Another tumultuous week in footy. There's been plenty happening on and off the field - some 29 match review charges after 17 players were sin-binned in Round 11... then there's of course the sad passing of Rugby League Immortal - the great Bob Fulton. Our thoughts are with his family, his friends and indeed everyone at Manly-Warringah.

As we enter this week's games we have another COVID scare popping up in Melbourne which could alter the course of matches in the coming weeks - the Storm are already based in Queensland for now and will remain so beyond Thursday night's clash with Brisbane.

Importantly - it is NRL Indigenous Round this week. We acknowledge all First Peoples of this land and celebrate their enduring connections to Country, knowledge and stories. We pay our respects to Elders and Ancestors who watch over us and guide Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community. We also acknowledge the Indigenous people of New Zealand, and the combined contribution of all First Nations people in both countries to the game of rugby league.

LEVEL PLAYING FIELD

NO EGOS THE KEY TO PANTHERS' REMARKABLE RUN

It seems quite remarkable the only match Penrith have lost in their last 29 starts was the one that mattered most.

But the Panthers haven't missed a beat in the opening 11 rounds of the 2021 Telstra Premiership suggesting there has been no grand final hangover.

Second-rower Viliame Kikau said the reason for their carefree style of play was due to the environment created by the players.

There are no egos.

"If you're the highest paid player or the lowest paid player, everyone treats each other the same," Kikau said.

"We have mutual respect for everyone and that's the kind of culture we're trying to build in this club and it shows in how we play.

"Everyone respects each other and everyone wants to work for each other."

Ruthless is often an adjective used to describe the Panthers performances on game day, but that is the result of everyone buying in to what they want to achieve.

“One of the main things that the coaching staff brought up was being ruthless not just when game day comes, but being ruthless in our preparation as well in how we train and how we present ourselves around here,” Kikau said.

“Come game day it’s second nature to us so we go out there and do it.”

The Panthers toughest challenge appears likely to come in the form of the Origin period in the next few months after they were largely unaffected in 2020.

But Kikau is confident their ‘next man up’ policy will reap the rewards.

“It’s going to show how resilient this club is because we’ve always had that next man up mentality,” he said.

“We lost some of our big players in the first few games, but the boys who took their place came in and gelled straight away.

One player who could feature in the Origin discussion is centre Matt Burton who has been a revelation so far this season.

Kikau has no doubt he has what it takes should Brad Fittler need him to do a job for the Blues.

“Burto is a natural footballer,” he said.

“He’s the type of player that comes into a team and does the job so it’s a matter of time for him to get that mention of playing rep games.”

Match Preview

with Emile El-Azar

The Melbourne Storm travel up to Brisbane (where our esteemed ARLC chair would prefer the Storm to be based, because - shortsighted), to play the Brisbane Broncos, in a Thursday Night mis-match at Suncorp Stadium.

I didn't think I would be saying this, but the Broncos come into this one on the back of a massive win over the Sydney Roosters. Honestly. A 34-16 carve up. Amazing.

The Storm continue on their merry way, with a clinical 2nd half against Canberra, turning a 12-10 halftime deficit into a 34-10 smashing. They just own this league. I've said it before, but sorry Penrith - you're not even in their postcode (and I write this as the Panthers prepare to put 500 points on my hapless Bulldogs this weekend, but my comment stands).

In team news, the Broncos "welcome" back Anthony Milford, who returns into the side at five-eighth, in a forced change to replace the suspended Tyson Gamble. Albert Kelly moves to halfback.

Herbie Farnworth comes back in, at the expense of Dale Copley in the centres, and Rhys Kennedy moves into the starting lineup to replace Matt Lodge, who is also suspended. Teui Robati has been named on the bench, and will make his debut.

For the Storm, does it even matter who plays? They are coached by Craig Bellamy. He could randomly select 18 people from the Suncorp crowd an hour before kickoff, teach each of them their roles and give specific instructions, and they would still win this game, and every other game after it.

In all seriousness, this team shows the value of quality coaching. Doesn't matter who's out, the replacements know their role, and slot into the side like they've been playing in the team for years.

OK OK the actual changes then... Jahrome Hughes returns at half, with Chris Lewis again to partner him. Nicho Hynes will get the chance to bump up his asking price for the next 3-4 weeks, remaining at fullback with Ryan Papenhuyzen out. Cooper Johns moves to the extended bench upon Hughes' return.

The Storm are going for their tenth straight win over the Broncos, with their most recent coming in Round 4 this year, a 40-6 dismantling at AAMI Park.

Who to watch: For the Broncos, it's more a perverse interest in seeing how Anthony Milford goes.

He will either turn it on, in an attempt to attract another team into signing him up, or put in the usual underwhelming performance that has seen him out of the side in recent times.

For the Storm, it's to watch how many points that lethal backline will be able to put on.

In a combination of talent, and the current rules in place, get your try-scorer multi's together, and stack it with Storm's 1-7 (gamble responsibly!).

Favourite: At the time of writing, the Storm are $1.12 favourites, and that tells you everything you need to know.

My tip: See above comments about 18 randoms from the crowd and Craig Bellamy. Storm to win, and comfortably. Melbourne by 30.

with Jason Hosken

Top-eight berth beckons for the winner in the lands of the Wulgurukaba people.

In a season that continues to toss up surprises, the Cowboys and Warriors are set to face off for the second time this month.

Back in round 8 it was the Warriors who jumped 20 points clear before holding off a fast finishing North Queensland to win 24-20 in a Gosford heart stopper.

Speedy young gun Reece Walsh started in the halves that day, and alongside Kodi Nikorima the pair gave the Cowboys a first half lesson. Since then, the Warriors' attack has continued to prosper with Nathan Brown weaving Dally M Medal winner Roger Tuivasa-Sheck into the mix from the wing while starting Walsh at fullback.

In a blow for the Cowboys pack, prized lock Jason Taumalolo and forward Lachlan Burr have accepted one match suspensions, while Francis Molo has been ruled out. Coen Hess returns and with Jordan McLean and the improving Shane Wright and Tom Gilbert will be expected to do the bulk of the Cowboys' heavy lifting.

Upfront, the Warriors have no such problems where the only changes see Bunty Afoa and Ben Murdoch Massila drop back to the bench with Kane Evans and Jack Murchie named to start.

In what promises to be a high scoring Indigenous Round affair, if the Cowboys can land on the front foot, then the likes of the in-form Scott Drinkwater and the returning Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow are every chance of matching the threat posed by their New Zealand counterparts.

As frustrating as it must be for both coaches, the propensity for both these sides to concede and accumulate points in large clumps makes this compulsive viewing.

Last week, Todd Payten's side effortlessly put 16 unanswered points on the Knights. They then found themselves trailing after the break, but a timely second coming eventually eased them home.

So too the Warriors, their victory over the Tigers broke a two game losing streak but in conceding 26 points it was anything but a cruisy evening for Brown in the Warriors coaching box.

Who to watch: Despite crossing for only three tries this year, with 95 in 143 appearances, Kyle Feldt has one of the best strike rates in the NRL. Still to earn a Maroons jumper, the classy winger put on a show against the Knights in smashing his way through 10 tackles to make four line breaks. A season best 236 metres was the result, and is sure to have Queensland coach Paul Green screaming for more.

Reece Walsh hasn't had any trouble attracting favourable press across his first five outings. Last week the Tigers were clueless to his sparkling feet and mesmerizing passes. Just as valuable as the three try assists and one try was his last ditch try saving tackle to ice the match. Whether he's down back or in the halves, the 18-year-old is sure to catch the eye.

Favourite: The Warriors have had the wood on the Cowboys winning four of the past five and enter this week's clash as the narrow favourite.

My tip: In a fast and furious contest, this one points to an absolute try-fest where sin bins could ultimately decide the result. North Queensland's record of three wins from the past five against the Warriors in Townsville gives them a slight edge, and they should have enough to make it five straight wins on home turf this season. North Queensland by 4.

with Josh Robertson

Meeting on the land of the Burramattagal people, Friday night football will see the Wests Tigers playing host to the St George Illawarra Dragons at Bankwest Stadium.

The Wests Tigers come into the contest sitting down in 14th position after a disappointing season to date with just three wins to date from their first 11 matches. The Tigers last weekend were just seconds away from snatching victory against the New Zealand Warriors as they fell to a 30-26 defeat in Gosford.

The Tigers were able to start fast last weekend against the Warriors but had to quickly play catch-up football when the Warriors began to grow their momentum and take an 18-10 lead out to the half time break. The Tigers had a twenty-minute period where they were able to play with an extra man but their play struggled to add points as they were only able to add two penalty goals which would be of added concern to the fans and coaching staff who are already asking plenty of questions about the attack. A 78th minute try to James Tamou gave the Tigers a chance to win the game but the last play ended up with the touch judge and the Warriors held onto the victory.

The Tigers welcome back James Roberts into their side on the wing after suffering a pectoral injury with Tommy Talau moving into the centres. Joey Leilua is dropped from the 21-man squad as result. The other change for the Tigers is that Jake Simpkin drops to the reserves with Tom Amone added to the 17.

Having only won 1 of their past 6 matches, the St George Illawarra Dragons are looking to put their season back on track although defeat for the Dragons could see them slip outside of the NRL top 8 altogether. The Dragons last weekend were extremely undermanned through injury and suspension as they fell to a 13-12 Golden Point defeat to the Cronulla Sharks.

The Red 'V' were up against as their side was already depleted through injury and suspension but further injuries during their game made their task much tougher in a game that wasn't the highest standard through the 80 minutes. The Dragons were matching it with the Sharks for the full 80 minutes but they needed a 75th minute penalty goal to level the scores after Teig Wilton was penalised for a crusher tackle. The Red 'V' were able to get into field goal position prior to the end of the 80 minutes but a wayward shot from Corey Norman saw the game go into golden point. The Dragons weren't able to get a shot away in golden point but the Sharks were able to and sealed the victory.

The Dragons have lost Josh Kerr through suspension and Max Feagai through injury with former Warrior Gerard Beale making his return to the NRL whilst Brayden Williams is also named on the wing. Paul Vaughan moves to prop whilst Tariq Sims comes into the second row.

Who to watch: Playing a key part of the Tigers attack, Luke Brooks comes under immense pressure and yet again how he performs is key to whether the Tigers can manage to earn victory. Brooks has been poor this season and many people are questioning whether he is NRL standard anymore and a bad game against the Dragons could seal his fate.

Corey Norman will be a key player for the Dragons after performing well in recent games despite the Dragons losing streak. Norman's attack has potential to upset the Tigers defence and if they aren't awake then Norman could be very dangerous. The Red 'V' will need Norman at his best if they want to get past the Tigers.

Favourite: The Tigers have been installed as favourites for the contest.

My tip: This is a game that could go in any direction with how these two teams play Rugby League and we could be the better for it or absolutely worse for it. The Tigers were good against the Warriors last weekend and if they can put an 80-minute performance together they can win this game easily. The Dragons could also win the contest if they go to their best football but they have been out of form and they were pretty average against a bad Sharks side. Tigers should have enough to take victory. Wests Tigers by 6.

with Rob Crosby

Upset of the millennium? Unlikely.

Under more merciful circumstances Saturday's match-up between the unbeaten Penrith Panthers and the last-placed Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs would be called off.

Looking to become the first team since South Sydney in 1925 to open a season with 12 consecutive wins, the Penrith Panthers have stood above all else so far this season with a brand of football equally exhilarating in attack and defence.

Shaming the Rabbitohs into the category of premiership pretenders with a blistering 56-12 assault in Dubbo last Sunday, coach Ivan Cleary will be expecting no mercy from his players as they look to continue a strong 75 per cent record against the Bulldogs over their past eight meetings.

Ranked first in defence, post-contact metres, tackle breaks and second in attack and line breaks, the Panthers also hold the distinction of the fewest missed tackles over the first 11 rounds.

Resisting the temptation to rest a host of stars in the lead up to the opening Origin encounter, front-rower Moses Leota returns from a shoulder complaint, allowing Liam Martin to shift into his preferred second-row position after Kurt Capewell accepted a one-match ban for a crusher tackle.

Managing one win over the opening 11 rounds to rank as the worst side to wear the blue and white in the professional era, the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs will need divine intervention to stand a chance of pulling off an upset as $21.00 outsiders.

Showing courage only to falter at the death during last week's 30-20 loss to the Titans, coach Trent Barrett will be hoping his side can defy recent history on the lands of the Darug People following two wins from their past eight visits.

Holding the ignominy of the worst attack, defence, line breaks and tackle breaks, the few stats the Bulldogs thrive in - completion rates and errors - reveal an irrefutable truth that Trent Barrett - the man praised for invigorating Penrith's attack last year - has yet to deliver on expectations in his second coming as a head coach.

Welcoming back inspiration skipper Josh Jackson and impulsive front-rower Jack Hetherington from injury and suspension respectively, Jackson Topine will start at hooker, while Joe Stimson comes onto the bench in place of Corey Waddell.

Who to watch: Enjoying a breakout year on the left wing after making his name on the opposite side of the field, Brian To'o will be looking to make a final push on Saturday afternoon in his bid to earn a State of Origin debut. Leading the league in tackle breaks, running metres and post-contact metres, the 22-year-old pocket rocket may not have the height of other wingers, but what he lacks in size he more than compensates for with power and work rate. Contracted to the Panthers until the end of 2023, expect the Samoan international to be unrelenting in his bid to add a different shade of blue to his jersey collection.

In a team that has struggled to be competitive for a number of seasons, Nick Meaney has become a mainstay of the Bulldogs' backline. Willing with the ball in hand and capable of playing several positions, the 23-year-old has reached an intriguing juncture as a first-grader where a move away from Belmore may be in the best interests of advancing his career. Out of contract at the end of the year, look for Meaney to continue offering a rare attacking spark in the hopes of earning a deal at a club where losing hasn't become the norm.

Favourite: There's short-priced favourites and then there's this - for perhaps the first time in NRL history the Panthers are paying $1.01 to come away with two premiership points on Saturday afternoon.

My tip: Every single Canterbury player could play beyond their potential and it wouldn't matter - the Panthers have so much confidence at the moment that they have made a mockery of the very concept of a two-horse race. Penrith by 36.

Heavyweights look to get back in the winner's circle

South Sydney will play the Parramatta Eels on Saturday night and both teams are coming off the back of losses.

Souths, following their second drubbing in three weeks, conceded another shocking amount of points, with Penrith piling 56 on them in Dubbo.

The Eels were on the wrong end of an ugly score line themselves, going down 28-6 to the high-flying Sea Eagles. Both sides will be looking to prove that they are genuine title contenders despite a few hiccups, so this one should be a big one.

In team news, Wayne Bennett has dropped Josh Mansour again with Taane Milne coming in on the wing. Jai Arrow starts at prop and in a huge in, lock Cameron Murray has been named to start. Tom Burgess goes back to the bench and Liam Knight is out. Jacob Host also comes in to start at second row in place of Jaydn Su'a.

The only change for Parramatta sees Reagan Campbell-Gillard out. Oregon Kaufusi has been promoted from the bench, with Marata Niukore back on the bench for Brad Arthur's side.

Parramatta players will take confidence from the faith their coach has shown despite last weekend's big loss.

Who to watch: Latrell Mitchell failed to fire in his return from suspension last weekend. He will be looking to rediscover early season form that saw him leading the Dally-M count.

If he can produce anything similar, Parramatta could have some defensive headaches coming their way that will be difficult to contain.

Without Campbell-Gillard in the side this week, look for NSW Origin hopeful Junior Paulo to step up in his absence.

Paulo will have to take on an extra workload and as a representative forward, he needs to help carry the team on his back. If he can get the better of the South Sydney forwards, he will help his side come out over the top.

Favourite: Following the Souths thrashing last weekend, the Eels are favourites to win this one.

My tip: The Eels are shaping up as favourites, but when faced with challenging opponents so far this year, they have struggled to come away with the win. Souths will be desperate to beat a top 4 team after being badly beaten by the top 2 already this year.

Further, on paper, it looks like South Sydney have the better team and I'll back them to come out over the top. South Sydney by 8.

with Andrew Jackson

Just 17 of the 34 who ran out in last year's semi-final between the Roosters and Raiders are set to take part in Saturday's rematch in Gosford, on the lands of the Darkinjung people.

However, while the Roosters are still thereabouts in premierships contention the same cannot be said for Canberra. Instead, pressure continues to build after a heavy defeat to an undermanned Storm line-up last week.

Sure, the Raiders themselves were missing Josh Papalii, Jack Wighton and Josh Hodgson but there was no reason why they could not have at least kept it competitive.

Ricky Stuart's post-game press conference perfectly illustrated the current situation at the nation's capital.

Raiders fans would have tuned in for answers but were only left with more questions after an ice-cold Stuart barely offered any form of explanation for the team's poor form.

Save for a 20-18 win over the lowly Bulldogs, Canberra have been on a dire losing skid recently and look more likely to miss the top eight at this point with the Titans, Sea Eagles and Warriors on the rise.

They do welcome back Wighton and Hodgson in a boost while Sam Williams replaces homesick halfback George Williams, who was released effective immediately.

The Roosters already presented enough of a challenge for Canberra but they loom as an even bigger threat coming off a shock loss. The Tricolours were out-enthused by the Broncos last week and will look to bounce back quickly before the Origin period or risk losing touch with the top four.

Sam Walker was targeted in defence last week and failed to have his usual impact in attack but there is no real reason for concern there.

He is still perfecting his craft and adjusting to the weekly grind – you would also expect he may get even more protection this Saturday from his forwards.

In team changes Josh Morris returns while Victor Radley and Angus Crichton are suspended.

Who to watch: Canberra were torn apart in defence by Melbourne last week and if the Roosters win the battle up front this week it will relieve pressure to allow Sam Walker to bounce back. Walker's decision-making under pressure was exposed last Saturday as he threw too many cut-out passes that simply were not in. It is all a learning experience for the youngster but coach Robinson won't want him dropping his head. Instead, it will all be about continuing to back himself. Once again the key will be for Walker to make the right choices, particularly given the Raiders wingers like to rush out at times and that could cut off his long looping passes.

The Roosters have plenty of punch in the second row [although the loss of Crichton hurts there] and that is an area the Raiders have struggled this season. Only last year Canberra's edge forwards were both aggressive when they needed to be and subtle with their ball-playing close to the line. Without Josh Bateman though some of that intensity has faded and it is in desperate need of a return. As co-captain, Elliott Whitehead looms as the man to lead from the front in that respect. Whitehead is highly skilful but also at times needs to solely focus on running hard and direct before thinking offload or pass. His effort is there but with better decision-making he shapes as a genuine game-breaker for Canberra.

Favourite: The Roosters are well backed to win this one.

My tip: The Raiders desperately need a breakout win but it won't come here. Roosters too professional to drop two-straight. Sydney Roosters by 18.

Inconsistent sides look to continue winning ways at Coffs Harbour

The Sharks and Titans each started the season showing a lot of promise, although their recent performances have been marred by lacklustre defence that sees the Sharks sitting in 13th and the Titans only in the top 8 on for and against, with teams like the Warriors and Cowboys hot on their heels.

Last week, each enjoyed wins but in rather unconvincing displays. The Sharks only just snuck home against a Dragons side missing a host of regular starters, while the Titans conceded 20 points against the Bulldogs, the most any team has let in against the likely wooden-spooners.

While the Titans have struggled to score points against on occasion against quality opposition this year, their attack against teams who aren't as defensively well drilled remains extremely innovative and entertaining to watch. Their average winning score is 36, and they have scored 30 and 28 points in losses to the Rabbitohs and Broncos respectively.

It leaves little doubt to the fact that their problems lie largely on the other side of the ball.

The Sharks, on the other hand, had questionable defence going into 2021 and while initially showing promise, they have fallen significantly since about Round 5 or 6, conceding an average of 40 points against top 4 teams and being the only team to lose to the Bulldogs.

That being said, they are coming off a rare win last week against the Dragons and have a huge opportunity to make it two in a row with their strongest halves partnering of Moylan and Johnson being named, with Josh Hannay finally making the right decision and dropping Chad Townsend.

Who to watch: Shaun Johnson was among the best halves in the comp before injuring himself in the penultimate round of 2020. He led the league in try assists over the regular season and Cronulla have struggled without him since, going out in week 1 of the finals and not gaining any cogency in attack so far this year, bar one game against the Cowboys.

He has only played 3 games this year and is yet to chalk up a win, however this weekend will mark his 200th appearance in first grade, and if he can return to his good form the Titans will find it hard to stop the Sharks.

For the Titans, Moeaki Fotuika has gone under the radar for most of his career despite making his origin debut last year. He has been a little quiet so far in 2021, however last week against the Bulldogs he showed what he can add to this Titans side when he is given more minutes.

He made 15 runs for a whopping 188 metres (including 57 post contact), while mustering 10 tackle breaks, a line break and a try assist, all while making 39 tackles at 90% efficiency. He is up against a relatively strong Sharks forward pack featuring Rudolf, Talakai and Fifita, and with another strong performance should solidify his Queensland origin credentials.

Favourite: The Titans are favoured by 2 and a half points against the Sharks on Sunday

My tip: If Chad Townsend had been named, I'd have the Titans winning in a landslide, however the inclusion of Moylan and Johnson will result in a high scoring game that the Sharks will come out on top in. Cronulla by 6.

with Justin Davies

The soaring Manly-Warringah Sea Eagles head up the highway to face the downbeat Newcastle Knights on Sunday afternoon football.

Something is rotten in the city of Newcastle. A side which is chock full of representative players and talented youngsters have limped to back-to-back defeats which has them falling further away from the top eight and another season of failure.

Yes, there has been injuries to key players but there is no will to fight in this side. Coach Adam O'Brien has admitted the side isn't the same as the one which made the finals last season and whether complacency has settled in. If they get another score put on this weekend it might be time for O'Brien to wield the axe on his side although it won't be helped by the sudden retirement of Blake Green.

One positive for the novocastrians is the return of Kalyn Ponga. The superstar fullback might need to do something similar to what his opposite number is doing for the visitors to get them a result. Ponga showed against the Sharks and Raiders he can do it and it might be what is needed for them to proclaim "they love Sunday afternoon footy" again.

Talking about the Sea Eagles should be much like scripture texts into BT (before Tom) and AT (after Tom) because since his return from the hamstring injury, Manly Sea Eagles have averaged 34 points in their five wins with Tom Trbojevic.

Coach Des Hasler was on the hot seat BT but now everything is coming up roses for the Manly coach and it is helped that the backline is humming with Jason Saab living up to his name with some impressive wheels in some run away tries and even Brad Parker has chipped in with some solid efforts which is in contrast to the lackluster effort from the home side.

Last week was the 'test' for the Sea Eagles after their huge wins, they blew away a title contender in the Parramatta Eels and showed they might be the real deal* (pending on Tom's fitness). The Sea Eagles sit comfortably in sixth and if this form keeps up despite their horror start to 2021 might end the year inside the top four.

The only thing Manly might need to guard against this weekend is a cooldown after their huge win against the Eels but Hasler is an experienced coach. He should have them ready and willing to put another hurt on a side which they have had some memorable clashes against in the past.

Who to watch: The big names return for Newcastle. Kalyn Ponga and Bradman Best rejoin a Knights backline which is in desperate need of some fire. Ponga can change a game from his fullback position and help the makeshift halves create things against the Knights. Best showed in the win against the Warriors his game-breaking abilities and matching up against flying Sea Eagles backline will be a good audition for him before the Origin sides are announced on Sunday night.

Since his return from injury Tom Trbojevic has been box office to watch and against another porous defense, it might be a bigger mismatch since the race on the Corso. Trbojevic basically is the playmaker for the Sea Eagles and will be primed for another huge performance to move themselves closer to the top four.

When the Sea Eagles had their wretched start to the 2021 season, one of their bright spots was prop forward Taniela Paseka who bends the line with each run. He faces off against a much more tenured Knights pack and if he can stand up and use his offload will get them on the front foot and twirling towards victory.

Favourite: Manly will head into the contest deserved favourites after their demolition job against Parramatta Eels and fancy their chances against the lowly Newcastle Knights side.

My tip: It's hard to go past an in-form Eagles outfit. Manly by 24.

OUR REPORT with ROB CROSBY

North Queensland defy the odds to down Newcastle

The North Queensland Cowboys have overcome two players being sent to the sin bin to defeat the Newcastle Knights 36-20 at Queensland Country Bank Stadium.

In a match unlikely to be remembered by defensive purists, the Cowboys defied playing with 11 men midway through the first half to post their fourth consecutive win at home.

Posting the first 16 points before trailing early in the second half, the Cowboys piled on four second half tries to condemn the Knights to their seventh loss of the season.

Identifying a weakness in the Knights' inexperienced right edge pairing of Simi Sasagi and Starford To'a, North Queensland winger Murray Taulagi (7th minute) showed great speed and footwork to touch down for the opening try of the night.

Adding a second four-pointer in the following set, an offload from Shane Wright close to the line allowed Reece Robson (11th minute) to stroll over untouched.

Avoiding a scare after To'a was denied a four-pointer for an obstruction, the home side wasted little time in heaping further pain on the visitors with Taulagi (17th minute) bagging his second of the night.

Seemingly destined for another tough night at the office, the Knights sparked into action midway through the first half courtesy of a try to interchange forward Sauaso Sue (23rd minute) just moments after coming onto the field.

Taking advantage of Jason Taumalolo being sent to the sin bin for making contact with Tyson Frizell's head, former Cowboy Enari Tuala (28th minute) came back to haunt his former club after running a beautiful line created by Phoenix Crossland.

Playing with a two-man advantage after Lachlan Burr joined Taumalolo in the sin bin for a high tackle on Jayden Brailey, the Knights completed a remarkable fightback with Lachlan Fitzgibbon (31st minute) locking the scores up at 16-all at the change of ends.

Hitting the front after Sasagi - making his NRL debut - produced a flick pass reminiscent of Matthew Gidley to put To'a (46th minute) over in the corner, the Knights slowly lost touch with the contest over the course of the second half.

The Cowboys continued to target the Knights' edge defence as Taulagi (52nd minute) claimed his first career hat-trick before Valentine Holmes (60th minute) put the home side back in front.

Unable to show the composure needed to stay in the contest, a mix up in-goal between Kurt Mann and Brayden Musgrove allowed Mitch Dunn (69th minute) to secure the victory.

Cairns junior Heilum Luki (76th minute) marked his NRL debut with a late try to push the final score out to 36-20.

Next week, the Cowboys host the Warriors on Friday evening, while the Knights return home on Sunday afternoon to take on the Sea Eagles.

OUR REPORT with ANDREW JACKSON

Freakish Walsh stars as Warriors pip Tigers in thriller

Reece Walsh has lit up Central Coast Stadium with a scintillating individual performance that stunned the Tigers in a 30-26 thriller.

Nathan Brown told media earlier in the week he was happy to look a 'dumbo' if it meant doing what was best by teen sensation Reece Walsh.

His time will come, Brown said.

Well, his time has well and truly come after the fearless rookie played a starring role with one try, three try assists and four linebreak assists in a 30-26 win over the Wests Tigers.

He had thrown so many cutout passes and yet every time Walsh did it, he made the expected unexpected.

Walsh though was taught an early lesson when he failed to take a Joseph Leilua kick dead with Luke Garner pouncing.

Garner would go on to score the Tigers' second of the night too and impressed for the away side while Luke Brooks' kicking game was on song.

It was all about Walsh though who put Marcelo Montoya over for the Warriors' first.

Roger Tuivasa-Sheck - the man who selflessly moved to the wing to make room for Walsh - then burst through and popped a late pass to put Jack Murchie through for their second.

The next two tries were all Walsh - the first a looping ball for Tuivasa-Sheck only minutes after a similar attempt almost led to a Tigers intercept.

Then Kodi Nikorima gave him early ball and the fullback burned the Tigers to dive over in the corner.

Going back to Brooks' kicking game though - he made another statement in the second half as Montoya fumbled his grubber with David Nofaloaluma scoring in his 150th game.

The Warriors' ill-discipline proved costly with both Ben Murdoch-Masila and Eliesa Katoa binned in the second half.

The Tigers though only added two penalty goals before the home side responded with two tries while down a man.

The first saw Nikorima kick through for Egan who showed great determination to get to the ball first.

Then Walsh again turned magician to pop a beautiful pass through for Montoya.

The Tigers threatened to cause a late boilover when James Tamou reached over to score but they left it too late, ruing the conservative calls to opt for penalty goals against the undermanned opposition.

Next week the Tigers host the Dragons while the Warriors travel to play the Cowboys

OUR REPORT with SAM BOURKE

Sharks snap losing streak in Golden Point thriller over Dragons

Cronulla has snapped a six-game losing streak to defeat St George-Illawarra by 13-12 in a Golden Point thriller at Netstrata Jubilee Stadium tonight.

Sharks halfback Chad Townsend was the hero, kicking a field goal following a see-sawing battle in the local derby, where the Sharks were extremely fortunate to get the win after St George failed to go away despite Cronulla dominating large periods of the match. Cronulla however gave the Red V not one but two unlikely opportunities to snatch a remarkable victory, however five-eighth Corey Norman failed to convert either of his field goal attempts. Sharks fullback Will Kennedy was the difference for the Sharks, scoring a try and setting up another in a superb performance from the fullback which gave his side a long overdue win following the dramatic sacking of their former coach John Morris earlier in the season. The Dragons were resilient and considering the amount of talent on the sideline, they couldn't be too disappointed with the effort, it was just their execution at crucial times that let the side down when it mattered.

Cronulla dominated early proceedings, camping themselves on the Dragons line early, when winger Connor Tracey crashed over for the first try of the match following some neat work from Chad Townsend and Will Kennedy off a set play. Townsend converted and the Sharks jumped out to an early lead. Dragons prop Paul Vaughan was then sent to the Sin Bin following a high shot on Sharks centre Will Chambers. Cronulla however made multiple handling errors during this period and failed to capitalise on the Dragons being down to 12 men. Both sides were sloppy in the first half, but the Dragons looked likely to hit back when fullback Cody Ramsey beat multiple defenders to break the line. Sharks winger Mawane Hiroti then came across in cover defence and collected Ramsey high and was sent to the Sin Bin. Norman then kicked the penalty goal to get his side on the scoreboard and narrow the Sharks lead to 6-2 at halftime.

The Dragons got on the board first in the Second Half however, when Hunt and Norman combined in midfield to send rookie winger Max Feagai over to score in the corner. Norman missed the conversion from out wide and it was 6 all at halftime in the local derby. The high tackles continued after the break, when Sharks centre Josh Dugan was marched to the Sin Bin following a very lazy swinging arm that collected Dragons centre Billy Burns across the nose. The Dragons took advantage of the extra man almost immediately, when Ben Hunt kicked high for his winger Max Feagai on the last and the rookie winger leapt high over the Sharks defence to score his second try. Norman again missed from out wide and it was 10-6 with 20 minutes remaining.

With the game poised, it was Matt Moylan and Will Kennedy who combined, to first force a repeat set and then secondly put the Sharks in front when Kennedy slid over in the corner of a neat Moylan pass to tie up the scores. Townsend then converted from out wide to give his side a 12-10 lead. The game again turned when Sharks backrower Teig Wilton was penalised for a crusher tackle on Dragons prop Paul Vaughan with six minutes remaining and Jack Bird converted the penalty to tie things up at 12 all and it looked likely to go down to the wire. The Sharks then looked set to ice the game with minutes remaining before Chad Townsend saw his field goal attempt charged down and regathered by Dragons hooker Andrew McCullough. The Dragons then made their way upfield, however Corey Norman's shot to win the game went wide.

Cronulla then got ultimate stage fright when winger Mawane Hiroti knocked on off the first tackle deep inside their own half. This gave the Dragons another chance to seal an unlikely victory, however again Norman sprayed his shot wide and the game then went to Golden Point. Sharks winger Hiroti then turned villain to hero when he made a 50 metre dash upfield. Redemption was then sealed for the Sharks winger, when Chad Townsend then nailed the match winning field goal to seal a dramatic Golden Point win.

OUR REPORT with JUSTIN DAVIES

Titans scrape past bullish Bulldogs

Gold Coast Titans picked up their fifth win of the season in a 30-20 success against Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs this afternoon at Robina.

It wasn't a vintage performance but after being flogged last week, Gold Coast Titans survived a late Bulldogs raid to get themselves back in the winner's circle with recently re-signed AJ Brimson the headliner with a double.

Livewire fullback AJ Brimson re-signed at the Titans for five years during the week and he showed his worth tonight. Brimson opened the scoring off a wonderful Brian Kelly grubber then bookended the win supporting Moeaki Fotuauka to make it 30-20.

Looking at the scoreline, it seems a standard win for the home side. Gold Coast Titans were forced to dig deep when Beau Farmor was sent to the sin-bin. Bulldogs pulled themselves back within four points through Luke Thompson but the Titans held on in another chaotic game.

When Tino Fa'asuamaleaui steamed over for the Titans second for 12-nil, it looked another long day for the visitors. They only scored once more in the first half through Phillip Sami after a sublime Kelly flick pass, taking an eight point lead into the break.

Bulldogs were their own worst enemy again at times today but there were some positive signs. Chris Smith got them on the board off some quick hands then just before half-time marquee signing Nick Cotric powered over to give the cellar dwellers hope.

Sin bins loomed large in the second half, Dylan Napa clipped Jarrod Wallace high and was marched in the 45th minute. From the resulting set, Wallace twisted over to extend the Titans lead to 24-10 but the home side were unable to make any further inroads with the advantage.

Canterbury did similar when Farmor was binned for another innocuous shot on a Bulldog. Nick Meaney was left in acres of space on the left wing and strolled across for 24-14 then Thompson gave them some late drama when he reduced the deficit to four. It was another loss for the Bulldogs who remain rock bottom.

The Titans added some late gloss through Brimson but it was an average performance from a side with higher ambitions in 2021. Gold Coast sit in eighth position and travel to Coffs Harbour next week to face the Cronulla while the Bulldogs have the unenviable task of facing Penrith.

Broncos upset Roosters in fiery clash

Brisbane Broncos produced the upset of the season, defeating the Sydney Roosters 34-16 in a spiteful encounter tonight at the Sydney Cricket Ground.

While the game will be remembered for sin bins and reports, the Broncos came with a plan and got their third win of the year. It was headlined by a David Mead hat-trick alongside tries to Dale Copley, John Asiata and Keenan Palasia in the memorable win.

It will be a night to forget for Victor Radley. The fire brand lock was binned twice and put on report four times which will see him spent some time on the sidelines alongside Joseph Manu who was also reported twice. For Brisbane, Matt Lodge and Tyson Gamble were given early showers in the fiery clash.

On a night full of emotion, the Roosters got caught up in that early. Victor Radley was sin-binned for a hit to the head while Broncos enforcer Tavita Pangai Junior was involved in some heated exchanges with the Roosters pack.

Broncos showed some superb skill and got themselves out to a 10-nil lead. Pangai Junior flicked one to a returning Dale Copley then veteran winger David Mead finished off a slick backline play as the upset was on the cards.

Roosters found their way and settled into the contest and piled on the points. The left side worked like a well-oiled machine firstly for Angus Crichton then Daniel Tupou to make it 10-all. It was over to the right for Sitili Tupouniua to stride across after some James Tedesco magic.

These two traded blows all half and the Broncos landed one final blow before the break. Sam Walker has dazzled with his harbour bridge passes but got one wrong which allowed Mead to streak away, making it 16-14 at the break.

Radley spent more time in the bin after another hit to the head which the officials came back to. Broncos profited immediately with John Asiata pounced on a grubber to make it 22-14. Broncos kept the foot on the throat with Keenan Palasia charging onto a short ball to take them past 30 points.

OUR REPORT with JOSH ROBERTSON

Storm turn on the style in Canberra

A patchwork Melbourne Storm side has turned on the style in the nations capital in their 34-10 victory over the Canberra Raiders at GIO Stadium.

The match could not have started any better for the Raiders as they were able to score in the opening minute when a Sam Williams miskick bounced back perfectly for the Raiders. The bounce found the hands of the Raiders and George Williams saw space on the outside and put in the kick that found Bailey Simonsson who scored.

Despite having a lack of territory, the Raiders were able to extend their lead just under 15 minutes later when Sam Williams ran to the line before putting boot to ball in behind the defensive line which sat perfectly for Elliott Whitehead to chase through and score. The conversion from George Williams pushed the Raiders to a 10-0 lead.

On the half-hour mark, the Storm were denied a try for an obstruction but it didn't matter much as they were able to cross just four minutes later when Nelson Asofa-Solomona was unstoppable from close range to score his first of the night. The visitors added a second try on the stroke of half-time when Chris Lewis was on the spot to pick up the ball which was knocked out of Brandon Smith's hands.

The second half was a one-way affair with the Storm just dominating throughout the second 40 minutes. The Storm were score eight minutes into the second half when Nelson Asofa-Solomona was able to score his second try of the night when the Bunker ruled that NAS held onto possession before grounding it.

The Storm added another try almost instantly when the Storm got into attacking position and the Raiders defence didn't have enough to match the Storm as Reimis Smith scored. The Storm were the beneficiary of a second bunker overturn, when Tom Eisenhuth crossed just after the hour mark. Referee Gerard Sutton on-field sent the call to the bunker on no try ruling Eisenhuth offside and despite it looking live like he was offside, replays showed he was onside and the try was awarded.

Despite getting possession, the Raiders couldn't do anything with it and inside the final five minutes, Storm rookie Trent Loiero scored his first NRL try after the Storm were able to keep the ball alive and Loiero was able to get over to score his maiden NRL try. Nicho Hynes' only miss of the night meant that the Storm would take a 34-10 victory.

Next weekend, the Raiders have a tough task as they head to Gosford to take on the Sydney Roosters whilst the Storm head back to Brisbane as they take on the Broncos on Thursday night.

OUR REPORT with LACHY McCORQUODALE Panthers dominate Rabbitohs in Dubbo

Penrith were unstoppable in the opening term on a beautiful day in Dubbo. Five tries were scored in the opening 30 minutes by the league leaders and they kept finding ways to break through the Rabbitohs defence.

Three of the five tries were score against the Rabbitohs right edge defence as Viliame Kikau, Matt Burton and Brian To'o proved to be a handful for South Sydney's defence. Nathan Cleary got his side off to the perfect start as he managed to find his way over as he out wrestled Latrell Mitchell on the goal line in the third minute.

The Panthers continued their excellent start as Viliame Kikau and Kurt Capewell scored in the 12th and 14th minutes respectively. The hometown hero, Matt Burton, was the next to get in on the action scoring the first of his three tries in the 25th minute after he burst past Mansour on the left edge to score in the corner.

Just minutes later, Burton was to score his second try of the afternoon in a poor display of defence and effort from the Rabbitohs as Burton was allowed to catch a Nathan Cleary bomb and ground the football without being challenged in the air.

This took the Panthers score to 28 points in just 31 minutes of football. The Rabbitohs were next to score as Josh Mansour found his way over in the corner after Brian To'o failed to hold his wing, giving the Rabbitohs a glimpse of hope as they brought the deficit back to 22 points. Nathan Cleary would add two points to the lead on the half-time break after the Rabbitohs gave away a penalty on half-time.

It took a little longer than during the first half for the Panthers to start piling the points on, but when they did, they made it hurt the Rabbitohs.

Nathan Cleary scored the first points of the second half during the 49th minute with a penalty goal and over the course of the next 24 minutes the Panthers would add four converted tries to the total as they compiled 56 points for the match. Burton was the first try scorer of the half and in the process scored his first career hat trick in his hometown. Nathan Cleary would score his second in the 57th minute as he once again barged his way over from 10 metres out.

In the 70th and 73rd minute Brian To'o and Stephen Crichton got in on the action as they score their first four pointers for the afternoon. The Rabbitohs had another quiet half scoring just the one try with Cody Walker crossing in the 61st minutes with a brilliant piece of individual skill as he stepped on his inside to score near the posts.

This result was a massive wake up call for the Rabbitohs who had been labelled as premierships contenders and have now been beaten comfortably by both Penrith and Melbourne in three matches so far this year. South Sydney will have to bounce back as they face the third placed Parramatta Eels who are also coming off a loss and the league leaders Penrith will face the last placed Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs.

OUR REPORT with ADAM HUXTABLE Manly pay tribute to Fulton by running riot over Parramatta

The Manly-Warringah Sea Eagles have announced themselves as a top team in the NRL, easily disposing of the Parramatta Eels by 22 points at Bankwest Stadium.

The game was marked by the saddening news that Manly legend Bob Fulton had passed away, with the two teams and those in attendance observing a minutes silence in memory of the great man.

Manly would show great spirit throughout the day, encapsulated in the first 10 minutes when they turned away a determined Parramatta attack. They would then streak up the field off a set restart before swinging it left and exposing the Parramatta right side defence, namely Waqa Blake, for the first of many times. Brad Parker was the tryscorer.

The Eels would give their fans some false hope at the 15 minute mark when they hit straight back through Clint Gutherson, who took advantage of an innovative offload from cult hero Isaiah Papali'i to streak over and level the scores.

The Eels had an opportunity to hit the front, but made too many relieving mistakes and allowed Manly to get a roll on. Karl Lawton made an immediate impact in his first game as a Sea Eagle, muscling his way over close to the line to make it 12-6 after the conversion.

The rest of the half was an arm wrestle, with Manly doing well to defend with 12 men after Lawton was sent to the bin for a high shot.

Then, right on half time, Manly scored through some expansive play early in the tackle count, with Garrick putting in a kick that bounced favourably for Brad Parker, who after executing an outstanding pickup had his second try of the day.

Early in the second half, both teams claimed tries, with Ferguson making a try saver on Garrick before Mahoney was denied due to being offside.

Garrick wouldn't be denied a second time, finishing off a sweeping play that included a peach of a pass from Schuster.

The Eels were never really a chance after that, getting frustrated in attack on multiple occasions and allowing themselves to be dominated by the opposing forward pack.

Manly scored another try right on full time to make the final scoreline 28-6.

Next week, the Eels face another tough assignment against Souths, while Manly will travel to Newy to take on the Knights.
