, but it does scream trap game. Given the nature of this season, who knows how this one will shape up with the stars out to perform in front of rugby league's newest legion of fans across the country. Dolphins by 16.

Luke Jobson

Saturday night takes us down to the winter wonderland that is Accor Stadium, as the South Sydney Rabbitohs look to upset the Melbourne Storm.

Two teams at very different ends of the ladder meet on Saturday, as a battered and bruised Rabbitohs looks to enter what seems to be a graveyard that is Accor Stadium and walk away with a rare two points. Injuries are once again curtailing the Rabbitohs season, while the State of Origin in Perth means that Melbourne will be hinging on their stars to come through unscathed if they want to back up.

The Rabbitohs lost last week in what was a much improved performance against the ladder-leading Canterbury Bulldogs at Accor Stadium, 24-18. Injuries to Jye Gray, Jayden Sullivan and Keon Koloamatangi meant that the Bunnies were fighting until the end, but the Dogs proved too good in the wet.

It means that the Bunnies are sitting just one win out of the eight... and yet, one win away from the wooden spoon in what seems to be the tightest finals race in recent history. Wayne Bennett's men do have the luxury of three stars in the reserves who are all chances to play, with Cody Walker and Campbell Graham more likely than the aforementioned Koloamatangi. That said, a game against Melbourne is daunting enough with a full strength side, never mind one with major injury concerns.

The Melbourne Storm are coming off their last bye of 2025, which means they have a run of 12 straight games to finish the season. The start of this run couldn't be any more inviting, with the Storm coming up to Sydney against one of the worst defensive sides in the competition.

Sitting pretty in the top four, Melbourne are looking to heap the pressure on the Raiders and Warriors ahead of them with a dominant performance in Sydney. All of their Origin contingent have been named to back-up, however whether that happens with a strong reserves pack in the wings, remains to be seen.

The Storm come into this week having won 35 of the last 42 games against the Bunnies, so history is already on the side of the favourites.

Latrell Mitchell has been named to back up from State of Origin, replacing Jye Gray in the side. Keon Koloamatangi has been cleared of a facial fracture and is named in the reserves but is unlikely to play, while Cody Walker and Campbell Graham are both more likely than not to come into the 17. As it stands, Lewis Dodd is in at five-eighths for Jayden Sullivan and Davvy Moale starts with Sean Keppie on the bench. - however, watch this space for more gameday news

Melbourne have named all of their Origin starters to back up and play on Saturday. Bronson Garlick replaces Aivalu Lisati in the only official change for the Storm, however, this is likely to change come game day.

Who to watch: Jamie Humphreys arguably had his best game in a South Sydney jersey last week, setting up two tries and leading the attack around the park with glee. It, sadly, was just the forward pack that let him down for the most part. He will need to replicate his own performance this week if the Rabbitohs are to have any chance against the strong Storm pack, Origin stars or not. The possible addition of Cody Walker will allow Humphreys to free up a little more in the middle of the field and showcase a little running game that we are yet to see.

Ryan Papenhuyzen and wintery, wet conditions seem to be a match made in heaven. He loves a little run in the wet, and he loves some second phase play - two things that seem to follow the Bunnies around no matter who they play against. The Storm forwards will look to bully the Bunnies pack early, paving the way for the Papi alarm to sound in the middle of Accor Stadium. He has also scored four tries in the last three games against the Rabbitohs - worth noting for all Supercoach players this weekend!!

Favourite: Melbourne are comfortable favourites to maintain their spot in the top four.

My tip: Whilst it was a much improved performance last week by South Sydney, there are too many questions that surround a pretty lame forward pack. The loss of their leading forward in Keon Koloamatangi only bodes poorly for the Bunnies, who don't have the strong depth to replace him. Melbourne, on the other hand, with the system they have in place, have no issues replacing all their Origin stars if needed. Regardless of the Melbourne 17 come game day, the tip remains the same. Storm by 16.

Broncos look to continue bucking form against lukewarm water Sharks

The Broncos will be hoping a thumping win in their last start will be the catalyst they need to keep this season rolling as they take on a hot and cold Sharks side.

The 44-14 win over the Titans before their bye was much needed for Brisbane, who had lost 6 of their last 7 leading into the game, and continuing that form is needed with the club sitting precariously inside the top 8.

They've only made one change from their Round 14 side - hulking prop Ben Te Kura is out with a leg injury, and has been replaced on the bench by Jack Gosiewski for his first appearance since Round 6.

The Sharks meanwhile went back into the winners column last week with a 30-18 win over the Dragons after back to back heavy losses to the Roosters and Warriors respectively. After an up and down start to the season, those back to back losses lengthened their gap to the top four, and they will need to be better to keep in touch as the season goes on.

Like the Broncos they've been forced into one change with Mawene Hiroti out with a calf injury. Siosifa Talakai will start in the centres as a result, his first start at the position which made him an Origin player since last years Preliminary Final, while Daniel Atkinson is the new face on the bench.

The Sharks have won their last 3 games at Suncorp Stadium and 9 of their last 11 games in Queensland, reversing a recent trend in Brisbane which saw them lose 10 of 14 matches played in the state capital between 2017 and 2023.

Who to watch: All eyes will once again be on Reece Walsh in this one. The star fullback made a triumphant return from a knee injury against the Titans, picking up an audacious try assist in the opening minutes before scoring a double of his own. With an Origin recall not entirely out of the question, Walsh will almost certainly look to deliver against the Sharks.

The pressure is continuing to mount on Sharks halfback Nicho Hynes to play up to his contract value as they look to revive their premiership hopes. The 2023 Dally M Medalist enters this game in a tie for second on the try assist leaderboard, but has just one in his last four games. His kicking has also declined this season, with halves partner Braydon Trindall being more dominant in both clearing and attack. Against a Broncos side with a susceptible edge defence and a lack of kick return capability, both of those traits are going to be crucial for the Sharks.

Favourite: The Broncos are favoured in this one, paying $1.48 on Sportsbet

My tip: Both teams should be desperate in this one, but the Broncos have shown they are capable of strong performances with their backs against the wall. Broncos by 1-12.

Andrew Ferguson

An intriguing contest awaits us on Sunday when the erratic Roosters take on the erratic Cowboys in a vitally important match for both sides top 8 aspirations.

The Roosters quite simply have not got themselves playing consistent football for very long at all this year – nothing encapsulates this erratic form moreso than their last 4 games.

In Round 11 they very nearly toppled the in-form competition leading Bulldogs, going down 24-20. The following week against top 5 side Cronulla, The Roosters went to town, romping home with a 42-16 win. Then they very nearly beat the second placed Raiders, losing 26-24.

Last week the Roosters struggled to overcome the woefully out of sorts Knights, eventually winning 12-8.

The Cowboys on the flip side started out solidly, winning 4 straight games, but after belting the Titans 50-18 something changed.

They lost 30-26 to the top-end-of-the-table Warriors; had a 30-all draw with defending Premiers Penrith; lost 24-6 to an inconsistent Manly side; barely overcame the Tigers 32-28 and then more recently, got soundly beaten by Melbourne 38-14 and the Dolphins last weekend 58-4.

Those 6 games has seen the Cowboys concede 208 points – almost 35 points per game. That's simply disgraceful.

The Cowboys attack will be very much focused on fast play through the middle of the ruck. Expect plenty of one outs and dummy half runs.

The Roosters attack is a bit riskier as it relies heavily on second phase play a lot more and throwing the ball around. Against a team that is as defensively weak as the Cowboys right now, this will play right into the hands of the Tricolours.

Who to watch: Roosters halfback Hugo Savala has shown plenty of guile and composure since becoming a regular starter in the Roosters halves this year. Like any talented young half, his form wavers week to week and within a game, but he's improving and gaining a consistent level of play very quickly.

He's formed a very good partnership with five-eighth Sandon Smith and both are building good combinations with their edge runners. Watch for both players to feature heavily, especially if the Cowboys defence lets them both run the ball.

Jaxon Purdue has come along rapidly as a five-eighth. He's kept his strong ball running game, but has developed a very good playmaking game to go with it.

The Cowboys middle forwards of Jordan McLean, Coen Hess and Reuben Cotter will be busy making inroads through the middle, while hooker Reece Robson will be keeping the momentum rolling forward.

Favourite: The Roosters will be the favourites here, given the home-ground advantage, form and the Origin impact which will hit the Cowboys harder than the Roosters.

My tip: The Cowboys defence is a shambles right now. The Roosters could put on a score here. Roosters by 26.

Two sides fighting to climb off the bottom of the ladder face off in Sunday night footy when the Parramatta Eels host the Gold Coast Titans in what is shaping up to be a desperate and potentially season-defining clash.

This will be the 27th meeting between the clubs, with the head-to-head record locked at 13 wins apiece since 1998. With such a dead-even history, Sunday night's showdown offers one team the chance to gain the upper hand in a rivalry that has been surprisingly balanced over the years.

Although the Titans got the better of the Eels in their last encounter, history is not on their side when it comes to playing in Sydney. They haven't beaten Parramatta away since 2015. In 2023, they came agonisingly close, falling short by just a single point – a reminder that while the drought remains, the margin for error is shrinking.

Parramatta return from the bye with plenty of questions hanging over them. They've lost their last four games immediately following a week off, and that trend doesn't bode well, especially considering the absence of both first-choice halves. Mitchell Moses is out with a calf injury that has also ruled him out of the remainder of the Origin series, while Dylan Brown remains suspended.

That leaves Joash Papalii and Dean Hawkins tasked with steering the Eels around the park – a halves pairing light on NRL experience and cohesion. It's a big ask for a new combination to click instantly, especially when the team is under pressure and fighting to avoid dropping to the bottom of the ladder.

Zac Lomax has been named to back up from Origin II and will bring some strike and experience out wide, while Wiremu Greig has been added to the bench for his first appearance since Round 24 last year. There's no doubt the Eels are showing improvement in patches, but they were comfortably handled by the Bulldogs 30-12 before the bye and now face the challenge of turning potential into points without their key playmakers.

The Titans, meanwhile, arrive in Sydney with renewed confidence following their most complete performance of the season. Last week's 28-8 dismantling of the Sea Eagles was a statement win – built on energy, effort, and brilliance from AJ Brimson, who ran for 260 metres, broke the line twice, and pulled off one of the assists of the year for Jayden Campbell.

The Titans achieved that win without their Origin stars Tino Fa'asuamaleaui and Moeaki Fotuika, who have both been named on the interchange this week and could bolster the side further if cleared to back up. David Fifita has been named in the reserves and could be a late inclusion, which would be a massive boost given his power and X-factor.

Jojo Fifita also returns from injury, slotting into the centres and adding some additional punch to the backline. The Titans' main concern remains their defence – they've leaked 332 points in their last 10 games – but if they can replicate the structure and resilience shown last week, they'll be tough to handle.

Who to watch: For the Eels, Josh Addo-Carr looms as a potential match-winner. The veteran flyer has a staggering record against the Titans, scoring 13 tries in just nine appearances. Addo-Carr's combination of top-end speed, positional awareness, and knack for turning half-chances into points makes him a constant threat on the wing. With an inexperienced halves pairing, Parramatta may look to simplify their attacking structures and get early ball to their strike men out wide, which could play right into Addo-Carr's hands. If the Eels are to find success on Sunday, expect the Foxx to be front and centre.

On the Gold Coast side, Alofiana Khan-Pereira continues to build on his reputation as one of the NRL's most lethal finishers. He's crossed the stripe seven times in eight games this season and is coming off a confidence-boosting double against Manly. Khan-Pereira's raw pace and sharp instincts make him a nightmare for defenders, and he only needs a sliver of space to make teams pay. His ability to turn pressure into points could be the difference, especially if Brimson and Foran can create time and space for him on the edge.

Favourite: Coming off a confidence-boosting win and considering Parramatta's post-bye struggles, the Gold Coast Titans are slight favourites heading into this one.

My tip: There's simply too much going against the Eels in this one – no Moses, no Brown, a reshuffled spine, and a poor track record following byes. While the Titans have their own issues, they've shown they can grind out a result when it matters. If Tino and Fotuika back up, and Brimson maintains his blistering form, they'll be too strong Titans by 10.

Castleford 22 Hull FC 14

Tigers pounce on Hull FC

Castleford Tigers won 22-14 against Hull FC in their game down at MKM Stadium on Friday evening.

The win gives the Tigers some breathing space between them and the bottom two sides on the Super League ladder.

It was the visitors who struck first in the contest. A backline move ended up with Innes Senior diving over in the corner after video referee confirmation.

Hull FC found the line in style. Aiden Sezer created the break for Zak Hardaker who was tackled then it was lofted over for Harvey Barron to touch down for 6-6.

The first half was one for the Seniors wearing Castleford pink. Louis broke through some flimsy tackles to give the visitors a six-point lead at the break.

Coming out of the break, Castleford felt just fine. Daejarn Asi had the ball returned to him and ducked under two tackles to score.

Next, he played provider to give Castleford their fourth four-pointer. Asi turned the ball inside for Tom Amone to slice through.

Hull FC put a bandaid on the result late. Lewis Martin scored twice in the corner to make the final score 22-14.

Hull KR 68 Catalans 6

Robins thrash woeful Dragons

Hull KR won 68-6 against a lowly Catalans Dragons side at Sewell Group Craven Park on Friday night.

The Challenge Cup winners got back to business with a crushing win over a 12-man Catalans side.

It was the Dragons who challenged first. Ben Garcia tried to burrow over but was held up by the Robins defense. Hull KR responded with a slick backline move that ended with Tom Davies having the simple finish in the corner.

James Batchelor ran the perfect line to cross then Sauaso Sue found some space to go over for an 18-0 lead.

Things went from bad to worse for the Dragons. Franck Maria was binned for a shoulder charge which left the visitors down to 12.

Frustration boiled over for the visitors. Garcia got involved in a fracas and threw punches which saw him sent off. The Robins made use of the two-man advantage before half-time. Kelepi Tanginoa and Jack Broadbent both found the stripe.

Dragons were back to twelve but the scoring continued for Hull KR. Batchelor collected a second then Mikey Lewis picked up the scraps for 38-0 at the break. Hull KR kept up the points in the second half. Sue surged over for his second for the Robins in the one-sided win.

Catalans Dragons did avoid being left on a duck egg. Luke Keary produced a smart solo effort to cross for 44-6.

Otherwise, it was all the Robins. Tyrone May, Jai Whitbread and Noah Booth all added themselves to the long list of scorers while Lewis also got a pair.

Wigan 22 Huddersfield 18

Wigan produce comeback against dogged Huddersfield

Wigan Warriors won 22-18 winners against Huddersfield Giants at Flair Stadium on Saturday afternoon.

The Warriors were made to work for their ninth win in a row in Super League as they continue their chase for the top spot.

Wigan struck first in the contest. Junior Nsemba took it to the line, offloaded then it was swung to Liam Marshall for a walk-in four-pointer in his 200##sup game.

The Giants made use of their possession near the line. The short pass found George Flanagan who sliced through the line to give them a 6-4 lead.

They added to their advantage before half-time. It was set up with a charge from Thomas Burgess before a quick play the ball saw George King crash over.

The Warriors hit back right after the break. A high kick saw Jai Field put on a crunching tackle to force the ball loose then touch down.

Huddersfield made it 18-10 with another power play. The ball from Zac Woolford allowed Joe Greenwood score.

Headed into the final ten, Wigan needed some points. Field strode through a gap then offloaded to Jack Farrimond to give them a sniff.

The hosts thought they had done enough when Burgess showed off his strength and pushed the scrum to force an error.

Wigan had one final trick up their sleeve. As the clock ticked down, Field unfurled a pass for his winger who turned it inside for Farrimond to collect a second and a 22-18 win.

Leeds 36 Warrington 12

Rhinos stampede past Wolves

Leeds Rhinos won 36-12 against Warrington Wolves down at AMT Headingley Stadium on Saturday afternoon.

The Rhinos had to wait for their first points against the stout Wolves defense. It was a wonderful pass for Cameron Smith which broke through.

They added a penalty goal late in the first half to stretch their advantage out to eight points at half-time.

Their momentum carried into the second half with Jake Connor lofting a kick for Jacob Miller who passed inside for Smith to pick up his second.

Leeds surged from their own end and found their next score. Miller was tackled on the break then Brodie Croft stretched out to score for 20-0.

Warrington stemmed the bleeding briefly with a four-pointer of their own. George Williams broke free and sent it inside for Josh Thewlis to dive over.

It was a Rhinos rampage in the sunshine in this one. Connor produced a slick pass for Tom Holroyd to get over neat the sticks.

They kept their foot on the throat late on. Connor added himself to the scoresheet alongside Morgan Gannon for 36-6.

Leigh 24 Wakefield 20

Leopards squeak past Trinity

Leigh Leopards won 24-20 against Wakefield Trinity down at DIY Kitchens Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

The Leopards monopolised possession early after Max Jowitt kicked out on the full and finally cracked them through David Armstrong.

Jowitt made up for his error quickly. Leopards spilled it rucking it out and the fullback sliced through to make it 6-4.

Leigh levelled the game after a ruck penalty. Ben McNamara stepped up and piloted through the kick.

It was a quickfire double for Armstrong. It was started from a Darnell McIntosh break then an intricate play saw the fullback score again.

The Leopards continued their march before the break. Lachlan Lam stepped past defenders then threw it to McIntosh to make it 18-6.

Trinity did reduce the deficit before half-time. Oliver Pratt ran a strong line and steamed over from close range.

The game developed into an arm wrestle in the second half as both teams tried to establish their dominance.

The first points of the second half came from the tee. Jowitt kicked a penalty goal to bring Trinity back to 18-14.

Buoyed by that, Trinity went the full field and took the lead. The high kick was spilled and Corey Hall was on hand to touch down then Jowitt kicked the home side ahead.

Leigh snatched back the lead late on. Another slick set play with McNamara passing inside for Joe Ofahengaue to slam it down for 24-20.

St Helens 46 Salford 4

St Helens stomp Salford

St Helens won 46-4 against Salford Red Devils down at Salford Community Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

The Saints marched over the line early in the game. Jonny Lomax linked with Curtis Sironen for the latter to score.

The visitors kept peppering the Salford line. Tristan Sailor fired a pass out wide to Kyle Feldt who dived over.

It was a magic start from the Saints. They added a third in quick succession through Alex Walmsley with a strong run.

Next, St Helens created space easily on the right and Feldt had the simple finish to get a first-half double to make it 20-0.

They picked up where they left in the second half. Sailor the architect again, popping through a kick which Harry Robertson latched onto.

Feldt made it a hat-trick with another trademark finish. St Helens stripped the numbers then Sailor floated it wide for the winger.

Tempers flared between the sides after Walmsley and Matt Foster came together. Referee James Vella gave both captains a talk to calm it down.

When it got back to the rugby league, Saints scored again. Robertson scooted close to the line and rolled over.

It was a moment to remember for Owen Dagnall. He was on the end of a Saints left edge move and got a debut four-pointer.

The former NRL winger added a fourth try to his afternoon. Another swinging pass from Sailor allowed him to trot over.

Salford ended the game on a high note. Sam Hill returned the dropout with a chip kick for himself then scored in the corner for a maiden four-pointer.
