Comeback Kids: Broncos come from 18 down to beat Bulldogs

Josh Robertson

The Brisbane Broncos have pulled off one of the season's greatest comebacks, rallying from 18-0 down to hand the Canterbury Bulldogs a second straight loss with a stunning 22-18 win.

The Bulldogs opened the scoring in clinical fashion, capitalising on a well-executed scrum play close to the Broncos' line. Brisbane's defensive line failed to number up on the left edge, giving Marcelo Montoya just enough space to step and duck under the attempted tackle to plant the ball down and give Canterbury an early lead.

Selwyn Cobbo's mixed performance at fullback proved costly for the Broncos in the first half. First, the Broncos failed to shut down a Bulldogs movement after several missed tackles, and Matt Burton swooped on a loose ball to score following a defensive error. Then, just after the half-hour mark, Cobbo's lack of urgency chasing a bouncing kick allowed Viliame Kikau to charge through and grab a fortuitous try. The Bulldogs were well on top and led 16-0.

The second half began with the Bulldogs dominating field position and continuing to control the tempo. Despite their dominance, they could only add a penalty goal through Burton five minutes into the half, pushing the lead to 18-0 but missing a chance to land the killer blow.

Then, out of nowhere, the game shifted. The Broncos began to enjoy more possession, and with that came opportunities as errors started creeping into Canterbury's game. Brisbane finally got on the board just after the hour mark when Jordan Karapani showcased his agility and footwork to step past Connor Tracey and score. Moments later, Delouise Hoeter narrowed the gap further, latching onto a sharp pass from Ezra Mam to cross out wide.

With momentum now firmly behind them, the Broncos surged again. In his 100th NRL game, Billy Walters made a massive impact, combining well through the middle before diving over to bring the score to 18-16. With less than five minutes to play, Brendan Piakura powered his way to the line, refusing to be denied. Adam Reynolds calmly slotted the conversion to complete the comeback and hand Brisbane a 22-18 lead.

The Bulldogs will now need to address their second-half fadeouts after back-to-back defeats, especially ahead of a tough road trip to Townsville to face the Cowboys next Saturday. Meanwhile, the Broncos, full of belief after their dramatic win, will head to the Gold Coast for a Queensland Derby clash against the Titans.

Three times a Weekes: Raiders rumble desperate Dragons

Tim Costello

Canberra fullback Kaeo Weekes has chalked up a hat-trick in a superb performance which helped his Raiders side to the outright competition lead, downing a spirited St George Illawarra 28-24 at GIO Stadium in front of nearly 16,000 fans.

For a game that finished with both sides scoring 20+, it was a quiet start in Bruce. The scoreboard wasn't troubled until the quarter-mark of the game when Xavier Savage went aerial to score in the corner off a messy lead-up.

The Red V hit back through Tyrell Sloan at the 33rd minute with a right side shift, and despite Kyle Flanagan's missed conversion, scores were levelled two minutes later through a penalty goal.

Either side of halftime Canberra stamped their authority on the contest with Kaeo Weekes nabbing two of his eventual three tries off long-range efforts. The 12-6 halftime lead quickly extended to 18-6 as a result.

By the 50-minute mark it was 24-6 after Morgan Smithies was the man on-the-spot for the Green Machine after a high kick contest that was batted back and landed in front of him, allowing him a swift pick-up and an untouched try.

The Dragons tried to stem the flow and were ultimately successful in clawing back into what seemed like a lost cause contest at the 59th minute, with Jaydn Su'A pouncing on a messy of a play.

24-12 down, the Dragons conceded nearly immediately when Weekes made a long-range line break to give the hosts a 16-point buffer.

Things got interesting as the contest continued into the final 15 minutes, Tyrell Sloan and Kyle Flanagan crossing for the away team to narrow the scoreline to 28-24.

But try as they might - the Dragons couldn't get that final four-pointer to either force extra time or win the contest outright, losing 28-24 and seeing David Klemmer sin-binned for a dangerous tackle late in the contest.

The win sees Canberra rise above Canterbury at the top of the table, now outright first on their own. The Dragons remain in the pack that sits just outside the top eight and will need to record some wins over the coming weeks if they want to feature in September.

The Wrap: NRL Round 18

Star-less Storm pip Cowboys

Andrew Ferguson

The Melbourne Storm ended a 3 game losing streak at Queensland Country Bank Stadium despite being without a host of players, against a never-say-die Cowboys side 26-20.

The Storm came into the match without fullback Ryan Papenhuyzen, wingers Xavier Coates and Sualauvi Fa'alogo, five-eighth Cameron Munster, hooker Harry Grant, Lock Trent Loiero and prop Stefano Utoikamanu. The Cowboys weren't exactly full strength, being without winger Murray Taulagi, half Tom Dearden, hooker Reece Robson and back rowers Reuben Cotter and Jeremiah Nanai.

Despite these omissions, both sides played rather well-controlled football. The Storm dominated position and field position early, It wasn't until the 15th minute of the game that the Cowboys eventually got a set inside the Storm half.

The Storm opened the scoring in eighth minute when Eliesa Katoa cleanly claimed a bomb, spun out of a tackle, then slammed the ball down for a try. Nick Meaney converted.

The Cowboys hit back in the 16th minute when Scott Drinkwater on the right side saw Grant Anderson had come up-and-in too far defensively, so he threw a cut-out ball to the unmarked Robert Derby, who got past the defence and dived to score in the corner. Drinkwater converted from the sideline to level the scores.

Melbourne reclaimed the lead when Nelson Asofa-Solomona stormed onto a crash ball near the Cowboys line and he barged over to score. Meaney converted.

With 5 minutes left in the half, Jaxon Purdue received the ball on the left, got outside the defence and then raced away to score a scintillating try in the corner. Jake Clifford nailed the sideline conversion to level the scores at halftime.

The Cowboys took the lead 9 minutes into the second half when John Bateman got a great offload away to Jake Clifford, who stormed onto the ball, bust the line and then passed inside to Drinkwater who raced away to score under the posts. He then converted his own try.

The Storm fullback hit back with a try of his own 5 minutes later when he wrapped around onto a nice ball, broke through the defensive line and raced 25 metres to score. He then converted his try. Five minutes later he kicked a penalty goal to give the Storm a 2 point lead.

3 minutes later Shawn Blore got a great offload away close to the Cowboys line for Meaney who got across for his second try, which he converted.

Drinkwater slotted a quick penalty goal with just under 3 minutes remaining in the game, but the Cowboys couldn't get across the line to send the match to extra time. The Storm defence holding on to give them a 26-20 victory.

Everything's Fainu as Wests Tigers stun Roosters

Rob Crosby

It was a family affair for the Wests Tigers as the Fainu brothers inspired the joint venture to a stunning 30-28 upset over the Sydney Roosters.

Having to wait until the final siren to secure one of the upsets of the season, all three Fainu brothers - Latu, Sione and Samuela - crossed for tries as the Wests Tigers recorded their first win over the Roosters since 2018 - and only their third win from 25 meetings since 2010.

The win was built off the back of a dominant first half with the joint venture leading 20-0 after half an hour, however the Roosters refused to wilt and almost got out of jail during an entertaining encounter played before a crowd of 24,311 supporters at Allianz Stadium.

Having conceded the first try in their last seven matches, the Wests Tigers made a stunning beginning to the match with Starford To'a going down the blindside and throwing a flick pass to send Charlie Staines (9th minute) over for first points.

Going further ahead via an Adam Doueihi penalty goal, the visitors made their opponents pay for mistakes with rookie halfback Latu Fainu (24th minute) swooping on a loose ball and racing 50 metres to touch down underneath the posts.

The one-way flow of points continued with Sione Fainu (30th minute) crashing through from close range to put the joint venture up 20-0.

Having been held up over the line on three occasions earlier in the half, the Roosters had better luck going over the Tigers with Daniel Tupou (34th minute) soaring through the air before Mark Nawaqanitawase (39th minute) powered his way over to reduce the halftime deficit to 20-10.

Undeterred by their defensive lapses late in the first half, the Tigers resumed their attacking potency with Samuela Fainu (43rd minute) rounding out the family hat-trick with a powerful run, while a second penalty goal from Doueihi pushed the Tigers out by three converted tries.

Tom Rodwell was denied a four-pointer by a heroic effort from Latu Fainu, however the Roosters' debutant wasn't to be denied moments later with a strong run down the sideline resulting in a try for Hugo Savala (56th minute).

With the Tigers failing to attempt a field goal despite multiple opportunities close to the posts, the Roosters narrowed the margin with Nawaqanitawase (74th minute) crossing to make it a six-point game.

Doueihi clinched the game with a penalty two minutes from time only for James Tedesco (79th minute) to score with seconds left on the clock.

Having come so close during a run of six straight losses, the Tigers weren't to be denied this time and emerged with their first win since Magic Round.

The result marked a memorable day for Alex Twal - the only remaining player from the last Wests Tigers side to defeat the Roosters seven years ago - as he claimed victory in his first match as captain of the club.

Next week, the Roosters will travel to Kogarah on Saturday evening to face the Dragons, while the Wests Tigers will take on the Warriors in Auckland on Sunday afternoon.

Manly march on with another home win over depleted Bunnies

AJ Lucantonio

The Manly Warringah Sea Eagles have claimed a critical 18-point victory over South Sydney who suffered yet another critical injury blow to new recruit Brandon Smith.

It was a tense opening 15 minutes, but Manly were starting to dominate the territory and eventually cracked the South Sydney edge. Following some quick hands out to their left hand side saw a nice interchange of passes that sent Reuben Garrick across after 17 minutes.

Manly were making further in-roads in the South Sydney defence. Following a nice roll-on spurred on by Lehi Hopoate, the hosts went to the skies and Tom Trbojevic and Alex Johnston jostled for possession. The Sea Eagles won that battle and Turbo charged across on the ensuing play.

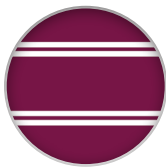

A critical out of play penalty against the Rabbitohs proved costly when Manly added their third try. Some deceptive play from DCE and Luke Brooks shifted the Souths defence too far right. Garrick had the instinct to come back on the inside and cross for his 20th double. That left the score at 14-0 at half-time with the winger's goal kicking a little troublesome.

Souths' disciplinary issues continued in the second half after Tallis Duncan was judged to have escorted a defender off the ball. Manly got their reward when Tommy Turbo continued his dominant game at centre, weaving through traffic to go over.

Manly burnt South Sydney for speed when they had Jason Saab burn Isaiah Tass for speed before linking up with DCE and he goes across for try number five. He grabbed the corner post as a crutch to resemble his elderly status in the game in appreciation for the annual Try July celebration.

Some rare possession for the Rabbitohs off the back of a penalty gave the visitors their first try of the contest. Some nice sliding shape in attack saw Duncan charge across on the left edge. He added a second mere minutes later and the Rabbitohs were coming to get the Eagles.

Souths didn't offer too much after that point and suffered a further blow when new recruit Brandon Smith went straight up the tunnel with an ankle complaint. The visitors added a late consolation try at the end of the game when Isaiah Tass capitalised on a great Jack Wighton grubber to put Souths within two possessions. Manly did claim a late try to rub some salt into the wound when Tolu Koula intercepted a loose pass to seal the game.

QLD show their spirit as they claim series

AJ Lucantonio

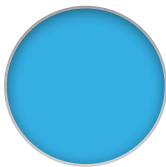

The Queensland Maroons have claimed the 2025 State of Origin series with a 24-12 victory over the NSW Blues, led by inspirational captain Cam Munster and man of the match Tom Dearden.

The circumstances for Munster to play in this game given the tragic passing of his father Steve this week would've been nearly impossible for most out there, but he handled the environment with class and professionalism. Despite both sides having numerous chances and coming up empty. The Maroons opened the scoring after 17 minutes after a contentious penalty against Reece Robson. Some nice sweeping play saw the ball in the arms of Gehamat Shibasaki who beat Zac Lomax who was jamming in, before finding Xavier Coates for the opening try of the decider after 17 minutes.

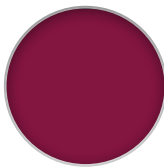

NSW were struggling to get into the game and the Maroons were warming into the contest. A shift to their right edge saw Rob Toia throw a desperation offload from the grasp of Latrell Mitchell and Brian To'o. It landed in the arms of Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow who got away from two defenders before finding Tom Dearden to run under the posts and put QLD three scores up. Right on half-time, Harry Grant burrowed over four defenders including three Panthers to crash through and score to give the Maroons a 20-0 lead. For the second successive game, the Blues would have to overcome a hefty margin.

Off the back of three straight penalties to start the second half. NSW simply had to be next to score and they were. Off the back of some quick sweeping passes out to the right edge, Stephen Crichton simply had to outpace Lindsay Collins and the Bulldogs centre goes across for the first try of the second half. With the game on the line, NSW had their fair share of chances on the Maroons goal-line and they couldn't execute. The Maroons were working them over relentlessly until they couldn't hang on any longer. A Dearden show and go fooled Jarome Luai on the outside and sealed QLD's third Origin shield in the last four years. For the second time in his Origin career (decider in 2022), Dearden managed the game terrifically when it mattered in a decider, through his defence with several try-savers and the management of the side around the park.

The Blues did manage a consolation try when Brian To'o placed it down following a grubber kick from Jarome Luai. Simply put it, QLD just wanted it more than the Blues tonight. Their effort areas across the park far outweighed what NSW dished up across the board. The Maroons didn't make an error until the 68th minute, while the Blues were rushed and panicked to deliver a result in this game. Pressure now builds on embattled coach Laurie Daley, whose future will be under review after blowing a 1-0 lead in emphatic fashion across Game 2 and Game 3.

Match preview

Kelly Hollis

The Cronulla Sharks and Dolphins face off on Friday night in a crucial mid-table clash that could shape the makeup of the top eight.

This game carries added significance for both teams. Level on 18 competition points, the Sharks trail the Dolphins only by points differential, meaning a win here could launch them back into the top eight heading into a Round 20 bye. Both teams are coming off a well-earned rest in Round 18, but it's the Sharks who desperately need to steady the ship, having lost four of their last five. The Dolphins, on the other hand, have claimed victory in four of their last five and will be looking to consolidate their spot inside the top eight with another win on the road.

Cronulla coach Craig Fitzgibbon has opted for stability, naming the same starting 17 that took on the Storm before the bye. Despite the 30-6 loss in Melbourne, the Sharks were competitive for much of that match, only fading in the final quarter. The return of Sione Katoa to full fitness provides a boost on the wing, and the home side will be looking for a complete 80-minute performance after patchy form through the middle of the season.

For the Dolphins, Kristian Woolf has made just one forced change to the side that dismantled the Rabbitohs 50-28 in Round 17 – the highest scoring match of the season. Sean O'Sullivan steps in at five-eighth for the injured Kodi Nikorima, while Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow, fresh off scoring four tries in that same game, is set to back up from State of Origin III. Max Feagai and Jake Averillo will swap positions in the backline, and veteran forward Mark Nicholls has been promoted to the starting side in the front row. With confidence high and combinations clicking, the Dolphins are shaping up as a serious danger side.

Who to watch: For the Sharks, winger Sione Katoa is one to keep an eye on. Still easing his way back from a disrupted start to the year, Katoa's explosive running game and finishing ability were on full display against the Dragons, where he ran over 200 metres and crossed for two tries. If he sees quality ball, he can break the game open.

For the Dolphins, halfback Isaiya Katoa will have the spotlight firmly on him. With Nikorima sidelined, the 21-year-old will take on greater responsibility steering the team around the park. His composure and game management have been growing with every match, and this could be his biggest test yet in 2025.

Favourite: Despite their recent slump, the Sharks are favourites heading into the match according to Sportsbet.

My tip: While Cronulla have the home-ground advantage and will be desperate to bounce back, the Dolphins are playing the better footy right now. If the Hammer backs up well from Origin and Katoa controls the tempo, the visitors should have too much firepower.

Dolphins by 12.

Match preview

Luke Jobson

Super Saturday starts in the basking sun at McDonald Jones Stadium as the Newcastle Knights look to stay in touch with the eight as they take on the Melbourne Storm.

The Newcastle Knights are looking down the barrel of yet another disappointing season after a tight 22-18 loss against the ladder-leading Canberra Raiders in Round 16.

Adam O'Brien's men are so close, yet so far away from the top eight and have been absolutely decimated by injury to compound a frustrating season in the Hunter. With no Fletcher Sharpe for the rest of the season, captain Kalyn Ponga now joins the sideline after surgery on his foot ended his campaign.

It's been a season of what ifs so far, with the Knights losing six games by less than a converted try, despite the constant halves changes, bleeding of debutants in the forward pack and senior leaders going down with the injury bug.

It gets no easier against a Melbourne Storm side this week who haven't lost in nearly two months, and with the possibility of Melbourne being as close to full-strength as they have been in a while.

The Storm have started their run into the finals early, and yet are undefeated since their third bye in Round 15. Losing their Origin stars last week and Ryan Papenhuyzen pre-game to a busted calf., the Storm were able to hold off a fired up Cowboys outfit in Townsville to record their 11th win of the season.

Eli Katoa and Jahrome Hughes were once again at their best, while Nick Meaney showed his versatility after the late withdrawal of Papenhuyzen as Craig Bellamy's men showed why they are always at the pointy end of the ladder. With the majority of their best line-up either coming back from injury or on representative duties, the Storm just have to get through this week before they fully turn their attention to the run home and securing a home final yet again.

The Knights are once again hit by the injury bug, with star fullback Kalyn Ponga out for the season. That sees Fletcher Hunt come into the side at fullback, while Greg Marzhew returns at the expense of James Schiller. Leo Thompson returns from suspension, which sees a shuffled forward pack in lieu with Tyson Frizell heading to lock, Phoenix Crossland moving to hooker and Jayden Brailey sitting on the pine to start.

The Melbourne Storm have taken a safe approach to this week's team list, with all Origin stars bar Stefano Utoikamanu (interchange) named in the reserves on Tuesday - so 3pm on Friday becomes oh-so important for Storm fans and Supercoach players alike. Ryan Papenhuyzen returns to the starting line up after being a late change last week, while Alec MacDonald misses the game with a rib injury. Jack Howarth is 18th man after recovering from appendicitis, but may return at the expense of Joe Chan.

Who to watch: Fletcher Hunt has had a slow start to 2025, only playing in a handful of games in the NRL but he started to show some brilliance against Manly and the Roosters in his last two appearances. Having played mainly on the edge in 2025 at NRL level, Hunt has played every position in the backline for the Knights NSW Cup side, scoring six tries in ten appearances. He will have his toughest test to date against the Storm but has speed for days and can blast through a line if given an inch of space.

Nelson Asofa-Solomona could very easily break the game apart within the first ten minutes if given the chance. Named to start while Trent Loiero is in the reserves, big Nelson has the ability to just put a ton of hurt on a Newcastle forward pack that has struggled through the middle in 2025. Used sparingly in 2025 (only two games with 40+ minutes played), Asofa-Solomona still averages over 100 metres run and just under five tackle busts a game. If he can replicate those numbers in one solid stint to open up on Saturday, it paves the way for the Melbourne spine to pick apart the Knights defensive issues.

Favourite: Melbourne, obviously.

My tip: The Knights are more hot and cold than Katy Perry sans 2008, while the Melbourne Storm have been quietly sliding up to second on the ladder at the expense of the Warriors and Bulldogs. Even on the chance that all of Melbourne's stars sit out after State of Origin, the system set in place will cause issues for a Newcastle side that can either score or concede 40 in about as many minutes. No Munster? Wishart steps up. Harry Grant? No worries, here's Bronson Garlick. Loiero having a rest? Here's a 200cm Nelson Asofa Solomona. Newcastle don't match that... they can't match that and they won't be able to keep up on Saturday.. Melbourne by 12.

Two of the most inconsistent sides in the NRL presently will face-off in what will be one of the toughest games to tip a winner for.

Two of the most inconsistent sides in the NRL presently will face-off in what will be one of the toughest games to tip a winner for.

The Dragons climbed into the top 8 after their Round 13 win over the Knights, but since then they've been a defensive sieve, conceding 134 points in their last 4 games. So far in 2025, the Dragons have the lowest possession stats, getting just 47.7% of the ball. Pair this with their very low completion rate (76.8% - which makes them one of the 4 worst teams for completions) and the fact that are one of the bottom 7 sides for Errors and Handling Errors shows that the Dragons woes in attack are largely self-inflicted, due to their lack of discipline with ball-in-hand.

The Dragons strength is their running game in the middle, especially out of dummy half, while their defence has proven to be the best in the NRL for sticking to their tackles, as they have missed less tackles than all other teams. So if teams are scoring so easily and the side isn't missing many tackles, suggests their defensive line is disjointed and not working as a cohesive unit, giving teams plenty of opportunities to exploit holes in the line, or players who isolate themselves by being out of position.

Meanwhile, trying to predict which Roosters side will turn up every week has been harder than trying to pick your nose with a broken finger. In Round 1 they were flogged by Brisbane 50-14 in Sydney, but 5 weeks later, they beat the Broncos 26-16 at Suncorp Stadium. Round 2 they beat Penrith and again, 5 weeks later, lost to the woefully out-of-form Panthers 40-12. In the last 6 weeks though, despite having 3 wins and 3 losses, they've become somewhat more consistent, putting in strong performances against top 2 sides Canterbury and Canberra, hammering top 8 side Cronulla and beating lowly sides Newcastle (narrowly) and the Cowboys (by 34 points). Last week though they lost to the struggling Wests Tigers – a team they've dominated, convincingly, for two decades. The Roosters were blitzed in the first half before rallying to almost snatch victory in the second half.

The Roosters are the second worst team for completions which has prevented them from winning more games. They are one of the top 4 sides for line breaks, tackle breaks and offloads which shows they are doing all of the hard work to create opportunities. But their completion rate coupled with the fact they are one of the 3 worst sides for committing handling errors and conceding penalties shows a lack of composure and discipline in attack.

Who to watch: Roosters outside back Mark Nawaqanitawase has become a real focal point for their attack on the right edge and he has proven to be capable of playing at centre as well as on the wing. The Roosters will look to shift to him frequently when in the Dragons half. He has scored 11 tries in his last 8 NRL games.

Damien Cook has been very active running from dummy half and will be bringing his middle forwards with him on these runs to make big inroads early in sets up the middle.

Favourite: The Roosters come into this contest as the favourites. They've won 20 of their last 25 games against the Dragons and have racked up 477 points in their last 14 clashes with the Dragons.

My tip: The Roosters have a swag of players returning for this match, including halfback Sam Walker. They will be seeing this match as an opportunity to begin their run to the finals. Roosters by 16.

Justin Davies

Finishing off Saturday night is an intriguing game as the North Queensland Cowboys host the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs.

The Cowboys ride into this game off a slight high considering how close they ran the Storm without their Origin stars last week.

They have been a side which has been harder to pick than a broken nose because when the Cowboys are on, they are a slick side.

When they aren't though, they get scores like the first clash against the Storm and Dolphins who piled on points for fun.

Getting Tom Dearden, Reece Robson, Jeremiah Nanai and Reuben Cotter back into the side from representative duty if they pull up and that should help them possibly get a big scalp.

The Cowboys have shown they can score points but can they do it against one of the best defenses in the NRL this season.

Otherwise, it is will further mire them in the chasing pack and heap more pressure on coach Todd Payten.

There is another intriguing element to this game – earlier this week Reed Mahoney confirmed he will make the switch to the Cowboys from the Bulldogs next season.

It has been a bumpy fortnight for the Bulldogs with defeats to the Panthers and Broncos pushing them down to third place on the ladder.

The loss to the Broncos will stick in their minds after being rundown last Friday and having questions asked about everyone's favourite talking point – Lachlan Galvin.

He started his first game in the halves and had a mixed game which you would expect from a teenager but that won't stop the media.

One good thing for the Bulldogs though is all the swirl about singings and leavings have finished with Reed Mahoney and Toby Sexton confirming their new clubs for 2026.

Anyways, this is about a whole team. The Bulldogs are stuck in a slight funk but nothing gets you dancing again than the return of your Origin stars.

Stephen Crichton, Max King, Kurt Mann and Jacob Kiraz should back up if they get through Origin and give them enough bite against the Cowboys.

While it doesn't look it, this might be a big game for the Dogs. Losses to the Panthers and Broncos can be shaken off but getting gunned down by the Cowboys could be too much for them and call for changes.

Who to watch: Back in his natural position, Jaxon Purdue is an excitement machine who always has a nose for the line. Playing one of the top teams in the NRL, he might be the game breaker that the Cowboys need in an important game.

Harrison Edwards gets his chance to start at lock with the injuries to Sam McIntyre and John Bateman and has the added bonus of him playing his old club. Edwards joined the Cowboys mid last year and is a valuable utility for the Cowboys in this contest.

The spotlight will once again be right on Lachlan Galvin who gets another start in the seven jersey for the Bulldogs. Can he and Toby Sexton combine better admittedly with more of their weapons back and alleviate the tension in the air.

He did find the line last week but it wasn't a vintage performance from Villiams Kikau in the forward pack. He will match up against a good forward pack against the Cowboys and will need to bring his whole bag of tricks.

Favourite: Bulldogs should start this game favourites and eye this up as a big chance to get themselves right.

My tip: Bulldogs to get back in the winner's column with a comfortable win that showcases their strong defense again. Bulldogs by 14.

Where to from here for Warriors and Wests

As the home-and-away season heads into its final third, the New Zealand Warriors will be hoping to remain on course when they host the Wests Tigers across the Tasman on Sunday afternoon.

Having been entrenched inside the top four for the past three months, the New Zealand Warriors will be desperate to rectify recent losses in order to give themselves the best chance of confirming a return to the finals and a guaranteed second chance via a top four finish.

Recovering from losses to Penrith and Brisbane during their final bye of the season last week, coach Andrew Webster has responded to Luke Metcalf's season-ending knee injury by handing former Gold Coast playmaker Tanah Boyd his club debut. Taine Tauapiki will come in at fullback for Charnze Nicoll-Klokstad, while Dallin Watene-Zelezniak returns on the wing after spending the past fortnight on the sidelines.

Sitting in fourth position – two points behind the third-placed Bulldogs and four points clear of the fifth-placed Broncos – the Warriors are scheduled to play at home in five of their remaining nine matches.

The Warriors have enjoyed tremendous success over the Wests Tigers throughout the 2020s with eight straight wins, including an emotional return in 2022 after two-and-a-half COVID-impacted seasons on the road.

Putting aside weeks of off-field noise and disappointing on-field performances, the Wests Tigers will be striving to build upon last week's breakthrough result with a rare win in New Zealand.

Holding off a fast-finishing Roosters side with a 30-28 victory to break a run of six straight losses, coach Benji Marshall will welcome back a wealth of experience with premiership winners Apisai Koroisau, Jarome Luai and Jack Bird all named to return.

Currently ranked 14th – two points clear of last position and four points adrift of the top eight – the Tigers face a difficult run home with fixtures against three of the top four sides, along with two games against the Titans, over the closing rounds.

The Tigers have won five out of 14 matches against the Warriors at Go Media Stadium; the joint venture's last victory at the venue occurred against the Storm in 2018 as part of a double header with Benji Marshall sealing the result with a field goal.

Who to watch: Having been made to wait until July to get his chance in the top grade, Tanah Boyd will be determined to hold his place in the side well into September. Playing a pivotal role in guiding the Warriors reserve grade side to the top of the table with 16 try-assists in 13 appearances, the former Titans playmaker has shown plenty of ability during the course of 69 NRL appearances to date – including nailing a golden point field goal to defeat the Warriors three years ago. Activating a mutual option in his contract to remain in New Zealand until the end of next season, Boyd will be out to impress as the Warriors strive to record their first win at Go Media Stadium since Easter.

Coming off his first win as a starting halfback – and only second win in the top grade – young gun Latu Fainu will be eager to continue his development against one of the competition heavyweights. Earning rave reviews alongside his brothers with a try in last week's shock victory over the Roosters, the 20-year-old has begun to realise the promise that saw him represent Tonga on the international stage before making his first grade debut while still a teenager. Set to finally line up alongside Jarome Luai in the halves after several false starts, look for Fainu to take the line on as the Tigers strive to defeat the Warriors for the first time this decade.

Favourite: With the Warriors attracting crowds in excess of 20,000 fans in their past 15 appearances at Go Media Stadium, the home ground support is expected to give the Wahs an edge.

My tip: While the new-look spine may not be as potent in stacking up points on the scoreboard, the foundations the Warriors have laid over the first two-thirds of the year should get the hosts home. Warriors by 8.

Battle of the West turns into season definer for both sides

The Battle of the West between the Eels and the Panthers from CommBank Stadium turns into a match with significant implications for both sides' seasons as it will shape their run to September.

For the Eels, playing finals is obviously of a secondary nature due to the injuries and significant overhaul the roster has undergone under the coaching of Jason Ryles. The run home is critical to them because it sets up their future for the next couple of seasons, developing the likes of Isaiah Longi, Tallyn Da Silva and Ryley Smith (although suspended) is critical for the run to the end of the season.

Let's remember, the Eels almost beat the Panthers on this turf in June. Although, there was one giant inclusion... the one Mitchell Moses. While Moses won't be on the turf in this one. Dean Hawkins and Dylan Brown have had several games in the halves together and their combination will be vital to the Eels chances in this one. Also, they have to overpower the Panthers pack, on occasion this season, the pack has tried to go around teams but Penrith nullified that really well in June, watch that battle with keen interest.

On the team front. Zac Lomax will back up on the wing. Elsewhere, Joey Lussick and Tallyn Da Silva will form a 1-2 punch from hooker. Charlie Guymer starts in place of Kelma Tuilagi (suspended) while Sam Tuivaiti returns from a syndesmosis injury on the bench.

What a turnaround this season has been for the Panthers. After sitting bottom in Round 12, a lot of people were wondering whether this would be the end of the dynasty. I sat back with my mug in hand and thought, this can't be the way it ends. True to form, the Panthers have rebounded, going undefeated since their horror show in Bathurst.

That has been in large part due to squad continuity. Ivan Cleary took his time and found the right combination of 17 that delivered results for the Panthers. Casey McLean has turned into a dynamic centre and has held his own against some of the best in our game. Nathan Cleary is expected to back-up and his game management will be essential for the Panthers to get home in this one. Meanwhile, Moses Leota has been a man reborn over the last month with consistently strong performances after a lacklustre start to the season and will look to dominate Junior Paulo in this one.

Onto team news. Penrith have named the exact same side that defeated the Warriors. But from jersey 19-23, there are Cleary, Edwards, To'o, Martin, Yeo. If they pull up okay from the decider, this team-list is going to fast resemble a winning Lotto ticket.

Who to watch: For the Eels, it's the man that left for a permanent fullback gig in Isaiah Longi. The custodian has been immense for Parramatta this season in a side that has looked lacklustre, he has always brought a spark or a moment that made your head turn. Longi has been amazing this season and will look to prove his worth against his old club.

For the Panthers, I am going to putting the focus on Lindsay Smith. Smith has emerged as the powerful partner to Moses Leota up front. Smith has averaged strong numbers this season and has been rewarded with appearances in the NSW State of Origin camp. He will be looking to continue the amazing form which saw him earn an Australian jumper.

Favourite: Penrith are favourites with the bookies and have turned their poor CommBank record around having won their last three at home.

My tip: This is very close to call, if Penrith's Origin stars back up then they will romp it home. But if they don't, then this game just evens up a whole lot more and Parramatta have a golden chance to take two points off the Panthers. Watch this space and tip with caution, but I have to go one way. Panthers by 4.

Everything looks set up for the Brisbane Broncos to continue their push towards the top four on Sunday evening when they play a Gold Coast Titans team down on confidence and, it seems, with coach Des Hasler on the way out the door.

Multiple reports on Wednesday morning claim Hasler and the Titans are set to part ways at the end of the season, in some ways bringing much-needed clarity to the club's future but also now putting in question what else there is to achieve for the remainder of the year.

Of course, should Hasler exit as expected, he will want to end his final season in charge on a high.

But for a Titans team that looks destined to finish at the bottom of the ladder, usually there is a natural progression away from merely chasing results and instead bleeding younger players or more broadly looking towards the future.

What that could look like remains to be seen, but for now the Titans face a tough task against a Broncos team who is on a roll and only last month destroyed them 44-14.

The Gold Coast rebounded the following week with an impressive win over Manly but have suffered back-to-back losses since and now are fighting to avoid the wooden spoon.

Brisbane, meanwhile, has won four games in a row to rocket into top-four contention with the injury-hit Warriors suddenly looking incredibly vulnerable.

The Broncos looked on track for a disappointing loss to the Bulldogs last week, only to storm back from an 18-0 deficit and claim a thrilling 22-18 win.

In team news, the Titans welcome back Jayden Campbell (concussion) at halfback while David Fifita has been named on the bench as he eyes a return from an ankle injury.

Elsewhere, Queensland duo Tino Fa'asuamaleaui and Moe Fotuikaika have been named to back up from the Origin decider, as is the case for Brisbane's Origin contingent in Pat Carrigan, Payne Haas and Gehamat Shibasaki.

Reece Walsh, meanwhile, has also been named at fullback which sees Selwyn Cobbo shift to the bench.

In other welcome news, Ben Hunt returns at hooker from a hamstring injury while Jesse Arthars (ribs) has been named on the extended bench and could be a late inclusion.

Who to watch: If the Titans are going to pull off the upset on Sunday, it needs to start with a dominant performance up front against a Brisbane pack that has continually laid the platform for the likes of Ezra Mam and Reece Walsh to thrive in recent weeks. Enter skipper Tino Fa'asuamaleaui. He was quoted by CODE Sports earlier this week candidly admitting that he would like to see more clarity surrounding the club's future, which could come in the form of Hasler stepping down, but he also vowed to "turn up every weekend to change this club and get a win". With that in mind, this is the perfect opportunity for Fa'asuamaleaui to live up to those words and inspire his team to a win over their Queensland rivals.

Against a Titans team that has conceded the most linebreaks in the competition and the second-most points, this could be the kind of game where Ezra Mam puts on a show. Mam was heavily involved in last week's win over the Bulldogs and is the kind of player who only grows in confidence when playing with a lead. It was more of a joint effort the last time the Broncos played the Titans, although Mam had two linebreak assists in that win and once again could be a big threat with his pace off the mark, particularly against a tiring Gold Coast forward pack as the game wears on.

Favourite: Brisbane is well-backed to continue its winning ways.

My tip: This does feel like a banana peel game of sorts for the Broncos, who are coming off a high having chased down the Bulldogs while the Titans are fresh from the bye and welcoming back a few key injured players. I'm not brave enough to tip them, but it is easy to see how the upset could unfold on Sunday. Brisbane by 10.

Huddersfield 30 Castleford 12

Second half riot as Huddersfield put Castleford to the sword

Despite the scores being level at half-time, the Huddersfield Giants have continued their mid-season revival of sorts, with a 30-12 victory over a poor Castleford Tigers outfit.

The game started disastrously for the visitors when Zac Woolford was sin-binned for a late shot. Fortunately, Giants fullback George Flanagan Jr imposed himself with a kick return which put Jacob Gagai into space, the former Rabbitoh found Tui Lolohea in support and the veteran half ran it round to score the first try after five minutes. Sam Halsall added a second try just before the break (33rd min) after a terrific pass from Lolohea put him through a gap to make it 12-0.

Despite starting poorly, the Tigers added two tries in the final three minutes to tie the game at 12-apiece. The first came from a rampaging effort from George Lawler charged through some poor defence to put the Tigers on the board. Zac Cini got the Tigers back on level-terms when he busted through some poor Giants defence to touch down and give the hosts all momentum.

Huddersfield opened the scoring ten minutes into the second half when Taane Milne charged over through some feeble home defence to score the first try of the half. Despite their chances to bring the scores level, Castleford's hopes vanished 11 minutes from time. Lolohea again turned conductor with a magnificent inside ball to Flanagan Jr to score and put the game beyond doubt.

The hosts played valiantly to the final whistle, but Daejarn Asi threw a contender for the worst pass of the season... straight to Lolohea! The Tongan international sprinted the best part of 85 metres to claim the win for the Giants. Post game, Tigers coach Danny Maguire lamented his side's performance as atrocious and said it was their worst of the season so far.

Warrington 24 Salford 12

Best display isn't enough as Warrington scrape home

Despite a much-improved performance from their scraped together troops, Salford have slumped to a 24-12 defeat to a disappointing Warrington side. Even though Wire won the game, their efforts wouldn't please coach Sam Burgess as the top sides have taken care of the lowly Red Devils with ease this season.

The effort plays from Salford were off the charts with forward Chris Hill deserving most praise with Joe Ormondroyd coming just behind. Early on, it was Warrington throwing the ball around with razzle dazzle. George Williams fooled the defence with a flick pass inside to Matt Dufty to score the opening try.

A cheap turnover from Josh Thewlis turned the Red Devils straight onto the attack and they went onto the scoreboard after 23 minutes. A quick shift to the right-hand side saw Ethan Ryan slam the ball down. The hosts added two penalty goals for a rare lead this season, but that evaporated when big James Harrison strolled over after a magnificent offload from Ben Currie to go into half-time with an undeserved four-point lead after being out-enthused for most of the opening forty.

Two further Salford penalty goals saw the scoreline locked up once again at 12-apiece and there was a sense of optimism in Salford that hasn't been experienced much in 2025. However, that was short lived as Warrington took to the front and never turned back.

On the hour mark, Wire finally broke down the Salford defensive line once more. A clever Dufty grubber kick sat up on it's point for Josh Thewlis who atoned for his earlier mistake. A dangerous tackle penalty gave Warrington two easy points to make the task for Salford just that little bit harder. Stefan Ratchford put the game beyond doubt when the home side couldn't defuse a kick and the five-eighth touched down to seal an uninspiring twelve-point win.

Leigh 18 Wigan 8

Brutal battle as Wigan downed by gritty Leigh

For the third time this season, Wigan and Leigh put on a brutal contest with the Leopards claiming regular season bragging rights, courtesy of an 18-8 home victory.

After Wigan got fresh set following a Leigh knock on, the Warriors used this to their advantage when Jake Wardle side-stepped two defenders to score the first try. Adam Keighran converted to make the score 6-0 in favour of the home side.

Both sides had chances in the opening half, but the scramble defence by both sides was first rate on every occasion. In particular, Keighran's monster shot on Tesi Niu which denied a certain try. The Australian added two more points with a kick from 35 metres to give the Warriors an 8-0 lead at the break after Leigh were penalised for being offside.

Adrian Lam calmed his troops after the break when Niu got his revenge on the Wigan defence to touch down in the far left corner of the Leigh Sports Village. Leigh took the lead for the first time when a sweeping move down Wigan's left edge saw the home side attack in numbers sending Edwin Ipaue over between the posts in one of the tries of the 2025 SL season.

Wigan tried desperately to fight their way back as Jai Field mounted an attack before being stopped by Ipaue metres away and that proved to be the end of their attack. The home side scored the final points in the last minute when Trout pounced on a loose ball. O'Brien converted to give Leigh an 18-8 victory.

St Helens 13 Hull FC 6

Possession order of the day as Saints march on

St Helens have continued their recent good run of form to take a seven-point win over Hull FC who continue their poor showings at home in recent seasons.

St Helens had 61% of possession in the first half and capitalised on some early poor discipline in the opening quarter. A late hit off the ball gave Johnny Lomax a gift two points to open the scoring.

A shift to the right edge saw Lomax combine with Tristan Sailor. After a slow start to the year, the Brisbane-import delivered a Harbour Bridge pass to Kyle Feldt who scored his twelfth try of the campaign. A great conversion made it 8-0. The rest of the first half was marred by poor discipline and rusty attack, Hull had a chance before the half with a nice break down the left before a cracking tackle from Harry Robertson ended that chance and it remained a two-score game at the half.

Saints opened the second half scoring with a cross-field kick from Lomax. Feldt leapt over the top of Lewis Martin and slammed the ball down to give the Saints a 12-0 lead. Hull never game and despite being on the end of some contentious refereeing decisions hit back.

Aidan Sezer steamed onto a pass to be sent away before finding Davvy Litten to score and bring the gap to a converted try. A Lomax field goal in the final minute play sealed the deal for Saints as Paul Wellens' chargers bounced back following a poor start to the season.

Wakefield 44 Catalans 6

Wakefield run riot as Catalans wonder where to next...

A ruthless first half from Wakefield has buried Catalans finals chances on the grounds of Belle Vue after the hosts thrashed the Dragons by 38 points. The win also sees Trinity in the top six, following Hull's earlier defeat against St Helens.

It was ominous from the outset as Wakefield moved quickly down their right edge of the field and allowed Corey Hall into space. The centre found Josh Rourke who quickly found Max Jowitt and that was the warning for the visitors that it was going to be one rough afternoon. Despite a ten-minute resistance, Wakefield always looked likely to add to their lead and a movement down the right edge again saw Scottish international Lachlan Walmsley go across for a 12-0 lead. On the next set after points, the bomb from the visitors was taken from Sam Tomkins grasp by Rourke who touched down.

On the 20-minute mark, Wakefield decided to show off. A bomb from Lino wasn't defused by the visitors, and it went through at least five sets of hands before Walmsley touched down in the corner and it was looking like another long day for the Catalans side. The final ten minutes was a calamity for the visitors, a grubber kick wasn't defused and big name import Tevita Pangai Jr stood there waiting for it to be picked up by Josh Griffin and it was 26-0. But wait, it got worse, a poor scrum play gave Wakefield the last attack before a professional foul saw Tomkins sin-binned, fortunately the hosts played pity on the visitors and knocked over a penalty goal.

The second half was a much of muchness with Wakefield again dominating the opening moments while Catalans number 1 was in the bin. Rourke went straight through TPJ and another defender untouched to score and it was 34-0. The visitors did have some luck before Tomkins' return when Luke Keary's cross-field kick was taken by TPJ who got the lone try of the game.

Wakefield finished with the last laugh however with two late tries to cap what was a truly comprehensive victory for the hosts. Lino and Tom Johnstone crashed over for the hosts to make it a 38-point verdict.

Leeds 14 Hull KR 8

Leeds with upset of the season with boilover victory

Leeds have kept the race for the League Leaders' Shield alive after upsetting first-placed Hull KR 14-8 away from home on Sunday.

It was a tough opening start with both sides guilty of blowing try scoring chances. Rovers bombed the best chance when Joe Burgess broke away on a kick return before finding Arthur Mourgue but the French international blew it when he threw a forward pass. Leeds were just as guilty bombing their long-range effort with good busts by Alfie Edgell going unrewarded. Eventually, something had to take its toll and it was the hosts taking advantage with the first try of the contest. Tyrone May dug deep into the line to find Rhyse Martin. The PNG Kumul charged across for his first try of the season for a 6-0 lead.

A controversial captain's challenge led to the next score, Mikey Lewis was hit high by Harry Newman which was picked up by video official Liam Rush. The Man of Steel departed for a HIA (which he failed) while Mourgue added a penalty goal for an 8-0 lead. Rovers were denied two tries before the break when the final pass again rued the hosts chances.

The second half began in controversy after Sam Lisone milked a high shot penalty as JWH appeared to graze his neck. Off the ensuing set, the direct attack of the Rhinos when Lisone crashed over off a brilliant short ball from skipper Cam Smith to cut the gap to two. To compound matters, prop Dean Hadley was placed on report for an eye gouge allegation against Harry Newman. Hull KR went fully off the rails when JWH was pinned for dissent and we were level at 8-all.

Just when the game looked set for golden point with both sides in the armwrestle. Up stepped the Rhinos who dared on the kick return to be expansive. After going through several sets of hands and going over 70 metres in the movement, it ended up with Lachie Miller who touched down for a classic team try.

Despite Robins throwing everything at them late, they drop their second game of the season and Willie Peters will be looking for improvement against Leigh.

NRLW Round 2 Preview

Wests Tigers v Canterbury

- Beth NICHOLLS

The Tigers host the Bulldogs and set their sights on their first win of the season.

Playing the Broncos last week away from home last week, the Tigers had a solid defensive start to the game, where they didn't concede their first try until the 20th minutes. This defence didn't last for the Tigers though, with them losing with a final scoreline of 28-4.

Coach Brett Kimmorley names an unchanged side from the Round 1 defeat, with former Rugby Sevens Jetaya Faifua at fullback, Losana Lutu and Evie McGrath in the halves and Pihuka Berryman-Duff rounding out the spine at hooker, along with Kezie Apps captaining the side.

The Bulldogs first NRLW game is surely one for the books, defeating the Knights 26-12, with both Ashleigh Quinlan and Moana Courtenay scoring try doubles in their opening match.

Much like the Tigers, the Bulldogs also name an unchanged side for this clash, with veterans Tayla Preston and Ashleigh Quinlan making up the halves partnership, and co-captain Angelina Teakaraanga-Katoa leading the forward pack.

Who to watch: Making her Tigers debut last week, Emily Bass is an experienced centre who has scored twelve tries in just 19 games, including four in her NRLW debut year at the Broncos in 2021.

Previously playing for the Eels and Sharks, Tayla Preston joined the Bulldogs as their inaugural player as halfback and co-captain for 2025. Preston brings experience and leadership to the side, and already has a try assist to her name for this season.

My tip: The Bulldogs have a point to prove in their inaugural season and the Tigers are begging for a win, I think it'll be a tight and close game, but the Dogs will just prevail in the end. Canterbury by 2.

Canberra v Cronulla

- AJ LUCANTONIO

Two teams that failed to crack the winners list in the opening round kickstart Round 2 of the NRLW season when the Canberra Raiders host the Cronulla Sharks.

The Raiders were disappointing in their opening round clash against the Dragons going down by over 20 points. It was a match that wasn't without it's moments with winger Isabella Waterman putting on the hit of the season on Bobbi Law. They will look for their edge defence to be much stronger this time around after Tegan Berry and Indie Bostock tore their edge apart. To beat the Sharks, they need to win the middle, which they had some success with on Saturday, win contact and use Zahara Temara's kicking game. On their team news, Fiji Bulikula representative Sereana Naitokatoka returns from suspension to partner with halfback Zahara Temara in the halves.

For the Sharks, they were a touch frustrating in the first round of their campaign against the Eels on Thursday night. The first half was full of errors and ill-discipline from Tony Herman's chargers. Their contact in defence was also a problem with too many missed tackles. To fix that, they need to stick on contact and get to their set ends. Tiana Penitani Gray was strong on the centres while Annessa Biddle charged hard in attack, if they work the middle third of the field, it will allow their strike weapons to get on the outside and cause some carnage. On the team news, the unfortunate news that Filomina Hanisi is out for the season after suffering an ACL injury in the loss against the Eels last week, Stephanie Faulkner comes onto the bench in the only change to the line up.

Who to watch: After a quiet first round performance, Mackenzie Wiki will be primed for a big one in this one. She only had seven runs but did set up the Madison Bartlett try in the first half. Watch for Wiki to charge through and go head-to-head with two of the most powerful centres in the game. For Cronulla, the focus is on Georgia Hannaway. The QLD Origin rep will be looking for a bounce back in the halves. Despite a strong attacking performance, Parramatta made her a target in attack where she missed eight tackles.

My tip: It will be a fun game between two sides that are evenly matched after their first-round performance. I just favour the Sharks to have too much class in the big moments to overrun the Raiders in this contest. Cronulla by 8.

St Geo Illa v Sydney

- AJ LUCANTONIO

Two first round winners are looking to keep their undefeated start to the season alive as the St George Illawarra Dragons host the Sydney Roosters.

The Dragons were explosive in their first round with a 22-point victory over the Canberra Raiders. Teagan Berry was at her explosive best, running for over 240 metres, three line-breaks and 10 tackle breaks. Indie Bostock was also strong in her NRLW debut while new coach Nathan Cross seemed to get the best out of half Raecene McGregor. Their pack of forwards were consistent and restricted Canberra outside a limited period in the second half where they had the momentum. To beat the Roosters, they need to weather the storm consistently and take advantage of their opportunities. On the team card, there has been a slight reshuffle of the backs with Keele Browne named on the wing and Bobbi Law named at centre.

For the Roosters, they picked up a 30-6 victory over the Warriors in their season opener at Allianz Stadium. The performance while dominant, showcased there is plenty of room to grow for this side and that's without adding dynamic half Tarryn Aitken who missed the game with a shoulder injury. To beat the Dragons, they need a full 70 minute effort, a slow start cannot be repeated after what we saw their opponents do in Canberra last start. Their one sore point was the nasty elbow injury to Jayme Fressard who will miss an extended period as she recovers. Taina Naividi, who scored a hat-trick last week, is out with concussion. Logan Fletcher comes in for her first appearance, while Mia Wood moves from the second row to the backs. Aliyah Nasio comes from the bench to start in the second row, with Amber Hall coming onto the bench.

Who to watch: After being a high profile signing from the Roosters. It's fair to say Raecene McGregor hasn't lifted to the lofty heights she had as the 2022 Dally M NRLW Player of the Year. But, there was signs she was back to her best in Canberra. Her running game caused the Raiders defence nightmares and her general control along with her combination with Kasey Reh were key. For the Roosters, the focus is on Olivia Kernick. Last season's NRLW Dally M Medallist had a strong start against the Warriors, moving to 13 this season from the edge last year brings increased workload, but based off the limited sample size to date, she has managed it well and the expectation is to keep on keeping on.

My tip: The Roosters are heavily favoured to go 2-0 to start this NRLW season. But I saw enough from the Dragons in the first round to say that this will be close to one of the games of the season (yes in Round 2). Expect this one to go down to the wire and the experience of the Roosters being enough to get them home. Sydney by 4.

North Queensland v Newcastle

- Kelly HOLLIS

The North Queensland Cowboys will look to build on their strong Round 1 showing when they host the Newcastle Knights in Townsville on Saturday afternoon as part of a Queensland double-header.

After a challenging 2024 season, the Cowboys started 2025 in perfect fashion, dominating the Titans 20-6 with a defensive performance that impressed coach Ricky Henry. Their ability to contain a dangerous Gold Coast outfit to just one try suggests this Cowboys side has turned a corner defensively, and they'll be keen to make Queensland Country Bank Stadium a fortress again this year. Henry has named an unchanged 17 for the Round 2 clash, with a minor tweak seeing Haillee-Jay Ormund-Maunsell starting in the second row after coming off the bench last week.

In contrast, the Newcastle Knights endured a frustrating start to their season, going down 26-12 to an enthusiastic Bulldogs side at Accor Stadium. Despite scoring the opening try through Georgia Roche and a second-half effort from Botille Vette-Welsh, the Knights never quite looked in sync, particularly in defence, where they allowed five tries. Yasmin Clydsdale was a shining light, leading from the front with over 100 metres in the first half alone in her first outing as captain. The Knights will be buoyed by the return of Olivia Higgins from suspension, but otherwise, coach Ben Jeffries has stuck with the same group in the hope of finding some early-season cohesion.

Who to watch: For the Cowboys, fullback Jakiya Whitfield was electric in Round 1, scoring a try and running for over 240 metres. If she can tighten up her defensive positioning, she has the potential to be one of the breakout stars of the competition.

For the Knights, winger Sheridan Gallagher impressed with over 200 run metres in a losing effort. Given better field position and service, she could be a game-changer on the edge.

My tip: Playing in front of their home crowd and riding the momentum from Round 1, the Cowboys will be hard to beat. Their defensive resolve, combined with strike power across the park, gives them the edge over a Knights side still finding its rhythm. North Qld by 8.

Warriors v Parramatta

- Kelly HOLLIS

The New Zealand Warriors return home for a history-making double-header with their NRL counterparts, hosting the Parramatta Eels in what will be just the second time the club's NRLW team has played on New Zealand soil.

It's been a long road back for the Warriors, who only re-entered the NRLW competition this season after a four-year absence. Their first match since 2020 saw them take on the reigning premiers in a tough initiation, falling 30-6 to the Roosters. While the scoreboard wasn't flattering, there was plenty to admire in the resilience and physicality of the Warriors' mostly inexperienced squad. With 10 debutants in their Round 1 side and only seven players with prior NRLW experience, coach Ron Griffiths has understandably opted for consistency, naming an unchanged 17 for this special homecoming clash.

Their opponents, the Parramatta Eels, opened their 2025 campaign with an upset win over last year's grand finalists Cronulla. The 18-16 victory came on the back of impressive ball control (an 87% completion rate) and standout performances from the likes of halfback Rachael Pearson and Queensland representative Rory Owen. Owen was a wrecking ball on both sides of the field, racking up over 170 metres and breaking eight tackles in a dominant showing. Head coach Steve Georgallis has made minimal changes, with Breanna Eales promoted to the starting side at prop and Tess McWilliams moving to the reserves.

Who to watch: For the Warriors, Patricia Maliepo is a name to remember. The five-eighth scored her side's only try last week and converted it herself, giving the home crowd someone to rally behind as the campaign builds momentum. Expect her to be a key figure in organising their attack once again. For the Eels, Rory Owen was electric in Round 1 and looms as a constant threat to opposition defences. If she gets more opportunities in attacking territory, a try seems inevitable.

My tip: It's hard to go past the Eels on paper, but with a vocal Auckland crowd and the emotion of a long-awaited homecoming, the Warriors will be fired up for a response. If they can tighten up their attack and build on last week's defensive grit, they're every chance of causing a surprise. Warriors by 6.

Gold Coast v Brisbane

- Beth NICHOLLS

Brisbane travel south to the Gold Coast to take on the Titans as the first game in a Sunday night double header at Cbus Super Stadium.

Losing their first 2025 QLD derby to the Cowboys up North at Townsville with a 20-6 scoreline, the Titans will be looking to get the job done this time and score a win over their big sister Broncos.

Karyn Murphy makes a few changes and positional shuffles to the squad for this South-East QLD derby clash. With Destiny Mino-Sinapati out with an ankle injury, train-and-trial signing Lily Patston gets to make her NRLW debut on the wing, along with Canadian international Megan Pakulis making her NRLW debut from the bench. Brittany Breayley-Nat fractured collarbone causes Taliah Fuimaono shifting to starting hooker, Pauline Piliae-Rasabale to five-eighth, with Lily Kolc joining the bench.

The Broncos sit on the opposite end of the table to the Titans, happily occupying first place after convincingly beating the Tigers at home in Round 1. Big sister Broncos will be looking to claim their third win from five games against the Gold Coast side.

Scott Prince makes one change to the side that got the job done last week. 18-year-old forward Reegan Hicks makes her NRLW debut from the bench in place of Taito Lafaele. Azalleah Maaka is named as 18th player, in an otherwise unchanged side.

Who to watch: Inking an extension with the Titans until 2027 earlier this year, Jillaroos and Sky Blues representative, Jaime Chapman is just getting started. Previously playing for the Dragons and Broncos before moving to the Titans in 2023, Chapman already has a highlights reel, and is looking to bring Gold Coast their first premiership after appearing in their 2023 Grand Final, where despite the loss she scored her first hat trick, and the Titans only tries in the match.

Monumental in her return to the Broncos, Tamika Upton made one line break, four line break assists, and three try assists against the Tigers last week. Captaining the Brisbane side in 2025, Upton is a force to be reckoned with, and the strike weapon that the Broncos were just missing in 2024.

My tip: QLD derbies are always a fun time, but my head and heart are saying Broncos will take home this one. Brisbane by 14.
