Game of the Season contender as Panthers hang on... just!

8 - 6

AJ Lucantonio

In a game fitting of a finals dress-rehearsal, the Penrith Panthers have hung on for a remarkable 8-6 victory over the Canterbury Bulldogs to kickstart Beanies for Brain Cancer Round at CommBank Stadium.

It was a frantic opening 25 minutes to the contest with both sides firing shots like they were heavyweight fighters. Penrith fired the first real attacking chance when Luke Garner somehow got a miraculous flick pass to Blaize Talagi. The former Eel was setting sail for the line before he ran into a brick-wall named Connor Tracey. Canterbury's best chance came from a Matt Burton line-break before a great tackle from Izack Tago and Dylan Edwards stopped the former Panther in his tracks.

A Viliame Kikau high tackle on Nathan Cleary saw the 'home' side open the game scoring after 27 minutes. Dylan Edwards added the penalty goal, taking the goal kicking from Cleary who was battling with a groin injury.

It took a while for the defence of either side to be broken and it was coincidentally broken play that caught the Panthers out. It was the most talked about half on the open market that helped to break the game open. An inside pass from Toby Sexton that sent Tracey away before finding Reed Mahoney in the clear, he lined up Jacob Preston in support who sprinted away for the opening try of the contest.

Penrith looked certain to level or even take the lead prior to the break when Talagi broke away again. But it was a carbon copy of earlier in the game when he was met by a steamtrain named Tracey and it was 6-2 at the break.

Penrith opened the fight to start the second half. The warning shots were fired in the set before when Cleary picked out fresh replacement Lachlan Galvin to break away down the sideline. In defence, the NSW halfback charged down an early Matt Burton punt to break away and tie the game up at 6-6. Edwards nailed the extras to give the Panthers the lead back.

The final 25 minutes was one of war and attrition. Both sides throwing everything at one another. Canterbury's late game decision making would leave everyone speechless, they passed up a chance to tie the game when Stephen Crichton didn't go for penalty goal. The Bulldogs had the game's final say with a set play down the right side, but Crichton was unable to get the pass away on time to Marcelo Montoya after a terrific Tom Jenkins tackle to hold on for a famous victory.

Manly maul timid Tigers

Tim Costello

The Sea Eagles have entertained their fans with a strong second-half showing to thump the Wests Tigers 28-10 at Brookvale on Friday evening.

An uneventful first half saw just one try scored - Manly winger Jason Saab crossing in the shadows of halftime after a scoreless first 39 minutes. Reuben Garrick converted for a 6-0 lead for the home side at the break.

The hosts surged ahead after halftime, with Garrick and Tolu Koula crossing in the left corner and within a short space of time Anthony Seibold's team were 16-clear and showing little sign of letting up.

Be that as it may, the Tigers fought back shortly after, with Alex Seyfarth helping stem the tide and getting the visitors in for their first try of the evening.

The Tigers held firm at 4-16 down from that point, but by the hour mark, Corey Waddell crossed for the Sea Eagles to stamp the home side's authority on the contest.

That 24-point margin was truncated to 18 points by a consolation try to Tallyn Da Silva two minutes before the siren sounded for a final score of 28-10.

Manly's next few games see them host the Rabbitohs sans-Origin stars next week before a bye post-Origin and trips to Melbourne (Storm) and Accor (Bulldogs) after that; while the Tigers are on the road the next fortnight with visits to Allianz (Sydney) and Auckland (Warriors) before hosting the Titans at Leichhardt in three weeks from now.

Ponga down as Raiders muscle up to escape with victory

Andrew Ferguson & AJ Lucantonio

A second half foot injury to Kalyn Ponga has overshadowed a brave Newcastle fightback as they went down by 22-18 to the Canberra Raiders at McDonald Jones Stadium.

It was a tense opening and it was an easy end-to-end struggle until a Simi Sasagi break turned momentum before Matt Timoko busted 50 metres to give Canberra much needed field position. After 16 minutes, an Ethan Strange bomb was well taken by Sasagi to get first points.

Eight minutes later, a Jamal Fogarty 40/20 was rewarded when offloads continued to push the Knights away. A great offload saw Kaeo Weekes crash over next to the posts. The Raiders had nine offloads in the first half and it was another one that put Strange over for a 16-0 lead. Newcastle's first half attacking woes this season continued with the side booed off McDonald Jones Stadium for the second home game in three as they were held to nil for the ninth time this season at half-time.

After sustained possession to start the second half, the Knights had to open the scoring to start the second half. Kalyn Ponga quickly identified an overlap down the short-side and he linked up with James Schiller to score against his old club. As the Knights were building into the contest, a poor error from Jackson Hastings saw Strange play counter-attacking footy as he sprinted up to the 20 metre line. A looping pass found Jed Stuart, who turned Dominic Young inside and out to score a cracking counter-attacking try.

After skipper Kalyn Ponga went down the tunnel with a suspected ankle injury, Newcastle's attacking spark had to come from other options. Their left edge combination of Best and Schiller was their best hope as they went 80 metres on a single play. On ensuing tackles, Jermaine McEwen crashed over from dummy half for his maiden NRL try.

We had a grandstand finish in waiting as another shift to the left edge from Best and Schiller sent the former Raider over for his second and the Knights were coming to get the green machine. But, the Knights continued to show their inconsistency and drove FOX League's Warren Smith crazy when they didn't contest a kick for the umpteenth time this season.

Rob Crosby

26 – 12

The Brisbane Broncos produced one of their finest performances of the season with a 26-12 victory over the New Zealand Warriors in a rare Saturday afternoon appearance at home.

Laying the foundation for the victory with three first half tries before holding off their fast-finishing opponents with a match-clinching four-pointer to Gehamat Shibasaki, the Broncos recorded three straight wins for the first time since April to the delight of 43,424 supporters in attendance.

The scoreboard capped off a challenging afternoon for the Warriors as they slumped to back-to-back losses for the first time this season, while Charnze Nicol-Klokstad and Luke Metcalf were both forced from the field with injuries.

Taking immediate advantage of an error in the opening set of the match, the Broncos set the pace for an impressive performance with Adam Reynolds placing a grubber into the in-goal for Kotoni Staggs (2nd minute) to pounce for first points.

Proving just as effective without the ball after Josiah Karapani forced Edward Kosi over the sideline with the tryline in sight, the hosts reached double digits when Ezra Mam fired a tremendous cut-out pass to send Karapani (14th minute) over for his fifth try in three matches.

Adding a penalty goal to Reynolds midway through the half, the Warriors appeared to narrow the ledger when Luke Metcalf's bomb landed in Chanel Harris-Tavita's hands - only for the bunker to rule the Warriors five-eighth failed to get the ball to the ground.

The Broncos took an 18-0 lead to the sheds after Reece Walsh rounded out a dominant half by putting Shibasaki (40th minute) over for a try with seconds remaining on the clock.

A try-saving effort to hold Walsh up over the line shortly after the resumption spurred the Warriors into action with Roger Tuivasa-Sheck (45th minute) crossing for his first try at Suncorp Stadium since 2014.

Reynolds added his second penalty goal of the afternoon to push the home side beyond two converted tries.

The Warriors rallied in the face of their deficit with Leka Halasima (65th minute) soaring onto a bomb, however the scoreboard joy quickly turned to concern with Metcalf copping a heavy shot from Brendan Piakura, resulting in the halfback being assisted from the field by two Warriors trainers.

In a moment of agony for the visitors, Kosi was unable to hold onto a pass with a clear passage to the try-line; the Broncos took that stroke of luck in their stride to secure the 26-12 victory courtesy of Shibasaki (75th minute) collecting his third double in as many matches.

Next week, the Broncos will face the Bulldogs at Accor Stadium on Friday night, while the Warriors will have their final bye of the season prior to State of Origin III.

Dragons put injury issues aside holding off Parra fightback

Josh Robertson

The St George Illawarra Dragons might have been dropping like flies both pre-game and during the game, but a blistering first half helped them to a 34-20 win over the Parramatta Eels in front of 18,000 fans at WIN Stadium.

The Dragons were forced to shuffle their line-up late, with Nathan Lawson replacing Christian Tuipulotu, who was injured during the warm-up. Lawson wasted no time making his mark, crossing for the first two tries of the match to give the Dragons an early lead and silencing any doubts about his inclusion.

Parramatta struck back through Josh Addo-Carr, whose pace proved too much for the Dragons' defence. However, the Dragons responded with a flurry of tries, including one from Corey Allan, who had just returned to the field following an HIA assessment to score. Under-pressure halfback Kyle Flanagan then showed his composure, diving over to extend the Dragons' lead.

Valentine Holmes capped off a dominant first half for the Dragons by outjumping Isaiah Iongi to claim a high ball and score. Holmes then converted his own try, giving the Dragons a commanding 26-4 lead at half-time.

Momentum began to swing in the second half, starting with Zac Lomax crossing out wide against his former side in the 47th minute. Parramatta then struck twice in quick succession, with Dean Hawkins scoring in the 57th minute and Kelma Tuilagi capitalising on a Nathan Lawson knock-on in the 59th minute to bring the Eels back into the game at 26-20.

Parramatta continued to press and thought they had another try through Josh Addo-Carr, only for the touch judge's flag to go up, ruling that Addo-Carr had stepped into touch. Replays showed the decision was as close as it gets, but it ultimately halted Parramatta's momentum.

The Eels remained in the hunt until Zac Lomax attempted a speculative pass late in the game. Valentine Holmes intercepted it, racing away to score in the 76th minute and putting the result beyond doubt. A late penalty goal from Kyle Flanagan sealed the Dragons' 34-20 victory, capping off a thrilling contest at WIN Stadium.

The injury concerns will play a big part for the Dragons in the lead up to their contest next week against the Raiders in Canberra whilst the Eels have a bye before a clash against the Panthers in a fortnight.

Katoa Hammers Bunnies

Andrew Ferguson

50 – 28

Dolphins halfback Isaiya Katoa tore the Souths defence to shreds and fullback Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow racked up 4 tries to celebrate his 100th NRL game in style.

The Bunnies opened the scoring in the third minute thanks to some superb play by Latrell Mitchell, who got outside his defender, then split the cover defence and then muscled a great offload away while being tackled, finding Jack Wighton backing up on the inside, and he scored a good try. Mitchell converted.

The Dolphins hit back in the 11th minute after having several repeat sets on the Rabbitohs line. Jeremy Marshall-King barged over from dummy half to score a classic rakes try. Jamayne Isaako converted.

The Dolphins took the lead in the 20th minute when Isaiya Katoa threw a dummy and then broke through the line before throwing a beautiful inside ball to Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow in support, who raced away to score under the posts. Isaako converted.

Dolphins went further ahead in the 29th minute after Herbie Farnworth broke the line and put the Bunnies defence on the back foot. From the next play, Katoa held up a gorgeous ball for Kodi Nikorima who stepped inside the defence, who over-read the play, and he raced away through the gap to score. Isaako converted.

With 4 minutes remaining in the half, the Dolphins shifted left to Katoa who fired a stunning cut-out pass to Herbie Farnworth who was almost in the defensive line, but caught and passed the ball perfectly onto the unmarked Jake Averillo, who dived over to score in the corner. Isaako converted.

Right on the stroke of halftime Katoa held up a pass, committed the defender and then sent a great ball out to the unmarked Averillo, who raced down the wing and then kicked it infield. The ball dribbled along unhelpfully, but eventually Tabuai-Fidow regathered and scored. Isaako converted and at the break, the Dolphins were dominating, leading 30-6.

The Dolphins kept the scoreboard ticking after the break. A Dolphins bomb goes up and Alex Johnston dropped it in the contest with Max Feagai, Tabuai-Fidow casually picked up the lost ball and ran around to score. The bunker cleared it. Isaako added the extras.

Souths finally hit back in the 53rd minute courtesy of a gorgeous little play by Cody Walker on the left side, who straightened his run close to the Dolphins line and then turned it inside to Tallis Duncan who strolled in to score. Mitchell converted.

Two minutes later and Souths crossed again when Walker, again, dished a nice ball to put Duncan, again, into a gap, again and Duncan scored, again. Mitchell failed to convert.

On the 64th minute, a Rabbitohs bomb is allowed to bounce, The Rabbitohs clean it up but a forced offload is intercepted by Tabuai-Fidow who weaves through the defenders and then raced 70 metres to score. Isaako converts.

Two minutes after, Jack Wighton threw a dummy and then barged through three defenders to score. Mitchell converted.

On the 69th minute Davvy Moale stormed onto a crash ball close to the Dolphins line and he bulldozed his way through to score. Mitchell converted.

With 7 minutes remaining in the match, Kurt Donoghue took a clean intercept and raced 95 metres to score. The match rounded out with no more points, Dolphins romping home 50-28.

Storm smash Sharks in final fifteen

Andrew Ferguson

30 - 6

A dogged, grinding first hour of footy saw both sides struggle to pose a threat in attack, but were dishing up rock solid defence. Enter Eliesa Katoa, whose final 15 minutes turned the game heavily in Storm's favour as they romped home with a big win over the Sharks.

Melbourne were the first to score when Jerome Hughes held up a great pass for Eliesa Katoa and the back rower hit the gap at pace, racing 25 metres to score untouched. Ryan Papenhuyzen converted.

After 20 minutes of struggle and poor last tackle options by both sides, the Storm finally added points after the Sharks went left for the third time on the Storm line. The Storm defence rushed up on Nicho Hynes, who was forced to bat along a pass, but Sualauvi Faalogo, who had shut down the last two shifts left by the Sharks, intercepted cleanly and raced 90 metres to score. Papenhuyzen failed to convert.

With 6 minutes remaining in the half, the Sharks finally registered points when Hynes put up a long, deep bomb. Papenhuyzen let it bounce and Braydon Trindall, who raced down field, got a perfect bounce, regathered the ball and burrowed over the line to get a much needed try for the Sharks. Hynes converted. At the break the Storm were up 10-6.

Three minutes into the second half, Papenhuyzen landed a penalty goal to give the Storm a 6 point lead.

After 25 minutes of back-and-forth by neither side having the attacking flair to breach either sides impressive defences, Eliesa Katoa created a try. Jahrome Hughes put up a bomb from half way, Katoa charged downfield and leapt to take the bomb on the full from Will Kennedy, then he spun in the tackle and offloaded to Nick Meaney in support, who then scored a good try. Papenhuyzen converted.

With 8 minutes remaining in the game, Katoa chased another Hughes bomb and snatches it from Kennedy, spinning as he landed and then passed out the back to Hughes who scored. Papenhuyzen converted.

Five minutes later, Faalogo brilliantly fielded a low kick by the Sharks and then blitzed the Sharks defenders to race 50 metres down field, looking certain to score before he succumbed to a hamstring injury.

With 90 seconds left in the match, Trent Loiero juggled an offload from Nelson Asofa-Solomona, reeling it in just in time as he fell forward and scored a try. Nick Meaney converted to give the Storm a 30-6 victory.

Cowboys pause form slump with tough win over the Titans

Josh Robertson

The North Queensland Cowboys have temporarily paused a form slump picking up a 30-24 victory over the Gold Coast Titans in wet conditions at Cbus Super Stadium.

The Titans had early opportunities to score, but errors proved costly, with Chris Randall twice spilling the ball in attacking positions. The Cowboys capitalised on the Titans' mistakes, opening the scoring through Zac Laybutt after a 70-metre burst from Scott Drinkwater set up a clever short-side play.

The visitors quickly doubled their lead when Murray Taulagi brushed past a weak tackle from Allan Fitzgibbon to score, extending the Cowboys' advantage. However, ten minutes before half-time, the Titans clawed their way back into the contest with Beau Farmor powering over for a converted try to reduce the margin to 12-6 at the break.

The second half mirrored the first, with the Cowboys starting fast before the Titans mounted a spirited comeback. Scott Drinkwater extended the Cowboys' lead in the 47th minute, diving over to score his first try of the night. Moments later, Jeremiah Nanai added another, pushing the margin to 24-6 and putting the Cowboys firmly in control.

Momentum swung in the Titans' favour soon after. AJ Brimson scored a try in the 54th minute, capitalising on a chaotic play where Brian Kelly's kick inside was fumbled by Tom Dearden. Jojo Fifita followed suit, crossing the line to bring the Titans within six points after Tom Weaver nailed the conversion.

The Cowboys halted the Titans' momentum with ten minutes to go, as Scott Drinkwater secured his second try with a moment of brilliance sparked by Reece Robson's quick work out of dummy half.

Inside the final five minutes, Phillip Sami gave the Titans a glimmer of hope with a converted try, narrowing the margin to six points again. However, the Cowboys' defence held firm, ensuring they walked away with a 30-24 win.

Next week, the Titans enjoy a bye before another Queensland derby against the Brisbane Broncos in a fortnight. Meanwhile, the Cowboys face a daunting clash against the Melbourne Storm as they look to maintain their winning form.

NRLW Round 1 Preview

Sharks v Eels

- Josh ROBERTSON

The opening match of the 2025 NRLW season comes from Shark Park as the Cronulla Sharks take on the Parramatta Eels.

2024 would be deemed a successful season for the Sharks after their maiden NRLW Grand Final Appearance albeit falling at the final hurdle with their 32-28 loss against the Roosters. Cronulla went down 24-0 at half time and almost pulled off one of the great comebacks as they came within two points of the Roosters. The Sharks season as a whole was a strong one and they will look to build on that experience from last year. The Sharks have lost a key component of their side from last season with Tayla Preston heading across to the Bulldogs for the season. Cronulla have also lost Vanessa Foliaki out of their Grand Final side after announcing her sudden retirement from the game. The Sharks line up with Emma Verran at fullback and Tiana Penitani Gray playing in the centres after playing in the halves for New South Wales.

Just missing the finals, the Parramatta Eels will be looking to go at least one spot better than they did in 2024 when they finished fifth on the ladder missing out on the finals by 2 points and a negative for and against. Consistency was an issue for the Eels as they managed to pull off a first round win against eventual minor premiers the Sydney Roosters before a narrow loss to the Sharks. The Eels struggled at times against better teams but then lost a few games they shouldn't have. The Eels side has already been left with a blow with both Mahalia Murphy and Kennedy Cherrington ruled out of the side through injury. Murphy is named in the reserves but not expected to play as the side is pretty consistent from last season.

Players To Watch: After missing the 2024 NRLW season through injury, Cook Islands International Chantay Kiria-Ratu links with the Sharks after being contracted to the Gold Coast last season. Kiria-Ratu is an exciting player and has big shoes to fill taking over from Taylah Preston but the youngster has the ability. Eels halfback Rachael Pearson has become one of the games top players but a lack of consistency has hurt her game after missing out on selection for the 2025 Origin Series despite holding the incumbency in 2024. The Eels will need Pearson's control to help them win this one and through the season.

Tip: The Sharks should be able to beat the Eels in this one. The Eels losing two key players is going to be tough to overcome because the Sharks side has enough spark in the backline. Sharks by 10.

Raiders v Dragons

- Beth NICHOLLS

The first of a double header, the Dragons take on the Raiders away from home in Canberra, just hours before the men's sides' of both these teams also play each other.

Only having won three games in their second year in 2024, the Raiders will be looking to start this season on a high, and push to make their first finals campaign after narrowly missing out in 2023. With the off-season loss of Apii Nicholls returning home to the Warriors, Cheyelle Robins-Reti shifts to fullback with Mackenzie Wiki and Leianne Tufuga starting in the centres. Georgia Thomas makes her NRLW debut, previously representing Australia in OzTag, playing in five-eighth alongside Zahara Temara in the halves.

Nathan Cross joins the Dragons as the 2025 coach, taking over Jamie Soward who coached the side from 2021-2024. Having only won two games in 2024 and missing wooden spoon solely on points differential, the Dragons will be looking to find their spark again. Kasey Reh and Raecene McGregor are the Dragons partnership, who aren't unfamiliar with each other, along with try scoring weapon Teagan Berry at fullback and Zali Hopkins at hooker. Nita Maynard makes her club debut off the bench, and former Knight Hannah Southwell also makes her Dragons debut, starting at lock.

Players To Watch: Both halfbacks are experienced players who have been playing for the NRLW since the premiership inception in 2018 and are both captaining their sides for the 2025 season. Zahara Temara played for the Roosters for five years before joining the Raiders in their inaugural year in 2023. She became the first NRLW player to reach the 40-game milestone in 2024 and brings much experience and leadership to the Canberra side. Last year she scored two tries and made six try assists, both personal bests. Starting at the Dragons in 2018 before a two-year stint at the Broncos followed by a two-year stint at the Roosters which saw her win three straight premierships, Raecene McGregor is a decorated player, who also reached the 40-game milestone in 2024.

Tip: Both sides see some big changes made from their 2024 squad, where they combine a mix of experience and young talent. I think this game could go either way, but I think the Dragons have a side that is ready to go right out of the gate. Dragons by 4.

Bulldogs v Knights

- Josh ROBERTSON

The Canterbury Bulldogs make their first appearance on the NRLW stage as they play host to the Newcastle Knights at Accor Stadium on Friday night.

It's been a long wait for the Blue and White to come into the NRLW and it's no doubt going to be a huge atmosphere for the Bulldogs when they take the field. The key signing for Canterbury was that of Tayla Preston moving across to Bulldogs from the Sharks. The Bulldogs have a team mixed with experience and youth which will bring them forward. The Bulldogs have named an experienced halves pairing with New Zealand international Ash Quinlan named at five-eighth joining Canterbury from the Raiders. The youth aspect of the side is on show with Andie Robinson named at fullback bringing exciting speed and talent on the park into the Bulldogs along with former Dragon Alexis Taunaeai into the second row.

The Newcastle Knights are looking to continue their good form of recent seasons although they have lost a number of key players including QLD star Tamika Upton returning to the Broncos, Caitlan Johnston departing to the Sharks and second rower Hannah Southwell going to the Dragons. The Knights though still have a strong squad going forward, Newcastle's side still shows enough experience with new recruit Bo Vette-Welsh named at fullback and experience dual-code player Sheridan Gallagher named on the wing. The halves pairing of Jesse Southwell who helped lead NSW to their Origin win and English international Georgia Roche will give the Knights a good footing.

Players To Watch: Bulldogs halfback Tayla Preston will be the key focus for Canterbury not necessarily for the game on Friday night but going forward across the season. Preston's control was vital to the Sharks success in 2024 and coming across to the Bulldogs leading a new team as co-captain will be an important cog for the Bulldogs. Jesse Southwell took a leading role for New South Wales in the 2025 Origin series and lead them to a series win. Southwell showed experience beyond her years and had a commanding role as the solo half for the Blues. At club level she is partnered with the experience Georgia Roche but still will need to take a strong role with the departure of a number of key players including attacking star Tamika Upton.

Tip: The Bulldogs will have the atmosphere behind them at Accor Stadium but I think there is just enough strength in the Knights side to get them home. An experienced spine will give the Knights a big advantage to see off the Dogs. Knights by 6.

Broncos v Tigers

- Beth NICHOLLS

2024 Minor Premiers, the Brisbane Broncos, host the 2024 Wooden Spooners, the Wests Tigers, with both sides looking to start strong.

Losing only the opening two of nine rounds in 2024, the Brisbane Broncos were favourites for the premiership after taking home the minor premiership title, however their lacklustre performance against the Sharks saw them miss out on the opportunity to take home a potential fourth premiership. Returning home after spending three years at the Knights, Tamika Upton is co-captain of the Brisbane side, and starting as fullback. Ali Briggins is the other co-captain, and continues her partnership with Gayle Broughton in the halves, with Jada Ferguson starting hooker. Julia Robinson plays her first game in the centres since 2020, with Kerri Johnson and Hayley Maddick on the wings.

The Tigers' second season is one they surely would like to forget, having only won two games, and finishing last on the ladder, which came a year after having just missed out on playing finals footy by one win. Kezie Apps continues to lead the Tigers, with the side staying confident with their young and emerging halves combination of Evie McGrath and Losana Lutu. Joining the Wests Tigers in 2025 is Pihuka Berryman-Duff from the Eels playing at hooker and QLD origin representative Emily Bass, in the centres, where she previously played for the Titans and Broncos.

Players To Watch: After playing for the Broncos for their 2019 and 2020 premierships before moving to the Newcastle Knights in 2022, Tamika Upton brings experience and X-factor to the Brisbane side. Captaining the QLD Maroons in 2025 and scoring one of the six QLD tries, Upton is a weapon of the game and could be the piece the Broncos were missing in 2024. Also, a foundation player of the NRLW, playing with the Dragons from 2018, before joining the Wests Tigers in 2024, Kezie Apps brings leadership and strike power to the side. Apps was the Tigers' number one try scorer in their inaugural year, scoring five tries in seven games, though injury in 2024 saw her only feature in three of nine games.

Tip: It's always hard to pick a winning side in Round 1, but I can't go past the Broncos. Their experienced spine and forward pack mixed with emerging talent makes them a perfect mix to get the job done at home. Broncos by 18.

Cowboys v Titans

- Kelly HOLLIS

The 2025 NRLW season kicks off with a Queensland showdown between the Cowboys and Titans in Townsville.

While both sides finished outside the top four last season—North Queensland in sixth and the Gold Coast in eighth—there's plenty of optimism for a fresh start. The Cowboys notched up four wins to the Titans' three in 2024 and head into this clash with a strong home-ground advantage, having won three of their past four at Queensland Country Bank Stadium.

North Queensland have made several off-season moves in a bid to push higher up the ladder. Coach Ricky Henry has named four club debutants, including Kiwi Ferns stars Abigail Roache and Rosie Kelly, with Roache named in the centres and Kelly partnering Kirra Dibb in the halves. Dibb, entering her third season as co-captain, remains the backbone of this Cowboys outfit and sits just six points away from reaching 150 career NRLW points. The ever-reliable Emma Manzelmann joins Dibb as co-captain, with the Mackay product continuing her streak of appearing in every Cowboys NRLW match to date. Jakiya Whitfield, a standout centre last season, gets her chance to shine at fullback.

The Titans will be out to spoil the party in Townsville and get back on track after an underwhelming 2024. Despite being grand finalists in 2023, they struggled last season due to injuries. This year, they welcome five new faces, including Pauline Pillae-Rasabale, Natasha Penitani and debutant Ivana Lolesio, who returns from a long-term knee injury. Origin utility Lauren Brown is back in the halves, while the electric Jaime Chapman shifts to fullback to cover for the absent Evania Isaako and Shannon Mato, who are both sidelined for the season due to pregnancy.

Players To Watch: Cowboys' speedster Jakiya Whitfield gets her shot at fullback and will be looking to impress early in her preferred role. Expect plenty of attacking spark and involvement across the park. Jaime Chapman takes on the fullback responsibilities this season, and her game-breaking pace and agility will be crucial in sparking the Titans' attack.

Tip: It's never easy to pick a winner in Round 1, but with the Cowboys' solid home record and an exciting mix of experience and fresh faces, they might just have the edge in front of a Townsville crowd. Cowboys by 4.

Roosters v Warriors

- Kelly HOLLIS

Everything old is new again as the Sydney Roosters welcome the returning New Zealand Warriors to Allianz Stadium for their first NRLW match since 2020.

This fixture reprises the very first game in NRLW history back in 2018, when a then-unfancied Warriors outfit stunned the Roosters 10-4. Now, five years later, the Roosters enter as reigning premiers, while the Warriors return to a vastly expanded competition with renewed purpose and a bold new roster.

The Roosters aim to build on their momentum from 2024, following a strong trial win over the Sharks. However, they'll need to do it without Golden Boot winner Tarryn Aiken, ruled out with a shoulder injury. NSW Blues stars Olivia Kernick, Jess Sergis, Isabelle Kelly and Keeley Davis form a potent spine and strikeforce, while Corban Baxter and Shawden Burton make their long-awaited returns from injury. Jasmine Strange will debut in the back row, while young guns Rima Butler and Macie Carfile will pull on the Tricolours for the first time.

The Warriors have assembled an exciting, if somewhat inexperienced, squad under highly respected coach Ronald Griffiths. While they'll be missing key forwards including Felila Kia and Lavinia Tauhalaliku, they've named a side packed with promise. Apii Nicholls returns to captain the team from fullback, and she'll be joined by newcomers Patricia Maliepo and Emily Curtain in the halves. Eyes will also be on Olympic gold medallist Michaela Brake and Kiwi

Ferns veteran Harata Butler as the Warriors look to gel quickly and make an impression early.

Players To Watch: Centre Jess Sergis continues to be a strike weapon, scoring 10 tries in her last nine NRLW matches and combining beautifully with Isabelle Kelly. Captain and fullback Apii Nicholls provides the calm head and leadership needed for a fresh side. She's the only current squad member with prior Warriors experience and will be key at the back.

Tip: As much as a fairy tale return would be a great story for the Warriors, the reigning premiers are a settled and star-studded outfit. With Origin combinations, club experience and momentum on their side, expect the Roosters to dominate across the park. Roosters by 16.

Match preview

AJ Lucantonio

Origin takes out the best, as the rest prove themselves

With both sides heavily impacted by the State of Origin decider, the high-flying Bulldogs take on the much-improved Brisbane Broncos to kick off Round 18 at Accor Stadium.

The Bulldogs are coming off one of the games of the season in a tiresome 8-6 struggle against the undisputed premiers at CommBank Stadium. While we saw how far the Dogs have come this season, we were left with more questions than answers over the current direction of the club following the acquisition of runaway Tiger Lachlan Galvin. When Toby Sexton was moved from half to hooker, it took away a long distance kicker and it made Matt Burton easy pickings for Cleary's go ahead game winning try. We will see Galvin in the halves in this one, but the question looms large for Cam Ciraldo.

To beat Brisbane, they need to dominate the middle early. If they can unsettle a pack of Brisbane forwards without their leaders, then they can go to town rather ruthlessly in this one. Elsewhere, Toby Sexton has a chance to continue his audition for teams in need of a seven next season as he partners up with Galvin in the halves.

Onto the teamlists, out from Thursday's game are Jacob Kiraz, Stephen Crichton, Max King, Daniel Suluka-Fifita and Kurt Mann. Coming into the side are Blake Wilson and Enari Tuala while Harry Hayes and Sam Hughes are the new props. The two fresh faces on the bench are Lipoi Hopoi and Kurtis Morrin.

For the Broncos, what a difference one man made to this team. The return of Reece Walsh has sparked the Broncos into overdrive. Their return to form in ruthless fashion over the past three weeks has been based on their spine being together for the first time in quite a while. The Broncos were playing at a different light year than what we have seen in several months. Michael Maguire has turned rejects into gems with Gehamat Shibasaki and Josiah Karapani becoming unsung heroes in the backs.

To beat the Dogs, this will be the clear indication of how far the Broncos have come this season. They are playing one of the more ruthless teams, which have been guilty of switching off at times throughout the season. Adam Reynolds will need to game manage the heck out of this game and guide his forwards around the park. Elsewhere, the new faces will need to lift in the absence of their Origin charges.

For the Broncos, they are missing Walsh, Shibasaki, Haas and Carrigan for this one, which will see Michael Maguire recall Selwyn Cobbo and Deine Mariner to the team. Xavier Willison and Kobe Hetherington join the starting side. Jayiden Hunt and Tyson Smoothy are the new men on the bench.

Who to watch: We mentioned him earlier, but this is Toby Sexton's major audition for clubs looking for a game-managing seven. Sexton has become the unlucky man in the Dogs' recruitment drive, and it is brutally unfair for a guy who has improved more than any half not named Isaiya Katoa or Luke Metcalf. Sexton's game management has been a highlight for the Dogs this year, allowing the likes of Burton and Crichton to shine with ball in hand.

For the Broncos, it's the most talked about man in Red Hill. Selwyn Cobbo returns from his NRL hiatus, looking to prove a point against the Bulldogs. Cobbo's Q Cup stint was underwhelming to sum it up, with comments about his workload and attitude being less than desirable. Cobbo will look to have a point to prove at Accor Stadium on Friday night.

Favourite: Bulldogs are favourites with the bookies, but the gap is shortening. Brisbane has won just two of their past 12 matches at this venue.

My tip: Despite both teams having significant outs, I think it will be a great game of football with both sides looking to prove something. Brisbane looking to show they can do it without their Origin stars, while for the Dogs they are looking to prove that Galvin can fit into this team in perfect harmony. Bulldogs by 6.

Match preview

Andrew Jackson

The table-topping Raiders will look to continue their winning ways on Saturday when they face the Dragons in a game that, at least on paper, looks a complete mismatch.

Canberra has been incredibly consistent in the 2025 season, which is to be expected of a team that is sitting at the top of the ladder.

But considering the amount of youth in this squad, particularly in the key positions, it is impressive to see the way coach Ricky Stuart has kept them at the top of their game.

It didn't come easy last week though, with the Raiders holding off a fast-finishing Knights outfit 22-18 and it is far from the only scare Canberra has had in the past month or so, with the 36-12 win over the Rabbitohs the only real blowout – and the Bunnies led that one 12-0 early.

It is probably a good thing anyway that the Raiders aren't playing their best football at this time of the year, both in the sense that they are still finding ways to win and are also timing their run well ahead of September.

While the Raiders have been relatively unaffected by Origin this year outside of losing Hudson Young, they are without another key forward this week after Josh Papalii was selected for the Maroons.

That sees Corey Horsburgh switch to prop, with Morgan Smithies starting at lock and Simi Sasagi retaining his spot in the second row. Trey Mooney is the fresh face on the bench.

As for the Dragons, in an indictment of how close the competition is this year – at least in the battle for a spot in the bottom half of the top eight – they sit level with the eighth placed Dolphins.

Now, the Dolphins do have two extra byes up their sleeve but the sixth-placed Roosters, like the Dragons, have enjoyed all three bye rounds already and are just two points ahead of Shane Flanagan's men.

A much-needed win over the Eels last week helped ease pressure, but with the Raiders, Roosters and Bulldogs on the horizon it could be short-lived relief for the Red V.

Only making matters worse, the Dragons lost three players to injury last week with Luciano Leilua (quad), Toby Couchman (shoulder), Nathan Lawson (scapula) and Hamish Stewart (concussion) all unavailable while Christian Tuipulotu also (hamstring) pulled up lame in the warm-up.

That sees Hame Sele, Loko Pasifiki Tonga, Michael Molo, Raymond Faitala-Mariner, Sione Finau and Tyrell Sloan all join the 17.

Who to watch: No Young or Papalii means only more responsibility will fall onto the shoulders of skipper Joseph Tapine, but the loss of two experienced forwards also opens up an opportunity for Trey Mooney. The Raiders clearly think highly of Mooney, having extended him until the end of the 2027 season despite suggestions rival clubs could snap up the highly-rated forward. Mooney, unfortunately, has been a victim of Canberra's success this year, managing just two limited appearances this year and otherwise having to bide his time in reserve grade. It has been a step backwards from 2024, not in talent or ability, but just in the lack of playing time available. The best way to change that is making the most of opportunities like the one he will get on Saturday.

With news recently that he has been given permission to look elsewhere, it will be interesting to see what version of Tyrell Sloan turns up on Saturday for the Dragons. While obviously talented, Sloan has struggled for consistency throughout his career with a frame that makes it harder for him to offer much meterage from the back or resistance in defence. There is still some untapped potential though and for Sloan, this weekend's game is a chance to prove to potential suitors out there that he is worth taking a shot on.

My tip: Even without a few experienced forwards, the Raiders – especially at home – should have far too much strike power and class for an unconvincing Dragons team. Raiders by 14.

Pre Origin III forecast: no rep stars, chance of an upset as Storm heads towards Townsville

The toll of representative football will be on display on Saturday evening as the North Queensland Cowboys host the Melbourne Storm with both sides missing a host of stars due to State of Origin.

Facing off for the second time in the span of a month, the two sides have enjoyed contrasting fortunes since their previous meeting with the Cowboys conceding 124 points in three games while the Storm have soared to consolidate a place in the top four.

Enduring a wretched run with two unconvincing wins and a draw from eight matches since the start of May, the North Queensland Cowboys remarkably sit just one point outside the top eight despite boasting the second worst for-and-against record in the premiership.

Alleviating mounting criticism with a 30-24 victory over the Titans last Sunday, coach Todd Payten will be without representative quartet Reece Robson, Tom Dearden, Reuben Cotter and Jeremiah Nanai.

Experienced forwards Jordan McLean and John Bateman will make welcome returns to the starting pack with Tom Duffy named at halfback, while journeyman hooker Temple Kalepo will make his NRL debut off the bench following reserve grade stints with the Warriors and Knights.

The Cowboys have achieved mixed results prior to State of Origin with three wins from six fixtures during Payten's tenure, however the side most recently suffered a humiliating 58-4 defeat at the hands of the Dolphins three weeks ago.

Enjoying a prosperous period during the middle third of the season with four wins and two byes, the Melbourne Storm will be looking to continue a strong recent record without their representative stars.

Asserting their authority with three late tries in a 30-6 win over the Sharks at home last Sunday, coach Craig Bellamy has lost Xavier Coates, Cameron Munster, Harry Grant, Trent Loiero and Stefano Utoikamanu to representative football, along with speedster Sua Fa'alogo to a hamstringing injury.

The ensuring reshuffle will see Joe Chan and Kane Bradley start in the backline, Bronson Garlick at hooker and a revamped bench featuring Jonah Pezet, Lazarus Vaalepu and Aivalu Lisati. Former Gold Coast forward Josiah Pahulu has been included as part of the extended squad after making a mid-season switch to Melbourne.

The Storm have won five of their past six matches leading into State of Origin since 2018, while their overall record against the Cowboys under Bellamy stands at 26 wins from 38 meetings since 2003.

Saturday night will be the third time the Cowboys and Storm have faced off prior to State of Origin; the Storm have prevailed on both occasions previously in 2003 and 2017.

Who to watch: If not for an untimely injury, Scott Drinkwater may have become Melbourne's long-term fullback. Instead, the 28-year-old has developed into an attacking weapon for North Queensland. Making his NRL debut with the Storm in 2018 before a pre-season pectoral injury saw him head north to take up an opportunity in first grade, Drinkwater has remained a dynamic force with the ball this season to rank third in the league for try-assists (14) to go with six of his own. Facing off against the best attacking team in the league, Drinkwater will need to be at his best if the hosts intend to get into a point-scoring shootout with their opponents.

Coming off a dazzling performance featuring two try assists and a four-pointer to boot, Eliesa Katoa will be out to heap more pain on the out-of-form Cowboys. Thriving on the right edge in his third year at the Storm, the 25-year-old has revelled since making the move from the Warriors with six tries and 30 tackle breaks to go with 143 running metres on average. Proving just as damaging on the international stage with Tonga, look for Katoa to be a constant threat with the ball as the Storm chase their first win in Townsville since 2021.

Favourite: Despite winning one of their four appearances at the new Townsville stadium, the Storm are expected to get the job done on the road.

My tip: While the Cowboys will be desperate to atone for a deplorable performance at home three weeks ago, the class that remains within the Storm's ranks should shine through at the end of 80 minutes. Storm by 12.

Justin Davies

The Roosters enjoyed the bye last weekend and head back home looking to continue to build on their recent back-to-back wins.

It was signalled as a transitional season for the Sydney Roosters but they sit in sixth spot on the ladder ready for an assault at the finals.

Their backline will still be mostly intact with youngster Tom Rodwell getting his shot on the wing which should hold them in good stead for this game.

Benaiah loelu gets another chance at hooker highlighting a youthful pack and bench for the Roosters which might give their fans a glimpse into the future.

If everything above hasn't convinced you, the Roosters also hold a commanding head-to-head record against the Tigers. They have won 30 of the 39 clashes between the two since 2000.

Following a bright start to the season, it has gone to well shit for the Tigers and the joint venture is staring down another possible wooden spoon.

Yes, there has been injuries, mid-season transfers and more deck shuffling than the World Series of Poker but the familiar dark clouds persist around Concord.

Looking at their team this week, they will be without Jarome Luai due to Origin, Tallyn Da Silva has moved to Parramatta so it will leave them down to the bare bones.

Add in that the Tigers have lost six in a row after a flat performance against the Sea Eagles and now must rely on another makeshift halves pairing.

Can Latu Fainu and Adam Doueihy blend enough to give them a chance against a Roosters side that have shown they can pile on points for fun.

Also, if there is another tough loss, how much closer do we get to a possible coaching change for the Wests Tigers and everything starting again.

Who to watch: It is such a luxury for the Sydney Roosters to have James Tedesco available during the Origin period and he will direct things from the back for the tricolours. He will combine well with the rest of their potent backline to produce points.

Up front, Naufahu Whyte has been superb this season and he has lived up to some of the wraps he has got before he entered the NRL. He might need to take a big role with the Roosters having a very youthful side on the weekend.

For the Wests Tigers, it is a big chance for Sunia Turuva getting a crack at the fullback position this weekend against one of the stalwarts. It is a shuffled backline for the joint venture but he can give them some bite in attack.

They will have the services of Terrell May in the front row who started the season like a freight train but has recently more resembled a late running tangara. If he can muster a huge effort against his old club obviously, it might give them a sniff.

My tip: While they will be missing their Origin stars, the Roosters should still have enough firepower to put a score pup against a clawless Tigers outfit. Roosters by 30.

Kelly Hollis

Sunday afternoon footy heads to the Northern Beaches as the Manly Sea Eagles host the South Sydney Rabbitohs in a must-win clash for both clubs.

Since 1998, these two sides have faced off 45 times, with South Sydney holding the slight advantage—winning 23 games to Manly's 22. Recent history favours the visitors, with the Rabbitohs claiming victory in eight of their past nine meetings, including a 14-0 shutout the last time they met. That said, Manly haven't beaten Souths at 4 Pines Park since 2019, and coach Anthony Seibold has a poor personal record against Wayne Bennett-led teams, managing just two wins from eight attempts.

The Sea Eagles will take confidence from their 28-10 win over the Wests Tigers last week, though the performance was far from polished. It took until the 39th minute for them to open the scoring, but once they clicked into gear, the home crowd was treated to a flurry of late points. Tom Trbojevic looked much more comfortable in the centres, racking up 136 metres and seven tackle busts, while Tolu Koula and Reuben Garrick combined well on the left edge. Luke Brooks sparked a short-side play that led to a slick try, and Ben Trbojevic crossed late from a clever Daly Cherry-Evans chip.

With both DCE and Jake Trbojevic back full-time after Origin and just one change to last week's side—Tommy Talau in for the injured Nathan Brown—the Sea Eagles look settled and ready to push for a late-season surge.

For the Rabbitohs, the downward spiral continued last week in Brisbane as they were torn apart 50-28 by the Dolphins in the highest-scoring match of the 2025 season so far. It marked South Sydney's fifth straight loss, with a concerning 171 points conceded during that stretch. Still, there were some flashes of brilliance, particularly from Jack Wighton—who scored a double—and Latrell Mitchell, who was involved in the opening try and converted well from out wide. Souths did rally somewhat in the second half, but defensive lapses and poor discipline saw them overrun again.

With Latrell Mitchell and Cody Walker unavailable due to Origin and injury, respectively, Alex Johnston shifts to fullback, Jack Wighton moves into the halves, and Isaiah Tass comes onto the wing. Euan Aitken slots into the centres, and two new faces—Liam Le Blanc and Lewis Dodd—join the bench. Brandon Smith is listed on the extended reserves but looks unlikely to feature.

Who to watch: Manly centre Tolu Koula is becoming a Northern Beaches fan favourite, having scored in six straight games at 4 Pines Park. His speed and support play have made him a consistent threat on the left edge.

For South Sydney, Jack Wighton has an impressive record at Brookvale, with five tries in his last five games at the venue. With added responsibility in the halves, he'll need to steer the side around and provide spark in attack.

Favourite: Manly are the favourites according to current betting markets.

My tip: South Sydney are missing too many key players and leaking far too many points to inspire much confidence. Manly, buoyed by home support and Origin reinforcements, should get the job done comfortably. Sea Eagles by 12.

Match preview: The Decider with Luke Jobson

It all comes down to 80 minutes of football inside the greatest stage known to our wonderful sport, as the 2025 State of Origin series winds up inside of Accor Stadium on Wednesday night.

It was the tale of two halves in Perth, as 57,000 fans packed into Optus Stadium to watch the Queensland Maroons force a deciding game - taking down the fancied NSW Blues 26-24 on a wet winters night in the west.

Queensland came into the game under pressure, with Blues fans from Bondi to Broken Hill claiming the Origin series before a ball was kicked off. What ended up happening, turned into one of the best Origin games in recent series.

A dominant first half saw Queensland walk into the sheds at half-time up 26-6; Blues fans drowning in Tooheys New to live with the sobering reality that Queensland could put up a cricket score.

The second half saw the Blues rain hellfire and brimstone on a drab Maroons outfit, with goalkicking once again letting down NSW - Zac Lomax kicking at just 40% off the tee as the Maroons snuck away with a win.

At the home of Blatchy's Blues to finish the series, the Blues will walk in with the same crew under an injury cloud and the same questions over their ability to clutch up when the moment demands it.

The Maroons walk in knowing full well that it was a 35 minute stint that won them the game in Perth. Out of 160 minutes so far, the Maroons have been dominant for a fifth of that time and yet still have a chance to take the shield back across the Tweed River.

State versus State. Mate versus Mate. In version 44 of the State of Origin, it comes down to one game at the mecca of rugby league... Accor Stadium.

RUGBY LEAGUE project

New South Wales have stayed with the same 17 that narrowly went down to Queensland in Perth, despite Nathan Cleary and Payne Haas coming in under a bit of an injury cloud. Matt Burton will return to club land as Bulldogs teammate Jacob Kiraz takes the role of 18th man at Accor Stadium. Lindsay Smith and Bradman Best are both rewarded for some consistent form with squad call ups at 19th and 20th man respectively

Queensland have pulled the trigger on some more changes, with the most notable being Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow heading to fullback for the first time in his Maroons career to replace the injured Kalyn Ponga. That opens up the space for Gehamat Shibasaki to make his Origin debut, having been in on a train-and-trial deal just five months ago.

Josh Papalii will have one final swansong to bring some much needed enforcement to the Queensland pack, replacing Moeaki Fotuauka. That leaves Reece Walsh as the 18th man, with Josh Kerr and J'Maine Hopgood the reserves in the squad.

Who to watch: Payne Haas hasn't been his impactful self over the first two games, albeit in part due to injury. In what has been a common trend, Haas has only been cleared on gameday to play and despite that, he averages a career series high in average metres run, tackle busts and he hasn't missed a single tackle. Coming up against Josh Papalii, the Broncos enforcer will need to be at his very best from the get go if NSW are to rally back and keep the Shield in Sydney.

Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow will come into this game with the biggest target on his back. Having usurped Reece Walsh as the preferred fullback, the Hammer will be looking to insert himself early and repeat his perfect first half in Perth. While dangerous on the outside, his speed means that it's Hammer Time as soon as he gets the ball in broken play through the middle. Expect him around the ruck, with the old Melbourne Storm outside-in play to pop up more than once in a bid to send the Hammer flying through the guts of the Blues.

My tip: On paper, the Blues have the stronger squad - it's just a matter of fact. The Maroons have players who can break the game apart at any given moment all over the field, while the Blues have the better, stronger, all round side. In front of over 80,000 of the Blues faithful, in a series decider, it'll be the NSW Blues who come out victorious. It may not be as magical as James Tedesco's series-sealing try back in 2019, but it will be all the same for Blatchy's Blues and the NSW faithful. Blues by 6.

Hull KR 34 Wakefield 10

Robins fly past rugged Trinity

Leaders Hull KR won 34-10 against Wakefield Trinity in their game down at Craven Park on Friday night.

The Robins maintain their four-point advantage at the summit of the Super League competition after this result.

They were the first side to cross in the opening stages. Rhys Martin offloaded to Tom Davies who scored in the corner.

Wakefield responded with a score of their own. Harry Trueman unfurled a pass wide to Tom Johnstone to stroll in.

The visitors built on that four-pointer with a set move to the right which ended with Corey Hall scoring to make it 10-6.

It continued to be an evening for wingers. Hull KR swung the ball out wide and Joe Burgess touched down.

The second half was all the home side. Mikey Lewis had a bullocking run to score then Davies finished off a backline move for his second.

Trinity were given a boost to their comeback when Lewis was binned for a professional foul but Hull KR held firm.

Leeds 48 Leigh 30

Rhinos win points feast against Leopards

Leeds Rhinos won 48-30 against Leigh Leopards in their game at AMT Headingley Stadium on Friday night.

The Rhinos got the game started with a try from the boot. Jake Connor punched through a kick which Kallum Watkins touched down.

Leigh responded with a strong effort. Isaac Liu shrugged off a few defenders and rolled over for a four-pointer.

The game continued to see-saw in an open affair. Jacob Miller was there for an offload to run away for the Rhinos then Keanan Brand popped over for Leigh.

Next, it was Cameron Smith's turn to get into the action. He juggled the ball before surging over the line.

The Rhinos extended their lead to 24-10 before half-time. Brodie Croft broke through then floated a pass to Harry Newman to score.

Leigh cut into the deficit with some superb work. A high kick was plucked out of the air and offloaded to Gareth O'Brien to go over.

The Rhinos were on the double in the second half. Newman collected his second from a kick followed by Watkins slicing through to get his brace.

Brand decided to get into the multiples action. He finished off a backline move to get Leigh back to 36-20.

While it was a losing effort, Brand did get himself a hat-trick. It was another sweeping move which he finished.

The Leopards were the last team to get on the board. Ben McNamara pushed through then grubbered for Umyla Hanley to score.

Sezer went from architect to a try-scorer before the break. He sliced through again and held on to bring it back to 12-10.

The second half point scoring all went to the hosts. George Williams set up the field position before Sam Powell burrowed over for his 50th try.

Next, it was Lachlan Fitzgibbon who got on the scoresheet. Dufty broke through again and found the forward inside for 24-10.

Wigan 26 Castleford 20

Warriors edge past Tigers

Wigan Warriors won 26-20 against Castleford Tigers in their game at The Jungle on Saturday evening.

The Warriors remain right on the tail of leaders Hull KR in the chase for another League Leaders Shield.

Castleford Tigers got the home crowd going early. Daejarn Asi put the pass out wide for Will Tate to slide across the line.

Wigan fought back with a score of their own. Zach Eckersley flew down the wing before passing inside to Jai Field to score.

Buoyed by their score, Wigan pushed further ahead. Adam Keighran brushed off the defenders and rolled to the line for 12-4.

The Tigers needed some bite after the break and Asi provided it. He bumped off a defender and brought them back within two.

Asi had his fingerprints all over the Tigers points. He produced another superb pass this time for Sam Wood to put them ahead again.

Headed into the final fifteen minutes, Wigan retook the lead. Field looped a pass wide for Eckersley to shift inside and score.

Castleford snatched the lead back in the late stages. They swept it wide again and Tate dived over for his second.

Wigan tied the game up after some slick foot work from halfback Jack Farrimond drew a penalty then Keighran made it 20-all.

They weren't contend to take this to Golden Point. Field sliced through and stretched out before he slipped it to Liam Farrell to win for the Warriors.

St Helens 58 Salford 0

Saints scythe sorry Red Devils

St Helens won 58-0 against Salford Red Devils down at Totally Wicked Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

The Saints first score came from some trickery. Kyle Feldt snuck past the markers to slam the ball down.

St Helens were very positive in their ball movement early. Deon Cross poked through and offloaded to Owen Dagnall to dive over.

They were marched upfield from a penalty and took advantage. Tristan Sailor shovelled a pass wide to Feldt to collect a second.

Saints cut open the Red Devils again. A pass inside for Morgan Knowles saw the forward streak over for 20-0.

Some more slick work saw St Helens push further ahead. It was an interchange in the middle before Daryl Clark jogged to the line.

The hosts were trying out trick shots to entertain themselves. A low pass was toed ahead by Dagnall who chased it down for a score. Headed to the hour mark, Saints were in full flow. They broke open Salford again and Sailor finished off the move for 38-0.

They were scoring so much Sailor handed one to a teammate. Feldt leapt high to take it, found Sailor who popped it to Jake Burns for his first of the season.

He burnt them again a few moments later. On last, Burns fooled the defense and got his second of the afternoon and raised the half century. The points continued to flow for the Saints. Sailor went himself this time and added himself to the double trouble.

Feldt rounded off the win with a hat-trick. He linked up again with Sailor who floated a pass wide for the Australian to walk in for 58-0.
