Some great news through in the 24 hours before we published this week's edition of The Front Row - the Australian and New Zealand governments agreed to a travel bubble which should see the Warriors able to play home games at Mt Smart Stadium in Auckland from June! Fingers crossed everything works out.

This week - Paul Jobber sits down with Kurt Capewell while Andrew Ferguson recounts the history of the Glebe club. Some great reads - check them out. Happy reading!

Just in: this morning we heard the sad news that one of rugby league's great characters - former Wests and Newtown legend Tommy Raudonikis has passed away after a long battle with cancer. We'll have more on this champion of the game in next week's edition of The Front Row - but for now we would like to extend our sympathies to all who knew him well. Vale Tommy.

FEAR FACTOR

CAPEWELL SAYS RUTHLESS PANTHERS CAN STILL IMPROVE THEIR DEFENCE

PENRITH are focused on creating a defensive line to be feared.

That's enough to send shivers down the spine of most of the Telstra Premiership as the Panthers prepare to face the Raiders on Friday night.

"If you can have good defence it can slow things up for you and it's going well at the moment."

Quietly-spoken fullback Stephen Crichton will have an important role to play in organising the defensive line on Friday night.

Ivan Cleary's men have only leaked 16 points in four games – but they're certainly not content with averaging a measly four points per game.

They know defence wins premierships and second-rower Kurt Capewell admitted during the week that opponents would soon think twice about taking them on.

That's if they weren't already taking notice of the Panthers' lofty perch on top of the ladder.

"Having blokes like 'Fish' (James Fisher-Harris) coming out of the line at you, they hit with a bit of force," he said.

"We just want to be really reliable and consistent in our defence and I think what we're doing so far is working well so we'll continue with that."

The Queensland State of Origin representative couldn't attribute their steely resolve without the football to anything specific in the pre-season.

"The more you do it the better you're going to get and with the rule changes, everything is a lot faster," he said.

Despite the absence of Dylan Edwards, Capewell was confident his replacement was up to the job after an impressive performance last week.

"It's a pretty big role in a footy team these days (because) fullbacks organise a lot of the defence and then they've got to be on in attack," the second-rower said.

"I think he handled the pressure really well last week."

While the Panthers respected the fifth-placed Raiders they were not overly focused on what Ricky Stuart's men would bring to BlueBet Stadium.

"They've got some really good players and have some good runners of the ball so our defence will have to be on," Capewell said.

"We prepare ourselves to play the best we can every week no matter who the opposition is.

"Part of being ruthless is that it doesn't matter who you play, you've got to play to your standards and we'll prepare to do that this weekend."

THE BIRTH OF GLEBE

WITH THE 'DIRTY REDS' BACK IN MODERN NSWRL AND STANDING ALONE THIS YEAR, RUGBY LEAGUE HISTORIAN ANDREW FERGUSON LOOKS BACK AT HOW THE CLUB WAS BORN...

WORDS: ANDREW FERGUSON

On January 9, 1908, a meeting at the Glebe Town Hall containing the Metropolitan Rugby Union's best side, Glebe, their officials and board members, politician Henry Hoyle and businessman James Giltinan lead to the iconic club deciding to switch codes and join the breakaway Rugby League for the upcoming season.

The club's decision to switch codes was the catalyst for Balmain, South Sydney, Eastern Suburbs, Newtown, North Sydney and Western Suburbs to also abandon the MRU and join the Rugby League. It was just as integral to Rugby League's birth as the procurement of star player Dally Messenger.

The story behind Glebe's decision is very closely and heavily linked to the rise of professional Rugby in Australia.

In 1899, Glebe board member Lewis Abrams was made President of the MRU for its debut season in 1900. Abrams was an Alderman for the Glebe Council from 1893 til 1898. He was also Secretary of the Glebe Cricket Club from 1892-1900, President of the Glebe Bicycle Club and Secretary of the Glebe Free Trade & Liberal Association.

Abrams was largely responsible for the introduction of what was called 'electoral cricket', which was essentially the residential rule which would later be used in Rugby Union and Rugby League for many decades. Abrams was also a key man involved in the creation of the MRU in 1900.

In 1900, the MRU announced that clubs from Sydney University, Eastern Suburbs, North Sydney, Glebe, Newtown, Western Suburbs, South Sydney and Balmain would field teams in all three grades of competition. Glebe was one of the first teams entered into the competition as it was seen as "a stronghold of sport."

Glebe's side in the new MRU saw them change their jersey colours from Blue, Black and Yellow, to their iconic maroon (or Dirty Red as they would later be referred to). Abrams accepted the role of Glebe Club Secretary. The club patron was Sydney Mayor, Sir Matthew Harris, who was a very valuable man to have on board as he was also President of the Wentworth Park trust, a ground which had never had a game of football played on it, but would become Glebe's home ground for the 1900 season. Harris was also Vice President of the Royal Agricultural Society, whose ground was a marquee venue at the time.

Glebe's dominance over the competition combined with an area full of talented and gifted athletes was proven when in the MRU's debut season, Glebe won all three grades.

On July 23, 1904, Australia played Great Britain in a test at Brisbane's Exhibition Ground. Glebe's talented forward Alex Burdon, playing in his third consecutive test for the Wallabies, scored the opening try that gave the Wallabies a 3-0 lead. During the second half, he suffered a very heavy knock to his shoulder which forced him from the field. In typical Burdon style, he returned to the field 17 minutes later. Great Britain went on to win the game 17-3.

For Burdon though, it was the start of an extended lay off from playing and from work. He would return for the following season. His injury, like in sport today, was just an unfortunate risk every player took when they ran out onto the field.

However, Rugby Union was strictly amateur which meant players were not paid to play. Nor were they financially supported if their Rugby Union injury prevented them from working.

On July 14, 1906, Glebe hosted Auckland City at the Sydney Cricket Ground. In a hard-fought match, Glebe trailed 11-8 with 10 minutes remaining when Glebe's George Riddell and Auckland's George Little collided heavily when they both attempted to kick a loose ball. The collision saw both players suffer an horrific broken leg each. The sight of the injuries was so severe that the referee and players agreed to call the game off early and the injured players were sent to St.Vincents Hospital. Coincidentally, the same two players collided with each other in a game just 12 months prior which resulted in both of them suffering broken collarbones.

The Glebe club decided to hold a benefit concert to raise funds for both players. Glebe officials asked the NSWRU to support their campaign; however the request was declined because the Union would not support any activity that gave players money for their involvement in Rugby Union. Glebe went ahead with the fundraising and managed to raise £45 for each player (approximately 3 months wages).

Former Glebe Rugby Union board member Joe McGraw publicly criticised the NSWRU for their not helping Burdon in 1904 or Riddell in 1906. The NSWRU shortly after agreed to provide extra financial assistance to Riddell and Little.

In 1907, the MRU abolished its insurance cover for players, leaving the matter up to the clubs to deal with. On May 4, Sydney played South Sydney at the Sydney Cricket Ground. It was towards the end of this game when Burdon infamously broke his arm. With no insurance to cover him while he was injured and unable to work, Burdon's feeling of anger towards the Rugby Union for twice failing to help him reached its peak. Burdon began attending meetings at Test Cricketer Victor Trumper's sports store. The meetings were frequently attended by James Giltinan, Trumper, Henry Hoyle and a number of players who were regular attendees including Trumper's friend Peter Moir (Glebe), Arthur Hennessy (South Sydney), Bob Graves (Balmain) and Jim Moir (Glebe).

Two weeks after Burdon's injury, Peter Moir received a telegram from George Smith in New Zealand, who was asking if a team of players in Sydney could be assembled to play against a professional Rugby team from New Zealand that would be visiting Australia en-route to England, where they would be partaking in a tour against the professional Northern Union clubs.

Moir took the telegram to Trumper's shop where a brief meeting was held and the request by Smith was accepted.

Professional Rugby started to become a reality and a great attraction for many disgruntled players. Glebe RU board members who were delegates on the MRU committee, supported the Rugby League movement and made it clear that they felt a player revolt towards professionalism was the fault of the Rugby Union for treating players with such contempt and insincerity.

On August 17, 1907, New Zealand played against New South Wales in a game under Rugby Union rules, but where all players were paid in what was considered the first game of Professional Rugby in Australia. A huge crowd of 20,000 turned out for the match, which was won by the visitors 12-8. Two more games were played in the following 6 days, with New Zealand winning both. Glebe fullback Charlie Hedley and forward Peter Moir represented NSW in all three games.

The MRU held a meeting shortly after the series finished. Lewis Abrams proposed that the Rugby Union should give its players the same entitlements that Rugby League planned to, as it would ensure that the players would not leave for the new code. The committee ruled his comments out of order and he was forced to deny that his intentions were to turn Rugby Union professional. The committee then ruled that all players who participated in the games against the New Zealand professionals would be disqualified.

And so on January 9, 1908, Glebe agreed to become a Rugby League club. Many of their board members supported this decision, including the most important of them all, Sir Matthew Harris.

Harris' switch of allegiance saw the Rugby League gain exclusive use of both Wentworth Park and the Royal Agricultural Showground.

At Glebe's landmark meeting, Tom McCabe was made a member of the management committee and future Prime Minister Billy Hughes was appointed as club patron. Alderman Percy Lucas was elected as the clubs first President.

On April 11, Glebe played their first game as a Rugby League Club, losing a trial against Western Suburbs 10-9.

On Easter Monday, April 20 at 3.15pm, Glebe kicked off their first official game against Newcastle in front of 3,000 fans at Wentworth Park. Glebe won the match 8-5 despite playing quite poorly.

Opposites Collide in Thursday Night Footy

Two sides with opposite expectations this season come together in a clash on Thursday night at Stadium Australia. South Sydney will face the Brisbane Broncos, as Souths look to continue their climb up the table, with Brisbane looking to avoid sliding further down the ladder and into the dangerous territory of the bottom four.

Souths are coming off a big 38-0 win last round against the Bulldogs in their traditional Good Friday clash. Most pleasing to coach Wayne Bennett would undoubtedly be that his side was able to keep their opponents scoreless. They will need to again focus on the defensive side of their game and not get too far ahead of themselves, after coach Bennett admitted they may have bought into their own off-season press following their round one loss to Melbourne. If they are unable to contain themselves, a desperate Brisbane side could prove to be a danger game for Souths.

Brisbane were almost completely the opposite to South Sydney last week, going down 40-6 to Melbourne. Their defence will have to be a lot better this week against another side who can also attack very strongly. Brisbane will need to avoid allowing Souths to get on a big attacking role, or else the score line could turn out ugly for the men from Red Hill.

In team news, the only changes to the Rabbitohs side comes through a suspension to five-eighth Cody Walker. Benji Marshall has been promoted to the starting side in his place and Dean Hawkins comes onto the bench in what will be his NRL debut.

Herbie Farnworth is out this week for Brisbane after being one of their few early season highlights. Richie Kennar comes into the side at centre to replace him. Patrick Carrigan is also out this week. Tevita Pangai-Junior has been promoted to the starting side at lock in his place. John Asiata will return this week from the bench in a boost for Brisbane as well. Coach Kevin Walters has opted to stick with the starting halves pairing of Anthony Milford and Tom Dearden this week, with Brodie Croft coming off the bench.

Who to watch: Adam Reynolds will be very important for the Rabbitohs this week in taking their attacking opportunities, especially with regular halves partner Cody Walker out due to suspension. Reynolds will also be looking to prove to the club why they should consider signing him on a longer-term deal, so look for a big game from the former State of Origin halfback.

We didn't get to see much of Brisbane recruit John Asiata in round one after he was taken from the field with an injury. There should be a better chance to see what the former Cowboy can do this week, albeit off the bench. His creativity in the middle of the field could be what worries the Souths defence if anything at all. Look for Asiata to add a bit of spark to the Broncos when he comes onto the field.

Favourite: Souths are the definite favourites to take out this game.

My tip: It's hard to see the Broncos improving too much out of sight from last week. They've also lost one of their better players so far this season in Herbie Farnworth and they have also lost Pat Carrigan who does a lot of work to help tie up the Brisbane defence in the middle of the field. Despite the loss of Cody Walker, they have a fantastic back up in Benji Marshall, so it shouldn't affect Souths too much. It will be very difficult for Brisbane to halt the South Sydney attack once they get into a groove in this game, so the Rabbitohs should win. South Sydney by 26.

Warriors get a boost ahead of battle with bottom-placed side

While the tangible benefits are still a couple of months away, the announcement of a New Zealand-Australia travel bubble which is set to commence in the coming weeks gives the Warriors something to look forward to later this year, as they focus their sights this week on the last-placed Manly-Warringah Sea Eagles.

Forced into hosting matches in Australia since the COVID-19 pandemic began impacting the game in May last year, the Warriors will call Central Coast Stadium home until June this year, with the aim of heading home after the representative round to host the Dragons at Mt Smart Stadium.

For now though, it's all about ensuring the NRL's most nomadic team of recent years are well-placed by the time they can make that trek back over the Tasman. This week's test looks easy on paper - overcome a Manly team who are yet to lay down a serious challenge to any of their four opponents thus far in 2021.

With the Warriors - we know they try. Even in a 20-point loss to the Roosters on Sunday, they looked confident and willing to try their hand, and were arguably in the contest well into the second half. Playing a full 80 is probably the Auckland side's biggest issue so far this year, but it's jagged them a couple of wins and should arguably do so again here.

Manly are just in all sorts, if we're being totally honest. Hampered by injury - star fullback Tom Trbojevic headlining a host of unavailable players which also includes Jorge Taufua, Curtis Sironen and now centre Moses Suli - the Sea Eagles are becoming increasingly reliant on their star halves pairing of Kieran Foran and Daly Cherry-Evans. The pair formed the premiership-winning combination in 2011 at the same club but since Foran's return to Brookvale, they haven't been able to dictate terms for a side which is sorely lacking in troops and facing a massive test of depth.

Team news this week is pretty significant for both sides. The Warriors have shuffled their pack on the back of a knee injury to ex-Manly prop Addin Fonua-Blake, while Bayley Sironen is out with a shoulder concern and Bunty Afoa will miss this game through suspension. Tohu Harris moves to the front row with Jack Murchie joining the second row in his place. Three new faces come onto the bench - Tom Ale, former Eel Kane Evans, and Josh Curran.

Manly's changes are only forced ones - Morgan Harper replaces Suli at centre, while Jack Gosiewski is back into the starting pack to cover Morgan Boyle who is both suspended and injured. Toafofoa Siple is the new face on the interchange.

Who to watch: The impact play of two bench stars will be worth watching this Friday. For the Warriors, new signing Ben Murdoch-Masila has put in some solid shifts since returning to the NRL after a stint in the Super League with perennial bridesmaids Warrington.

The Sea Eagles nabbed the signature of former Tiger Josh Aloiai not long before the season started and so far he's yet to have the impact Des Hasler would've wanted in the Manly forward line. Overlooked for the starting prop role in favour of Taniela Paseka, he needs some strong form to regain his spot starting up front.

Favourite: Warriors. Nobody's picking Manly.

My tip: It's genuinely hard to see where Manly improve enough to overcome the Warriors, even allowing for the fact the 'home' side here have an injury crisis of their own. The superstar presence of Roger Tuivasa-Sheck alone should see the hosts across the line at Gosford, and dig the ditch deeper for a Manly side already wondering whether re-signing coach Des Hasler was the right call. Warriors by 36.

with Andrew Jackson

The Panthers just seem to have forgotten how to lose at the moment.

Ivan Cleary's men cruised to a big 46-6 win over Manly last week despite being without their first-choice fullback and hooker.

They will be without Dylan Edwards and Apisai Koroisau once again this round with Stephen Crichton and Mitch Kenny to fill the void.

Crichton was shaky early, caught out of position in the opening half on a few occasions while he was also thoroughly tested under the high ball.

Getting some early catches out of the way will be key to settling any pre-match nerves on Friday night so he can focus more of his energy on injecting himself into the attack.

Interestingly Charlie Staines switched to fullback at points last week, providing the final pass for a Paul Momirovski try late in the second half and that play could be used again by Cleary on Friday.

The bigger test for Penrith this week will be containing a dominant Raiders forward pack.

The Panthers have four forwards averaging over 100 running metres this season and while Canberra only have two, they come in the form of starting props Josh Papalii and Ryan Sutton.

If the pair can lay a strong platform early it could rattle Penrith, who have grown so used to dominating from the opening whistle.

Looking at the two teams, Canberra also look like they are more than capable of matching the Panthers' lethal bench.

Spencer Leniu and Liam Martin provide much-needed punch while Matt Eisenhuth is a more dependable workhorse.

Then there is Tyrone May, whose versatility and varied skillset makes him a perfect super substitute.

Canberra though have plenty of impact in the form of Siliva Havili and Tom Starling while Ryan James has been much-improved since making the move to the nation's capital.

The experienced workhorse Sia Soliola then rounds out the bench.

Who to watch: Given the strength of Canberra's forward pack, it will only be more important than ever that the Panthers get support off the bench from Spencer Leniu. The youngster is taking on added responsibility without James Tamou and Zane Tetevano. He is averaging almost four more runs per game along with 26 more metres this season. Papalii and Sutton will prove a tough pair to shut down in the first half but if Penrith do that they will be confident in Leniu using both his size and leg speed to get the Panthers on the front foot.

Canberra's clear advantage in this game is at hooker, with Josh Hodgson posing a far greater attacking threat than the far more understated Mitch Kenny. Leading the league for hookers when it comes to try assists and linebreak assists, Hodgson has a habit of sending big props crashing over close to the line and will be the key to tiring out a relentless Penrith defence.

Favourite: Penrith are unsurprisingly favourites given their 4-0 start to the season.

My tip: The Raiders have a forward pack capable of match Penrith's and a halves pairing that could test the still developing Crichton at fullback. Canberra were resolute in victory last week against the Gold Coast. Look for another low-scoring win here. Canberra by 6.

with Josh Robertson

Two sides desperate to turn around losses come together as Saturday afternoon football heads to the Gold Coast as the Titans play host to the Newcastle Knights.

Last weekend, the Titans struggled to break through an ironclad Canberra Raiders defensive line as they fell to a 20-4 defeat at Kogarah last weekend. Despite holding most of the possession last weekend, the Titans attack struggled to crack the Raiders defence along with a mounting injury toll.

The points that Gold Coast conceded would have disappointed coach Justin Holbrook given that the Raiders tries came through defensive lapses across the park. The Titans conceded two tries from close range when the Raiders big men were able to barge their way over through weak defence. The injury toll mounted for the Titans with halfback Jamal Fogarty suffering a leg injury and Anthony Don suffering a hip injury hurting the Gold Coast.

Despite coming from the field last weekend, Jamal Fogarty has been named in the halfback position for the Gold Coast potentially meaning Fogarty's injury is not as serious as thought. The Titans though are without Anthony Don through his hip injury with Phillip Sami moving back to the Wing as Brian Kelly returns to the centres. A possible boost for the Titans could be on the way with Ash Taylor potentially set to make his return after being named in the 21-man squad.

Injuries took a toll yet again for the Newcastle Knights during their 22-13 man defeat which saw a number of key players suffer injuries including captain Mitchell Pearce who suffered a serious pec injury. The Knights started off well but as well as the injuries, errors played a part as they struggled to hold off a confident Dragons side.

The Knights opened the scoring last weekend and were able to lead by seven points during the early stages of the second half but the mounting injury toll plus ill-discipline and errors mounted up against Newcastle as the Dragons took the victory in the contest 22-13.

Although a mounting injury toll has forced Newcastle coach Adam O'Brien into some drastic changes, the Knights have been boosted significantly with Kalyn Ponga named at fullback for the first time this season. The Knights will be without Mitchell Pearce as mentioned as well as Tex Hoy and Kurt Mann following a hamstring injury and heavy concussion respectively. The changes have meant that both Blake Green and Connor Watson move from the interchange bench to the halves. Forward Jacob Saifiti will also miss this weekend's contest after being suspended for a shoulder charge.

Who to watch: After being one of the best players on the park last weekend for either side, the work of Tino Faasumaleaui will be very important for the Titans as they look to get past the Knights. Faasumaleaui ran for over 200m in last weekend's defeat to the Raiders and was arguably the most dangerous player on the field for the Gold Coast. If the Knights cannot keep the big man down, it could be a long afternoon.

It's not hard to work out for the Knights that Kalyn Ponga is their player to watch, the star fullback won't be able to ease his way back into NRL action following his shoulder injury. The Knights attack in recent weeks has lacked a sense of flair and with a new halves partnership, Ponga will be expected to play a role for Newcastle should they want to turn around their losing streak.

Favourite: The Titans are heavy favourites given the injury toll for Newcastle as well as the game returning to the Gold Coast.

My tip: It's hard not to see this becoming another blowout score line this weekend, the Titans have been good and a potential return of Ash Taylor could help their attack significantly. There are too many question marks on the Knights with out of form players having to fill gaps and a new halves pairing potentially making things awkward. Gold Coast by 14.

with Emile El-Azar

Canterbury face up to the Melbourne Storm on Saturday evening, in what is shaping to be one of the biggest mis-matches in NRL history.

Forgive me for referring to the betting, especially so early in this preview, however this is telling. The Bulldogs are paying $13 to win, in a two horse race, and you'll barely get a return ($1.03) if you decide to put your hard earned on the Melbourne Storm.

So how did we get here? Well the best way to put it is this: Canterbury haven't scored a point in the last 3 weeks. Storm fullback Ryan Papenhuyzen scored 4 tries in 11 minutes last weekend in a 40-6 mauling of the Broncos, a team that Canterbury lost 24-0 to the week prior, making them look like the Harlem Globetrotters in the process.

If this game plays out to the form line, and true to the current trend of blowout scores, this one could get ugly really quickly. This Bulldogs tragic hopes that the damage can be limited and some sort of improvement in attack, defence, and effort in general is shown this week. Hey, I can dream.

In team news, Melbourne welcome back Felise Kaufusi from suspension, and a return to the 21-man squad for Harry Grant and Brenko Lee may indicate there may be some last minute changes to the final 17. Regardless of the final lineup, this match has mis-matches across the park. There's a good reason most of the Canterbury squad is coming off-contract this year.

As was the case last week, a raft of changes for the Bulldogs:

- Luke Thompson plays his first game of 2021, returning from suspension and slotting in at prop
- Dallin Watene-Zelezniak also returns from suspension, and takes the number 1 jumper, replacing the injured Nick Meaney.
- Josh Jackson is also back from suspension, straight into the starting lineup at lock.
- Jake Averillo returns as five-eighth, replacing Lachlan Lewis who barely lasted a few minutes last week.
- Nick Cotric finally selected on the wing, where he belongs, Corey Allan moves to the centres, as he continues to play positional musical chairs.
- Dylan Napa moves to the bench (and hopefully NSW Cup next week), while Dean Britt and Joe Stimson move out of the 17.

It is only Round 5, and Trent Barrett needs to see what he can get out of the cattle available to him. Whilst chopping and changing isn't ideal, it's also necessary at this point, to assess this bare-bones squad. As they say, it is what it is.

Melbourne, on the other hand, will be looking to get their for and against up to the level of the current teams sitting above them on the ladder, as they make their move towards their rightful place at the top.

Bizzarely, this will be the first time that Canterbury have met Melbourne at Stadium Australia since 2013, and even then, this match was meant to be played in Perth.

Who to watch: For Canterbury, I'll be keeping the closest eye on Luke Thompson's return, which may give the Bulldogs that "something" that Dylan Napa has not been providing. In addition, Dallin Watene-Zelezniak at fullback will be intriguing. It's a chance for him to return to form in his natural position.

Who to watch for the Storm? All of them, they are an absolute pleasure to watch. OK fine, of most interest will be watching Reimis Smith up against his old club, and Josh Addo-Carr against his soon to be new club.

Favourite: As mentioned. Melbourne $1.03. Owch.

My tip: Can we not? FINE. Melbourne by 30.

Patched up Roosters and Sharks chase back-to-back victories

With three time premiership winner Luke Keary sitting in the stand alongside halves partner Lachlan Lam, an air of uncertainty hovered over the Roosters heading into last week's clash with the Warriors. It didn't take debutant Sam Walker long to settle the nerves, and a clever ball to set up a Nat Butcher try only added to the hype surrounding the prodigious teenager.

While Walker received plenty of wraps after the comfortable victory, it was anything but one way traffic. Once again James Tedesco and the Morris twins had their fingerprints all over the scorecard, but the turning point owed itself to resolute defence. Having kept the Warriors at bay for three consecutive sets when the game was in the balance, the Roosters rebounded quickly then raced away for their third win of the season.

This week Trent Robinson has named the same 17 as the club shoots for its sixth straight victory over Cronulla. And with a blockbuster against Melbourne to follow, a win this week will ensure the Roosters remain in touch with the competition pacesetters.

In a season where the disparity between the elite and also-rans continues to grow, Cronulla have proven they've got the tools to mix it with the best. Last week at Kogarah with Chad Townsend calling the shots, the Cowboys were blown off the park by six first half tries.

Completing at 84 per cent, the Sharks' big men dictated terms while reliable service from Blayke Brailey allowed Townsend and Matt Moylan to run amok. Will Kennedy reveled in the extra space to notch a double while fellow outside backs Connor Tracey and Mawene Hiroti played their best games of the season.

This week Tracey's all round skills will be utilised off the bench in the only change that sees Jesse Ramien named to start at centre.

With the Knights and Bulldogs to follow, a strong showing this week against the more fancied Roosters may be enough for Cronulla to finally bed down John Morris' long-term future in the Shire.

Who to watch: Both teams are flush with skills out wide, so the middle third will be no place for the faint-hearted.

In a further motivation for the Roosters, this week Angus Crichton runs out for his 100th NRL appearance. After 55 games for the Rabbitohs, the wide running back-rower is now one of the Roosters' most reliable. Last week's season high 188 metres against a strong Warriors pack included four offloads and is the type of form sure to excite the Blues selectors.

With just over 20 NRL games under his belt, Toby Rudolf is fast developing into one of the Sharks' most accomplished forwards. Despite wearing the No.13, the 25-year-old patrols the middle more like a front-rower. And with an engine capable of going the full distance, his aggression and output each week guarantees Cronulla always start on the front foot.

Favourite: Yet to taste defeat at home this season, the Roosters are heavily backed to make it three straight at the SCG.

My tip: There's lots to like about the Sharks go-forward and blistering backline but with Jared Waerea-Hargreaves coming off the bench and Victor Radley better for last week's run, the Roosters resilience will be tough to crack. In what promises to be a rough and tumble affair, expect the Roosters to repeat last week's formula and get by with too much class in the closing stages. Sydney Roosters by 10.

Desperation days for former grand final foes

Sunday afternoon looms as a must-win clash for the Wests Tigers and the North Queensland Cowboys as the 2005 grand final combatants face off at Leichhardt Oval.

Sitting in 13th position with one win over the first four rounds, the Wests Tigers have struggled for consistency and cohesion following an active recruitment spree over the off-season.

Rallying late before going down 36-22 to the Eels on Easter Monday, coach Michael Maguire will be looking to address a worrying trend that has seen the side concede tries either side of halftime in all their losses.

Returning to Leichhardt Oval for the first time this season, the Tigers have struggled to rise to the occasion of playing at the historic venue losing three of their past four appearances.

Resisting the temptation to make widespread changes following another loss, Michael Chee-Kam comes into the squad in place of Asu Kepaoa as part of a backline reshuffle that sees Moses Mbye start in the centres and Tommy Talua push out to the wing.

Languishing in 14th position with a -105 differential after just a month of football, the North Queensland Cowboys will be hoping to avoid starting a season with five consecutive losses for the first time since 1999.

Producing a defensively inept performance during last Saturday's 48-10 defeat at the hands of the Sharks, coach Todd Payten will be challenging his players to become only the second North Queensland team to win at Leichhardt Oval.

Losing 10 out of 11 visits to the traditional home of Balmain, the Cowboys' lone victory at the venue came in 2000 - prior to current first-graders Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow and Ben Condon being born.

Gaining a huge inclusion with Jason Taumalolo recovering from a broken hand, speedster Kyle Feldt returns from suspension at the expense of Justin O'Neill in the backline.

Who to watch: Making a big impression in the number one jersey after securing an early release to join the Tigers before the start of the season, Daine Laurie will be eagerly anticipating his first taste of Leichhardt Oval in the NRL. Scoring a powerful double against the Sea Eagles during a pre-season trial at the hallowed venue, the 21-year-old has been one of the joint venture's best performers over the opening month with 142 running metres on average and 19 tackle breaks. Proving his worth as more than a back-up outside back for the Panthers, expect Laurie to be heavily involved with the ball in hand for the home side.

Afforded a rare opportunity to start in the halves having been used predominantly as an interchange utility, Ben Hampton will be looking to seize upon an opportunity that has proved elusive for much of his career. Coming through the junior ranks as a playmaker at Melbourne, the 29-year-old has played every position in the backline since moving to North Queensland four years ago. Running for over 100 metres with the ball in hand last week, look for Hampton to act as a steadying influence in the Cowboys' bid to break through for their first win of 2021.

Favourite: Winning six of their past seven clashes against their weekend opponents, the Tigers are favoured to build on the encouraging signs shown over the past fortnight.

My tip: The Cowboys have the ability to post an upset given what is known about the Tigers at their worst. The Tigers are capable of piling on the points as was the case when the two sides met last year. I don't have a lot of confidence in the home team, but I have even less in the visitors. Wests Tigers by 12.

Parramatta Eels to face surprise packet Dragons

Prior to the season, there were plenty questioning the credentials of both these sides, with the Eels late season fade-out last year accounting for pundits writing them off for premiership contention and the Dragons earmarked as wooden spoon favourites by many.

The Eels announced themselves as a premiership threat with a gritty win over the Storm in Round 2 and are still yet to taste defeat in 2021, while the Dragons have shown a newfound resilience under veteran coach Anthony Griffin and have won 3 games and lost just the 1 so far this year.

All of this means that when the two clubs meet at Bankwest Stadium on Sunday evening, it will be looked on with more intrigue by Rugby League viewers than earlier thought.

Last week, the Dragons benefitted from some injuries to the Knights, however still showed great composure to come back from 7 points down early in the 2nd half to win by 9 points, while the Eels survived a late scare from the Tigers and won by 14.

In team news, the Eels are unchanged in the backline, however Ryan Matterson has been named to make his return from a head knock in the second row. Papali'i drops back to the bench to accommodate, while Bryce Cartwright has been named to make his Eels debut from the interchange. Ray Stone and Keegan Hipgrave drop out of the side as a result.

For the Dragons, Jack Bird returns from a one-week suspension and takes his spot in the centres, forcing Brayden Williams back to the bench and Jackson Ford out of the side. Other than that, they are unchanged, with Ben Hunt still recovering from a leg injury and Adam Clune starting at halfback for the time being.

Who to watch: Flying under the radar for the Eels has been centre Tom Opacic. Originally signed as a depth player in the off season for Parramatta, Opacic has quietly gone about his business as a reliable defender and was finally rewarded with a double last week, including showing great strength to get over the top of a few Wests Tigers defenders while running a crash ball line. The change of scenery appears to be just what Opacic needed after spending the last few years in and out of first grade at the Cowboys, however he will need to be at his best come Sunday as he is marking up against Zac Lomax, who is renowned for outleaping defenders close to the line.

Prior to the season, it was almost a fait accompli that Corey Norman wouldn't be offered a new contract and would be out the door at the Dragons come seasons end. However, a strong start to the year has sparked a change in the attitude of the Dragons decision makers, who have reportedly considered a new one-year deal for the five-eighth. It is a welcome reward for Norman, who by his own admission hasn't played his best footy in recent years. So far in 2021, he has three try and line break assists, while his running game has also been sound with four tackle breaks. He will be keen for a big performance on Sunday, especially considering it is against the team that cut ties with him at the end of 2018.

Favourite: Despite both teams starting the year in a similar fashion, the Eels are still favoured by a hefty 9 and a half points over the Dragons.

My tip: The Dragons have certainly proven that they are worlds better than the wooden spoon side many had them pencilled in as in the pre-season, however a tough task is made even tougher with the absence of Ben Hunt against Parramatta, who themselves will be keen for improvement after playing poorly in parts against the Tigers. Parramatta by 16.

OUR REPORT with ADAM HUXTABLE

Panthers dispose of Sea Eagles as expected

The Penrith Panthers have not wavered from the script in the slightest, smashing the Sea Eagles by 40 points in front of just over 6000 fans at Lottoland.

The writing was on the wall early on for the Northern Beaches side, with Brad Parker coughing up Cleary's kick in the 4th minute and the Panthers immediately capitalising off the scrum win through Brian To'o.

The Penrith forwards were dominant early on, rolling upfield with extreme ease in a set that ended with Isaac Yeo putting some sublime passing skills on display to send James Fisher-Harris through a small gap, while Moses Leota was there to receive the offload.

It was a mixed night for Viliame Kikau, who scored two tries in the 17th and 48th minute respectively, but in between that time was forced off the field due to a nasty looking head knock, but was allowed to return after passing his HIA. The second rower was then given a rest at the end of the match by Ivan Cleary.

The small crowd was given a smidgen of hope before the break, when Cade Cust showed some excellent speed and strength to streak over the line and touch down beneath the uprights, however it was soon dashed when it took the Panthers just 8 minutes of the second half to get over the stripe again.

There were some bizarre scenes midway through the second 40, when Penrith were originally awarded a penalty at the end of a Manly set, but the bunker told the on field referee of a crusher tackle at the very start of the set committed by Mitch Kenny and play came all the way back so Manly could kick for touch, disregarding an entire set of 6. It mattered little in the end, although Mitch Kenny will be sweating on the decision of the match review committee as he was placed on report.

The Panthers then scored two tries in 5 minutes, with Matt Burton proving quite the all-rounder, backing up his sublime kicking display last week with a strong run to beat Jason Saab and score. Kurt Capewell then made it a 30 point ball game, grounding the ball in goal after a deft kick from Nathan Cleary.

Charlie Staines then stole the show in the last two minutes, creating an overlap for Paul Momirovski to score, while another effort to set up a try went under-rewarded as Nathan Cleary was taken out illegally by Daly Cherry-Evans and the Panthers were forced to settle for a penalty goal, making the final score 46-6.

Next week, Manly will face another challenge as they travel up to the Central Coast to take on the Warriors, while the Panthers will host a Friday night blockbuster against the Raiders.

Rabbitohs crucify Bulldogs in Good Friday football

The South Sydney Rabbitohs have held the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs scoreless in a 38-0 rout at Stadium Australia on Good Friday.

Scoring six tries to nil in a match played before an unrestricted crowd of 23,240 supporters, a late flurry of tries saw the Rabbitohs run away with the match.

Opening a season with four straight losses for the first time since 1971, the loss saw the Bulldogs join the 2014 Sharks as the only teams in premiership history to be held scoreless in three consecutive matches.

Beginning the contest with plenty of enthusiasm during the opening exchanges, the Bulldogs were dealt a blow with Lachlan Lewis suffering a head knock that ruled him out for the remainder of the match.

Striking first through Josh Mansour (17th minute) after the Rabbitohs identified an opportunity on the right edge, captain Adam Reynolds added a further two points following a tackle from Jack Hetherington that was placed on report.

Taking the score out to 14-0 shortly before the change of ends, Damien Cook exposed the Bulldogs with speed through the middle of the field before linking with Cody Walker (30th minute) who touched down underneath the posts.

Withstanding a spirited start from the Bulldogs who came narrowly close to points, Cook secured the result with a blistering break from inside his own half to set up Walker (55th minute) for his second.

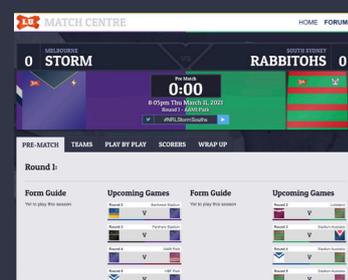

Breaking the shackles to post points at will over the final quarter, tries to Alex Johnston (59th minute), Latrell Mitchell (70th minute) and Adam Reynolds (80th minute) saw the Rabbitohs post their biggest ever win over the blue and whites.

Next week, the Bulldogs host the Storm on Saturday evening, while the Rabbitohs open the round on Thursday night against the Broncos.

Life of Ryan: Papenhuyzen bags four as Storm smack Broncos

The Melbourne Storm has snapped a two-game losing streak to defeat the Broncos by 40-6 at AAMI Park tonight to remind the competition that the defending champions are still the team to beat in 2021.

A blistering performance from Ryan Papenhuyzen was the absolute highlight, with the 2020 Clive Churchill Medallist scoring a stunning 4 tries in 11 minutes before halftime to destroy any hope Kevin Walters men keeping pace with the defending premiers. Papenhuyzen also kicked five goals and a further two try assists in the best individual performance of 2021 so far.

Coming into the game it was an unfamiliar feeling for Melbourne who were looking to bounce back from two straight losses, while the Broncos were feeling ok after collecting their first win against the Bulldogs last week. It was Melbourne who looked certain to score early in the match, first Josh Addo-Carr was denied just brushing the sideline in the right-hand corner and then minutes later centre Justin Olam lost the ball with the line at his mercy. Broncos winger Xavier Coates then picked up the loose pass that Olam left behind to counter and run length of the field to stun the home side and jump out to an early 6-0 lead.

It was an uncharacteristic effort from Melbourne in the first 20 minutes, with unforced errors and clunky finishes to their sets. The defending premiers then finally got it right when Addo-Carr found some space on the outside and made a break down the right-hand side. Addo-Carr then found a flying Ryan Papenhuyzen in support, who scored under the posts to tie up the scores at 6-6. Papenhuyzen then scored his second try in as many minutes, when blockbusting PNG International Justin Olam steamrolled his way through the middle of the field and found his fullback in support and it was 12-6 with halftime looming.

Ryan Papenhuyzen then made it a hat-trick, when the Storm fullback collected an offload off Nelson Asofa-Solomona close to the line and accelerated towards the line to score. Minutes later he incredibly had a fourth try, after Jahrome Hughes made a break and again in support was that man Papenhuyzen who raced away for his fourth try in an astounding display to score all the points for Melbourne to lead 24-6 at halftime.

Brisbane never recovered as the Storm kept rolling in the second half, when Broncos winger David Mead allowed a bomb to bounce. This saw Storm backrower Tom Eisenhuth stroll through and collect the ball with the backrower then distributing the ball to his winger George Jennings to score in the corner and extend the lead to 28-6.

Jennings then scored his second try after a Storm set play from a scrum allowed Papenhuyzen to put his wingman over in the corner and extend the lead to 32-6 with 15 minutes remaining. Cameron Munster then got in on the act when he skillfully dribbled the ball along the ground to then regather and dive on the ball to score the final try, which saw the score line blow out to 38-6 with minutes remaining.

Just as the siren was about to sound, the Storm were awarded a penalty in front of the posts, which saw Josh Addo-Carr in his 100th match for the club kick the penalty to put a cherry on top of his sides memorable 40-6 victory. Melbourne now head to Sydney in Round 5, where they take on the drastically out of form Bulldogs side at Stadium Australia next Saturday in a game that will have Dogs fans squirming. Brisbane will need to re-group quickly as the also play at the same ground on Thursday night where they will face the in form South Sydney Rabbitohs.

OUR REPORT with ANDREW FERGUSON

Sharks first half destroys atrocious Cowboys

The Sharks racked up 30 points in the final 24 minutes of the first half to set up an unassailable 36-6 lead at half-time, setting up a comfortable 48-10 victory over the Cowboys at Kogarah tonight.

Both sides were playing with plenty of vigour to start the match, which resulted in Cronulla crossing early for a try. In just the third minute, the Sharks passed from the right side to the left, where Will Kennedy slotted in to create the extra man, linked with Connor Tracey, who produced a neat draw and pass to Mawene Hiroti who dived over in the left corner to score. Chad Townsend converted from touch. In the 8th minute, the Sharks were again on the attack when Townsend sent a pass out the back to no one. Hamiso Tabuai-Fidow swapped on the loose ball and ran 80 metres to score untouched. Valentine Holmes converted to level the scores.

The Sharks reclaimed the lead in the 14th minute when Townsend, out on the left side with a bunch of players standing around, saw Josh Dugan running a nice line outside the Cowboys winger, so he grubbered through the line and the ball bounced beautifully for Dugan, who regathered and scored in the right corner. Townsend nailed the difficult conversion.

Then with 12 minutes to go in the first half, the Sharks went on a rampage. Tracey crossed for a try when he spun out of a woeful tackle attempt and dived over in the left corner. Townsend again converted. In the 34th minute, after the Sharks earned a repeat set courtesy of a brilliant 40/20 by Blayke Brailey, Chad Townsend got a nice ball to his lead runner Braden Hamlin-Uele, who then got a stunning offload away into the waiting hands of Matt Moylan, who strolled over to score untouched by the sticks. Townsend again converted.

Two minutes later and the Sharks were in again, when Kennedy received the ball wide on the right, ran to the line and passed to Hiroti, who then ran before passing back inside to Kennedy in the clear and he ran 20 metres to score a lovely try. Townsend added the two. Right on halftime, the Sharks added more points when Townsend's bomb was tapped back by Moylan. Blayke Brailey regathered and quickly toed it ahead to the left corner where Tracey planted the ball for his second try. Townsend converted yet again to give the Sharks a 36-6 lead at the break.

The Cowboys came out looking a little better, albeit briefly, but it was the Sharks who scored first in the 57th minute, when the Cowboys let a Townsend chip bounce and it landed in Teig Wilton's waiting hands before he dived over to score on the left side. Townsend converted. Just after the hour mark had passed, Cronulla crossed again when Townsend on the right side held up a lovely short ball for Kennedy, who ran onto it at pace and stepped out of a tackle to score again. Townsend kicked his 8th goal of the game from as many attempts. The Cowboys snared a consolation try with just 3 minutes remaining when Holmes received the ball on the right side, dummied, stepped back in-field and then twisted in the tackle to slam the ball down for a try. Holmes failed to convert his own try.

OUR REPORT with JOSH ROBERTSON

Defensive masterclass helps Canberra see off Titans threat

A defensive masterclass from the Canberra Raiders has seen the Green Machine take a 20-4 victory over the Gold Coast Titans at Kogarah.

The two sides were testing each other out in the early stages with both sides looking to put their opposing defence under pressure but neither side could get over from close range. The Raiders opened the scoring after just seven minutes when George Williams' deception saw the Titans think the Englishman was going out the back with the play instead going short to Elliott Whitehead who went through the middle before linking with Jarrod Croker who put his own magic on with a flick to Jordan Rapana to score.

Some strong cover defence from Jack Wighton saved the Raiders from conceding the next points when a brilliant effort from Wighton forced Anthony Don into an error as the Titans flyer was diving across to try and score. The Raiders then added a penalty goal soon after to extend their lead out to 8-0.

Anthony Don had a second try disallowed this time by the Bunker after again Don lost possession of the ball as he was trying to get the ball over the line in a strong tackle. The Titans finally got on the board in the final stages of the first half when Corey Thompson was able to fight his way over the line and did a remarkable job to keep his feet in the air to stay in the field of play. The missed conversion from Patrick Herbert meant the Titans would go to half time trailing 8-4.

The early stages of the second half saw the Raiders defence come under plenty of pressure from the Titans who couldn't land the blow to get onto the scoreboard again. An error from an injury-affected Jamal Fogarty put the Titans under pressure and the Raiders too advantage as Papali'i was too big and too strong to stop from close range to extend the lead out to 14-4.

The defensive pressure continued to mount on the Raiders but as exhaustion started to creep into the Titans attack, it began to fall to pieces as they just couldn't break through the Canberra defensive line and the attacking structure became non-existent which didn't help.

Despite spending most of the half defending, the Raiders were able to add a try on the stroke of full time when Ryan Sutton fought his way over the line from short-range to score. The conversion from Jarrod Croker put the Canberra captain into equal fourth on the all-time points scorers list.

OUR REPORT with ROBERT CROSBY

Sims stands up against injury-hit Knights

A rampaging second half double from Tariq Sims has seen the St George Illawarra Dragons claim a 22-13 victory over the Newcastle Knights at McDonald Jones Stadium.

Fighting back from a 13-6 deficit midway through the second half, the Dragons second-rower put in a Man of the Match performance against a Knights side decimated by injuries.

Losing Mitchell Pearce (pectoral), Tex Hoy (hamstring) and Kurt Mann (concussion) during play, David Klemmer soldiered through a knee injury but could be in trouble after being placed on report twice in first half.

In a physical and occasionally spiteful opening, the Dragons looked to score first through Mikaele Ravalawa after Klemmer conceded a penalty for striking while in passion. Replays from the bunker subsequently overturned the decision due to an infringement from Josh Kerr in the lead up.

Making the most of the fortuitous call by striking back in the following set, Gehamat Shibasaki (9th minute) was on the spot to capitalise on a knock on from Cody Ramsey.

Losing Pearce midway through the first half with a suspected pectoral tear, the Dragons levelled the scores through interchange forward Trent Merrin (32nd minute), who took advantage of an error from Tex Hoy.

The Knights regained the lead on the stroke of halftime courtesy of a Kurt Mann one-pointer, however it came at a cost with Hoy forced from the match with an injured hamstring.

Appearing to defy their circumstances with a powerhouse effort from interchange forward Josh King (47th minute) close to the line, Sims (51st minute) stepped up moments later after by running onto a beautiful pass from replacement halfback Adam Clune.

Reduced to a one-man bench for the final quarter after a heavy collision from Ravalawa saw Mann exit the match early, a charge down from Sims (60th minute) after the resumption of play put the visitors in front for the first time.

Securing the result courtesy of a Brayden Williame (67th minute) try, a questionable forward pass ruling denied Hymel Hunt to the chagrin of 21,770 home fans and allowed the Dragons to hold on for their third consecutive win.

Next week, the Knights take on the Titans on Saturday afternoon, while the Dragons face the Eels on Sunday evening.

Old heads guide young Roosters to win over Warriors

The Morris twins and James Tedesco have led a much younger Roosters outfit to a 20-point win tonight, the home side 32-12 victors over the Warriors at the SCG.

With two debutants on the teamsheet for the Tricolours - one of them playing halfback - it was thought they might struggle - and to start, that was certainly how it was playing out. Seven minutes in the Warriors cracked the scoreboard first, Adam Pompey pouncing on a deflection from Eliesa Katoa.

The 6-0 lead nearly went to 12-0 shortly after when Roger Tuivasa-Sheck put Kodi Nikorima into space for the visitors, but a Brett Morris tackle from nowhere stopped that effort. Instead, the margin was narrowed to 6-4 after 18 minutes when the Roosters' fullback James Tedesco palmed off Wayne Egan and rampaged to the goalline out wide.

Urged into action, the Warriors hit back within minutes, Tohu Harris pouncing on a Nikorima grubber and 12-4 was their lead, much to the chagrin of the Moore Park crowd.

Come the 27th minute, the game turned on its head. Nat Butcher crashed over after a solid lateral run from rookie half Sam Walker, then a couple of minutes later Brett Morris was on the end of a backline move to continue his vintage tryscoring form and allow the home team to take the lead. Taukeiaho's conversion ensured the Roosters led 16-12 - a lead they'd take to halftime. It could've been more shortly after the Morris four-pointer after Crichton was denied for obstruction earlier in the play after going over himself.

Sadly for the New Zealand side, they weren't to grace the scoreboard again. After halftime the Roosters extended the lead to 20-12 when Brett Morris got his second just minutes after appearing to pick up a calf injury, while Drew Hutchison scored on the hour mark after a Warriors passing movement in their own half went awry.

Not content with letting his brother star, Josh Morris capped the victory for the home team in the final ten minutes, scoring a try of his own and extending the margin to 20 points and lifting his side to second on the NRL table with one match left this round.

The Roosters are at home to Cronulla, back here at the SCG next Saturday (a match originally scheduled for Central Coast Stadium). Gosford will welcome back the Warriors on Friday, where the nomadic side will host the last-placed Sea Eagles.

OUR REPORT with ANDREW JACKSON

Doueihi kicking masterclass not enough as Eels win thriller

The Parramatta Eels have continued their undefeated start to the season with a hard-fought 36-22 win over the Wests Tigers at Stadium Australia.

Adam Doueihi terrorised Parramatta's outside backs with his kicking game and scored a try in defeat but the power game up front, orchestrated by Reed Mahoney was crucial for the away side. The Eels were helped by a dominant first 40 minutes from their forward pack, with Reagan Campbell-Gillard, Nathan Brown, Isaiah Papali'i and Junior Paulo all topping 70 metres by the break. The Tigers were guilty of sitting back and not playing with enough line speed to shut down the forward momentum which powered Parramatta to an early 16-0 lead.

Reed Mahoney's crash balls to big men close to the line proved one of their biggest assets, drawing in multiple defenders often and leaving the Tigers exposed out wide. The opening try though was all Mitchell Moses, who danced around near the Tigers' line before putting in a deft kick to set up Marata Niukore for the opening try.

A set restart five minutes later heaped more pressure on Michael Maguire's men and a late offload from Brown saw Mahoney put Papali'i crashing over. Mahoney again was involved shortly after when he put Tom Opacic through and the Tigers' line defence was once again left exposed.

The only real opportunities the Tigers had early was on the back of towering Adam Doueihi bombs and it was the five-eighth's kicking game that proved Parramatta's downfall late in the opening half. Clinton Gutherson was first to fumble a Doueihi kick, handing the Tigers a full set on Parramatta's line. It would end with Luciano Leilua tapping the ball back to Daine Laurie for their first try of the afternoon.

Only four minutes later the Tigers had their second with Blake Ferguson the latest victim of a Doueihi special. It was the quick thinking of Moses Mbye though, who flicked it up for Luke Brooks, that saw Stefano Utoikamanu surge over for a try against his former side.

A late error from Asu Kepaoa off a Shaun Lane kick spoiled their late fightback though. The foundations for the try were set by a Mahoney short ball to Oregon Kaufusi, dragging defenders in and leaving the outside men exposed on the following play. Opacic was the beneficiary, scoring his second after Gutherson did well to get the kick through.

The first try in the second half would be crucial in determining whether this would go on to be a back-and-forth thriller or comfortable Parramatta victory. It looked like it would be the latter as Ferguson charged over in the corner to extend Parramatta's lead to 14 in the 45th minute. Doueihi though, who was the Tigers' best in defeat, had something to say about that.

Errors crept into both team's game and proved costly for Parramatta when Doueihi stepped through to score and reduce the deficit to eight heading into the final 15 minutes.

A thrilling finish well and truly ensued when a Leilua offload saw Luke Brooks link with Jacob Liddle to make it a two-point contest. In the end it would be the boot of Ferguson that proved the difference, with the Eels winger toeing it ahead for Gutherson, who as always had made the effort to be there in support and he was rewarded.

Ferguson scored a try right before the siren as the Tigers tried a late crossfield kick, making the final score 36-22.
