THE EDITOR'S WORD

TIM COSTELLO

Finals are here in NRLW and it comes after a fascinating final round where nothing was locked in until the final whistle sounded on Sunday.

While all the favourites ultimately won, it was margins and live ladders all weekend until the Broncos secured their fourth minor premiership and pushed newcomers Parramatta out of the finals with a big win at home on Sunday. It all sets up some intriguing semi final match ups on Sunday - check out more in our programme on the pages that follow.

Before you get there though - make sure you check out an eyebrow-raising column on the next page by Rob Crosby, exploring why the Wests Tigers are "rugby league's Adam Sandler" - much maligned... but is it justified?

Happy reading folks.

Robert Crosby on why the Wests Tigers are the 'Adam Sandler of rugby league'

It brings me no pleasure to add to the dumpster fire of media coverage that ensues every time the Wests Tigers lose.

Where once the joint venture held a dubious reputation as 9th-placed specialists, the tone from afar during the pandemic has turned outright mean-spirited with expert commentators lining up to lay the boot into the side on a routine basis.

The coach has lost the dressing room. Players aren't putting in. Five captains equals no leadership. Too many home grounds. Embarrassing. Weak. Soft.

I imagine the producers at NRL360 had Ben Elias on speed dial, locking in segments for the week ahead, mere seconds after the side found a new way to lose to the Warriors on Friday night.

It's only Round 4 and already the skies are getting grey at Tiger Town.

So instead, let's talk about Adam Sandler.

I have few memories of a time without Billy Madison and Happy Gilmore being a part of my life.

From a young age I adored Sandler's best comedic work and as an adult I continue to be delighted by the nostalgia that comes with each rewatch.

I will always hold a place in my heart for him, but having sat through so many of his offerings over the past two decades - both theatrically and on Netflix - I doubt I'll be breaking new ground by saying that many of them are quite bad.

Plenty of people have made similar observations; his first Netflix feature The Ridiculous Six earned an ignominious 0% on Rotten Tomatoes (by comparison Jack and Jill was a critical rave at 3%).

Movies like Grown Ups 2, Pixels and The Cobbler are not beyond critique - let me say it again, they are quite bad - but the disdain with which they are discussed quickly descends to a mean-spirited place where deriders salivate with glee at the opportunity to take a dump on an easy target.

If you've made it this far and are wondering, 'why is this being discussed in a magazine called The Front Row?', rest assured, there is a point.

Put simply: the Wests Tigers are the Adam Sandler of rugby league.

Like Sandler, the Tigers achieved a rare form of success early on that has only grown in fondness over time.

Like Sandler, the Tigers have become magnets for negative takes due to years of declining performances, culminating in a situation where critics relish the opportunity to unload negative opinions. Why? Because it gets views.

If you're unconvinced then I urge you to tune in following a Tigers loss to NRL360, Sunday Triple M or The Daily Telegraph.

Embarrassing. Weak. Soft. Rinse. Repeat.

Even the less incendiary coverage over at Channel 9 can't resist when it comes to the Tigers.

Among the most asinine coverage to stem in the wake of the "disrespect shown by players towards coach Michael Maguire" (aka Daine Laurie and James Roberts playing poker machines 18 hours before kick-off in Newcastle), Six Tackles with Gus podcast host Mat Thompson broached discussion of the incident with a comical level of faux concern.

ILLUSTRATION BY THEBIGGESTTIGER

Thompson sounded noticeably worried at the very thought of players hypothetically gambling away $2,000 the night before a game. That same concern was oddly absent minutes later whilst spruiking the betting odds offered by the show's sponsor.

All this is not to suggest the Tigers should be free from criticism.

For all the talk of costly refereeing decisions in the wrap-up of the Warriors loss, David Nofoaluma almost certainly would have scored had Jock Madden passed the ball to his support man, while Laurie was left to rue an error of his own by botching a try over the line.

The shortcomings of the club have been laid out extensively and without a radical shift in direction on-field performances and off-field criticism will worsen.

The Wests Tigers are the Adam Sandler of rugby league, but within that label exists an answer for the struggling club.

In 2019, Sandler took a chance with directors Josh and Bennie Safdie for a film in complete contrast to the comedies that made him a star. What followed was Uncut Gems, a masterpiece likened to a two-hour plus panic attack that saw him honoured as Best Actor at the Independent Spirit Awards.

Sandler proved he could change and achieve something greater than the success that came early on in his career by daring to make himself uncomfortable and trusting in the thoroughly-crafted vision of his directors.

Perhaps there is a similar lesson for the Tigers to heed.

Or maybe what you've just read is one of the most insanely idiotic things you've ever heard. Where at no point in my rambling, incoherent response was I even close to anything that could be considered a rational thought. Perhaps everyone who read this article is now dumber for having read it. Perhaps I'm awarded no points, and may God have mercy on my soul.

TONEGATO DENIES ROOSTERS VICTORY

Two brilliant try saving tackles by the Dragons fullback played a huge role in ensuring the hosts a 16-10 victory - and a keeping them in the box seat for the minor premiership.

The Dragons opened the scoring in the 9th minute when Elsie Albert received a crash ball and she smashed through the marker defence to score on the right side. Keeley Davis failed to convert.

In the 17th minute the Roosters looked to score when Isabelle Kelly got a great ball away despite being held in a group tackle, to Brydie Parker who scored in the left corner, but after the try was awarded the Bunker over-ruled the decision after finding a small obstruction in the leadup.

10 minutes later the Roosters had a second try disallowed when Olivia Kernick crashed over the line but planted the ball on Holli Wheelers foot.

Jessica Sergis made a break 3 minutes before halftime and looked set to score but Emma Tonegato made a superb tackle around the legs that not only denied the Roosters a try, but also put Sergis into touch. At halftime the Dragons lead 4-0.

In the first minute after play resumed, Leianne Tufuga took a clean intercept and raced 25 metres before Tonegato made another great try saving tackle.

The Dragons extended their lead in the 39th minute when Kody House ran a strong line back towards the posts, received an inside ball from Taliah Fuimaono and scored a good try. Davis failed to convert again.

Just three minutes later the Dragons scored again when Fuimaono found Tonegato on the inside and the Dragons fullback scored a clever try. Wheeler had the shot at goal this time but she too was unable to add the extras.

The Roosters finally got on the board in the 48th minute when Olivia Higgins at dummy half shifted left, dummied and then dropped a crash ball underneath to Sarah Togatuki who plowed through the markers to score a powerful try. Zahara Temara converted.

Four minutes later, the Roosters very nearly scored again when a Temara grubber was contested for and ultimately knocked on by Baxter under the posts.

In the 63rd minute Madison Bartlett took a clean intercept and raced 65 metres to score untouched. Davis failed to convert.

Davis very nearly scored from dummy half with 3 minutes left in the game. It was the Roosters though who would score last, when Racene McGregor got a good ball to Kelly who sliced through the Dragons edge defence and ran 30 metres to score. Hannah Southwell failed to convert from the right sideline.

OUR REPORT with ANDREW FERGISON

KNIGHTS PUSH THE TITANS ALL THE WAY

The winless Knights closed out their maiden season in the NRLW with a very committed and determined outing against a confident Titans outfit, but came up short with the Gold Coast finishing 14-10 victors at Suncorp.

It wasn't until there was just 2 minutes left in the game before the Titans took a lead which they did not relinquish.

The scoring opened in the 4th minute when Autumn-Rain Stephens-Daly put in a kick from dummy half which was allowed to bounce. The ball bounced over the head of Karina Brown and Paige Parker came through, collected the loose ball and scored. Kirra Dibb added the extras to get the Knights off to a perfect start.

The remainder of the first half saw both teams struggle with their last tackle options and regularly putting in attacking grubbers that went dead in-goal. Both sides forwards were very strong through the middle, as was the defences of both outfits.

At halftime the Knights were leading 6-0.

The Titans didn't get on the scoreboard until the 52nd minute when Brittany Breayley-Nahi from dummy half, threw a dummy and then grubbered into the Knights ingoal where Jessika Elliston bumped through the defensive line to collect the ball and score to the left of the uprights. Brianna Clark converted the try to level the scores.

Just six minutes later the Titans took the lead for the first time when they spread the ball quick to the left, helped along by a brilliant tap pass under pressure from Kimiora Breayley-Nahi, eventually finding Hailee-Jay Maunsell who dived over to score in the corner. Zara Canfield took over the goalkicking duties, but was unable to add the extras from the sideline.

The Knights refused to surrender though and in the 64th minute Annetta Nuuausala made a brilliant powerful charge through the middle before she was tackled. From the play the ball, the Knights sent the ball right to Parker who produced a neat draw and pass to send Katelyn Vaha'akolo over for a try to level the scores. Dibb narrowly failed to convert from the sideline.

With just 2 minutes remaining in the game, Brittany Breayley-Nahi very nearly crossed from a try, but was kept just short. From the play the ball, the Titans moved the ball right to Cobie-Jane Morgan who delivered a brilliant long ball to the unmarked Brown who scored in the corner. Canfield was unable to convert, but it didn't matter as the Titans had got the job done and scored a 14-10 victory.

The Titans' opponent in next week's semi finals will be confirmed later today after the Broncos and Eels match.

OUR REPORT with TIM COSTELLO

BRISBANE CLAIM MINOR TITLE WITH MAJOR WIN OVER EELS

Needing a 21-or-more point victory against Parramatta at Suncorp Stadium today, Brisbane delivered what was needed - and then some - with a 38-4 drubbing of Parramatta, who now miss the NRLW 2021 finals.

It didn't take long for the home team to impact the scoreboard, with prolific tryscorer Emily Bass adding to her impressive season tally after just four minutes. Lauren Brown missed the conversion but that wasn't a harbinger of what was to come - it being her only miss of the day.

Not long after Brisbane had extended their advantage to 10-0 with Amy Turner benefiting from a Hagiga Mosby break down the left side. Brown's conversion had the hosts well-placed inside the first ten minutes.

Parramatta didn't drop heads despite the Broncos' fast start - Ellie Johnston got her side on the board with a strong run to the right edge, although halfback Studdon couldn't convert and the visitors trailed 10-4.

The Broncos hit back not long after, Shanae Ciesiolka with a good run on the right side exposing the Eels' defence and it went to 16-4, a lead the home team retained til the break.

Once the second half began, it was one-way traffic. Mosby scored one of her own, then Ali Briggishaw capped a superb performance with a solo try up the middle and after 55 minutes it was 26-4 and Brisbane had the margin required - and had pushed the Eels out of the top four.

In the final ten minutes there was plenty of icing for the Broncos' minor premiership cake, with Amber Hall barnstorming her way over from close range before Ciesiolka grabbed a double near fulltime.

Next week in the Semi Finals at Leichhardt, Brisbane play the Roosters. Parramatta are left to rue what might have been. The other semi final pits the Dragons against the Titans.

THE PREVIEW

with Josh Robertson

History will be made on Sunday afternoon in the first ever NRLW finals series as the St George Illawarra Dragons take on the Gold Coast Titans at Leichhardt Oval in a battle between second and third.

The surprise packets of the NRLW season (well at least to me) have been the St George Illawarra Dragons who prior to the final round sat top of the ladder before being pushed back to second spot on for & against. The Dragons have won four of their five matches this season having only lost to the Broncos in a match where the Red 'V' were only defeated late when they were significantly understrength.

Last weekend, the Dragons needed to fight their way to victory with again having a number of key players missing including halfback Rachael Pearson who has been a star for the Red 'V' this season. The Dragons were able to take a 16-10 victory over the Sydney Roosters in what was a low scoring affair despite scoring four tries to two. Coach Jamie Soward will have two major factors that he will be wanting to work on this week for his side, cleaning up the error rate after his side made 15 errors last week and completed at just 57% as well as goal kicking which could be a concern given St George Illawarra have kicked just 2/14 in the past two weeks.

Dragons coach Jamie Soward has named Jaime Chapman despite the Red 'V' speedster only managing three minutes last week before having to leave the field after failing her HIA. The Dragons will welcome back halfback Rachael Pearson who was left out of the side last week after not risking a back injury in a game that wouldn't effect the Dragons place in the finals. The return of Pearson sees Quincy Dodd move back to

The Gold Coast Titans have been the proverbial mixed bag this season winning 3 of their 5 matches this season including defeating their Queensland rivals a fortnight ago. The Titans side is filled with experience but was quite inconsistent having only won one of their opening three matches when. Despite being inconsistent to start the season, the Titans come into the finals off back-to-back wins which will give them confidence.

Despite getting the win last weekend, the Gold Coast Titans performance could be seen as scratchy as they could only manage a 14-10 victory against the winless Newcastle Knights. The Titans were behind the Knights most of the game and had to come from behind twice to take victory. The Gold Coast dominated every facet of the stats so the fact they could only manage a four point margin would be a concern. The loss of star Evania Pelite didn't help the cause and they will be hoping for her return this week.

The Titans have received a boost with Tazmin Gray and Georgia Hale returning to the side after serving suspensions. Despite the boost, the Gold Coast could still be without star Evania Pelite who has been named in the reserves still battling her ankle injury.

Who to watch: Arguably the biggest surprise packet of the NRL season, Rachael Pearson has slotted straight into a commanding role for the Dragons this season. Pearson's impact in the halves has been the key to their performances this season. Pearson will need to lead the side around the park if the Dragons want to ensure they get past the Titans. Having starred on the biggest NRLW stage before, Kimiora Breayley-Nati knows what it takes to have big performances in must win matches. The inaugural Karen Murphy medal winner, Breayley-Nati will need to bring her experience to the front if the Titans want to take victory on Sunday afternoon.

Favourite: The Dragons are expected to qualify for their second NRLW decider.

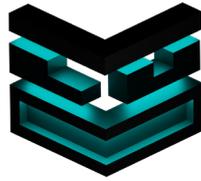

My tip: This game is harder to tip than it looks, both sides give you strong reasons on why they can win it but ultimately I've settled on the Dragons. Their performances this season have been excellent and moving forward I think the Dragons have a more solid and consistent form. This game could go down to the wire and potentially even Golden Point. Dragons by 4.

THE PREVIEW

with Josh Robertson

A rematch of the 2020 NRLW final is what is in store for fans on Sunday's second NRLW finals clash as the Minor Premiers the Brisbane Broncos take on the Sydney Roosters who snuck into the finals ironically thanks to their opponent's big win over the Parramatta Eels.

The Broncos are the form team of the NRLW right through it's history and it was no surprise that the Broncos were the team to beat yet again this season and although unlike previous seasons, there was a lot more competition on Brisbane than in previous years. The Broncos lost just one game all season but it was a game that would've stung significantly having been beaten by their Queensland Rivals the Titans.

Last weekend, the Broncos reasserted themselves as the dominant force of the NRLW as they racked up the points defeating the Eels 38-4 at Suncorp Stadium. The Broncos were in control of the game from start to finish as they 7 tries to 1 against an Eels side who had been strong through the season. The Broncos were dominant in every facet with 65% possession, just 6 errors and winning an 8-4 penalty count on their way to victory.

In a boost for the Broncos, coach Kelvin Wright welcomes back Tamika Upton after missing last week through COVID and the previous week under concussion protocols whilst Julia Robinson returns from a cheekbone injury. This pushes both Hayley Maddick and Hagiga Mosby back to the reserves.

The Sydney Roosters will be counting their blessings that they have made the NRLW finals this season after scoring just two victories across their five games and make the final thanks to Broncos big win doing irreparable damage to the Eels for and against. The Roosters have been disappointing this season with a strong line up and will need plenty of improvement heading into the finals.

Coming into the finals as the only team coming off a defeat, the Roosters will need to quickly turn their form around following their 16-10 defeat to the Dragons. The Roosters were poor and only scored in the final minute to give themselves an outside chance of a grandstand finish to potentially force the game to golden point. The tricolours have had their moments of success this season but need much improvement right across the park.

For the first time this season, coach John Strange has been able to name the same squad as the previous week although there are still concerns over Jess Sergis who was hampered by an ankle injury last week. There is also some doubt whether Zahara Temara keeps her spot in the 17 after being taken from the field last weekend in a tactical decision and she could face a positional swap again.

Who to watch: Returning from injury and COVID, Tamika Upton is a key player for the Broncos and she will be looking to make a huge impact on her return. Upton has been a strong performer this season and her ability to turn up anywhere on the field can cause all sorts of issues for opposition defence who have to keep an extra eye on her.

As mentioned above, Zahara Temara was taken from the field during last week's contest against the Dragons as a tactical decision and there is a strong chance that it could happen again this week if things don't go the Roosters way. Temara is a key player for the Roosters and a lot of their attack relies on the Queenslander and she needs to step up.

Favourite: Brisbane. No questions asked.

My tip: It's very hard to go past the Broncos, their performance last weekend was impressive and very few sides could match their efforts. The Roosters have been poor this season and it's hard to see a remarkable turn around in form. Broncos by 16.

HYNES THE HERO AS SHARKS THUMP DRAGONS

The Cronulla Sharks have continued their recent run of dominance over the St George Illawarra Dragons with Nicho Hynes playing a leading role in a 36-12 win in Wollongong.

Recording their sixth win from seven previous clashes against the joint venture, the Sharks were a class above their rivals, scoring six tries to two, in the opening match of the league's inaugural Multicultural Round.

Following a rain-drenched opening where both sides traded sets before adapting to the conditions with kicks early on in sets, the Sharks gained the ascendancy after Dragons second-rower Jadyn Su'A was sent to the sin bin for making shoulder contact to the head of Dale Finucane.

Wasting little time in exploiting their one-man advantage, Sione Katoa (18th minute) made amends for squandering a try minutes earlier by finishing off a Gidley-esque flick pass from Jesse Ramien to give the visitors first points.

Extending their lead a few sets later after the spine players spread the ball to the left edge, recalled winger Matt Ikuvalu (21st minute) claimed his first try for the club mere minutes after appearing to suffer a serious knee injury.

The Dragons struggled to capitalise on their opportunities during the first half with passes down the right edge falling short of the mark, while the side's best chance of posting points fell short with captain Ben Hunt deemed held up over the line

Striking a major blow shortly before halftime with Siosifa Talakai (35th minute) pouncing on a well-placed kick from Hynes, a further penalty goal saw the visitors take an 18-0 lead into the change of ends.

Needing to be first to score in the second half to have any chance of remaining in the contest, a short pass from Hunt allowed Jack Bird (43rd minute) to crash over for his first try at WIN Stadium.

Responding through Ramien (49th minute) following a superb piece of attacking play involving sideline to sideline passing and a kick from Talakai, the Sharks secured victory after Braden Hamlin-Uele (54th minute) pounced on a superbly placed grubber from Blayke Brailey.

Hynes (66th minute) capped a man of the match display with a try of his own before late ill-discipline saw Ramien and Andrew Fifita sent to the sin bin, leaving the visitors to see out proceedings with 11 men.

The Dragons had the final say of a disappointing night with Jack Gosweiski (74th minute) collecting a consolation try to bring the final score to 36-12.

Next week, St George Illawarra round out the round against Parramatta at CommBank Stadium, while Cronulla host Newcastle in the early match on Friday evening.

WARRIORS SCRAP THEIR WAY TO VICTORY OVER PITIFUL TIGERS

The Warriors have broken their duck for season 2022 securing their opening win over the Wests Tigers 16-10 at Campbelltown Stadium.

It was a match both coaches would've wished ended sooner than it did, as they both bombed several scoring opportunities.

The home side kicked off the of the two in this one, when Jock Madden took the ball to the line and found his captain (well, one of them) James Tamou, who barged over the top of fullback Reece Walsh to claim the opening try of the contest. With the easy conversion from Luke Brooks, Wests Tigers took the lead by 6-0.

The visitors quickly hit back off a clever kick by Chanel Harris-Tavita, targeting his winger Marcelo Montoya in the air, collecting a result for the visitors. Euan Aitken (who announced this week it will be his last year for the Warriors) grabbed the scraps and hit back. Reece Walsh nailed his kick from the sideline and we were back on even terms just after the 20-minute mark.

There was some controversy when replays suggested Luciano Leilua may have scored in a play that was ruled a knock-on live by the referee. It looked like a knock-on and Ziggy Przeklasa-Adamski made a bold live decision - although he could've used the video referee just to be sure, as it was a try-scoring situation. The locals weren't at all pleased with this decision, booing the officiating crew off the park at half-time.

Off the next set after this no-try, Kodi Nikorima put a lovely kick up and the Tigers couldn't handle the kick and Adam Pompey flew under the radar to score the visitors' second try. With the kick at goal successful from Walsh, the visitors went up by a converted try.

The Warriors quickly went up by two converted tries when Walsh knocked over a penalty goal for a 14-6 lead, but the home side had the last laugh going into the break, when Jock Madden put up a lovely kick for David Nofalo, who did wonderfully well to bat it back to Daine Laurie before he linked up with Zane Musgrove to get the Tigers back in the contest. Brooks knocked the kick through the posts and the Warriors had a slender lead of 14-12.

The second half can only be described as diabolical, it has to be said. Errors by both sides during key attacking raids blunted chances to assert their dominance.

The Warriors only added one penalty goal with Walsh knocking over a chip shot to be up by 4 points.

The turning point came when Chanel Harris-Tavita knocked it on and Jock Madden raced away to score. Marcelo Montoya made the try-saving tackle, but unfortunately, he held on way too long in the tackle and Ziggy Przeklasa-Adamski has no choice but to sin bin him for a professional foul. Wests Tigers' goal-line attack can only be described as horrible as they didn't even look like scoring against a 12 man defensive line.

The Tigers travel to Queensland next week to take on the Titans while the Warriors take on the Broncos at their temporary base at Redcliffe.

MARVELLOUS MURRAY LEADS SOUTHS TO FIRST WIN OF THE SEASON OVER ROOSTERS

Souths skipper Cameron Murray has led his Rabbitohs to a convincing 28-16 win over their bitter rivals the Roosters at Accor Stadium tonight.

Murray was in everything, scoring a try and setting up two more in a superb display which showed why he is the man to lead the cardinal and myrtle into the post Adam Reynolds era at the foundation club.

The win was the Bunnies first of the season and first for rookie coach Jason Demetriou in a memorable performance and silenced the doubters who began to think that the Rabbitohs would struggle to overcome the loss of their long-term number seven and the presence of the great Wayne Bennett. The Roosters will be disappointed with their performance, as they were starved of possession and couldn't go try for try with the elusive Bunnies attack. An uncharacteristic impatient Roosters made 12 errors, which led to a below par completion rate for the visitors as they failed to gain any momentum in the match.

All the pre-match hype centred on the battle of former teammates Latrell Mitchell and Joey Manu following 'that tackle' last time the two sides met in 2021, which looked to light the fuse on another explosive chapter in Russell Crowe's famed 'book of feuds' in the long history between the two rivals. While both Mitchell and Manu managed to cross the line for their respective sides, it was Latrell who had the final say, when the controversial fullback ran sixty metres to score the match winner with just over 10 minutes remaining.

South Sydney dominated possession early after some bruising defence and that resulted in the Rabbitohs striking first when starting skipper Murray sliced through close to the line to score next to the posts. Latrell Mitchell converted the try and the Bunnies led 6-0. The Rabbitohs continued to dominate possession when James Tedesco looked to be away off a quick twenty metre re-start, however he then threw a rushed pass which went to ground and Cameron Murray then picked up the loose ball and fired a pass to his winger Alex Johnston who raced away to score South Sydney's second try. Mitchell converted and it was 12-0.

The Roosters were in danger of losing touch, however redemption came for the Roosters captain, when Joseph Manu delivered a neat offload for his skipper Tedesco, who raced away to score after a forgettable first twenty minutes. Sam Walker converted and the Roosters narrowed the lead to a converted try at the break.

The second half was a disaster for Souths however, when off the back of a Tom Burgess error, Roosters centre Joseph Manu skipped his way through the defensive line to score and in the process he let his ex-teammate Latrell Mitchell know about the try in a rare expression of emotion from the Kiwi centre. The Bunnies extended their lead minutes later, when Murray found an elusive Cody Walker with an inside ball and the slippery number six scooted away from the cover defence to score and extend the lead to 18-10.

Souths continued to dominate possession and were very unlucky not to skip away from the Roosters further, when they were denied two tries from the Bunker, who spotted knocks by Alex Johnston and Keaton Koloamatangi respectively to keep the Tricolours in the match. Koloamatangi couldn't be denied a second time however, when the blockbusting backrower crashed over close to the line to finally get a try after having one denied moments earlier. Mitchell converted and the lead was 24-10. Latrell Mitchell then put an exclamation point on the victory, when the NSW centre collected the ball in the clear off a Roosters error and then raced sixty metres to score a runaway try against his former club to really rub salt into the wounds. Paul Momirovski delivered a beautiful pass for his outside man Daniel Tupou who scampered over in the corner to give his side a chance with less than ten minutes remaining but it wasn't to be for the Roosters as Souths ran out deserved winners by 28-16.

The Rabbitohs now head into the Grand Final replay against the Panthers in Round 4 full of confidence as Jason Demetriou's side look to make it back-to-back wins. The Roosters now head to Townsville, where they will face the Cowboys on the first of two clashes in Queensland over the next fortnight.

OUR REPORT with ADAM HUXTABLE

BARNETT BRAIN EXPLOSION MARS GUTSY KNIGHTS PERFORMANCE AGAINST CLASSY PANTHERS

The Newcastle Knights have fallen for the first time in 2022, beaten 38-20 by a Penrith outfit which was never going to lose from the moment Mitch Barnett was sent off in the 33rd minute.

The Panthers were the first on the board in the 9th minute, with Luai turning what was an ordinary attacking set into a great one with a chinking run and kick into the in goal on the 5th, which was grounded by Taylan May.

The Knights struck back in the 20th minute however, with Dane Gagai making an immediate impact off a scrum win to get on the outside of Tago and set up Dominic Young for the Knights first.

The two sides were well and truly into an arm wrestle at that stage, however that all flipped when Barnett was sent from the field in the 33rd minute for a late, raised forearm to the head of Chris Smith. The Panthers opted to take the 2 and tie it up at 6-apiece.

The Panthers would use the one-man advantage for the first of many times at the end of the first half, with Taylan May getting his 2nd and Crichton converting to make it 12-6 at the break.

For the first scoring play of the second half, the Panthers would take advantage of the Knights lack of urgency getting to the loose ball off a Luai kick, with Taylan May diving on the ball in the in goal for his second.

Sorenson made a mistake on the set after points, and Tex Hoy showcased his speed to strike back instantly for Newcastle on the ensuing set.

The resurgence was short lived, as a Taylan May grubber in the 57th minute was grounded by Tago for his second try.

The Panthers looked to be running away with it as Clifford's kick-off out on the full was met with a try from Stephen Crichton, who got on the outside of Bradman Best and was too quick.

However, the Knights got a penalty on their next possession and Bradman Best made up for it immediately by crossing himself, and all of a sudden it was only a 12-point game.

Knights fans dared to dream when Enari Tuala crossed in the 72nd minute, but a missed conversion and two late Panthers tries to May and Staines quickly dashed those hopes to give us a final score of 38-20.

OUR REPORT with JUSTIN DAVIES

EELS DOWN STORM IN GOLDEN POINT THRILLER

Led by an unlikely Ray Stone double, Parramatta Eels defeated Melbourne Storm 28-24 in a thrilling contest at Melbourne Rectangular Stadium on Saturday twilight.

It was billed as a heavyweight clash and it lived up to the billing. Parramatta Eels and Melbourne Storm played out a beauty which had brilliant performances from all the star names but it was interchange forward Ray Stone who stole the show. He scored two late tries for the Eels to snatch the win in Melbourne.

Things just aren't meant to be easy between the Storm and Eels. The scores were level four times in the epic contest where a late Papenhuyzen four-pointer sent it to Golden Point. In the extra period, it was a missed Field Goal from Mitch Moses which fell perfect for Stone to step inside a defender and win the game 28-24.

In the sunshine of Melbourne, both these sides looked to promote the football. There were plenty of offloads in the first half and open space for the sides to exploit. Melbourne crossed the stripe twice through wingers Reimis Smith and Nick Meaney but both were chalked off.

Storm would find the first points through another Smith. The returning Brandon Smith. He took an offload, burrowed low and got himself over the line, making it 6-nil.

The Eels were a bit errant to start the contest but found their groove. Points quickly followed. First Dylan Brown cut open the defense before he sent Clint Gutherson across for 6-6 then Waqa Blake turned himself into a cannonball to find the left-hand corner to complete the turnaround. 12-6 Eels.

The hosts sent us to the break level after a late error from the Eels. They ran another set play down the left between Kenny Bromwich and Meaney which this time wasn't taken off the winger. 12-all at the break.

Melbourne retook the lead quickly after the break. Some smart thinking from Cam Munster. The halfback saw the Eels defense hemmed in, kicked for Meaney again, he won the race and touched down to make it 18-12.

Eels don't seem to fear the Storm side like many do. The visitors scored twice through kicks, once through centre Tom Opacic then an inventive effort from interchange forward Ray Stone put them up 24-18 with five to go.

You can't count out a champion side though. Brandon Smith poked through, found Cam Munster, who in turn sent away a flying Ryan Papenhuyzen to make it 24-all.

Both sides tried to punch through a field goal to win it. Papenhuyzen had his effort charged down by Opacic in a huge effort then Mitch Moses' radar was off for his effort. We were off to Golden Point - where Stone's magic was weaved.

Melbourne have a third straight home game at AAMI next Sunday when Canterbury come to town, while the Eels are back home to host the Dragons on Sunday night.

OUR REPORT with AJ LUCANTONIO

CANBERRA COMPLETE AN EPIC COMEBACK TO DOWN TITANS

Canberra came back from 22-0 down after 39 minutes to defeat the Gold Coast Titans 24-22 at GIO Stadium.

The 22 point comeback equals their largest comeback in club history (22-0 against the Tigers at Leichhardt Oval in 2015).

It was the Titans that got off to a perfect start with Phillip Sami crossing just after 10 minutes, after wonderful lead-up work from AJ Brimson who threw a lovely cut-out ball to his winger to cross early to lead 4-0.

Canberra had limited ball in the opening 40 and what they did with the footy can only be described as shameful, dropping quality opportunities to potentially place pressure on the Titans. However, it was a complete contrast for the visitors who converted their opportunities in remarkable fashion. A lovely enterprising play from the Gold Coast on the left edge saw the side combining for an incredible try. Brian Kelly put in a kick which was regathered by Beau Fermor, who got it back to his centre to go over for the Titans' second try of the contest and with Sexton's conversion the visitors led 10-0.

Just after the 30-minute mark Fermor hit a hole at pace and the Titans' left edge struck once more. There looked to be a question mark on the line Tino Fa'asuamaleaui ran, but the Bunker were satisfied with it and the away team collected their third of the first half, Sexton adding the extras from out wide to put his side up by 16-0. Canberra compounded their poor handling in the first 40 with some equally poor defence when big Tino crashed over under the posts to put Gold Coast up 22-0.

Right on halftime, Canberra converted some rare field position into their opening try when Semi Valemei touched down after Canberra kept it alive through Elliott Whitehead and Jordan Rapana, who found the big Fijian and he crashed over the line. Brad Schneider's missed kick saw the home side down 22-4 at the break.

After the break, Canberra looked to come out with a renewed focus as Jack Wighton kicked early in the tackle count and trapped Jayden Campbell in the in-goal and earned his side another set of six. Canberra capitalised when Wighton put in a lovely grubber kick and Matt Timoko got a room service bounce to collect Canberra's first of the second stanza. Brad Schneider put his kick over from out wide and just like that Canberra were within two scores. Wighton and Timoko reunited two minutes later and the young centre bagged a quickfire double and all of a sudden, the visitors were the ones on the back foot.

Toby Sexton's decision making will come under some scrutiny when an ill-timed cut-out ball from inside his own end was intercepted by Sebastian Kris. In the corresponding set, the young winger crashed over and just the Raiders were within 4 points with the goal kicking of Brad Schneider proving the difference.

With just under five minutes to play, Brad Schneider made amends for his kicking woes when his grubber kick was perfectly timed for Charnze Nicoll-Klokstad to score the game-tying try. The rookie halfback nailed his kick at goal and secured a comeback win for the Raiders. To round out the victory, Valemei put on the hit of the season forcing the ball from AJ Brimson to seal the unlikely victory for the Green Machine.

The Titans had the game for the taking in that second 40 but Canberra bullied them out of the contest with strong defence and running of the football. Justin Holbrook would be rightly filthy at his team for squandering that game.

Canberra take on Manly at Mudgee next Saturday, while the Titans return home to take on the Tigers on Thursday.

OUR REPORT with AJ LUCANTONIO NANAI HATTRICK SPARKS A COWBOYS ONSLAUGHT IN THE DERBY

The North Queensland Cowboys have slaughtered the Brisbane Broncos 38-12 in the QLD Derby at Suncorp Stadium with their young core of superstars leading the way.

North Queensland got the scoring underway through a Valentine Holmes penalty goal, after Jake Turpin was pinned for high contact on Tom Gilbert. From there, the onslaught began. Chad Townsend put in a great grubbing kick and Jeremiah Nanai collected his reward after setting up the repeat set following his great efforts and urgency in defence.

The Cowboys thought they were in moments later, but the Broncos' goal-post padding (not for the first time involving the Cowboys) got in the road. From there, Chad Townsend threw an intercept straight to Corey Oates and gave up the attacking opportunity.

Brisbane worked their way into the match and were rewarded with a controversial penalty try to Herbie Farnworth. The bunker ruled Albert Kelly had placed Kurt Capewell (who was in an offside position) back outside and allowed play to proceed. Farnworth was then taken off the ball by Kyle Feldt with the bunker ruling in favour of the Broncos centre. With the conversion, Brisbane was back in the contest.

Jason Taumalolo got his side into the sheds in the best way possible throwing a brilliant ball to young forward Griffin Neame and the youngster ran his line perfectly and with Holmes' conversion, North Queensland went into the sheds with a well deserved 14-6 lead at half-time.

Straight after the break, Adam Reynolds mistimed his kick and sent it out on the full giving the visitors prime field position, and following another Reynolds kick missing its target, North Queensland made them pay with smooth hands from Reece Robson and Tom Dearden finding Valentine Holmes to go over for a well-deserved four-pointer. With a handy sideline conversion from the man himself, the Cowboys extended their advantage to go out by three scores.

The historians were heading for the record books when Jeremiah Nanai plucked a Tom Dearden bomb out of the air and went over his second try to place the Cowboys even further in front. Selwyn Cobbo was having a nightmare being dragged back into the in-goal area on numerous occasions setting the Broncos up for wave after wave of Cowboys onslaught.

The visitors went back to their formula and Tom Dearden looked for his target in Jeremiah Nanai who plucked the footy from Tesi Niu's grasp and the young backrower had his first hat-trick in the NRL. Brisbane was surrendering when Tom Dearden strolled over out of acting half to put the Cowboys up by 38-6.

Brisbane managed a late try when Adam Reynolds' chip took an awful bounce for the Hammer and Herbie Farnworth scored his second try of the contest.

Next week the Broncos take on the Warriors at Redcliffe, while North Queensland return home for a crunch match against competition heavyweights, the Sydney Roosters.

OUR REPORT with ADAM HUXTABLE SCRAPPY SEA EAGLES SCRAPE PAST BULLDOGS

The Manly Warringah Sea Eagles have posted their first win of season 2022, getting over the Bulldogs 13-12 in a dour affair in Brookvale on Sunday Night.

The Sea Eagles' opening possession lasted just 3 tackles before a frantic offload couldn't be handled by Jake Trbojevic, putting the Bulldogs in superb attacking position in the opening minute. They took full advantage, with Brandon Wakeham's grubber being knocked on by Haumole Olakau'atu and then grounded by Wakeham to put the Dogs on the board first. Burton missed a relatively simple conversion, a mistake which would ultimately cost the Bulldogs the game.

The Dogs hot start and Manly's cold start continued, as both Morgan Harper and Tom Trbojevic couldn't take clean possession of a Burton grubber and had to knock the ball dead. On the ensuing set, Matt Dufty showed great vision to put in a first tackle kick for a wide open Braidon Burns, who made no mistake with the finish. Burton again missed the conversion, but in fairness this one was right on the goalline in poor conditions.

Manly were able to respond almost immediately however. They found an overlap to the left all too easily, with Reuben Garrick getting into open space before passing to Tom Trbojevic on the inside, who scored his first try of the 2022 season. Matt Burton's high balls troubled the Manly back 3 all game, with Saab in particular being all at sea whenever they came towering down. It was a Morgan Harper knock on from a Burton bomb that gave the Dogs a result however; Manly have away a penalty in the resultant set which the Dogs gained 2 points from.

Despite their shocking first half, Manly somehow went into the break with the lead, courtesy of a Kieran Foran harbour bridge pass with roughly 30 seconds to go. Reuben Garrick pinned the ears back and easily got to the line, before nailing the sideline conversion to make it 12-10.

Both teams looked aimless to say the least in the second half. The rain got even heavier, and Manly were unable to cross the line despite at one point having at least 5 consecutive sets on the Bulldogs tryline. It was a resounding stand for the Bulldogs, but they themselves were unable to take advantage of their opportunities that came shortly after turning the Sea Eagles away. It was in the 72nd minute that the Bulldogs tied things up with another penalty goal and we looked set for a close finish, which is exactly what happened.

In the 75th minute, DCE had a shot at a field goal, which was charged down by the Bulldogs but then regathered by Dylan Walker. It counted for nought though as Morgan Harper knocked on two tackles later.

The Bulldogs then ran themselves out of room, with Braidon Burns throwing a desperate offload back into the field of play that was caught by the Manly side. DCE wasn't going to be denied on two consecutive field goal attempts, nailing it from 20 odd metres out to give Manly back the lead. Matt Burton tried a shot from about halfway on the Dogs next possession, but it predictably fell way short. A last ditch kick from Josh Addo-Carr was unsuccessful on the siren, giving Manly their first win and meaning both teams involved have started the season 1-2.

Next week, Manly take on the Raiders in Mudgee, while the Bulldogs have it all to do against the Storm in Melbourne.

Defence to take a back seat in make-or-break encounter

The premiership may be less than a month old, but for the Gold Coast Titans and the Wests Tigers, the opening match of Round 4 looms as a fixture verging on must-win proportions.

Squandering multiple leads over the opening rounds, including an embarrassing collapse in Canberra last week, the Gold Coast Titans will be desperate to atone on home soil in order to regain a 50 per cent success rate.

Leading the Raiders 22-0 on the cusp of halftime before imploding to lose 24-22 last Saturday, coach Justin Holbrook has resisted the urge to make large scale changes in an effort to hold players accountable for their performances for the duration of matches.

Handing recent acquisition Jamayne Isaako a club debut with Jayden Campbell sidelined (ribs), Corey Thompson replaces Phillip Sami (covid) on the wing, while former captain Kevin Proctor is set to become the 19th player to reach 100 first grade appearances for the club

Winning six of their past eight matches against the Tigers, including both fixtures contested during Holbrook's tenure at the club, the Titans have a difficult run in the coming weeks against Parramatta, Manly and North Queensland, making Thursday night all the more crucial given the standing of their lowly opponents.

Sitting alone at the bottom of the league ladder as the only side yet to win a game this season, the Wests Tigers will be aiming to quell their critics with a win in Thursday night football for the first time since the onset of the pandemic.

Failing to capitalise on their opportunities during last Friday's 16-12 defeat to the Warriors, coach Michael Maguire has been dealt a further blow with Stefano Utoikamanu sustaining a syndesmosis injury expected to sideline the up-and-coming prop for an extended period.

As part of the reshuffled line up, Zane Musgrove starts up front, while Ken Maumalo (ankle), James Roberts (quad) and Kelma Tuilagi (concussion) return to the starting side after sitting out last week with respective injuries.

Holding a 50 per cent record from ten matches against the Titans at CBUS Super Stadium, a loss on Thursday night would see the Tigers start the year with a 0-4 record for only the second time, whilst facing a difficult run in the weeks ahead against Cronulla, Parramatta and South Sydney.

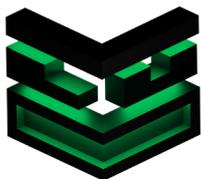

WHO TO WATCH: In a side that has struggled for consistency during the early rounds, second-rower Beau Farmor has been a shining light on the left edge for the Titans. Establishing himself as a starting player to the extent Kiwi veteran Kevin Proctor has been relegated to the bench, the 23-year-old Queenslander has thrived from the show of confidence by his coach with two tries, two try-assists and close to 100 running metres on average. Penning an extended deal to remain on the Gold Coast until the end of 2024, Farmor could emerge as a development player for the Maroons if his form over the past 18 months is indicative of things to come.

Coming up against his former club for the first time on Thursday evening, Tyrone Peachey will have a point to prove as the Tigers look to open their 2022 account. Starting his time at the joint venture off the bench despite being touted as a contemporary ball-playing lock during the pre-season, the 30-year-old former New South Wales utility has yet to produce his best, averaging 54 running metres and 24 tackles in 52 minutes of game time over the opening three rounds. Returning to the Gold Coast needing one more four-pointer to bring up 50 tries in first grade, expect Peachey to play with added purpose in a bid to lift the Tigers off the bottom of the ladder.

FAVOURITE: The favourite: Starting the match as short-priced favourites despite an embarrassing showing in the second half last week, the Titans are expected to bounce back and continue a solid record at home, having won five of their past seven matches dating back to the end of last season.

MY TIP: With neither side showing the defensive resolve required to win matches with minimal points this season, the attacking capabilities shown by Justin Holbrook's men should get the Titans over the line in a high-scoring encounter. Titans by 12.

THE PREVIEW

with Jason Hosken

Sharks host Knights in a battle of the competition's most improved

Cronulla return to PointsBet Stadium on Friday when they host Newcastle in the Shire for the first time since 2018.

Coming off a convincing 36-12 win over the Dragons, Craig Fitzgibbon now has the chance to register his first hat-trick of wins as an NRL coach and with three of their next four games at home, the Sharks are circling top-four permanency.

Backrower Siosifa Talakai's shift to centre in place of the injured Connor Tracey this week is the only downside in what has been a memorable fortnight for the Sharks.

But with two wins of their own from the opening three rounds, the resurgent Knights will be anything but an easy scalp.

Having already clipped the Roosters' wings and tamed the Tigers, last Saturday in Bathurst, Newcastle had the Panthers in their sights until a Mitch Barnett brain explosion eight minutes before halftime.

Despite the one man advantage, Penrith only skipped clear in the closing stages. Adam O'Brien made a point of praising his side's effort and it showed why alongside Cronulla, they're one of the most improved sides in the competition.

If the gaping leak in Sydney's sky can be plugged, then behind two form packs on a fast track, the class of Nicho Hynes and Dane Gagai should shine through.

Neck and neck in the race for buy of the season, Hynes' move to halfback has straightened the Sharks' attack, while Newcastle's defense is much steelier for Gagai's return.

Even with the suspended Barnett serving time in the naughty corner, O'Brien's side will be stronger for the return of Kalyn Ponga as they look to extend their recent dominance over Cronulla to five consecutive victories.

Not that Sharks fans should be deterred, three of those contests took place in Newcastle while the most recent was decided by just two points in Brisbane.

But it's at Shark Park where the locals hold the upper hand having won the last four encounters.

And with the battling Tigers next on the list, a win for the Sharks in what doubles as Aiden Tolman's 300th NRL appearance should quickly become four straight.

While for the Knights, an upset on the road would be the perfect celebration for Tyson Frizell's 200th in the top grade before they return home for a Round 5 clash with Manly.

WHO TO WATCH: Nicho Hynes' transition from Melbourne to Cronulla is textbook seamless. A late bloomer at 25, the one-time Storm fullback is now among the better playmakers in the NRL.

Blessed with powerful hips, the halfback already has 10 tackle busts in the first three rounds, but it's his crisp passing in front of the receiver that sets his team on the front foot.

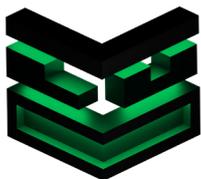

But for opposition coaches, Hynes's footprint is wide reaching. The once stuttering career of Matt Moylan has gone full circle, and his new halves partner is the one to thank.

Sharkies fans have probably seen enough of Kalyn Ponga already. With five tries in his last three hitouts against Cronulla including a hat-trick in 2020, there's no other club the free spirited No.1 has scored more against.

FAVOURITE: Newcastle are flying under the radar in this one. The money mobs have sided with Cronulla as the short priced favourite.

MY TIP: If I'm to be honest, my choices of late have been flakier than Ryan Papenhuyzen's golden tips. So maybe it's time to take the bookies advice. The home ground advantage alone should decide this one. Sharks by 6.

THE PREVIEW

with AJ Lucantonio

Souths look for revenge in Grand Final Rematch

The Penrith Panthers will look to continue their recent strong record against the South Sydney Rabbitohs in the Grand Final rematch at BlueBet Stadium. It'll be the first time since last year's grand final that the two sides go head to head as Penrith look to continue their undefeated start to the new season, while the visitors will look to build off their upset win last weekend.

Penrith come into this clash after a last start 38-20 win over a Newcastle side that was playing with 12 men for 45 minutes. Coach Ivan Cleary was disappointed with his side's intensity once Newcastle was down a man and will be looking for a consistent 80-minute effort against a high-quality Souths side that can strike at any time.

Penrith's strengths are South Sydney's weaknesses. Penrith's left edge of Kikau, Luai, Tago and May are slowly settling in and making their mark as one of the dominant edges in rugby league. Souths were vulnerable at times in their edge defence this season and with the skills that Jarome Luai has to offer, it could be a long night for the South's defence.

The defending premiers get a timely boost for this clash with halfback, captain and prodigal son Nathan Cleary returning to the line-up after missing the opening rounds of the season with Sean O'Sullivan making way. Elsewhere, Scott Sorenson covers for Chris Smith who is in concussion protocols after his nasty collision with Mitch Barnett with Lindsay Smith joining the bench. Liam Martin and James Fisher-Harris are both named in the reserves and could be late inclusions.

South Sydney marched their way back in form with a convincing 28-16 over their archrivals the Sydney Roosters. Souths finally displayed the form that had many pundits tipping a top 8 finish. Cameron Murray was once again the pick of the bunch with impressive leadership and ball-playing skills setting the red and green up on multiple attacking opportunities. Also impressing was Keaton Koloamatangi who'll be up against Viliame Kikau who had some disappointing defensive reads this season, this match-up could be vital for South Sydney if they want to win this one.

Last year, Souths only beat Penrith once in an epic semi-final at Townsville. They won that game off the back of going after Nathan Cleary and his kicking game forcing many rushed kicks and poor fifth tackle options. This allowed the forwards to lay the foundation and roll over the top of Penrith's pack for one of the rare occasions in the last two seasons. Look for Damien Cook to run out of dummy half and exploit Penrith's middle which looked vulnerable at times last week against a 12 men Newcastle side. Latrell Mitchell needs to get his hands on the footy in this one to show South Sydney supporters how much he was missed in last year's decider. Souths have no changes and are as per program from last week's win over the tricolours, the only possible change will be the inclusion of Blake Taafe on the bench returning from an ankle injury in an otherwise unchanged lineup.

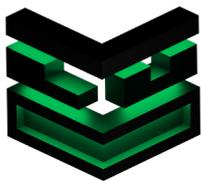

WHO TO WATCH: Guess who's back, back again. Nathan's back tell your friends. Nathan Cleary is back and rearing to go for the home side in this one. Their captain and prodigal son's shoulder has passed all tests and is ready to give the South Sydney back 3 a front-row seat to his aerial air show. In the four contests against South Sydney last season, his spiralling bombs gave the Souths back 3 nightmares. If he strikes it sweetly, it'll take a special catch and balls of steel to come down with it. His control and composure will give Penrith a massive edge moving forward as they have allowed teams to come back into the contest far too easily in recent weeks.

It was the game-defining play from last year's grand final, Cody Walker's intercept to Stephen Crichton to seal the game for the mountain men. It's safe to say Cody Walker is yet to find his feet so far in 2022. Last week however was a step in the right direction for the NSW Origin representative. Walker was probing and running the football at the line eventually crossing the stripe with an important try. With fellow half, Lachlan Illas taking the right steps in his development, look for Walker to take the line on and gash Penrith's (at times) leaky middle third.

FAVOURITE: As the last undefeated team left in the 2022 Telstra Premiership, Penrith go into the grand final rematch raging hot favourites.

MY TIP: It's hard not to go past Penrith in this one. It should be a sold-out crowd at the foot of the mountains for this clash, expect the big guns that Penrith has coming back into the side to only strengthen the squad moving forward. Souths will be in this match for the opening hour, but Penrith has too much class and will fatigue Souths with a strong tactical kicking game from the returning prodigal son and force Latrell Mitchell to run the football more than he has so far this season. Penrith by 8.

THE PREVIEW

with Tim Costello

Reverting to type or just a snag in the line?

Brisbane made headlines over the opening fortnight of the NRL competition this season with impressive defensive displays, overcoming newly-minted rivals South Sydney in a low-scoring, gritty affair before an equally determined win over a rejuvenated Canterbury side.

Fast forward one week and all that seemed to come undone, with Brisbane giving up six tries and a whole lot of bragging rights after a 38-12 flogging at the hands of intrastate rivals North Queensland last Sunday. We'll go a long way this Saturday to finding out whether that showing on in Round 3 is what we can expect from Kevin Walters' charges for the rest of 2022, or whether it was just a lapse in concentration that they'll quickly correct.

Frustratingly the task has been made harder, with the likely omission of back rower Kurt Capewell. Listed in the reserves this week, the former Panther has a calf complaint and may miss Saturday's match at Redcliffe. There is good news to temper the bad - Tom Flegler is finally back from his suspension and will slot straight into the interchange bench to bolster the Broncos' go-forward.

The Warriors meanwhile, went the opposite direction. After a forgettable opening two rounds, the nomadic squad finally jagged their first victory of 2022 in a low-quality tussle with the Wests Tigers at Campbelltown last Friday. It was by no means their finest hour but two points is two points, and a good confidence boost as they navigate what is hoped to be the last couple of months 'on the road' ahead of a proposed July return to their Auckland home ground.

There's not a whole heap of team news for the Warriors - their first 16 names are all as listed last week, with only Bayley Sironen out of the squad. Jack Murchie replaces him on the bench, while prodigal son Shaun Johnson - missing injured since Round 1 - is named in the reserves in the hopes he could make an early return from a pec injury.

Put it all together and you have one of the most unpredictable games in one of the already most unpredictable years of NRL.

WHO TO WATCH: It's not often that players outside the 17 feature in this section of a match preview, but that's how it is this week. Both Johnson for the Warriors and Capewell for Brisbane are key figures in their respective lineups. For the sake of good footy - let's hope they both recover from their injuries in time to take to Redcliffe's lush green surface on Saturday.

On the field - look at those front row pairings! Matt Lodge against his former club will be an interesting one on its own. Ryan James starts up front for the first time for Brisbane after coming off the bench in the opening weeks, and Payne Haas - well he's just neat. Throw in Tongan rep Addin Fonusa-Blake and his impact and it's an incredible battle up front in this contest.

FAVOURITE: With two wins under their belt and minimal travel to get themselves to Moreton Daily Stadium, Brisbane are favoured here despite a lacklustre Round 3 showing.

MY TIP: It hinges on Johnson's return for mine. If he's back in the side I see them having enough direction in attack to overcome Brisbane, who were supremely disappointing last week. Warriors by 6.

THE PREVIEW

with Lachlan McIntyre

Mudgee hosts clash between Manly and Canberra

The Sea Eagles and the Raiders will both be trying to build on big wins when they meet this Saturday evening.

The clash will take place at Glen Willow Oval in Mudgee, the ground that recently hosted the pre-season charity shield clash. The NRL have taken the fixture to Mudgee every year since 2018, and it has also hosted 4 regular season matches. This weekend will be just the second time that Manly have taken a home game to Mudgee after they thrashed the Gold Coast there last year.

The Canberra Raiders will be hoping to find some consistency after a far from stable start to the season. An early win against Cronulla followed by a dreadful loss to the Cowboys set them up for an important clash against the Gold Coast, only to find themselves down 22-0 early on. To their credit, a second half rally handed them the two points and tied with the club record for the greatest comeback by the Raiders in their history.

Their uncertain start to the season hasn't been helped by Covid worries, when fill-in halfback Brad Schneider tested positive prior to their second round clash. But it was Schneider who played a key role in the Raiders comeback, along with halves partner Jack Wighton and hooker Tom Starling. Coach Ricky Stuart will be hoping that Covid plays no further part in the Raiders season after an outbreak hampered their pre-season training in December.

Despite speculation that co-captain and centre Jarrod Croker would return this weekend for the Raiders, he was not named in the team lists released on Tuesday afternoon, and will play reserve grade for the second week in a row. Nick Cotric will return on the wing following a sideline stint with a quad injury.

The Manly Sea Eagles will want to build off of their first win of the season last time out against Canterbury. In wet Brookvale conditions, Daly Cherry-Evans slotted the field goal to get Manly on the board in the 2022 season. It was coach Des Hasler's 250th win as head coach in the NRL.

However neither that game or their season start was terribly convincing, with disappointing losses to the Storm and Roosters to start their campaign. Star fullback Tom Trbojevic was kept quiet in the opening rounds, however he crossed for his first try of the season on Sunday. That is hopefully an omen that Manly can find the blistering form that they had at the back end of 2021.

Turbo's level of involvement in the game could be what decides it. A crucial part of Canberra's game plan will be to shut him down, and if they can't do that successfully, Manly may find themselves pouring the points on. Similarly, Manly can't let Tom Starling dominate the ruck, and can't give the likes of Jack Wighton time with the ball.

Josh Aloiai will return from suspension for Manly, but has not been named in the 17.

It will be Canberra's second trip out to Mudgee after suffering a 7 point loss to the Dragons there in 2018.

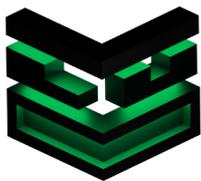

WHO TO WATCH: Tom Starling is beginning to make a name for himself. The Canberra number 9 has earned his spot at the Raiders, working well with Josh Hodgson and Siliva Havili over the past 2 years. Now that Havili is at Souths, and the injured Hodgson is reportedly heading to Parramatta from 2023 (to replace Reed Mahoney), Starling will be eyeing off a long term contract at the nation's capital. Last week a late switch around saw him coming off the bench and Matt Frawley given the starting hooker role. Starling will be hoping to prove his worth in order to cement his spot as the starting number 9, not just for this campaign, but many future ones also.

21 year old Manly winger Jason Saab is yet to score a try this season after scoring an incredible 26 of them last year. After his first full season of NRL last year (27 games!), he was rewarded by being the joint recipient of the club's Ken Arthurson Rising Star Award, along with young back rower Josh Schuster (out with an ankle injury). If Tom Trbojevic finds some form, expect Jason Saab to score at least a few.

FAVOURITE: Despite having less wins on the board, Manly are the favourites to beat Canberra this Saturday.

MY TIP: Manly haven't quite found their potential yet, but this week I can see them hitting their straps. Manly by 8.

THE PREVIEW

with Justin Davies

Looking to arrest their slow start to the season, Sydney Roosters head to Townsville to take on a ebullient North Queensland Cowboys, fresh from a derby win.

Being one from three to start the season isn't what the Sydney Roosters envisioned especially a crushing loss to their fiercest rivals. Now they face the Cowboys with their tails up while the tri colours are having a crisis of confidence.

Trent Robinson will lean on the experience his side has to get themselves out of the slump because they have enough talented players to dig up, stupid. Between James Tedesco, Luke Keary and Jared Wearea Hargreaves can lift the rest of the side to get even on the season.

Roosters will also be a good test for the surprise packet Cowboys headed into the weekend. The tri-colours are one of the heavyweight sides of the NRL and can turn it on in an instant. If the Roosters can get the result in Townsville, it might kickstart their campaign.

For the Cowboys, they are walking on the sun currently. Beating your local rivals will do that for you but the Cowboys also have a huge win against the Raiders which has them surprisingly sat in second spot on the ladder.

North Queensland need to make use of this four-game stand in Queensland to open the season before they must start traveling down to the big smoke. The Townsville two that are Tom Dearden and Chad Townsend have been solid to start the season, but they need to step it against the Roosters duo.

Like always the spotlight will also fall on their star forward Jason Taumalolo. He has been criticized for his role in the Cowboys line-up and his pay packet. He will be primed for another big game against one of the heavyweight sides of the competition.

WHO TO WATCH: Coming off his hat-trick last week, young forward Jeremiah Nanai has taken the headlines and will have the spotlight on him against this big Roosters pack. If he can match it with the likes of Jared Wearea-Hargreaves and Sitili Tupouniua it will be a big tick.

No surprise that Jason Taumalolo is probably the other Cowboy to watch. The star forward has been the subject of much speculation and criticism for his role in the line-up. He ran for over 100 metres in their Broncos win and should be primed for a big game.

It has been a rough start for the Roosters. They will look towards their big names to get them back on track this weekend. One of those is Victor Radley after his poor performance against the Rabbitohs, plus he is the barometer for their pack and gets them moving forward.

Also they need their attack to click. So both Sam Walker and Luke Keary have to take the side by the scruff of the neck and get them piling on some points. If they can perform more like the Sea Eagles game than the Knights game, they should take the two points.

FAVOURITE: Despite their poor form to start the season, the Roosters will always be favoured until they aren't really. If that makes any sense.

MY TIP: The Tricolours to bounce back here. Roosters by 14.

THE PREVIEW

with Andrew Jackson

While it is still far too early to judge the success of the rebuild at Belmore, this weekend's game with Melbourne will be telling in revealing just how far off Trent Barrett's men are.

The Bulldogs have struggled against the Storm in recent history, losing their past six matches against Craig Bellamy's side.

And typically, Melbourne has ran away dominant victors in the process, winning three and four of the past five games by 18 points or more.

This is a very different Bulldogs side though, one boasting the second-best defensive record in the league.

Sure, Barrett's side have had a soft opening to the 2022 season, playing the Cowboys, Broncos and Sea Eagles in the opening three weeks.

But North Queensland just did a number on Brisbane, proving that you can only play what is in front of you and at the moment, while the attack is a work in the progress, the effort is there for the Bulldogs.

And that alone could be enough to keep them right in Sunday's clash with the Storm. Melbourne suffered its first defeat of the year in dramatic fashion last week, falling 28-24 to Parramatta.

The Storm are bolstered by two key returns this week, with Harry Grant back at hooker and Xavier Coates also fit to play on the wing.

While Melbourne is yet to show any signs it could be regressing this year, none of its three performances to open the season were dominant by any means.

A first-up win over the Tigers was impressive given Melbourne's long list of unavailable players, although the following weeks errors and ill-discipline almost proved costly against South Sydney.

That was the case against Parramatta in a high-quality contest and will be a point of improvement for Bellamy's side, who head into round four conceding on average the most penalties in the league.

WHO TO WATCH: For the Storm, look for Harry Grant to cause havoc through the middle of the park. Grant made an immediate impact playing off the bench in Melbourne's last meeting with the Bulldogs, setting up a try and running for almost 70 metres in just 53 minutes. Now he is starting, with Brandon Smith coming off the bench and giving the opposition defence no chance to drop off its intensity.

Grant has made just the one appearance this year (against Souths), so match fitness may be a concern returning from a bout with Covid-19 and could see his minutes reduced. But Grant's one game against the Rabbitohs showed just how big an impact he can make, setting up a try, running for over 140 metres and making 40 tackles in a dominant showing. The Bulldogs' big men will have to be on high alert for the scheming Grant.

Meanwhile, Sunday's game sees Josh Addo-Carr continue the hunt for his first try in Bulldogs colours and he will do it against his former teammates. Addo-Carr made a name for himself at Melbourne, playing 118 games for the Storm and scoring 96 tries during that period. He is yet to score for the Bulldogs though and has not crossed over the try line since Round 24, which is the second-longest try-scoring drought in his career - the longest being six games according to the Fox Sports Lab.

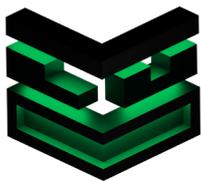

Addo-Carr knows the ins and outs of the Melbourne system and it will be interesting to see if that gives the Bulldogs an advantage on Sunday.

FAVOURITE: The Storm are well-backed to finish comfortable winners.

MY TIP: Look for Josh Addo-Carr to break his try-scoring drought and for the Bulldogs to show how far they have already come in a respectable showing.

But in the end, the Storm will have too many weapons in attack with Grant and halfback Jahrome Hughes to put on a show. Melbourne by 16.

THE PREVIEW

with Adam Huxtable

Eels look to continue hot start against Dragons at home

Fresh off their third consecutive win against the Melbourne Storm, the Eels confidence will be sky high as they head into their Round 4 matchup against the St George Illawarra Dragons.

As for their opponent, things were looking up for them, a strong Round One showing saw them past the Warriors, while they would've fancied their chances against the Panthers in what turned out to only be a 4-point loss if some of their key players didn't go down at crucial stages.

As has become custom with the Dragons over the last few years, as soon as any sort of hope was instilled in their fans, they let them down with a shoddy performance like the one they gave against the Sharks last Thursday. The Dragons never really fired a shot in their 36-12 defeat and will need to fix up their defence if they are any shot at upsetting this red-hot Eels team this week.

The Eels themselves also have a history of letting their fans down right after getting their hopes up, and theirs is a lot longer and more storied than that of the Dragons. Ironically, it was this very fixture last year which saw the Eels falter for the first time. After starting the season with 4 straight wins, including one against the Storm, the Eels were blown off the park 26-12 by the Dragons, who on that day featured a spine of Dufty, Norman, Clune and McCullough, a completely different set of players to the ones who will run out this Sunday.

The Eels will remember that game and remind themselves not to be complacent, in what is shaping up as an extremely close competition every game is vital, and at the end of the season one like this could be the difference between making and missing the top 4.

In team news, Ray Stone is out for the Eels after suffering an ACL tear during his heroic game winning try last week, while Wiremu Grieg is also not in the 17. They are both replaced on the bench by Bryce Cartwright and Ryan Matterson, the latter returning from a hamstring injury suffered in Round 1.

For the Dragons, Cody Ramsey has been dropped due to form, replaced on the wing by Matthew Feagai, while Jack Gosiewski comes in to start on the back row in place of the suspended Jaydn Su'A. Aaron Woods is included on the bench in jersey number 17.

WHO TO WATCH: Prior to the season, much was said about Dylan Brown and how he needed to improve from last season if the Eels wanted to have a chance at claiming their first premiership since 1986. 3 Rounds into the season and the Blue and Gold faithful couldn't have asked for much more. Last week against Melbourne he was the best player on the paddock as he destroyed the Storm with his running game, going for 126 metres off 11 runs and breaking 6 tackles in the process. He also had two try assists, making his total for the year so far 4. To put that into context, in the 21 games he played last year, he only notched up two try assists, meaning he's doubled that figure in just 3 games this season. The Eels will be hoping this form can keep up for the remainder of this season and beyond.

For the Dragons, Ben Hunt continues to be their standout player each and every week. Without him, the side would be completely lost, and that proved to be the case again last week, despite the scoreline. Hunt assisted both of the Dragons' tries, while also doing the bulk of the kicking duties, notching up 519 kick metres to his five-eighth Amone's 66. As good as Hunt is, this type of attacking model is just not sustainable in the long term, and while having the calming influence of McCullough out injured doesn't help things, the Dragons simply have to find a way to become more than a one-man band this week if they're to have any chance of repeating last years upset win.

FAVOURITE: The Eels are favoured by 9.5 points in this one

MY TIP: I really don't give the Dragons much chance at all here. Stranger things have happened, but I don't see this game being added to that list. Eels by 14.
