THE EDITOR'S WORD

TIM COSTELLO

In the words of 'Gus' - welcome to Origin Football.

The NRL is set to take a back seat over the coming weeks with focus turning to the men's and women's Origin clashes across the nation. This edition includes the program for Game I as well as NRL Round 13.

Our feature stories this week are two-fold, and both pay tribute to legends of the game.

Josh Robertson looks back at the fabled career of Royce Simmons as he approaches a new challenge after recently confirming an Alzheimer's diagnosis. Further on, AJ Lucantonio pays tribute to Eastern Suburbs legend Barry 'Bunny' Reilly, the original "Axe".

We hope you enjoy this special edition.

Happy reading!

ROYCE.

JOSH ROBERTSON LOOKS BACK AT A LEGENDARY CAREER AS THE GREAT ROYCE SIMMONS EMBARKS ON HIS NEXT - AND POSSIBLY BIGGEST - CHALLENGE.

There have only been 602 people in all of history to put on a Penrith Panthers jersey and run out for the Mountain Men in first grade. Out of that 602, there is only one man that has led his team to a grand final (albeit losing it), scored a grand final double, won a premiership and THEN came back to be the then-longest-serving coach of the club - and have his name on a Grandstand... as well as being the inspiration for the new housing development in Penrith and are only known by one name, Royce.

ON THE FIELD

In Rugby League, very few people can say that they have reached the level of achievements that Royce Simmons achieved in his life in the game. Debuting in 1980, Simmons replaced Jim Jones (now the Panthers recruitment manager) and made the hooker role at Penrith his own over the next few seasons.

Becoming captain in 1983, Simmons made his debut for NSW in 1984, a season where the Panthers legend won both the Dally M Captain of the year and Dally M hooker of the year awards. The nuggety hooker from NSW's central west was one of the best players in the game and an absolute fan favourite out west at the old 'Penrith Park'.

In 1986, Royce's already important stature out west grew when he took man-of-the-match honours in the Blues' Origin victory at Lang Park. The performance from Simmons saw him selected for Australia and history was made as he became the first-ever Panthers player to represent the green and gold, a feat only managed by 19 other players in the following 36 years of the club's existence to now.

In the late 1980s the Panthers become one of the dominant forces in the NSWRL and - led by Simmons - the club reached four straight finals series, a record that still stands today and won't be equalled until at least 2023 (assuming the current dominance continues).

In 1990, Penrith made their first-ever grand final - captained by Simmons - and even though they were defeated, they were still heroes in the eyes of the Penrith locals.

PREMIERSHIP GLORY

Very few players get to have a fairy-tale finish to their career and if there was anybody who deserved one it was Royce Simmons. The Panthers hooker had announced his retirement earlier in 1991 and it turned out that the Grand Final was set to be the last game for the Panthers legend.

Royce Simmons had not scored a try at all in 1991 and it was almost something out of a Hollywood script that he had opened the scoring for the Panthers with an individual effort to get his first try. Inside the last 10 minutes of the contest, Penrith held a one-point lead thanks to thanks to a Greg Alexander field goal.

Then late in the contest came arguably the most iconic try in Penrith's history (and arguably grand final history) when again, you couldn't have written a better script. The Raiders took the risky option of going for a short dropout and the bouncing ball couldn't have been better for Penrith. The bounce was perfect for a charging Mark Geyer who took the ball and then all he needed was somebody to pass to for a certain try and who was there? None other than the her, Royce.

Legend status was complete for Simmons, scoring the premiership-winning try for the Panthers.

IN THE COACHES' BOX

After retirement, it wasn't long before he was back at the club, this time as coach - replacing Phil Gould. Taking over the Panthers during one of the toughest times in the club's history, Simmons had moderate success as he was able to take the Panthers to the Super League semi-finals in 1997 as well as the finals in 2000.

Just as he did as a player, Simmons loyalty was a big part of his methodology as a coach and eventually, that loyalty cost him as he was sacked after the Panthers finished last in 2001 and was replaced by John Lang.

At the end of Simmons tenure at the Panthers as both a player and coach, he had amassed a total of 415 games at Penrith. Simmons played 238 matches during his career and then coached a record 177 matches, a feat only beaten by Ivan Cleary earlier this year.

In the years that followed, Royce spent time away from the Panthers, first as an assistant coach to former Penrith boss Tim Sheens at the Wests Tigers, before heading to England where he was in charge of St Helens in 2011 season, a season the 'Saints' made the Super League Grand Final.

Returning to Australia, Simmons returned to Penrith in a corporate role and it was as though he had never left the club, with the reception he received. The role was tailor-made for one of the friendliest people you will meet in rugby league, a man who would rather be five minutes late somewhere than fail to finish a conversation.

A NEW CHALLENGE

The Rugby League world was left in shock earlier in the year when Royce Simmons announced that he had been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease. It came as a shock to many and instead of dealing with the battle in private, he has opted to use his diagnosis as an opportunity.

Over the past week, Royce's big walk - which went for 300km between his hometown of Gooloogong (with a population of just 300) down to Penrith Stadium on Friday night with the aim of raising $50,000 for Dementia research. The Rugby League community found its voice - and the impact that Royce had on the game was shown with ex-players such as teammates Brad Fittler, Greg Alexander, and John Cartwright joining him in stages of the walk.

But the telling part of the standing of Simmons in the game was the remaining players who joined him on the walk, including former Panthers and Tigers Coach Tim Sheens who both coached and worked with Sheens. Queensland legends like Wally Lewis, Allan Langer and so many other proved the standing of Royce in the game with so many more people getting involved.

If you weren't still convinced by how loved Royce Simmons is by the fans of Penrith, it's rare to have a big crowd in for a 6 pm Friday game, let alone have so many fans at the ground at least 90 minutes before kick-off. That was the scene last Friday night, as everybody waited for Royce to finish his walk with a lap of honour at Penrith Park.

At 5:20 pm, the classic tune "You'll Never Walk Alone" belted around Penrith Stadium, marking Royce's return to Penrith at the conclusion of his walk. A standing ovation greeted his return and it didn't matter if you were a Penrith fan or not, everybody was on their feet as Royce went around the stadium.

The intended goal of $50,000 was eclipsed easily, showing how the community came together for a legend. Nothing I've said in this piece can ever accurately describe Royce Simmons and his significance to not just the Panthers side, or the Penrith community - but to Rugby League as a whole.

Whatever happens, going forward, the Rugby League community will always be there for the man simply known as 'Roycey'.

THE ORIGINAL 'AXE'

AJ LUCANTONIO LOOKS BACK AT THE LEGENDARY BARRY 'BUNNY' REILLY

If you compiled a list of rugby league's toughest men, Barry 'Bunny' Reilly - Rooster #570 and Shark #76 would have to be an automatic entry. Then try to type up some of the most feared defenders in the game's history, you would have modern day legends such as Gillmeister, Roberts, Gillespie and Harragon. Add in some legends like Artie and Provan to the list as well, however I suspect Bunny would be approaching the top of the list as well.

Here was a bloke who weighed no more than 76 kilograms. Today, he would be considered too small (even as a halfback). Yet this little block of granite would chop down blokes twice his size and change tackling techniques forever. The opposition in front of him would rush to an edge to avoid running at him. They didn't call him 'The Axe' for nothing.

Rugby league history has seen some remarkable tales in the game's history, but this story of courageousness might be one of the best, but least known. You see, Bunny played over 200 games with just one kidney. He didn't know at the time which, might've been a blessing. It wasn't discovered until his retirement that Bunny played his entire career without a vital organ - he played with just one kidney.

Bunny was really one of a kind, a local junior with the Paddington Colts, before beginning his career at the Tri-Colours in the last game of the 1966 regular season against Wests. Reilly had survived just over 200 games if you add in that 7 games with Cronulla which even he admitted was never in the career plan. He had the rottenest luck a sportsman could have early on. In 1972 whilst he was at Cronulla, the Roosters made the grand final and lost to Manly 19-12. He returned to Easts in 1973 and Cronulla went on to make the final and lose to the Silvertails 10-7.

Bunny would have the last laugh with his back to back premierships in 1974-75 upon his return to the Roosters under the 13 import rule. His impact was so instrumental in the red, white, and blue that Jack Gibson gave him a cameo spot in the 1975 grand final. Bunny was carrying a calf injury and Jack rewarded Bunny with the spell in the last few minutes of the then record breaking result. Later accomplishments would include a starting spot in the inaugural World Club Challenge match in 1976, before retiring in 1979 with 198 first grade games to his name, a miscount of total games meant Bunny fell short of becoming the first Rooster to play 200 games. He would hold the record for most games played, for an amazing eight seasons before another legend Kevin Hastings took the crown in 1986.

In the world's toughest sport not knowing how close he was to tragedy. Just one heavy blow could've seen the end of his career. With technology today, this would've been picked up immediately, but back in the rough and tough era of the 70's sports science was nowhere to be seen and he carried on his powerful legacy. Bunny's legacy would later be acknowledged in the Roosters team of the century in 2000. Before being honoured in the Centurions side in 2007, which placed him as one of the 17 finest to pull on the famous red, white, and blue, among 1209 players to play for the club, to be acknowledged in the best 17 is no mean feat.

Jack Gibson once said of Bunny that 'he'd play great if you needed him. If the score was 10 all, Bunny would win the ball game for you. He liked some pressure.' Gibbo's observation was put in the right perspective. Reilly's lone kidney served him well until his late 50's whilst continuing his long service to the Roosters whether it was his coaching career with lower grades and a brief relief stint in 1990. Or his second home, the Easts leagues club. Bunny's kidney inevitably began to fail after carrying a burden for so long. A kidney transplant cured the pain for a short period, but it failed again and after battling a brave fight, Bunny left us in May last year.

The legacy of the Axe has since been carried on by Trevor Gillmeister who shared a close bond with Bunny when Gilly played at Easts, and considering the build and history (both QLD'ers), it made total sense. But in the modern game, it's hard to ignore Victor Radley as the modern day Axe. He follows all the same moulds of Bunny as he was a local junior and has the bone crunching defence that gives defenders nightmares. The legacy of the Axe will be forever carried on by a tough, rugged player in the red, white, and blue, Bunny wouldn't have it any other way.

STORM BOUNCE BACK IN NAARM HOMECOMING

A double from Cameron Munster has seen the Melbourne Storm return to form by downing the Manly Sea Eagles 28-8 in the opening match of Indigenous Round.

Putting aside the disappointment of back-to-back losses before a crowd of 10,168 on the lands of the Wurundjeri People, the Storm were a class above in extending their dominance over the Sea Eagles to six consecutive matches.

Denied an early try after Felise Kaufusi was ruled to have put a foot into touch before grounding, the Storm capitalised on a scrum play minutes later with Munster (6th minute) taking on the line and dummiey for first points.

Dominating play for much of the first half without adding to their total, the home side struck a crucial blow with returning halfback Jahrome Hughes delivering a superb inside pass to send Chris Lewis (32nd minute) over with his first touch of the night.

Targeted relentlessly under the high ball during his first match back in first grade since late 2020, Jorge Taufua (37th minute) finished off a left side raid to narrow the margin to 12-4 at halftime.

Making the Sea Eagles pay for a wayward offload from Dylan Walker on halfway, Munster continued to target Taufua under the high ball and produced a result with Xavier Coates (43rd minute) flying through the air to collect his 11th try in as many matches for the Storm.

Securing the result on the eve of the hour mark with Munster (56th minute) stripping the ball from Taufua's grasp, the superstar number six strolled over to collect his second try of the night.

Pushing the score out to 28-4 after the Sea Eagles failed to break the ten metre plane from a line drop out, a short pass from Nick Meaney allowed Kenny Bromwich (65th minute) to touch down for his first try of the season.

Rounding out proceedings with a consolation four-pointer to Christian Tuipulotu (68th minute), Kieran Foran had the distinction of throwing the final pass for a try-assist in his 250th appearance in first grade.

Next week, the Storm have the bye prior to Origin I, while the Sea Eagles will return home on Saturday evening to take on the Warriors. ROB CROSSBY

CLINICAL PANTHERS TOO STRONG FOR VALIANT BUT ILL-DISCIPLINED COWBOYS

The Penrith Panthers have brought the North Queensland Cowboys' six-game winning streak to a grinding halt in Penrith, shutting them out in a 22-point victory at the foot of the mountains.

The home side repelled an early attacking raid from the Cowboys and then went up the field courtesy of a relieving penalty to score on their first trip to the red-zone. Apisai Koroisau ran from dummy half and drew in the A defender before putting Isaaq Yeo through a hole much bigger than he needed to get to the line, the in-form lock scoring the opener.

The Cowboys produced an inspired defensive effort over the next 10-15 minutes, keeping the Panthers out of the in-goal area for at least 5 consecutive attacking sets. After Luai's kick went dead, they had the golden opportunity to go up the other end and make a game of it, but Dearden responded by giving the Panthers a 7 tackle set of their own, and they weren't going to be denied again, with Luai and May combining down the left edge before Edwards picked up a loose ball to score and make it a 12-0 scoreline.

The Panthers looked as if they may start running away with it after they converted a Tom Gilbert knock on into another try courtesy of a slick shift to the right involving Cleary, Edwards and To'o, the latter scoring his first try of season 2022.

Considering the stats, the Cowboys had done well to only head into the sheds down 16, with the home team having a mammoth 66% of possession at the break.

The second half was a relatively even contest, both sides looked threatening in parts but both defences continued to do the job.

Through the first 68 minutes, the Cowboys had only completed 59% of their sets. It's an endorsement of their defence that they were able to stem the flow of points from the Panthers while gifting them that much possession and field position.

Penrith finally got on the board in the second 40 through a brilliant right to left cutout pass from Jarome Luai to Taylan May, who did well to beat Peta Hiku on his way to the line.

That was all she wrote in this top four encounter, with the Panthers moving to 11-1 for the year while the Cowboys will still be in the top four at the end of the round with a record of 8-4.

Next week, the Panthers will take on the Bulldogs at home on Friday Night, while the Cowboys will travel to the Gold Coast for a Thursday Night showdown against the Titans. ADAM HUXTABLE

BRONCOS BLITZ AS BRISBANE SCORE FIVE UNANSWERED TRIES TO STUN TITANS

Brisbane have completed a remarkable comeback to overcome a twenty-four-point deficit to run down a shellshocked Titans outfit to clinch an unlikely 35-24 victory in the South Queensland derby at Suncorp Stadium tonight.

Brisbane got off to a rocky start in the match, when backrower Jordan Riki was sent to the Sin Bin for a late shot on Titans halfback Toby Sexton. Riki's absence was missed, when Titans fullback Jayden Campbell, skipped to the outside shoulder of Broncos half Ezra Mam to slide over for the first try of the night. Jamayne Isaako converted the try against his former club to make it 6-0 after less than ten minutes. The Titans again took advantage of the extra man, when Titans number seven Toby Sexton created pressure with a repeat set and then off the following set produced a superb cut out ball close to the line to find an unmarked Corey Thompson who stepped back inside to score and extend the Titans lead to 12-0 following Isaako's second successful conversion from out wide. Sexton was at it again moments later rolling in a deft grubber for a flying AJ Brimson which caught the Broncos by surprise to give the Titans a commanding 18-0 lead with 15 minutes remaining in the first half.

With the Titans in cruise control, Maroons Origin bolter Selwyn Cobbo then took a crucial intercept on his own line. The winger was brought down by Titans backrower Sam McIntyre, who was then sent to the Sin Bin for holding on far too long. The Broncos made their way up field, when Gold Coast centre Esan Marsters had what can only be described as a brain explosion, when he also elected to hold down a defender and was rightly marched for ten minutes, dropping his side to eleven men. The Broncos immediately made the Titans pay when Te Maire Martin used the overlap to throw a floating pass to a flying Cobbo to score in the corner and reduce the lead to 18-4. Despite the Titans being down to eleven men, David Fifita then made an impact from the bench, when the star forward jumped into dummy half close to the line and steamrolled his way over to score an unlikely try and leaving his side with a commanding 24-4 lead at halftime.

The Broncos needed to score first to be any hope of a comeback and they did just that, when Te Maire Martin made a break, the fullback looked for support in Kotoni Staggs but his pass was knocked down, however the ball bounced back up for Martin who scored his first try in Broncos colours. Despite the lead, the Titans made a bizarre play electing to take a short kickoff, however Broncos hooker Cory Paix charged onto the ball and put Jordan Riki away to score the Broncos second try in as many minutes. Staggs converted and it was 24-16 and momentum had swung.

The Titans continued to make errors, when Jamayne Isaako dropped the ball cold into the hands of prop Keenan Palasia metres from the line. Herbie Farnworth then wrestled his way over from dummy half to score another Broncos try to narrow the lead to just two points following Staggs' conversion. Rookie halfback Ezra Mam then gave his side the lead for the first time in the game, with a terrific ball to put Corey Oates away down the left wing. Oates then kicked the ball inside to find backrower Kurt Capewell on the spot to score next to the posts and put Brisbane in front by 28-24 with ten minutes remaining. The win was given an exclamation mark, when Ezra Mam was rewarded with his first NRL try following a superb flick pass from Herbie Farnworth and the Broncos comeback was complete in a remarkable performance by the home side. A late Tyson Gamble field goal further rubbed salt into the wounds of Titans fans and seal a memorable 35-24 win. SAM BOURKE

KNIGHTS OVERCOME WARRIORS IN REDCLIFFE

Newcastle Knights picked up a vital win in their 24-16 success against New Zealand Warriors on Saturday afternoon at Redcliffe.

The Knights came from behind to secure a huge win for their season in a tight tussle against fellow strugglers the Warriors with a double to Enari Tuala highlighting the win for the visitors to kick-off Super Saturday.

Two desperate teams headed onto the field in Redcliffe but only one started on time. The Warriors strode out to a 12-nil lead. Adam Pompey stepped past Origin hopeful centre Dane Gagai to make it 6-0. It was quickly doubled when a simple move saw Viliami Vailea finished off a backline move.

Reece Walsh added a penalty goal which stretched the advantage to 12 and it looked like the Warriors would keep up their perfect record at their temporary home in Queensland. Despite it being their home, the Warriors conspired to kick the ball out on the full four times and let the Knights back in.

Newcastle took the advantage of the Warriors wayward kicking and got into the break at 12-all remarkably. Jake Clifford laid on a four-pointer for Tyson Frizell then Edrick Lee finished off a good backline move in a half of two halves really.

The second half started much like the first. Warriors struck first through Dallin Watene-Zelezniak who was wide open from a Shaun Johnson chip kick to make it 16-12 and turned the tide in their favour once again.

Today was going to be the day that Newcastle got themselves the win. Tuala touched down with a simple scrum play then the conversion from Jake Clifford put the Knights ahead for the first time in the 55th minute.

Tuala completed his double from a nice Anthony Milford kick in the 68th minute to make it 24-16 and put the Knights within touchign distance of two important points in the context of their dire season.

Warriors had a flurry of chances to finish the game and create some late drama. It ended how the game probably should've, a kick that flew over the sideline on the full from Johnson after the Knights had held up Vailea moments earlier. JUSTIN DAVIES

BUNNIES SECOND HALF BLITZ BURIES TIGERS

The Tigers played solid footy to lead 18-12 at halftime, but were no match for an invigorated Souths side, who piled on 32 points in the final 35 minutes of the game to storm home with a romping victory.

The Tigers opened the scoring in the 5th minute when Asu Kepaoa cleanly intercepted a pass from Lachlan Ilias and raced 90 metres to score. Luke Brooks converted.

Just a few minutes later, the Tigers went on another attacking raid, ending with Jackson Hastings kicking to the left where Brent Naden tapped the ball back perfectly to Daine Laurie, who then fired a pass to Ken Maumalo and the winger scored in the left corner. Brooks failed to convert. A penalty against Souths in the 14th minute saw Brooks slot a penalty goal.

In the 23rd minute Souths finally got on the board with some nice passing in the face of Tigers defenders who rushed up early. This time Alex Johnston received a pass while unmarked and he scored in the corner. Kodi Nikorima converted. In the 34th minute, Siliva Havili took a crash ball, burrowed down and barged over the line for a powerful try. Nikorima added the extras to level the scores.

The Tigers reclaimed the lead just before halftime when Laurie sent a beautiful cut-out ball to Maumalo who scored his second try in the corner. Brooks converted from the sideline and at the break, the Tigers lead 18-12.

Souths were immediately more energised upon returning to the field and in the 45th minute they turned their early second-half pressure into points when Johnston bagged his second try for the night in the corner. Nikorima converted to level the scores again.

5 minutes later Campbell Graham dived over from dummy half to score. Nikorima failed to convert from out wide.

In the 59th minute, Graham took on the Tigers line and while standing in a tackle in the Tigers in-goal, he offloaded to the unmarked Johnston who bagged his third try, which brought up his 147th for Souths, taking him past the club record of 146 previously held by Nathan Merritt. Nikorima again could not add the extras from out wide.

From this point in the game the Bunnies completely took over and never let the Tigers back in.

A rushed grubber towards the posts by Ilias in the 65th minute ricocheted off a Tigers defender. Luciano Leilua tried to pick the ball up on the run but misses it completely. Cody Walker cleaned up with no one around and scored under the posts. Blake Taaffe converted from in front.

Walker snared his second try in the 72nd minute which Taaffe also converted and then, with just under 2 minutes left in the game, Jaxson Paulo cleanly intercepted a Hastings long ball and raced 80 metres to score. Taaffe again added the extras.

Souths looked like they very nearly scored again after the siren sounded but a knock on in the lead up denied them a chance to have a crack at bringing up the 50. ANDREW FERGUSON

SHARKS NO MATCH AS ROOSTERS PROVE THEY'RE STILL CONTENDERS

The Sydney Roosters have shown that they can still be a force in the NRL with a comfortable 36-16 victory over the Cronulla Sharks at Shark Park.

It was one-way traffic for the opening 40 minutes of the contest as the Sydney Roosters just dominated from the get go and it was just in the fourth minute when a last tackle play from Drew Hutchison down the short side left everybody surprised as he offloaded to Daniel Tupou to score out wide.

Despite holding the dominance, the Roosters took nearly twenty minutes to get their second try when the tricolours were able to get a redo on a scrum play and it was just way too easy as the defence were drawn in by Luke Keary who found the ball out to Daniel Tupou for a second.

The Sharks were getting more opportunities but they couldn't turn anything into points where as their opponents were able to strike when James Tedesco put Nat Butcher in over in the corner for the Roosters third try of the half.

Finding space on the outside of the defence wasn't hard to do for the Roosters as a beautiful ball from Paul Momirovski found Daniel Tupou on the outside to go down the sideline ball James Tedesco backed up in open space to score. The Roosters lead 20-0 at the half time break.

If you weren't watching the contest, you could've been fooled that the Sharks weren't just contesting with a brick wall as they just could not penetrate the Roosters defence despite having at least five sets on their opponents line as they came up with zilch. To rub salt into the wounds, the Roosters then got one attacking opportunity when Jared Waerea-Hargreaves charged at the line to score and extend the Roosters lead to 24-0.

Something must have woken the Sharks up, because they turned from Flake to become Great Whites as their attack suddenly found purpose and ferocity. Cronulla opened their scoring after Ronaldo Mulitalo got on the outside of the defence after a good ball from Sifa Talakai to score.

The Sharks had suddenly found their form of the opening to the season as they had the Roosters backtracking and with fifteen minutes to go, the hint of a comeback was starting to become more likely as Sione Katoa scored out wide.

Looking more and more likely, the potential of a comeback was confirmed for the Sharks when Cam McInnes managed to fool the Sharks defence and get over. Nicho Hynes converted and the Sharks were within 8.

The comeback hopes fizzled out in the final five minutes though as the Roosters ran in two late tries, one with Joey Manu taking an intercept and racing away before right on the stroke of full-time, Connor Watson scored out of dummy half to seal the 36-16 victory.

Next weekend, the Cronulla Sharks will have the Bye whilst the Sydney Roosters minus origin stars have a road trip to the Nation's capital for a clash with Canberra next Sunday afternoon. JOSH ROBERTSON

DRAGONS HOLD OFF THE BULLDOGS IN BELMORE

The Dragons are on the cusp of the top eight after they defeated the Bulldogs 34-24 in a wild game in front of a packed Belmore crowd.

A packed Belmore Sports Ground welcomed the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs home on a glorious afternoon in Sydney. The Bulldogs started the game well and were able to find some time in the St. George Illawarra Dragons 20 metres. However, Matt Burton couldn't seem to get his kicking game right and handed the Dragons a seven-tackle set on multiple occasions during the first period of the half. Whilst the home side was in the Dragons 20, they were able to get a penalty which resulted in a penalty goal from Burton, giving his side an early two-point lead. However, that was as good as it got for the Bulldogs in the first half. On the back of a seven-tackle set, courtesy of a Burton kick that sailed over the dead ball line, the Dragons were able to march into Bulldogs territory. The Dragons were able to receive a few six again calls which eventually led to the first try of the afternoon as Tautau Moga crossed in the corner after a great pass from Zac Lomax enabled to winger to score his first try for the Dragons.

St. George were helped by former Dragon, Matt Dufty who dropped a bomb on the very next set, allowing the Dragons to attack the Bulldogs defensive line. It once again resulted in another try, but this time on the left edge as Ben Hunt and Cody Ramsey linked up to provide Matthew Feagai with his first try of the afternoon. Burton's poor kicking afternoon continued as he sent the kick-off out on the full. The Dragons made the most of the opportunity with Ben Hunt taking on the Bulldogs staggered defensive line himself as he scored next to the uprights. Lomax converted the kick to make it 16 points to two. The home side was able to grab a try before the break thanks to an error from Ramsey. The Bulldogs shifted it to the right, giving Jake Averillo time and space to get on the outside of his opposite man in Moses Suli before scoring in the corner. The Bulldogs had plenty of work to do after the break.

The Bulldogs started the second half in perfect fashion. The home side was able to produce a one on one strip in the Dragons own half, giving them a full set of six in the Dragons half. They made the most of it as they targeted that right edge again and exposed Suli through Averillo's speed, scoring his second try of the afternoon. It didn't take long for the Bulldogs to get on the scoresheet for another try. As the momentum swung their way, they capitalised through Matt Dufty who got on the outside of Ben Hunt and broke the line, and made his way for the try line before passing to Kyle Flanagan to score next to the posts. Burton added the two to give the Bulldogs the lead. The Bulldogs lead hardly lasted, as the Dragons were able to strip the ball from Josh Jackson, resulting in a full set of six attacking the Bulldogs line. They shifted the ball right with Josh Addo-Carr charging out of the line looking for the intercept, however, the Dragons were able to go right around the New South Wales winger as Lomax scored his first try of the game. Both teams started to throw the ball around as they looked for more points. A Dufty error allowed the Dragons six tackles in the Bulldogs half and the travelling side made the most of the opportunity. A quick play the ball in front of the posts allowed Andrew McCullough to dart out of dummy-half and score under the posts in his first game back from injury. As this match continued to surprise, the Bulldogs brought the deficit down to four points after a classy try from the home side. The Bulldogs shifted the ball left, before Burton put in a grubber kick intended for Addo-Carr, who collected the ball and passed inside for Aaron Schoupp to score the try. The Dragons proved to be too much for the Bulldogs to handle, when in the 75th minute Blake Lawrie was able to barge his way over the try line for his first try of his career, putting his side up by an unassailable 10-points with four minutes left to play. It proved too be too much for the Bulldogs to chase down as the Dragons came away with a 10-point victory over the last placed Canterbury. LACHY MACCORQUODALE

EELS FIND RARE CONSISTENCY OVER A SPIRITED GREEN MACHINE

The Parramatta Eels have won back to back matches for just the second time this season, downing the Canberra Raiders in a classic game of football 28-20 at GIO Stadium.

It was a back and forth game in the opening exchanges as both sides fought to control the game. It was the Green Machine who crossed for the first try inside the opening ten minutes when Parramatta failed to take a Jamal Fogarty bomb and an urgent Seb Kris dived on the footy to cross for the opening try and the early lead.

After a penalty coming out of yardage led to Parramatta crossing in bizarre circumstances, a great take from Bailey Simonsson saw his pass blocked by Xavier Savage which found Will Penisini and the young centre crossed to get the Eels back to level pecking.

Five minutes later, the Eels were in again as Dylan Brown continued his great start to the season by hitting and spinning out of a Josh Papalii tackle to cross for the Eels and with Moses converting his halves partners try, the Eels were up by six. But, Parramatta's inconsistent play reared its ugly head just two minutes later. A sloppy penalty saw Canberra march upfield, Jordan Rapana was tackled inches short, before Elliot Whitehead crashed over to bring the scores level.

Eight minutes later, the Eels crashed over again when Bailey Simonsson caught a lovely pass from Clint Gutherson and the former Raider crashed over in the corner, however, Mitch Moses shanked the kick. Right on half-time, a Jamal Fogarty bomb was dropped by Gutherson and Kris was jolly on the spot to pick the ball and cross for the Green Machine, who celebrated with a great dance. Fogarty kicked the goal and Canberra went into the dressing sheds up by two at half-time.

Canberra's second half started strongly, but they have an early nomination for the worst decision of the season. They went for two when they had all the ball and momentum. Regardless, Fogarty nailed it and Canberra was up by four. Canberra was struggling to hold the lead, against the run of play, Dylan Brown turns momentum with a great run. Moses passes to Niukore onto Paulo before a lovely ball sees Bailey Simonsson cross in the corner.

Moses converted to give Parramatta a two-point lead. In the final 20 minutes, Shaun Lane broke through the line, it looked like he passed the ball early to Dylan Brown but he beat the tackle of Xavier Savage to cross for the Eels, Moses converted to seal the 8 point margin.

Canberra will take on the Roosters next week at home, while Parramatta has a well-earned bye. AJ LUCANTONIO

Cowboys look to maintain status as Queensland's top dogs against frustrating Titans

It seemed as though the Titans were the side that would carry the torch for Queensland Rugby League in first grade for years to come. They were the only team out of themselves, the Broncos and Cowboys to qualify for the finals in 2021, something which appeared to accurately reflect how functional all 3 clubs were on and off the field. Then the first half of 2022 happened, and it proved that no one ever really knows anything in this great game. The Cowboys and Broncos are sitting pretty in the top 4, while the Titans are back in a position they know all too well, just one win above the wooden spoon. That's not to say they don't have the talent to match it with the majority of the teams above them. Last week proved that as they jumped out to a 20-point lead against recently re-appointed big brother the Broncos. But, in almost an identical turn of events to the same fixture 12 months prior, Brisbane came back and eventually won comfortably. It is the second time this season that the Titans have squandered a lead of 20 points or more, having given up a 22-0 advantage against the Raiders in Round 3. It shows an extremely concerning lack of resilience and back bone amongst the men from the Gold Coast, who, for all their recent plaudits around completing a successful rebuild, have still yet to achieve a winning record since 2010. In many ways, they are the polar opposite of their opposition this week, and that is not a good thing.

The Cowboys have been the major surprise packets of 2022. They were wooden spoon favourites and did nothing to quell those expectations with a horrid opening round showing against Canterbury. Since then, they have embraced the underdog mentality and boast the second best defence in the league. Many were questioning Todd Payten's coaching after a disaster 2021 campaign, but his side's performances have proven there was a method to the madness, and the former Tiger is now surely a shoe-in for the coach of the year award. He has overseen players like Scott Drinkwater, Tom Dearden, Reece Robson and Reuben Cotter, among others, hit career best form. They had a tough loss to the Panthers last week, who continue to be several classes above the nearest competition. However, despite not scoring a point, there were still some encouraging signs for the Cowboys. They had a measly 43% of possession and were still able to limit the best attack in the comp to only 22 points. They also completed at a dismal 62%, but we have seen enough from them this year to know that this was an anomaly and not the norm (they average 78% - 6th highest in the NRL). When you take into account that there were several occasions the Cowboys came extremely close to crossing the stripe, and that they actually made more tackle break than Penrith (34 to 30), there is no reason to think that they cannot improve between now and September to become genuine premiership contenders.

The only reason this game has any chance of being close at all is because of the player outs due to origin/miscellaneous, and they are as follows.

For the Titans, Esan Marsters will have to come off the bench for his revenge game as Patrick Herbert returns from injury to the centres. Toby Sexton is good to go after a shoulder scare last week, while Fotuaika returns as prop, allowing Isaac Liu to cover Maroons star Tino Faasumaleaui at lock. David Fifita will miss another 2 or 3 weeks after re-aggravating a knee injury in last week's loss to Brisbane.

It's changes galore for the Cowboys. The Hammer moves to centre to cover Val Holmes (origin), while Brendan Elliot will make his first NRL appearance since Round 14, 2020, lining up on the wing, while Ben Hampton is in at five-eighth for Tom Dearden, who is Queensland's 18th man. Coen Hess moves to prop and Luki to second row for Cotter and Nanai respectively (both origin). Jason Taumalolo is a timely inclusion at lock, while Connelly Lemuelu rounds out the bench.

WHO TO WATCH: To blow a 20 point lead, you first have to gain a 20 point lead, and last week Toby Sexton was instrumental in fooling the Rugby League world that the Titans were back for 45 odd minutes. It was one of Sexton's best performances as Gold Coast's starting halfback in his young career and will do plenty to reassure the clubs higher-ups that he is the long term solution at the important position. In just 48 minutes of game time, Sexton was able to put up the stats of 2 try assists, 1 line break assist, a tackle break and 2 forced drop-outs. His showing also opened things up for AJ Brimson and Jayden Campbell, who each looked untouchable at different stages of the first half. The spine was, and remains, one of the big question marks hanging over the Titans for this season, and it's no coincidence that their best 40 minutes of football (spearheaded by their halfback) saw them take a 20-point lead over a team in the top 4. The main challenge for Sexton, and his 16 teammates for that matter, is to show consistency not only week to week, but half to half.

After getting off to a rocky start with the Cowboys, Reece Robson is finally morphing into the player that the previous regime envisioned he would when he was brought over from the Dragons in the 2019 offseason. We've seen flashes of his attacking prowess over the last 2 years, and he certainly has the ability to be an elite player with ball in hand when he needs to be, but it's his constant reliability in defence that should be applauded in 2022. Last week, against the best attack in Rugby League, Robson played 80 minutes, made 52 tackles and missed just 2, a herculean effort against any opposition. He's played the full 80 for five consecutive weeks now, a welcome development considering how unstable the hooking position has been for the Cowboys in recent years. Averaging about 2 tackle breaks a week, look for Robson to play a more probing role in and around the ruck against a Titans side missing it's best player in Faasumaleaui.

FAVOURITE: At the time of writing, the Cowboys are 5.5 point favourites on the road against the Titans.

MY TIP: I was high on the Titans last week and tipped them as an upset. Never again. Cowboys by 14.

THE PREVIEW

with Rob Crosby

Young guns look to go from cubs to Panthers

A fresh-faced Penrith Panthers outfit will be hoping to continue a strong record in Origin-affected fixtures by downing the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs at the foot of the mountains on Friday evening.

Coming into the representative season atop the premiership ladder with a single loss from their opening 12 matches, the Penrith Panthers will have their depth tested with six players unavailable through Origin.

Fielding a vastly different line up from the side that humbled the Cowboys during last Friday's 22-0 shutout at home, coach Ivan Cleary has placed his faith in reserve grade halves pairing Sean O'Sullivan and debutant Kurt Falls to get the job done in the NRL.

Robert Jennings, Charlie Staines, Chris Smith and Matthew Eisenhuth are among the other new faces promoted from reserve grade, while talented forward Spencer Leniu will make his 50th appearance for the club off the bench.

The Panthers have won seven of their past nine matches during Origin-affected rounds; the side suffered a 20-point loss to the Tigers at Leichhardt Oval in the lead up to Origin I last season.

Sitting at the opposite end of the premiership spectrum in 16th position with a paltry two wins over the first half of the season, the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs will be looking to capitalise on their depleted opponents.

Unaffected by Origin representation, alongside the Tigers and Warriors, interim coach Mick Potter will have the benefit of Josh Addo-Carr at his disposal after the star winger was overlooked in the biggest selection shock of the series.

Raymond Faitala-Mariner will start in the second row ahead of Corey Waddell, while Ava Seumanufagai replaces Joe Stimson on the bench in the only personnel change from the team that went down 34-24 to the Dragons last Sunday.

Last enjoying the spoils of victory over the Panthers prior to the pandemic, the Bulldogs have managed one win from their past six visits to Penrith; captain Josh Jackson is the only current player remaining from the side that triumphed at the Mulgoa Road precinct in the early rounds of 2016.

The Bulldogs hold an underwhelming record in Origin-affected fixtures with six wins from 15 matches; the side's last win in the lead up to Origin came at Belmore Oval five years ago.

WHO TO WATCH: Carrying enormous responsibility as a relative veteran in a side full of emerging players, Dylan Edwards will be looking to draw upon his own strides since coming into first grade during the Origin period. Handed a debut prior to Game III six years ago, the 26-year-old fullback has grown to become one of the game's most reliable players with the most run metres so far this season. Leading the league in runs, kick-return metres and boasting the most post-contact metres of any outside back, the Panthers will need Edwards to be heavily involved to compensate for the absence of Cleary, Yeo and Luai.

Returning to Penrith for the first time since his highly touted move to Canterbury-Bankstown, Matt Burton will be aiming to mastermind an upset over his former teammates. Starting at five-eighth in every game this season after thriving in the centres during the Panthers premiership-winning campaign, the 22-year-old has been especially potent with the boot, producing 11 forced drop-outs, five try assists and the fourth highest kicking metres in the league. Regarded as one of the most promising young players in the league, look for Burton to be heavily involved as the Bulldogs fight to get off the bottom of the premiership ladder.

FAVOURITE: Even without half a dozen of their best players, the Panthers are expected to claim five consecutive wins over the Bulldogs for the first time in history.

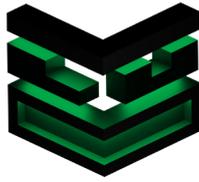

MY TIP: While the Panthers were found wanting without their representative stars in the corresponding fixture last season, the systems in place at the foot of the mountains should be too much for the cellar dwellers to overcome. Panthers by 16.

THE PREVIEW

with Josh Robertson

Two sides who sit outside the top eight have a Saturday night battle on the Northern Beaches of Sydney as the Manly-Warringah Sea Eagles play host to the New Zealand Warriors at Brookvale Oval.

Having been considered one of the contenders in the pre-season, the Manly Sea Eagles have had plenty of things go against them this season as they come into the contest sitting in 11th position on the ladder having won just one of their past six matches. The Sea Eagles form has been pretty patchy and a fortnight ago, they looked as if they were going to pull off an upset against the Eels but ended up falling short.

The Sea Eagles last week were comfortably beaten 28-8 up against the Melbourne Storm at AAMI Park last Thursday night. Questions had been asked about the form of the Storm and with more key players out, it was expected that the Sea Eagles might have a chance but they were comprehensively outplayed by the Storm. If Manly wanted to prove they weren't a one-man team after losing Tom Trbojevic for the season, they barely made anybody question whether they can contend this season.

Unlike a lot of sides this week, Manly have actually gained strength in their line-up with the returns of Marty Taupau, Jason Saab and Karl Lawton from injuries in suspension although they have suffered a major loss with captain and halfback Daly Cherry-Evans called up for State of Origin duties.

Another side that has struggled significantly this season has been the New Zealand Warriors who are looking to avoid a fifth straight loss. The Warriors have been in most of their contests this season, but poor decision making at times and some poor coaching at times has cost them games as they come into the contest in 12th position with just four wins to their name.

The Warriors started the stronger of the two sides last week against the Knights as they ran out 12-0 leaders inside 20 minutes only for their opponents to bring the scores level. Decision making wasn't a strong point for the New Zealanders as ill-discipline hurt them significantly and with poor dummy half passing and a number kicks going out on the full, the Warriors struggled big time as they went down 24-6.

Not affected by State Of Origin, the Warriors have been strengthened with the returns of Wayde Egan into the hooker role and as well as Bayley Sironen who returns to the side on the bench. The Warriors though have lost Viliami Vailea through injury with Rocco Berry named in the side to replace him. Jack Murchie is named at lock despite being ruled out of last week's contest with Category 1 head injury symptoms.

WHO TO WATCH: into the halfback role this weekend, Kieran Foran will have to play as the lead play make for Manly this week in the absence of DCE. There has been question in recent times on whether the Kiwi international is past his peak but this weekend is a good opportunity to show he can still lead a side around and help Manly with two very big absences.

There are so many words that can describe Shaun Johnson's game... sadly for the Kiwi superstar these words lately are more associated with negativity than positivity with some of the performances in recent weeks. Having plenty of hype pre-season on his return, Johnson has failed to live up to them and he needs to improve on last weeks dismal performance with reports his spot could be on the line in coming weeks.

FAVOURITE: The Sea Eagles have won all three of their home games at Brookvale this season which helps elevate them to favourites.

MY TIP: is a game that has the potential to be a thriller or potential to be absolute rubbish at times with the form of both sides. It's hard to go past Manly this week despite missing DCE because there is still a stronger line-up than for the Warriors. The Warriors need to find big improvement and I don't think they can find it especially against Manly at Brookvale. Manly by 14.

THE PREVIEW

Raiders welcome Roosters and the big freeze

After his side slammed the lid on Cronulla's unbeaten run in the Shire, Origin has come at the worst time for Trent Robinson. Now missing three big names, the sixth placed Roosters face a desperate Raiders, themselves without stars Josh Papalii and Jack Wighton.

As ice cold conditions grip the nation's capital, for James Tedesco, Daniel Tupou and Lindsay Collins, losing their seat on the bus probably ranks a narrow second to the joy of Origin selection.

Just a week after Penrith clipped their wings, a Tedesco masterclass propelled the Roosters to a season best performance. Replacement Joseph Manu is no Teddy but he won't let anyone down, and with centre Kevin Naiqama and winger Billy Smith joining him in the backline, it's a lineup that still packs plenty of punch.

They're still strong up-front too. Last season an Origin weakened Roosters struggled against a battling Bulldogs packs. Now with Collins in Maroons camp, Angus Crichton's omission from the Blues along with the promotion of Sitili Tupouniua leaves a pack more than capable of matching Canberra's front six led by the revitalised Joseph Tapine.

For Ricky Stuart, the fact his Green Machine have only won two of the past eight against their 2019 grand final rivals shouldn't be a deterrent. After a rough start to the season, their rebound has been spectacular, and if not for a couple of brain explosions against Parramatta they'd be on a four game winning streak.

Last season it was Sam Williams who covered for Wighton as a depleted Raiders downed Manly, this year fellow veteran Matt Frawley gets the nod. Corey Horsburgh's lift in form sees him start in Papalii's boots while Corey Harawira-Naera returns from NSW Cup to join Trey Mooney on the interchange.

Sitting in 10th place just two points outside the top-eight, a sneaky upset here could reignite Ricky's mid-season revival. With the representative jaded Broncos to follow, then the Knights, Dragons and a bye, there's plenty for Canberra fans to be excited about.

For Robinson, a ride on Luna Park's ghost train would be more enjoyable than reading the upcoming schedule. If the Storm doesn't get his heart pumping, then the away trips to Parramatta and Penrith that follow should have him screaming for a bucket.

WHO TO WATCH: On debut for the Green Machine, Jamal Fogarty hit the ground running last week after a knee injury sidelined him for the opening 12 rounds. Still finding his feet, the former Gold Coast playmaker now has the added task of teaming with Frawley in Wighton's absence.

It promises to be an onerous task, and against the settled Roosters combination of Sam Walker and Luke Keary, how they combine will go a long way to deciding the result. Last week Robinson couldn't hide his delight post match, paying tribute to his pack before complementing his halves for exploiting the advantage through a mix of short sides and long open sides.

FAVOURITE: Despite providing more players to Origin than the Raiders, it's the Roosters who start the final match of Round 13 as favourite.

MY TIP: On current form, Canberra are far better than their 10th spot on the ladder and if they had their time again on a couple of plays last week, they may have got the Eels. But it's that attention to detail, especially in the absence of the experienced Papalii and Wighton that could haunt them again, especially against an opponent still riddled with big name stars. Roosters by 8.

THE PREVIEW

with AJ Lucantonio

Slater faces first test as NSW look to return to home turf with a win

Well, it's back. State of Origin is here everyone and it promises to be quite the series with so many storylines to follow and track. NSW is looking to win back to back series for just the second time since 2010 and with a damaging backline and quick-footed forwards, it's very much a possibility. But if we flip the script to QLD, we see a rookie coach taking the reins from Paul Green's disappointing tenure last year. Billy Slater knows everything about State of Origin, what it takes to win, and the effort required and if we've learned anything you cannot count the Maroons out.

Starting with the home side for this one in NSW. Brad Fittler has named an interesting line-up for Game One reflecting both form and loyalty. Josh Addo-Carr, Angus Crichton and Jake Trbojevic were left out after their in-different starts to the season with Fittler preferring the height of Roosters flanker Daniel Tupou and the ball-playing of Parramatta utility Ryan Matterson in place of those two players. Tariq Sims has been named to start which is surprising to many, but he always does his job for NSW and hasn't been in too bad of form this season.

The biggest talking point, however, is the centres with Fittler opting for Raider Jack Wighton and origin debutant Kotoni Staggs. Going up against the might of QLD could be the biggest challenge of these two players' young careers, I question the Wighton pick so much, especially when you look at the carnage Dane Gagai caused in 2020. Liam Martin retains his spot after a solid start to the season along with RCG, Matterson and debutant Stephen Crichton. With the talent, NSW has in the spine and the dual threat of Tupou and To'o coming out of yardage (both average over 150 meters a game this season), it could be a long night for QLD's defence.

There's a new kid on the block in the Sunshine State with Billy Slater swapping the commentary box for the coaching scene. There is little doubting Slater's credentials within the game, but the biggest challenge is translating the knowledge into the coaching scene. There was no better choice than the 31 times QLD representative. The question that everyone has asked is how the attack will improve, but for me, the attack wasn't too bad last year. It was a defensive issue for me with Paul Green's side conceding the most points a QLD side has conceded since the 2000 whitewash. Expect an aerial raid from QLD, Cobbo and Coates are towering individuals and with Coates going up against To'o, we saw it nearly come off on several occasions last year.

When I was assessing his first origin line-up, Slater hit the key points that he needed, to try and unsettle NSW. He's gone for the aerial attack in Coates and debutant Selwyn Cobbo with the exciting young Brisbane winger reaping the reward for a solid start to the season. Tino Fa'asuamaleaui starts at prop with Josh Papalii. Ben Hunt has been chosen to start at hooker with Harry Grant being used as the impact player off the bench. Felise Kaufusi retains his spot in the second row with debutant Reuben Cotter starting at lock, showcasing his rapid rise to stardom. It's a young bench with Grant and Collins the only two to have origin experience on the bench along with debutants Pat Carrigan and Jeremiah Nanai.

WHO TO WATCH: Damien Cook has had an indifferent start to his 2022 season. But, State of Origin is where the South Sydney hooker shines. Cook's origin record speaks for itself since making his debut as part of Brad Fittler's 'rookie' regime in 2018. Cook's running out of dummy half is set to terrorise a new look QLD pack, and if he has Teddy and Cleary backing up in support, it could be a long night for Queensland.

Among the debutants named in the Queensland side, Reuben Cotter is the pick of the debutants. Cotter has reaped the reward of the stunning revival of North Queensland's fortunes after four years in the doldrums post-JT. Cotter's stats this season speak for themselves with the Cowboy making 63 tackles for zero misses last week against Penrith as well as averaging 125 meters a game. Look for Cotter to be the energiser bunny for the QLD pack.

FAVOURITE: NSW will start favourites here as they're at home. QLD are the outsider for the first origin game in NSW since November 2020. The Maroons recent form in NSW is a bit shaky only winning twice since 2016.

MY TIP: This game has so many variables that make it almost too close to call. But I've got to pick someone. NSW's spine is classy and skilful, Nathan Cleary's kicking game is the best in the competition and will cause all sorts of problems for QLD as they try to come out of yardage. QLD's forwards have a slight edge overall though, so it'll come down to the backs to decide an overall winner. The local crowd of more than 80,000 hopefully should be enough to guide the Blues home. NSW by 6.

UK WATCH

WIGAN CLAIM 20TH CHALLENGE CUP

The Wigan Warriors have added yet another Challenge Cup trophy to their collection as goal kicking woes will haunt the Huddersfield Giants, following Wigan's dramatic 16-14 victory at the Tottenham Hotspur Stadium.

Things started messily for the cherry-red-and-whites as they were penalised for an obstruction inside two minutes when looking to shift the ball out of their own end. Huddersfield took the option of taking an easy two points to settle the nerves.

Despite dominating possession, Huddersfield couldn't make a dent in the Wigan defensive line despite the mountains of pressure they were putting on the Warriors. The pressure eventually became too much for Wigan and the play from Huddersfield was nothing short of perfection with swift hands and players in motion causing the Warriors defence to be in two minds and letting Ricky Leutele into space to score.

Although Huddersfield dominated possession, Wigan took advantage when they had the chance when Morgan Smithies was able to get his arm free to throw a no look offload to a charging Harry Smith who had open space ahead of him to get through and score. Smith levelled the scores after converting his own try.

Huddersfield regained the lead with just over five minutes remaining in the second half, when Chris McQueen fooled defenders by throwing a dummy that forced two defenders to shoot to the outside man when instead the former Rabbitoh threw a dummy and then put on a step to get through to the line. Tui Lolohea missed a second conversion giving the Giants a 10-6 lead they took into the break.

The second half saw more dominance from Wigan and they opened the scoring just two minutes into the second half when the Huddersfield defence was caught rushing in which created space out wide for Bevan French to get into space down the sideline before finding Jai Field on the inside to score. Harry Smith's conversion put Wigan in front for the first time.

A poor day with the boot from Tui Lolohea hurt the Giants as they had a prime opportunity to level the scores but a poor penalty goal attempt kept the scores at 12-10 in favour of Wigan. Just shy of the hour mark, the Giants retook the lead when veteran Jermaine McGillvray was able to get his way to the line using his strength and ability to get down low and score in the corner. The fourth miss of the day from Lolohea kept the scores at 14-12.

The game went from end to end at different stages in the last twenty minutes although, Huddersfield in hindsight could have had a more attacking game plan as they looked mostly to not make any errors and finish their sets running it to the corner and making Wigan work it out from their own end.

Both the tactic and the poor goal kicking came back to haunt the Giants when in the final dying minutes of the game, Harry Smith got a kick away that he had tried twice before when the Huddersfield defence was rushed up. The first two occasions the kicks had eluded Liam Marshall, but the third was perfect right even up to the bounce of the ball as he charged over to the corner to score.

The conversion was waved away and Huddersfield needed a miracle inside the last minute of play to take victory. Unfortunately for their fans, the miracle didn't come and Wigan held onto a 16-14 victory but it was the goal kicking of Huddersfield that made the biggest difference.

Victory for Wigan gives them Challenge Cup title number 20 whilst Huddersfield's 70-year drought continues until at least the 2023 edition. JOSH ROBERTSON
